C&P Files For Rate Increase

C&P asked the Maryland State Public Service Commission Friday for approval of new rates which would increase its annual revenues by $123 million. C&P also requested an increase in the authorized rate of return to 13.55% and its return on equity to 17%. This is the first rate increase the company has requested since the break-up of the Bell System.

"Although C&P has been successful in controlling expenses and increasing productivity, the company is faced with many challenges which drive up the costs of doing business," said C&P Vice President Hank Butta. "These costs include higher expenses in terms of wages and taxes, higher levels of depreciation expense, higher costs of capital, as well as the loss of some revenues.

"Put in simple terms, we need additional revenue to enable C&P to continue to provide the high quality telephone service which our customers expect and which will meet the future needs of consumers and businesses in Maryland," Butta continued.

He said that C&P's ability to improve earnings is limited because the company is restricted by court and FCC decisions from entering certain types of business activities.

"A second factor which impacts earnings is the dramatic increase in competition," Butta said. "Today, since more of our revenues are subject to being lost to competitors, our business is obviously riskier—to both investors and lenders. Our competitors are already trying to take our most profitable and largest volume customers. Once these customers leave the local network, they are unlikely to return, and C&P has to make up the lost revenues from its remaining customers."

The company has few options for meeting its increased revenue needs, he said, other than to move its pricing closer to cost for those services which have traditionally been kept artificially low. "The subsidies which kept basic service low when we were part of a monopoly are no longer available," continued Butta. "We must therefore price each of our services as close as possible to the actual cost of providing that service."

In addition to the need to meet higher anticipated expenses,

HAZY, CRAZY DAYS OF SUMMER are rapidly giving way to the cool intoxications of fall. Fishing will be a lot less bumpy for boaters now that the influx of tourists has gone for another season, and there won't be as many "treats" dangled in front of wary fish in Deep Creek Lake. Whether fishing is always successful or not, the nostalgic memories of fishing with dad in a quiet cove of the lake will stay in the mind forever.

State, County Jobless Rates Rise In July

Unusually large seasonal layoffs in education and certain manufacturing industries, as well as a drop in jobs in general merchandise stores, eating and drinking places and certain services resulted in an increase in Maryland's estimated unemployment rate from 5.0 percent in June to 5.3 percent in July 1984.

Nonetheless, according to officials at the Maryland Department of Employment and Training, the unemployment rate for July 1984 is the lowest for a July since 1974 and is significantly lower than the 6.6 percent recorded in July 1983.

Garrett County jobless rate also increased, from 10.2 percent in June to 11.1 percent in July. However the July figure is well below the July 1983 level of 14.6 percent.

Statewide, during July an estimated 2,147,945 persons were employed dropping from June's count by 6,797 while unemployment increased by 6,779 to 120,526 persons. Combined, these figures gave the state a civilian labor force of 2,268,471 persons, virtually remaining at the June level. Compared to a year ago, however, employment has increased by 55,279 persons, unemployment has fallen by 26,773 persons and the labor force has expanded by 28,506 persons.

Despite hiring in agribusiness, construction, finance, insurance and real estate, amusement and recreation, health services, membership organizations, and federal, city and county governments there were unusually large seasonal layoffs in education, transportation equipment manufacturing, food processing and apparel and textile products. Jobs also decreased in automobile garages, school bus

Alice Duggan Celebrates 105th Birthday Today At Cuppett & Weeks

Alice Duggan, who has been a resident at Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home in Oakland for over ten years, will celebrate her 105th birthday on September 6.

Alice was born in Frostburg to Mr. and Mrs. Silas Duggan. She had four sisters and one brother. She has one surviving sister, Gladys Arnold, who lives at Frostburg Heights Apartments. Gladys is 86.

Alice has only two other surviving relatives, both nephews: Robert Warner, Johnstown, Pa., and Joe Warner, Charlottesville, N.C.

Alice was never married. Twenty-five years of her life were devoted to teaching music in her home. When Alice played the piano for recreation, her favorite type of music was classical.

She was very active in St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Frostburg. She enjoyed baking, gardening, reading and she loved flowers.

Sharon Myers, R.N., Director of Nursing, stated "Alice is a joy to work with, she's quite cooperative. The refinement of her upbringing is evident.

Dedication Of McHenry Park To Feature Softball

The dedication of the McHenry area Community Park will be held Saturday, September 8 at noon, featuring a softball game between the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Department and the Deep Creek Lions Club, with Winterfest Queen Cathy Hanes tossing the first ball.

Following the dedication ceremony at noon, hot dogs and soft drinks will be served, with the softball game to follow.

According to a Lions Club source the Community Park is the largest project ever undertaken by the club. Total cost, including Project Open Space funding, was about $39,000.

Among the work accomplished to open the park was the building of the softball field, the clearing of the picnic grove, clearing and gravelling of a parking lot, the erection of a pole building, the drilling of a well, and electrical installation. An archery range is currently in the making and a play area for children is in the planning stage.

The public is invited to attend the dedication ceremony.

Bloodmobile Nets 133 Pints At Grantsville

One hundred and fifty local residents responded to the Grantsville visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile on Friday, of which 17 were deferred for medical reasons. The 133 pints of blood collected was just seven short of the 140-pint goal of this visit, according to Lela Bender, local blood program chairman.

Donald Opel became a five-gallon donor with this visit, while Butch Buckel became a three-gallon donor and Blaine Resh, Glenda Yoder, Juanita Swauger and Debra Bittner reached the two-gallon level. Becoming one-gallon donors were Robert Taylor, Lula Belle Shives, Gloria Beitzel, Linda Handwerk, Cynthia Durst, Karen Broadwater and Johnnie Hyson. There were five first-

Western Maryland Commissioners Meet Here Today

Discussion of a proposal to pool resources to promote tourism in five Western Maryland counties will be included on the agenda of the quarterly meeting of the Western Maryland County Commissioners being held today at Will O' the Wisp.

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners, which is hosting the meeting, said Tuesday that such a proposal would probably not be in the best interests of Garrett County.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg said that the idea would "be difficult to manage. The idea is a good one but the distance between theory and practice is a big one in this area.

"It is not a centralized area. Western Maryland is a long narrow strip over 100 miles long," pointed out Commissioner Elwood Groves, who added that it is difficult to see how such an area could be promoted cooperatively.

Other items on today's meeting agenda include landfill user fees, which are proposed in Garrett and Allegany Counties, the MARCOM phone system for use by government bodies, and a boat tour of Deep Creek Lake.

County Commissioners from Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Carroll Counties, and representatives of the Maryland Association of counties are expected to be in attendance.

Commissioner John Braskey called the quarterly meetings "an effort to change ideas to benefit all the counties in the region."

Planning Commission Discusses Mobile Home And Road Access Issues

Discussion of the proposed Rural Residential Zoning District accounted for most of the meeting of the Garrett County Planning Commission Wednesday. In other business, the commission approved new wording for road access standards for commercial resorts, and reviewed the proposed Deep Creek Lake Regulations.

A number of lake property owners and other concerned citizens expressed their opposition to the Rural Residential proposal, which would allow the placement of mobile homes on permanent foundations in a number of outlying areas of the Deep Creek Watershed.

Opponents of the Rural Residential designation claim that since mobile homes may be placed within the watershed if a special exception is granted by the Board of Zoning Appeals, the establishment of a new district where they are permitted is unnecessary.

Reasons cited for opposition included aesthetic concerns. Marshall Stacey, a landowner whose property lies outside the watershed, commented that the rectangular shape of mobile homes "is not a geometric design that blends as well with the landscape as a stick-built house."

Several lake area residents said that having to pass house trailers on the way to the lake would deter potential buyers from purchasing property on the lake.

A related concern expressed by several attendees was that allowing mobile homes in the lake area would decrease property values in that area.

County residents have testified that the Zoning Board does not give fair consideration to mobile home requests. Planning Commission Chairman Charles "Bus" Bender asked County Zoning Administrator John Nelson what percentage of special exception requests for mobile home placement were granted. Nelson reluctantly gave a ballpark figure of 30% approval, which he said he could not confirm. A survey of zoning board decisions reported in The Republican in the past year appeared to support that estimate.

Vandalism Still Prevalent In Garrett County

Vandalism is still running rampant in Garrett County, according to reports filed by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department and the Oakland City Police in the form of windows being shot out of automobiles and shop windows.

Buckel's Store was hit by the vandals on August 26 when they shot holes through a large window in the front of the store with a pellet or BB gun.

Vernon Fazenbaker, Swanton, reported on Friday that someone had shot out the windshield of his 1950 Desoto while it was parked in his yard.

Donald Ahern, Oakland, filed a complaint with the department stating that someone had shot out a window and the windshield of his school bus while it was parked in a driveway on the Underwood Road on the night of August 30.

The Sheriff's Department is continuing its investigation in those reports of destruction of property.

The Oakland City Police Department has also been swamped with reports of vandalism, according to Chief John K. Sines.

Peters Fuel Corporation reported that someone had shot out windows and windshields in three large trucks parked at that business causing at least $1,000 damage.

Rita Mae Likens, Oakland, reported on August 30 that someone had shot out a window in her car while it was parked on Fourth Street.

Eugene D. Helbig, Oakland, reported that someone had shot out a window in his automobile while it was parked at his residence on Alder Street.

An employee of Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home, Mrs. Melvin Davis, reported that a window had been shot out of her car while it was parked at that facility, on August 30.

The back glass of a camper top parked in the driveway of Susan M. Unger, Oakland, was reportedly shot out Friday.

The Oakland Poice Department is continuing investigations in those complaints.

Registration At GCC Continuing

Registration for the fall semester credit classes at Garrett Community College continues through next week, according to a release from the college. Over 150 courses will be offered at both the McHenry Campus and the Oakland Center.

Students may register on September 10, 11, 12 or 13 until 6:30 p.m. No registrations will be accepted after the sixth class hour.

The first day of fall classes will be September 10.

Commissioners Hear Request To Raise Bridge

The Board of County Commissioners met with area resident George McLaughlin Tuesday regarding his proposal to have the clearance of the new Glendale Bridge raised an additional 14 feet beyond the currently planned 16 foot water-to-deck clearance.

McLaughlin has met with the board several times to urge the raising of the clearance to allow large sailboats to pass under the bridge, providing access to more of the lake.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg said Tuesday that the commissioners continue to stand firm on maintaining the 16 foot clearance as planned. He acknowledged that the area would be beneficial to sailors on the lake but said that it was "not feasible to incur the tremendous expense necessary. The cost/benefit ratio is non-existent", Gregg commented.

In other business Tuesday, the board inspected roads in the lake area, including Rock Lodge, State Park, and Glendale Roads.

They later met with county roads department administrators regarding various roads matters.

Oakland Requests County Help With Water Project

The Garrett County Commissioners promised the town of Oakland that they will check into an exchange of services or reciprocal agreement when the town completes work on a new water line for Third Street Extended.

Oakland Mayor H.D. Swartzentruber and Councilman Terry Helbig met with the commissioners Tuesday afternoon to discuss the project and ask if the county roads department could repave the street and shoulders as needed after work is complete. Although the commisssioners did not commit the county to do the work, they promised to talk the matter over with Ken Metheny, roads administrator, that same afternoon.

Following that talk the board said that the roads administrator will be getting in touch with town officials to inspect the site and determine what level of assistance, if any, can be given.

The commissioners also promised the town officials a decision before the council meeting September 10.

The water problems on Third Street Extended have been an issue in the town for several years. Estimated costs to in-

Raccoon Near Red House Is 19th Rabies Case

The county's 19th confirmed rabies case turned up in the Red House area August 29, according to health department officials. Last year only 18 cases were confirmed in the entire year.

This particular raccoon was spotted by Rick and Sandy Cassidy as the animal approached one of two dogs tied on their property off Route 219 south of Red House. Cassidy shot the raccoon, and the animal was confirmed rabid Saturday, September 1.

Both the dogs had been vaccinated against rabies but will be revaccinated as an added precaution. Cassidy planned to visit his family physician to see if human contact could have been made, since one of the dogs licked his hand following the incident.

Clinics Scheduled

A fall series of rabies clinics has been tentatively scheduled by Rodney Glotfelty, rabies prevention coordinator for the local health department.

Clinics are planned September 22 at Southern Middle School from noon to 2 p.m.; September 24 at Route 40 School from 5 to 6 p.m.; September 25 at Garrett Community College, McHenry, from 5 to 6 p.m.; September 26 at the Swanton Community Center from 5 to 6 p.m.; September 27 at the Kitzmiller Community Center from 5 to 6 p.m.

Cost is $3 per animal, and the vaccine is effective for three years for all dogs and cats over one year of age. Animals between three months and one year old must be revaccinated in one year.

Owners are reminded to restrain dogs on leashes and to contain cats in carriers or sturdy boxes.

Maude Phillips Celebrates 102nd Birthday August 3 At Dennett Manor

Maude Lantz Phillips, a resident of Dennett Road Manor, Oakland, recently celebrated her 102nd birthday at the home.

Mrs. Phillips was born on August 3, 1882, to Andrew and Arabelle Lantz in Greene County, Pa. She was married to Thomas G. Phillips, also of Greene County, on September 7, 1904, in the home of her parents.

The couple lived on a Greene County farm until Mr. Phillips' death in 1961. Mrs. Phillips then moved to Waynesburg, Pa.

The Phillips were the parents of ten children, three of whom died in infancy. A son, David, was killed in the Battle of the Bulge of World War II. Surviving are: Lawrence, Nineveh, Pa.; Mrs. Carrie Clutter, Accident; Mrs. Pearl Grimm, Elyria, Ohio, Charles L., Waynesburg, Pa.; and Mrs. Margaret Blair, Monaco, Pa.

She has 11 grandchildren, 27 great-grandchildren, and 13 great-great-grandchildren. She also has one surviving brother, Lawrence Lantz, who resides in Waynesburg, Pa.

Mrs. Phillips is a member of the Swart United Methodist Church and for many years was active in the United Methodist Women's Society.

She attributes her long life to "hard work and good clean living." She has been a resident at Dennett Road Manor since August 1979.

The contest asks elementary school-age youngsters to express what the rescue squad means to them and posters will be used to promote Emergency Medical Services Week September 16 through 22. Posters for consideration must be at least 9x12 inches and drawn in crayon, marker or paint. Name, address, phone number, age, grade, and school attended should be written on the back of the entry, which may be dropped off at Hometown Market, Dollar General Store, or Englander's Pharmacy by September 13. First, second and third place prizes will be awarded in three age groups: kindergarten through first grade, second-third, and fourth-fifth.

Revolving Loan Funds

A recent report shows that the Tri-County Council has $371,604.54 available in revolving loan funds to assist businesses in Garrett and Allegany counties. TCC's third member county, Washington, is not participating in the program started with a $500,000 federal EDA grant and $125,000 from the two counties.

That report shows that ten revolving loans have been issued in Garrett County and five in Allegany County.

The ten Garrett County loans created 271 jobs and that $323,955.32 was issued in loan money; $893,500 written in bank loans secured by $239,000 in equity capital.

The county also earned $43,676.54 and $133,747.22 in principal paybacks after starting out with $312,500. Audit and other charges accounted for $1,550 so the county still has available $164,418.44 for business loans.

The information was presented August 29 by Michael V. Bell, revolving loan administrator for TCC.

Bambacus, DNR Have Exchange On Yough River

Sen. John Bambacus divulged last week his most recent correspondence with Fred L. Eskew, Assistant Secretary for the Capital Programs Administration of the Department of Natural Resources. Although the Assistant Secretary answered questions posed by the Senator about land acquisition in the Youghiogheny river corridor, the Senator pointed out that there was no response to the query about designated boundaries for the wild and scenic corridor.

In his August 30 letter to the DNR, Bambacus said "For the last several months I have made it perfectly clear to you, Secretary Brown and Frank Oslislo, that this question must be addressed in a forthright and timely manner. It is now the end of August and no action has been taken to date.

"Let me assure you that this was not the intent of the legislation as passed by the General Assembly, and advise you that I expect the appropriate action to be taken immediately."

In his August 13 letter, Eskew had talked about the National Lands Trust organization and their recent interest in land acquisition in Maryland and Garrett County. Eskew made it clear that they are by no means acting as agents for the state or DNR, and that what land protection programs they negotiate in the county are strictly as a private organization whose interest, goals, and management objectives are a matter for the trust itself and its officers and board of directors.

Eskew also mentioned the issue of Penelec-owned lands within the corridor being acquired by the state or DNR. He says the issue is one that has been before the DNR for some time and was a matter of discussion during the Yough bill hearings this past legislative session. Penelec has expressed the possibility of divestiture of some or all of their land holdings along the river and officials of both Penelec and DNR have met to review their land holdings. The DNR has not committed itself to an acquisiton program of Penelec properties, however.

In conclusion, Eskew pointed out to the senator that a number or property owners along the river have inquired about the state's interest in land acquisition and said that if the state should pursue some type of acquisition, they wish to be contacted.

TCC Discusses Legislation, Loan Funds And Circuit Rider Program

Legislation which will affect the Tri-County council for Western Maryland, the organization's revolving loan fund and the Garrett County circuit rider program all received attention during the August 29 meeting of that organization in Cumberland.

Garrett County Commissioner Ernie Gregg, Jr., chairman of TCC, welcomed the group and introduced guests at the session.

Barry LeBaron, executive director, explained a bill pre-filed by Del. Casper R. Taylor (D-Allegany, Washington) which would give the TCC state recognition and possibly funding if enacted by the Maryland General Assembly.

The bill would give the local council the same rights now enjoyed by the Southern Maryland Tri-County Council. The TCC has been reviewing ways to insure financing for the council and a committee composed of Taylor, Sen. Victor Cushwa (D-Allegany, Washington) and Cumberland Mayor George Wycoff has been formed to review the proposed bill and make recommendations at the October TCC meeting.

The committee is scheduled to refine the bill later this month. "The real key will be how to satisfy the General Assembly and still retain local control," LeBaron said.

LeBaron also reported that the council's $100,000 Title IX funding application is reportedly pending in a Washington office of the federal Economic Development Administration (EDA). The council is seeking $75,000 from EDA and $25,000 locally to pay for a consultant's study to combat chronic high unemployment in this region. After the study is adopted, EDA's Title IX program can provide considerable funding to counter sudden and severe economic depression in a region.

TCC will seek part of the $25,000 from the Maryland Industrial and Commercial Redevelopment Fund (MICRF).

In other council matters, LeBaron said the council plans to offer a seminar for local governments to acquaint them with changing requirements for federal revenue sharing. For instance, by the end of October local governments of 25,000 residents or more must outline programs to aid the handicapped in order to retain revenue sharing eligibility.

September 20 was announced as the deadline for local governments to apply for EDA funds. The EDA is part of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Endorse Circuit Rider

The TCC officials endorsed an on-going contractual agreement between Wendell Keaton and the Garrett County Mayor's Association. The county's eight towns now receive $13,000 from TCC to support Keaton's position in those towns. Keaton provides local planning and grant and loan applications for the towns of Friendsville, Oakland, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, Mtn. Lake Park and Deer Park.

We Must Act Now . . .

A three-hour special on ABC television Tuesday night concerned an emergency situation confronting our nation. It was entitled "To Save Our Schools, To Save Our Children."

Although we have commented on portions of this crisis in previous editorials (including last week), we feel compelled and obligated to say more about it this week and in the future. Unless the general public gets involved and takes action, the problem is destined to worsen.

We realize that television often over dramatizes, but it is difficult to argue with statistics. The fact is, this nation is experiencing a shortage of school teachers and the average competency level of those going into teaching is decreasing significantly. In the city of Los Angeles alone, the program pointed out, there is a shortage of 900 teachers, and next year that number is expected to increase to between 1,200 and 1,300.

Why is this happening? In a word: economics. Teachers' salaries remain near the bottom of the ladder when compared to those of their equivalently educated contemporaries. It is no great mystery to college students that there are many jobs besides teaching that require equal and many times less work and yet pay much more. The particularly bright student in mathematics, for example, who 25 years ago would have seriously considered becoming a math teacher, is now instead becoming an engineer or a researcher or taking a lucrative position with government or industry.

Besides the lack of a good salary, there is also a lack of respect for teachers. Those who still pursue a teaching career do it only because they love teaching. But unfortunately, as the TV show displayed, the love of teaching, no matter how great, does not pay the bills nor put food on the table.

We believe that the solution is not simply to increase the salaries of teachers, as the teachers' powerful unions, the NEA and AFT, suggest.

Along with more salary must come things such as merit pay, competency tests for teachers, one-year contracts, and doing away with the tenure laws, all four strongly opposed by the union.

We believe that the lack of respect for teachers is, in part, a result of some of the items endorsed by the unions. The tenure laws, created originally to protect teachers against unfair dismissal, have gone too far and are now protecting the incompetent teacher. One of the most shocking statistics revealed on the ABC program was that in the entire United States, there were only 86 teachers successfully fired last year. There are no doubt far more than 86 incompetent teachers in the entire system.

There is presently no incentive for good teachers to continue to be good teachers and poor teachers to attempt to become better teachers. The good teachers deserve to be paid more for their efforts and the poor teachers need to be removed. This is how it works in business, industry and most levels of government.

Teaching is the single most important job in the world, because our very future hinges on the education of future generations. We are staring an age of mediocracy in the face and we and our legislators had better act now to confront it.

SHE FIT ALL OF REAGAN'S REQUIREMENTS...A GOOD TEACHER, WORKS WELL WITH KIDS AND SHE'S HAD FLYING EXPERIENCE.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

As an elementary teacher in Garrett County, I appreciated the editorial in last week's paper that pointed out the opportunity that awaits each child in our school system.

I have taught in six different elementary schools in my eight years as a traveling art teacher. The editorial, "We're So Lucky," paints a rosy picture found in some of our schools; however, the facilities at every school are not so modern. Some schools are old, run down and overcrowded. It doesn't seem right that, in my observation, some schools have so much and some so little!

Don't you think that every child in Garrett County deserves equal access to this "golden opportunity?"

To the Editor:

Government with Integrity or by Cronyism? Special Exception SE-103 was approved by the Zoning Board (after the fact) to permit the owner of the Patterson Boat Company (also a member of the Zoning Board) temporary and limited commercial use of a residential lot just above Pattersons. The court overturned the decision and SE-103 was remanded back to the Board for reconsideration. The hearing is set for September 6.

The question is whether the Board will again approve the application.

Who wants to live next to a Junk Yard? The lot now contains empty trailers, an old dock frame, piles of lumber, scrap metal, a derelict truck and other junk—in addition to boats. The board required that two rows of trees be planted around the lot (this is clear acknowledgement that the lot is a nuisance and eyesore).

We urge your readers to drive around Harvey's Peninsula and view this ugly scene. They should write letters expressing their views to the Zoning Administrator before the September 6 hearing. They could also write "Letters to the Editor" and give their views at the hearing.

Mr. and Mrs. W.E. O'Brien, the folks next door to the Junk Yard

Note: The following is a copy of a letter to John Nelson, County Zoning Administrator. Mr. Zurinsky requested that this letter be used as a letter to the editor.

Dear Mr. Nelson:

Though a serious illness in the family prevents me from attending Zoning Hearing (Docket SE-103) on September 6, I want to make clear my extreme anger and indignation with Mr. and Mrs. Friend of the Patterson Boat Company and the entire Board of Zoning Appeals. The lot, the use of which is being disputed (Lot #1., Enterprise Vacation Home Subdivision, tax map 59, parcel 480), has already become a nusiance and eyesore and the apparent rubber-stamp process of approval is not even complete! I had a brief opportunity to view the lot on August 23. Earth-moving equipment, a derelict truck, piled wood, weeds and, yes, a few boat trailers combine to make the lot look more like a junkyard than a storage lot. There has already been violation of both the letter and the intent of the Special Exception Permit. May I guess at what this zoned residential lot will look like in a year? Two years? Ten years?

Many points have already been made showing the unfairness of this unauthorized commercial intrusion into residential property but I will quickly propose these items for your further consideration:

*no one who has recently seen the lot can honestly say it isn't an eyesore.

*most of the people concerned (contiguous or opposite property owners) clearly oppose this state of affairs.

*the zoning planners clearly designated this lot as residential and we must presume they knew what they were doing and that people, like myself, would rely on the ordinances being adhered to when they buy property.

Finally, may I ask how you and members of the Board of Zoning Appeals would like this lot in its present state next to your own homes? I await your decision but, frankly, my expectations are not high! Decisions in this matter in the past seem based more on friendship (or, in this case, Friend-ship) than on justice, the Zoning Plan or the best interests of the majority of lake land owners.

Sincerely,
Ted M. Zurinsky

To the Editor:

Concerning the letter of two weeks ago about the Careless Caretaker of the Fairview Cemetery:

I live in the Fairview community and attend the Fairview Church. So when I go to church on Sunday I go past the cemetery. I have looked at it for many years, and have never seen it looking more beautiful. Instead of careless, it should read caring, because the grass is cut, and the grass around each tombstone is trimmed and the graves are filled in with dirt when needed. If you go to Memorial Gardens or Arlington Cemetery you don't see flowers all year round. Mr. Truban takes time and pride and cares how the cemetery looks.

If Mrs. Harsh doesn't approve of his work, maybe she would like his job.

Keep up the good work Toby. You're doing a very fine job.

Friend of Fairview

To the Editor:

We are extremely sorry you (Mrs. Harsh) are disappointed with the Fairview Cemetery caretaker. If you would have taken the time to have inquired into this matter, you would have discovered the Fairview Cemetery has no paid caretaker.

The cemetery is overseen by three men, who give their time freely for such matters as marking and seeing that the lawn is properly mowed.

Mrs. Harsh, we quote you as saying, "I'd say, leave the flowers there: It will be taken care of and made attractive and done so with love and affection, not for money." Mrs. Harsh, are you interested in the job?

Furthermore, if you would have taken the time to inquire about the upkeep of the Fairview Cemetery, you would have discovered Mr. Truban and son receive $60 for mowing the lawn. They transport their own lawn mower and supply their own gas (which all cost money). But most of all, they supply the time involved to see the cemetery is kept beautiful. If it were not for Mr. Truban, one could not see the grave plots, let alone the flowers you so openly complained about.

Also, we did not appreciate the rocks, which we understand you placed on the grave. Could you have gone to Memorial Gardens and done likewise?

We think your opinion stated in the letter to the Editor was very unfair. We are confident the people of the Fairview area realize how nicely the cemetery is being cared for.

The mowing of the cemetery is paid for strictly by donations. When we look at the ledger book we see you donated $5.00 in 1972 and $5.00 in 1973. Ten dollars in 11 years calculates to a .91 a year. If you can find a yearly caretaker at that price, please notify the Fairview Cemetery Committee.

God Bless you, Mrs. Harsh
Sincerely, Members of the Cemetery Committee

stall 1,500 feet of six-inch line to replace the nearly 60-year-old two inch line are $14,000 for materials and $7,000 for labor. Users in that area, which is outside town limits, presently pay nearly twice the water rates as users in the city limits.

The council members also asked if there is any way the Sanitary Commission would be able to obtain funds for the project. This idea is much more complex and would involve several months during which a sanitary district would have to be formed and various other legal matters completed before work could begin. With the present rate structure it would be very difficult to recoup construction costs except through an across-the-board rate increase for all users.

Commissioners Announce Meeting Schedule For Fall

The schedule of public meetings to be held by the Board of County Commissioners in various communities throughout the county this fall was announced Tuesday. All meetings will be held on Tuesday evenings beginning at 7:30 p.m.

September meetings will include the McHenry area at Garrett Community College auditorium on September 11 and the Bloomington area at the Bloomington Elementary School cafeteria on September 18.

The Commissioners will meet with citizens of the Gorman and Red House areas at the Gorman Fire Department on October 2, and with Swanton area residents at the Town Hall on October 9. They will meet with Crellin/Hutton residents on October 16 at the Crellin Elementary School, and with Bittinger area residents on October 23 at the Bittinger Fire Hall.

On October 30 they will travel to the Finzel area for a meeting at the Route 40 school. The final meeting of the series, for Northern Garrett County residents, will be held at the Northern High school Cafetorium on November 13.

The Board of Commissioners said that the meetings were planned to give county residents a chance to discuss county issues with the board, and encouraged all citizens to take advantage of this opportunity to make their views and concerns known.

Agricultural Land Applications To Be Submitted

The Board of County Commissioners approved two easement purchase applications for submission to the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation Tuesday.

The applications by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ridder and Mr. Carl Ridder were previously approved by the County Agricultural Land Preservation Advisory Board on the basis that they are strategically located in the "prime farming area of the southern section of the Youghiogheny River Drainage Basin."

Assessments will be done on all properties throughout the state that have applied for easement purchase, the properties will be ranked in order of priority, and offers will be made to landowners based on the ranking.

Successful applicants may choose to have the Foundation purchase development rights to their farms, according to Anna McNallie, acting county planner. Such purchases protect the land from non-agricultural development, and provide the landowner with financial compensation for relinquishing his or her right to future development for at least 25 years, after which they may apply for termination of the easement. If approved, they could re-purchase easement rights on the property.

Juvenile Clocked At 96 MPH; Totals Vehicle

A Pylesville juvenile totaled the 1978 Pontiac Trans Am he was operating Saturday at 5:15 p.m. in an accident which occurred at the intersection of U.S. Route 219 and the Mayhew Inn Road.

Tfc. G.R. Chaney of the Maryland State Police said the youth was driving the Trans Am west on the Mayhew Inn Road at a clocked speed of 96 miles per hour in a 40 mile per hour zone.

The speeding vehicle reportedly slid through the U.S. Route 219 intersection nearly colliding with two other automobiles and finally struck an embankment on the opposite side of the road.

The driver and two passengers in the car, a 10-year-old Jason Martin, Mtn. Lake Park, and 14-year-old Larry Shank, Deer Park, were uninjured, although the Trans Am was declard a total loss.

In another automobile accident Sunday, Brian Scott Lewis, 18, Mtn. Lake Park, was traveling west on the Audley Riley Road when an unidentified vehicle forced the 1978 Dodge pickup Lewis was operating off the road and into a ditch.

Two passengers in the bed of the pickup were thrown from the vehicle on impact. Mark Whitacre, 15, and Rocky Ford, 25, were reportedly taken to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland by Medevac helicopter.

Tfc. Larry Rosage investigated the accident and no charges were filed.

In another mishap, a Swanton woman, Marianne Xander, 27, was charged with negligent driving when the vehicle she was operating east on the North Glade Road ran off the left side of the road, veered back onto the road and finally struck a ditch on the right side of the road and overturned. Donald Nuce, 34, and Xander were reportedly taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by private vehicle where they were treated and released. Tfc. R.J. Resh investigated the mishap.

Boaters Charged With Negligence By DNR Police

Two men were charged with negligent operation of boats by the Deep Creek Department of Natural Resources Police over the weekend following a boating accident at Deep Creek Lake.

Edwin Tokavicik, 27, Mt. Pleasant, Pa. and Joseph Hales, Jr., 26, Latrobe, Pa., were allegedly playing chicken with boats they had rented from Crystal Waters Marina on the main body of the lake. The two collided and Tokavicik received leg lacerations in the ensuing accident but refused treatment.

The DNR Police were kept busy over the Labor Day weekend as they issued 77 tickets and 38 warnings to boaters on the lake.

Tickets were issued to 12 boaters for personal flotation device violations, six were cited for license violations, 40 registration violations were cited while 13 boaters were issued tickets for skiing violations. Four persons were cited for fire extinguisher violations.

Warnings were issued for the following violations: Skiing, eight; registrations, 18; licenses, five; personal flotation devices, five; and lights, two.

The DNR Police also assisted numerous boaters in flipped sailboats, breakdowns, and boats out of gas.

Our Turn

by Pam Ashby

It began innocently enough. A group of harried mothers, needing some time to themselves, were playing a popular new trivia game on the new deck Carol's husband had just finished building.

As dusk approached, Carol decided to turn on the patio lights. I found the blue light, encirled by a black cage, intriguing. I assumed Carol's husband chose a nouveau light fixture for his nouveau deck.

Soon the mosquitoes and moths began converging on this interesting blue light. I couldn't understand why Carol hadn't chosen a yellow bug repelling light.

Just as I was about to brilliantly answer the trivia question, "Are spiders members of the insect family?", BUZZ, CRACK! SNAP! ZAPP! "Everyone, hit the deck!" I yelled. "We're being attacked!"

Carol, very indignant at this point, explained to the group about her new "Bug Zapper." It seems that insects are attracted to the blue light and upon entering the black cage, they are instantly electrocuted. (Gruesome, huh?).

Now, I'm as American as the next person, but a crematorium for bugs? Get otta here!

As the evening wore on, I couldn't help but sympathize with those poor little creatures being fried without being tried by a jury of their peers. Discreetly, I began to catch bugs and sneak them into my strawberry daiquiri. (They may as well die happy.)

I realized I couldn't save them all, though, when suddenly, SNAP! CRACK! SIZZLE! SIZZLE! ZAPP! ZAPP! ZAPP! BUZZ! (It took a full 90 seconds for that huge moth to disintigrate.)

I'd had enough. I made some lame excuse about hemorrhaging and needing to stop at the emergency room on my way home and hastily took my leave of the chamber of horrors.

The minute I entered my fly-infested home, I immediately put four fly swatters down the garbage disposal and did the unthinkable - I punctured and incinerated six cans of assorted insect sprays in the field behind my home. I'm sure a few innocent bugs died in the explosion, but God knows they didn't die in vain.

It's true there are more flying insects in my home than ever these days, but I feel secure in the knowledge that they're only trying to get a glimpse of their HERO.

Friendsville Board Recommends Spear Zoning Approval

The Friendsville Board of Zoning Appeals will recommend to the town council that Paul F. Spear be granted a special exception to construct an addition to his Friendsville Discount Liquor store.

The four zoning board members present made the recommendation to the town council immediately following the meeting August 30. Zoning board members present were Dr. Donald Pepper, chairman, Burton Lytle, Guy Frazee and Wayne Tabor.

The board based its decision on the fact that no adjoining property owners appeared to speak in opposition. Speaking in favor of granting the special exception request were Carl Lefferts, manager of the VFW across the street, and Art Schmidt and Spencer Schlosnagle, councilmen. In opposition was Louise Harvey, who pointed out traffic may be additionally congested by the addition.

Spear wishes to add an 18-by-18 foot addition to the store, which is in a residential zone.

JIM WILLIS

Sunday was such a pleasant day. It was the second of a three-day weekend filled with sun, water and the camaraderie of good friends. As we drove along the winding rural roads, the scenery, the conversation, the contentment were all small celebrations of life.

For Lloyd, it was much the same. No doubt, he was midway into a weekend not unlike ours. As he soared along on his motorcycle, wind ruffling his hair and beard, he surely was as glad to be alive as we.

Tonight Lloyd hangs in the delicate balance between life and death. Nurses in the intensive care unit speak of him in hushed tones and pad away on white-soled shoes. He lies there in a semi-conscious state, sedated against the pain of shattered bones and internal injuries. Tubes lace in and out of his body, nourishing him, coercing him to hang onto the tether of life.

As I rounded a curve that day, an oncoming driver flashed his headlights at me, presumably warning me that a cop sat in hiding around the next turn to apprehend Labor Day revelers. That driver was instead warning me that around the next curve was a serious accident—one I might have augmented without his warning. Another car laterally blocked my lane, impeded from a left-hand turn. When the driver cut his turn too close, it struck Lloyd headon. Lloyd was tossed into the air as easily as a rag doll. His bike, broken in two and crushed, testified to the severity of the impact. He was thrown perhaps 30 feet.

As a former pre-med student and a once-qualified emergency medical technician (although I foolishly allowed my certification to lapse), I am somewhat accustomed to treating mangled bodies. But despite the clinical, mechanical process of emergency treatment, we never lose the awareness that we are treating another flesh and blood human being who is hurting.

I won't detail Lloyd's injuries. Suffice it to say they were life-threatening. Luckily, the rescue unit summoned by neighbors arrived within a reasonable time.

Why wasn't Lloyd wearing a helmet? I am well aware of the motorcyclists' classic objection to helmets. I've owned two motorcycles. Helmets are bulky, they impair your hearing, they can affect your peripheral vision. But today there are lighter weight helmets carefully designed to overrule most objections other than machismo. For me, it's an inarguable fact that helmets help prevent head injuries.

Why did the drive of the auto cut his turn so short and cross into Lloyd's lane? Stupidity? Probably.

Why did those involved, including the neighbors, do nothing to help Lloyd? Were they all lacking in even the most elementary first aid knowledge, i.e., to stop the bleeding, or were they just afraid to get involved?

As I knelt over Lloyd, controlling the blood flow, talking to him and silently praying he would live, I was reminded of the senselessness of most vehicular accidents. I wanted every motorcyclist to wear a helmet. I wanted every auto driver to be more cautious. I wanted everyone to have some rudimentary knowledge of first aid. I wanted everyone to carry a respectable first aid kit in their cars. But mostly, I just wanted Lloyd to live.

District Court Hearings Noted

In regular Garrett County District Court proceedings August 28 Judge Jack Turney found one guilty on a charge of battery, one on a charge of theft and one on a charge of possession of a controlled dangerous substance. A bench warrant was issued for one man.

Doris Jane Ashby, 30, Corinth, W. Va. was found guilty of battery upon Ruby A. Ayres, Oakland. She was given a three-year suspended sentence at the Maryland Department of Corrections and placed on 36 months of supervised probation. She was also ordered to pay a $100 fine plus court costs.

In another case that day, Judge Turney found Ernest Clifford Nazelrod, 21, guilty of theft stemming from a May 24 incident involving theft from Fratz Gas Mart and John Brenneman. Nazelrod was given an 89-day suspended jail sentence and placed on 18 months of unsupervised probation with the provision of making restitution to Fratz Gas Mart and John Brenneman. He must also pay a $50 fine plus court costs.

In other court proceedings, Judge Turney ordered 6 months of unsupervised probation before judgment for Hassis Francis Xavier on a charge of possessing a controlled dangerous substance.

On that same day, Turney issued a bench warrant for Raymond L. Caldwell, 34, McHenry, on charges of assault and resisting arrest.

In another case, Michael Green, 21, Mtn. Lake Park, asked for a revision of a sentence brought upon him by Judge Turney on August 23 for operating a motorboat while intoxicated. State's Attorney James L. Sherbin, declared the case stet.

Lake Zoning Board To Hear Six Cases

Six cases, including the expansion of Patterson Boat Company onto a lot of the Enterprise Vacation Home subdivision, will be heard by the Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals at its September 6 meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the grand jury room.

The Patterson case will be the final one to be heard. First on the agenda will be a continuation of the August meeting, where Jonathan P. Kessler requested a variance for his Paradise Gardens subdivision. Kessler is requesting a variance from the maximum number of back lots permitted to use a common area.

Jonathan Eckhart is requesting a variance so that he may construct a residence within 12 feet of the Penelec line on Lake Shore Drive.

James Railey is requesting a variance from rear-yard setback requirements in order to construct 27 additional townhouse units which would extend to within 15 feet of the Penelec line.

The zoning board is also planning to review the layout of the entire 35-unit condo development plan proposed for the Railey property near Deep Creek bridge.

Randy Williams is asking variances for 11 lots along Marsh Hill Road, which would be divided by that road.

James Railey is asking a special exception permit to relocate the Railey Realty office to another portion of the Railey property along Route 219.

The final case will be Mrs. Betty Friend's request for a special exception permit to allow expansion of Patterson Boat Company operations onto Lot 1 of the Enterprise Vacation Home subdivision on Harvey's Peninsula. This case was remanded to the Board of Zoning Appeals by Circuit Court Judge J. Frederick Sharer July 13. The judge had found that the board was not in compliance with procedures outlined in the ordinance, which requires that three members must concur in a decision. In the appeal case, two members affirmed the decision and a third gave a negative reply.

Brandenburg Center Provides A Homey Atmosphere For The Severely Disabled

by Joan Sussman

"We try to stay away from the word 'institution.' We're much homier than that," said Carolyn Brown, director of the Joseph D. Brandenburg Center in Cumberland.

The Brandenburg Center is the smallest residential program of its kind in the state of Maryland. Founded in 1978, it serves 48 full-time residents, mostly from Garrett and Allegany Counties. Its residents are severely and profoundly retarded, and many have complicated physical and emotional disabilities as well. Some are non-verbal, and disabilities of the residents include quadraplegia (all four limbs paralyzed), cerebal palsy, brain damage, and a variety of other problems.

"We are increasingly aware of Garrett County and look to serve its citizens better," Brown said, adding that the appointment of Al Coviello to the advisory board as a representative of the county should provide a concrete link that will improve services to the county residents even more. Oakland attorney John Tosten is a member of the Center's Human Rights Committee.

Brandenburg Center provides a dual function in serving the needs of the handicapped citizens of the area, according to Dan Elmlinger, director of Garrett Crossroads, the local residential program for the disabled in Oakland.

"They have been very helpful in arranging respite care for persons whose regular caregivers, such as family members, need a temporary break," Elmlinger said. "Brandenburg also is available to provide placements for persons who cannot continue to be maintained by families due to illness, aging of parents, or lack of self-help skills."

Those placements, according to Brown, may be temporary, and the individual might return to his or her family after having attained better self-help skills, he or she might be placed in a residential program such as Crossroads for more training.

Elmlinger pointed out that long-term placements at Brandenburg are also available for those who need the high level of care available there, including 24 hour nursing, physical therapy, and other services offered at the center.

Several clients from Brandenburg Center have been placed in the Garrett Crossroads program, and three residents from there are slated to occupy the new group home being constructed near Weber Road, Elmlinger said, adding that staff members from Garrett Crossroads have been visiting Brandenburg to work with staff members and the clients who will be moving to Garrett County to ease the transition and to develop working relationships with them. "It will be a much easier transition for them when the time comes to move," Brown commented.

"Brandenburg Center, under the leadership of Carolyn Brown, has taken the initiative in coming to Garrett County to learn about our programs here, and in providing assistance to Garrett County programs in many ways," Elmlinger said.

Clients and staff at the Appalachian Center and Garrett Crossroads in Oakland sometimes call on the professional services at Brandenburg for evaluation or consultation, Brown said.

The two Garrett County programs also plan to utilize Brandenburg for in-service training for staff members in the future.

Brown said that the quality and caring attitude of the center's staff are the facility's biggest assets. "The level of staff caring would be hard to find in a big institution," Brown said. "It's a hard job, that includes everything from a lot of lifting to dealing with a variety of behavior problems. You can see almost anybody on the staff doing anything at any time."

She added that the staff rotates into other areas of the program on a regular basis so that all the staff are familiar with all the clients as individuals.

Individual Emphasis

Individualization of programming is one of the basic rules of the program. Each client is the subject of an interdisciplinary team meeting at least annually to determine the goals of each client, as well as the programming and strategies necessary to help the client achieve his goals.

"One client may make very slow progress over a whole year, while another may make much faster progress," Brown commented. "We need a staff that can handle small progress. The rewards when a client reaches a goal are very great, however," she said.

"Our ultimate aim is to get them ready to live in the community, although many may not be able to live independently without support services," Brown said. Several former residents of Brandenburg have achieved the independent living skills necessary to be placed in group homes in the community, including the group home operated by Garrett Crossroads in Garrett County.

"The trend nationwide is to keep people out of institutions," Brown said. She explained that in recent years there has been an increasing awareness that many handicapped persons can be better and less expensively maintained in a community setting than in the large state institutions such as Rosewood Center and Henrytown Center. Henrytown is currently being closed, and its residents placed in more community oriented facilities.

She acknowledged that some handicapped clients may need the wide range of professional and medical services provided by centers like Brandenburg, which has occupational therapists, physical therapists, speech pathologists, and 24 hour nursing coverage, for the rest of their lives, and said that the population at Brandenburg has become increasingly composed of those with physical or more severe emotional problems as higher-functioning clients move into community programs.

Clients at Brandenburg begin their day early, rising before 7 a.m. Following breakfast, they attend day programs, either at Brandenburg, or in the case of about 10 clients, at Friends Aware in Cumberland. When day programming ends at about three in the afternoon, recreational activities begin, with individual clients or small groups participating in special training or therapy programs as needed. After dinner, clients may go out into the community for activities such as shopping, movies, bowling.

Many clients have "sponsors," who may take them home for the weekend or pick them up for church, or to go out to dinner. "This helps a lot with the 'normalization' of the clients, because it exposes them to community living," Brown commented, adding that some staff members serve as sponsors as well.

"We place great emphasis on the clients looking nice when they go out into the community so that they 'fit in,'" Brown said. "The staff works very hard on the appearance of the individuals as part of the normalization process."

Volunteer Program

The volunteer program at the center, coordinated by Rae Ellen Finn, is an important part of the center, according to Brown, who said that their enthusiasm and new ideas have "a very positive impact on the program." The volunteers, including high school and college students, family of staff and residents, and members of the general public, work both directly with the clients, or, as in the case of one elderly, arthritic woman from the community, work at home to make needed supplies such as placemats and clothing.

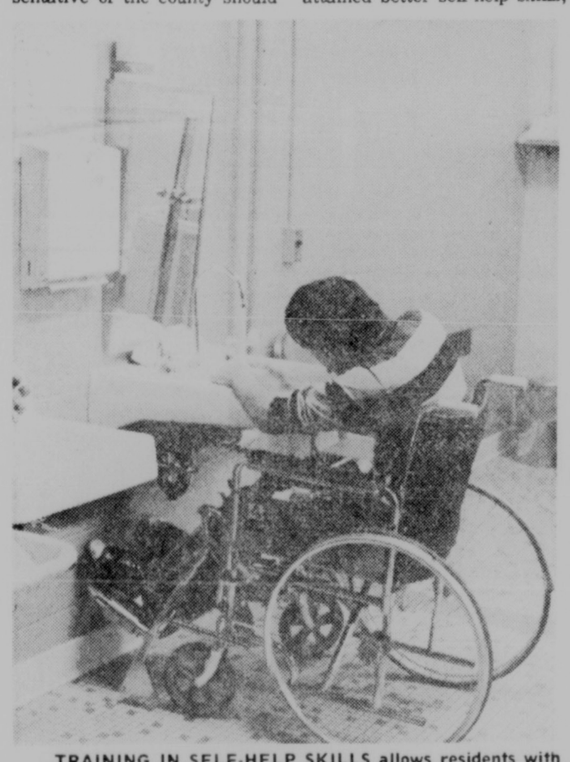

The local carpenter's union works with the occupational therapy department to build special adaptive equipment that is unavailable or too expensive to purchase. They have built storage units for the bathrooms, and a portable library unit to go back and forth between the cottages.

The Center utilizes donations of such items as latch hook projects and afghans to make the residential units "homier," Finn said. "Volunteers coming to Brandenburg for the first time can't believe what a neat home this is. It's very attractive, and people feel good when they see it," she said.

Brown summed up the philosophy of the staff and volunteers at the Brandenburg Center by saying, "It's important to remember that our clients have needs and problems just like the ordinary public."

APPOINTED TO BRANDENBURG BOARD — Al Coviello, director of pupil services for the Garrett County Board of Education, was recently appointed by Governor Harry Hughes to serve on the Board of Directors of the Brandenburg Center, Cumberland. Coviello is pictured above with Carolyn Brown, director of the center, who called Coviello's appointment "a very positive step" in providing a link between Garrett County and the Center.

TRAINING IN SELF-HELP SKILLS allows residents with physical handicaps to be more self-sufficient. About half of the residents of the Brandenburg Center are physically handicapped as well as mentally retarded. Each client at the center has a training program designed to teach them to be more independent, with the eventual goal of community living where possible. Pictured above is a resident working on independence in hygiene skills as part of his individual program plan.

THREE-DIMENSIONAL WALL EXHIBITS by local artist Matt Plevyak adorn the art display area at Ruth Enlow's Oakland Library this month. Plevyak, who has a degree in fine arts from GCC and who completed training at the Corcoran School of Art in Washington, D.C., uses a variety of "found" objects to create collages and assemblages. His mixtures of materials are to express "imaginative representational images" open to interpretation by each individual according to his background and imagination.

Rate Increase

Butta cited the need for adequate financial resources so as to be able to introduce new technologies, to improve and expand the network and to maintain service levels throughout Maryland. "C&P must remain financially viable in order to meet the challenges of competition, and it must be able to make the investments in new technology required to service our customers' needs" Butta added.

Local Exchange Service

Basic monthly rates for local telephone service will increase, however, the usage portion of the charge will not change. For example, Unlimited Service for a residence customer in Baltimore would increase from $16.49 to $20.65 a month. In areas such as Annapolis, Cumberland and Salisbury, the cost of residential Unlimited Service would increase from $15.22 to $19.50. Economy rates statewide will increase from $5.40 to $9.56 per month, with no increase in the usage charge.

For business customers in areas such as Baltimore, the basic service rate would increase from $10.70 to $14.76 a month. In areas such as Annapolis, Cumberland and Salisbury the cost of service for business customers would increase from $12.70 to $17.76. There will be no charge in the usage rates.

Local Coin Telephone Service

The charge for local coin telephone calls would increase from 20 cents to 25 cents.

Service Charges

Rates for services would be priced to cover cost. Those which would be increased include: the cost for order processing when establishing service would increase from $19.00 to $22.00 for residence customers; from $30.00 to $42.00 for business customers; the cost of line connection for residence customers would increase from $18.00 to $32.00; for business customers, from $27.00 to $32.00.

FX (Foreign Exchange) Service

Rates for most FX service would increase approximately 21% a month.

Operator Service

The charge to verify a line is busy would increase from 30 cents to 45 cents. The charge to verify conversation and interrupt the telephone call would increase from 80 cents to $1.20. There is no charge if there is trouble on the line.

(Non-cellular) Mobil Telephone Service

The monthly charge for (non-cellular) mobile telephone service would increase significantly to cover the cost of providing this service. This service would be frozen to capacity.

Kitzmiller Gets Update On Water System Progress

Kitzmiller's town officials received updates on the town's water project during the August 27 meeting of the mayor and council. The water project was started last month, and no extraordinary problems have been noted as yet.

George Kutchman, of Arnold Construction, gave an update on the distribution system, while William Elliott, of Greenhorne and O'Mara, gave an update on the entire three projects. H.J. Schneider has the contract for construction of the storage tank, treatment plant and transmission main.

Kutchman requested and received permission to have one-way traffic on streets where construction is taking place. The Arnold firm is awaiting a flood plan permit before work can begin in the town but has started construction on the hill, according to town clerk Diane E. Paugh.

The town officials are proceeding with the work necessary to annex two properties to the town and have notified the sanitary district administrator, Wendell Beitzel, that these properties will be included in water and sewer service. The properties are Robert Lucas' garage and the home of William and Katherine Paugh, off Oak Street.

Numerous incidents of vandalism and destruction to gardens in the town prompted officials to ask the sheriff's department to make additional patrols.

A new bulletin board and flagpole are being erected in front of the community building by town employees. The town will also be soliciting bids to have the community building roof repaired and repainted. The building is on Center Street across from the post office.

The next meeting of the mayor and council will be September 24.

SET TO OPEN the season against visiting Bruce Friday night are the Northern High Huskies, who will attempt to better their 3-7 mark of last season. Coach Jack Settle is hoping for lots of leadership from his 13 seniors as the Huskies are facing one of their toughest schedules ever. In the photo, left to right, are Settle; Harv Speicher and Joe McKenzie, assistants; and Elmer Smith, jayvee coach.

Strong Northern Husky Nucleus Returns, But Settle Wary Of Difficult Schedule

A strong nucleus which includes 13 seniors should provide the skills and leadership for the Northern High Huskies to improve upon last season's 3-7 finish, but Coach Jack Settle is certainly not counting his victories yet, in light of a tougher schedule this season.

"There is no question that this will be the most challenging schedule that we have faced during my eight years at Northern," Settle stated, and, although he wouldn't admit it, it may well be the toughest in the history of the school.

The Huskies have added Central Preston to their slate this year, along with Spencer, W.Va., which finished 7-3 last year; not to mention Frankfort, 8-2 last season, Chestnut Ridge, 9-1 in 1983, and several strong Class C foes, such as Southern, 9-1 last year, Beall and Valley.

"Frankly, I don't know if we're ready for this type of program," Settle said. "But we have been working hard and, if we can stay healthy and gain some good breaks along the way, we should be competitive in every game."

Most of the good breaks last season were in favor of the Huskies' opponents, however, as Settle believed that his 1983 team could have finished at least 5-5. "We had only eight seniors and six of them missed two or more games because of injuries and illness," he said.

Not among the 13 returning seniors are tailback Greg Diehl, who rushed for over 1,000 yards last season, standout defensive back Jeff Graham, lineman Phil Carr, and Dave George, who was one of the area's top place kickers for the past three seasons.

Settle will be relying heavily on the leadership of junior quarterback Kevin Sines (5-10, 184) who started the final three games last season and completed 10 of 20 passes for 120 yards and a pair of touchdowns.

Attempting to replace Diehl at tailback are senior Bill Murray, who picked up 119 yards on 23 carries last year from the fullback position, and Jeff Eggleston. Murray, who also grabbed four passes for 65 yards last year and returned kicks, is presently nursing an ankle injury and is listed as questionable for this week.

Eggleston, who has been moved from the tight end position, will share the fullback duties with junior Bill Friend.

Senior Steve Zumpano will return as wide receiver, with Charlie Beiler, also a senior, at the wing position, and senior Randy Kamp at tight end.

The Huskies will open Friday night at home against Bruce. The Bulldogs, who are facing a rebuilding year, are under a new head coach, Wayne Nicol, former assistant to now retired Tom Oglebay and a former standout player at Valley.

Bruce finished with a 6-4 record last season, winning five of their last seven games, but all but three starters from that team are gone. Nicol will look to senior tight end Jimm Davis, 6-4, 190; Jeff McRobie, a junior offensive tackle at 5-11, 185; and junior Charlie Wilson, 5-10, 160, for team leadership. Wilson, who played defensive end last year, is expected to take over the quarterback position.

The game was originally scheduled to be played at Bruce, but delayed repair work to bleachers at the Bulldogs' field forced the move to Northern's field, which did not upset Coach Settle in the least.

"It helps to have your season opener at home," he said, "but we are expecting another good challenge from Bruce. We have been in some real close struggles with them in the past few years and under a new coach, they are bound to be enthusiastic, even though they are inexperienced."

Bruce utilizes a slot I and T offense, along with various power-I formations.

In looking ahead at the season, particularly at the Class C race, Settle believes it will be close all season long. "I will be surprised if anyone comes through unblemished," he said.

Kickoff at Northern is set for 7:30 p.m.

Boosters To Meet

The Northern High Athletic Boosters will meet Tuesday, September 11, at 8 p.m., at the school.

New Volleyball League Formed

The newly formed Garrett Volleyball Association is seeking teams for the winter volleyball season with divisions for both men and women.

The league will play on Monday nights at the Southern Middle School gym. An organizational meeting will be held Wednesday, September 12, at 7 p.m., at the Southern Middle School cafeteria. Teams are urged to contact Mike or Helen Stephens at (301) 387-9395 prior to the meeting to register.

Teams will be limited to seven men's and seven women's teams and will be accepted on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Youth League Football Season Opens

Oakland Jets Whip Thomas-Davis Rams

The Oakland Jets opened the 1984 Mt. Top Youth Football League season with a win over the Thomas-Davis Rams, 13-0, in the first game of a doubleheader Sunday at the Terra Alta field.

The Jets' first score came on their second possession of the game when fullback Charlie Paugh ran 25 yards for a touchdown. The pass attempt for the extra point failed.

In the second quarter, Paugh again scored for the Jets, this time from his defensive linebacker position as he intercepted a Ram pass and raced 50 yards to the end zone. Tom Ritchey ran for the extra point.

The Jets had another touchdown called back in the third quarter when a clipping penalty was assessed.

Defensively, the Jets were led by Charlie Paugh and Shawn Nesselrodt who intercepted one pass each, the entire front line, and David Livengood and Scott Watson who shared duties on defense when Marshall Pike left the game with an injury.

The Jets will take on the Parsons Browns this Saturday night at 6 p.m., on the Parsons High School field.

Raiders Open With Win Over Dolphins

The Oakland Raiders started off their 1984 Mt. Top Youth Football League season with a 26-6 victory over the Terra Alta Dolphins on the Dolphins' home field Sunday.

After holding the Dolphins on their first offensive possession, the Raiders took the ball and marched 45 yards in ten plays for their first score. Theo Polce scored the touchdown on a ten-yard run. The extra point conversion was good on a run by Zach Gibson.

In the second quarter, Gibson scored on runs of one and 12 yards. Jamie Colaw ran for one extra point to make the score 20-0 at the end of the first half.

The Raiders scored their final points of the day on their first possession of the third quarter, moving the ball 65 yards in ten plays. Gibson capped the drive with a four-yard run for the touchdown. The extra point attempt was no good.

The Dolphins' only score came in the fourth quarter on a 21-yard run by Danny Hull.

The Dolphin coaches praised the defensive play of Brad Friend, Mike Markwood, Shad Helmick, and Rob Lindsay. Standouts on the Raider defense were Bobby Horner, Ronnie Schrock, and Zach Gibson.

The Dolphins are idle next week while the Raiders will travel to Parsons to do battle with the Parsons Vikings. The game is Saturday at 8 p.m., at the football field at the old Parsons High School in downtown Parsons.

Little League To Hold Tryouts

Tryouts for the 1985 Little League season will be held Saturday, September 8, at the Oakland Little League field at 9 a.m. All boys and girls between the ages of nine and 12 are invited to participate.

About 45 new participants are needed to fill the Little League rosters for next year, according to a Little League spokesman.

THIS NICE CATCH by Paul Sowers, and several others like it by him and his teammates, provided enough weight for the Maryland team to capture second place in the Eastern Divisional National Bass Championships, held last week at Deep Creek Lake. Some of the top bass fishermen in the country participated in the 11-team event, with the state of Pennsylvania's team emerging as the winner with a total catch of 46 pounds, three ounces. David Hall, of the Pennsylvania team, caught the heaviest stringer of fish, 14 pounds, 14 ounces. Bill Deckman, of Garrett County, was a member of the Maryland team, along with Sowers, Monty Embrey, Paul Koluch, Gary Mitchell, John Phoebus, Clarence Rogers, and Terry Shives. The three-day competition was sponsored by the Bass Anglers Sportsman Society (BASS).

principles, request for mobile home placements and other special exception requests are to be considered grantable if they meet the requirements of the Zoning Ordinance, including design and compatibility with the existing development of the area, proximity to, and visibility from the lake, the testimony of neighboring property owners, and other factors. The opposition of neighboring property owners is not in itself sufficient grounds for denial, according to McNallie.

McNallie presented a memo, requested at the last Planning Commission meeting, providing a definition of the term, "on a permanent foundation", and outlining legal and zoning issues that are applicable to the question.

The memo stated that, as a result of the National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Standards Act enacted by Congress in 1976, safety and health considerations have been eliminated. The law outlines standards for planning design, fire safety, body and frame construction, energy conservation, plumbing, heating and other factors that have resulted in a fire safety record equivalent to that of conventional site-building housing, including mobile homes constructed prior to the passage of the act. Mobile homes built after the act's passage have a superior safety record to that of site built homes, according to the memo.

The increased acceptability of mobile homes by the public is reflected in the facts that ten million U.S. residents live in manufactured housing, with 80% of all homes sold in recent years for less than $35,000 falling into that category, according to a report published in the Zoning and Planning Law Report in 1983.

The memo went on to state that in 1982 the President's Commission on Housing recommended that all states and localities remove all discrimination against manufactured housing from their zoning laws. If passed into law by Congress, subjective issues such as devaluation of property values and aesthetic considerations would be illegal.

Also included in the memo was an example of a zoning ordinance from Grandview, Washington which includes a definition of the term "on permanent foundation."

The Planning Commission requested that the county planning staff conduct a study on the effect of mobile homes on surrounding property values, and asked County Zoning Administrator John Nelson to assemble statistics regarding the proportion of denials and approvals of special exception requests for mobile home placement by the Board of Zoning Appeals.

Penn Point Associates

The request by Penn Point Associates for the amendment of standards regarding road access for commercial resorts was approved by a three to one vote with one abstention.

The approved change calls for "vehicular access to one or more such (state, county primary or county secondary) highways in a manner that will, in the opinion of the County Planning Commission, satisfactorily accommodate the anticipated traffic with regard to capacity, safety, and impact on neighboring properties and on County Roads expenditures."

The new wording will replace the requirement that a commercial resort site must have at least five hundred feet fronting on a county primary or state highway.

Commissioner Elwood Groves spoke in favor of approval of the request, saying, "It still has all the safeguards of the old rule, it just removes the specific restriction of primary road frontage."

Lake Regulations

Planning assistant Peggy Rolf presented a brief overview of the proposed regulations for Deep Creek Lake. Mike Gregory, lake manager for the Department of Natural Resouces, answered questions of commission members regarding the regulations. He told the commission that his department will be taking the comments and concerns of residents voiced at last weeks public information meeting into consideration as they continue the drafting process.

Gregory said that DNR may enact some of the most important regulations this fall, such as the ones regarding dock permits, so that the dock permit moratorium can be lifted. He said that the moritorium has caused a hardship to persons wishing to buy or sell lakefront property because of uncertainty as to whether new owners would be able to obtain dock permits.

He added that DNR may stretch out the regulation process to allow continued citizen input into the process, and said that safety on the lake is the number one concern of the agency in developing the regulations.

Mtn. Lake Park Friends To Meet

The Friends of Mountian Lake Park will meet at the town hall on Monday, September 10, at 7 p.m.

According to Don Sincell, chairman of the organization, the main topic of discussion will be the possible purchase of a piece of historical property in the town.

All persons interested in the preservation and improvement of Mountain Lake Park, whether or not they are residents of the town are encouraged to attend.

Independent Study Courses Offered

Independent study courses are again being offered by Garrett Community College, according to Joan B. Crawford, director of Extended Learning. These courses will be starting within the next two weeks and ending by mid-December.

For the past two years, the college has provided courses in this mode of learning to accommodate students who cannot attend classes at scheduled times, or who desire to take a course not being offered. Last year, over 200 student contracts for independent study were processed, according to Crawford. Most of these courses have been in the humanities and social sciences areas.

Because there has been such an interest shown in independent study courses, the college has recently published a brochure that describes briefly courses available in this format and explains the registration procedures.

Anyone desiring information about these courses may call the Extended Learning Center at the college, 387-6666.

48 Percent Of Eligible Adults Registered To Vote

Some 48 percent of the adult population eligible to vote is registered in this county, according to recent figures from the census Bureau in Baltimore. The national average is 35 percent, according to Fred Sanders, election clerk registrar.

Maryland will have four political parties in addition to the Democrats and Republicans in the November 6 general election. These are the Libertarian, Workers World Party, Communist Party, and the Alliance Party. The local office of the Board of Election Supervisors will receive the official ballot with the list of party candidates this Friday.

A petition containing 10,000 names of qualified voters must be received by the state election board in Annapolis before a party can be created, Sanders noted.

October 8 is the final day to register before the general election. The local office in the Courthouse will remain open until 9 p.m. that day. Absentee ballots for those who cannot make it to the polls November 6 will be available until October 30. Persons interested in obtaining absentee ballots may call the office at 334-3215 or make their requests in person at the Courthouse.

Two Oakland polling places have been combined and will now be located at the Garrett Community College Oakland center. These are District 14-1, West Oakland A through K and District 14-3, West Oakland L through Z. These polling places were formerly located at city hall and the Oakland fire hall.

Some 14 of those registered in person as Democrats, and 10 as Republicans. The remainder mailed in registration forms, with 55 as Democrats and 35 as Republicans. There were also nine registering with other affiliations.

GETTING READY for the 1984 high school football season are the Southern Rams, under head coach Tom Woods, who will open their season this Friday eveing at Phillip Barbour. The Rams, who are coming off a 9-1 regular season last year, have a strong core of returning starters in several positions, but are facing considerable inexperience in others and a lack of depth overall. In the photo, left to right, are Tom Bosley, assistant coach; Woods; Jim Bosley, Dave Bosley, and Fred Gregg, assistants.

Inexperience, Lack Of Depth Cause Woods To View Rams' '84 Season With Caution

"Cautious" seems to be the word to best describe Coach Tom Woods' approach to the 1984 Southern High School Ram football season, which gets underway this Friday evening at Phillip Barbour.

Several members of the Rams' squad are used to winning and have played side by side since their youth football league days. Southern has won the Highland Football Conference championship four out of the past five years and has represented Region I in the Class C playoffs in three out of the past five years, including last season when the Rams finished with a 9-1 regular season record. In fact, most of the senior members of the team have been involved in only five losses in the past seven years when one includes their youth league efforts.

However, a lack of experience at a number of positions and an extreme lack of depth, the worst Woods says he has seen in his eight years at Southern, are his greatest concerns.

The Rams return only four starters in the defensive unit, while the starting tackles this year have never played a single down in varsity football.

The offense, on the other hand, has several key players returning, including quarterback J.R. Gibson who completed 48 percent of his passes last year for 561 yards and rushed for 222 yards. Also expected to provide some offensive fireworks are senior split end Steve Bennett and senior slotback Dave McLaughlin.

Dave Terrant, the area's leading rusher last year with 1,453 yards, was lost to graduation and attempting to fill his position are sophomore Bruce Bosley and junior Steve Schrock at the tailback position.

Scott Werdebaugh, junior, and sophomore John Lewis are vying for the position of fullback vacated by Tim Tharp (648 yards in 1983) who is attempting to fill a spot on Fairmont State College's squad this season.

Tight ends, who will most likely alternate by carrying in plays, will be seniors Allan Sharpless and Kurk Turney.

Anchoring the offensive line and senior Tim Sanders at center, two-year starters Anthony Andrews and Scott O'Neill, both seniors, at the guard positions and Mike Smith and Jay Stewart as tackles. Joey Matthews, who probably would have started this week at tackle, is questionable because of a dislocated finger sustained this week in practice.

Gary Wotring	G DT	6-0	162

Defensive ends will be Scott O'Neill and either Andrews or Bill Hesen, also a senior.

Senior Scott Colaw, (6-3, 222) and Werdebaugh will play linebacker, while the veteran secondary will include Gibson at monster, Allen Sharpless and Bosley at strong corner, Bennett at free safety and McLaughlin at weak corner. Sophomore Donnie Horner will also see action in the secondary.

"Our defense has pretty good overall quickness," Coach Woods stated, "but we are extremely inexperienced."

Woods said that conducting practices has been difficult because of the lack of depth on the team. "We simply cannot afford any injuries," he said, "so consequently we tend to taper our practices, which makes it tough."

On a brighter note, Woods said he believes that the Rams' ability to throw the ball is probably better than any of his other eight years at Southern. He stated that the backfield is doing reasonably well, but is "a little behind schedule."

"The success of our season is going to be determined by our health, the leadership provided by our seniors, how quickly our backfield can progress and on luck," Woods said. "We have basically the same competitive schedule and I believe that the Class C race is wide open this year."

Unlike the past few seasons, the Rams will face a rather stiff challenge in their opener this Friday evening at Phillip Barbour, W.Va. The triple-A school, which had a 6-4 record last year, is under a new coach, Joe Noble. The team dropped its opener last week to perennial powerhouse Grafton, 33-7, however Coach Woods is anticipating strong competition.

"They have one game under their belts, it will be on their home field and they have one of the strongest backfields we will face this season," Woods said.

That backfield is led by senior Scott Gainer, a three-year starter at 5-10, 215 pounds, who runs a 4.8-second 40, and junior tailback Todd England, 5-10, 160, who gained 700 yards last year.

Another outstanding player is Robert Rader, a 6-4, 245-pound tackle.

Phillip Barbour is a run-oriented team, utilizing a multiple-I offense. They use a 5-2 defense and will often place seven men down the line.

"This will most likely be a very tough opener for us, unlike previous years," Woods said. "The team they lost to in their opener (Grafton) returned 14 starters from a 10-2 squad last year."

Also on the injured list for the Rams besides Matthews is Scott Lohr, who is expected to be out of action two to four weeks because of a bruised spleen.

Persons wishing to go to the game should follow U.S. Rt. 50 west, take Rt. 92 toward Nestorville, take Rt. 38 at Nestorville to Rt. 250 south, which will lead directly to the field. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Bass Fishing Areas To Be Meeting Topic

The Department of Natural Resources has scheduled a series of public information meetings on an idea of developing smallmouth or largemouth bass trophy fishing areas.

The meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m., at the following locations: September 7, Allegany County, at DNR's Cumberland Regional Service Center at Naves Crossroad; September 10, Baltimore County, at Loch Raven High School; and September 11, Washington County, Hagerstown Jr. College. An 8 p.m. meeting will be held at Frederick County, Frederick County Community College on September 12.

These meetings are being held to provide the public opportunity to voice its opinions and concerns regarding a concept designed to increase the catch of larger sized smallmouth and largemouth bass in designated areas. The Department will discuss fisheries management on the Potomac River and explain staff recommendations for innovative new proposals relating to the creation of sport fisheries for black bass. Included in the discussion with anglers will be an information exchange on trophy largemouths in impounded waters and a slot limit concept for a section of the Potomac.

Comments received during the scheduled public meetings are welcome and will be given consideration as to whether or not regulations on the Potomac River will be promulgated for the 1985 fishing season.

For information persons may call David Wharton at (301) 269-3365 on or before September 14, 1984.

Selective Service Week Proclaimed

The Board of County Commissioners signed a proclamation Tuesday recognizing the week of September 9 as Selective Service Awareness Week. The Board presented the proclamation to Paul May, regional director of the Selective Service for the State of Maryland.

The proclamation stated that peacetime registration for the Selective Service System contributes to national readiness by reducing the time required for a full defense mobilization, and is an important signal to our allies and potential adversaries of the seriousness of the U.S. defense commitment at home and abroad.

It went on to urge all young men to express pride in their country and belief in its rights and freedoms by registering with the Selective Service System in accordance with the Military Selective Service Act.

Byron-Ficker Debate Slated September 17

The Montgomery County Press Association and the Potomac Chamber of Commerce will co-sponsor a candidate's forum at which Rep. Beverly Byron, D-Md., and her opponent, Robin Ficker, have said they will participate.

The forum is scheduled for 7 p.m. on Monday, September 17, at St. Francis Episcopal Church, River Road and Councilman Road, Potomac.

The forum is to be moderated by the press association's president, Davis Kennedy, editor and publisher of The Gaithersburg Gazette, The Olney, Damascus and Mt. Airy Courier-Gazettes.

Kennedy will be assisted by Robert Horwitz, editor of The Montgomery Journal, who will serve as timekeeper. Additional assistance will be provided by Luttie Semmes, publisher of The Potomac Almanac.

Each candidate will be given five minutes to make an opening statement. The two statements will be followed by three minutes each for rebuttal time. Each candidate will be given three minutes to make a closing statement. There will be no rebuttal time.

In order to avoid speeches, all questions to be answered by the candidates must be in writing Kennedy will read the questions. They will be subject to editing should it take more than one minute to read them.

Questions on topics of general interest designed to ellicit the views of both candidates will receive answers of up to three minutes from both Mrs. Byron and Mr. Ficker. Questions, whether hostile or not, which the moderator feels are aimed at one candidate, will be answered for three minutes by that candiate with the opponent having one minute for rebuttal.

The moderator will try to assure that the candidates each face the same number of direct questions and the same number of hostile questions.

Only the principals may appear. No substitutions will be allowed.

Due to the nonpartisan nature of the two sponsors and of St. Francis Episcopal Church, should one candidate fail to appear, the forum will be cancelled.

At the present time no other forum or debate has been scheduled to which both candidates have agreed.

Exchange Teacher Surprised With Hawaiian Luau

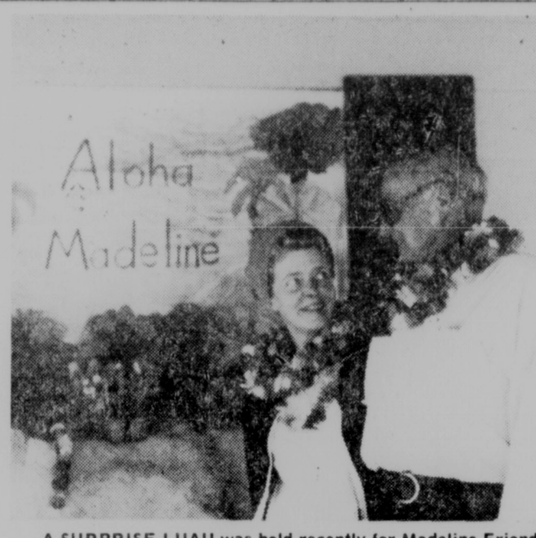

A surprise Hawaiian luau was held recently in honor of Madeline J. Friend, second grade instructor at Accident Elementary School. Mrs. Friend, under a teacher exchange plan will be teaching second grade in Hawaii during the 1984-1985 school year.

The surprise luau was given by the faculty and staff of Accident Elementary. Her husband, Leo Friend, a local realtor, took Mrs. Friend to the Yoder Apartments at Deep Creek Lake under the guise of looking at a piece of property for sale. Mrs. Friend was met by her coworkers, sporting grass skirts and colorful tissue leis made by Cyndi Kolb, Jennifer Kotulak, and Marlene Taliaferro. Each person in attendance was issued a lei and many were garbed in bright Hawaiian clothing.

The covered dish dinner consisted of Hawaiian food and drinks. Hawaiian music was played in the background. Maggie Mullich, art instructor, fashioned a traditional luau large papermache pig with an apple in its mouth. The inside of the pig was stuffed with gag gifts that Mrs. Friend might find useful in Hawaii, such as a sand bucket and shovel and a book on Hawaiian terms and customs.

Mrs. Friend became interested in teaching in Hawaii after her three children, Gretchen, Kristen and Dorien, presented her and Mr. Friend with a surprise Hawaiian vacation. Mrs. Friend set as one of her goals a way to return to the islands.

Reading through educational literature, she discovered an article on teacher-exchange programs. Hawaii has an exchange program available to tenured teachers from Hawaii and the mainland. Mrs. Friend contacted the Hawaii Dept. of Education for further information. Through correspondence and application through the Garrett County Board of Education and the Hawaii Department of Education, Mrs. Friend's application was approved.

A SURPRISE LUAU was held recently for Madeline Friend, a teacher at Accident Elementary School, who is now teaching in Hawaii on a one-year exchange program. Pictured above with Mrs. Friend is her husband, Leo, and below are Jay Stocker, his wife, Beth, and children, Erin, age five, and Jonathan, three. Mr. Stocker, a native of Chicago, will assume Mrs. Friend's duties in Accident. He has taught in Hawaii since 1969.

While teaching on the Hawaiian Island off Oahu, Mrs. Friend will be receiving her salary via the Garrett County Board of Education. The instructor coming to Accident Elementary will draw his salary from his local Board of Education in Hawaii.

Mrs. Friend's replacement teacher will be Jay Stocker, a native of Chicago, who has been living and teaching in Hawaii since 1969. He and his wife, Beth, will be residing at Mr. and Mrs. Friend's residence in McHenry.

Mr. Stocker and his wife have two children, Erin, age five and will be entering kindergarten, and Jonathan, age three. Mr. Stocker will be teaching a split second and third grade class.

Those in attendance at the luau were Bill and Twylah Stewart, Lillian and Don Mitchell, Nancy Fike, Jennifer Kotulak, Dottie Sines, Jim and Caroll Smith, Sharon Platter, Sharon Settle, Leo Friend, Joanna Ringer, Steve and Sheila Russell, Richard and Rosanne Sherwood, Buddy and Annette Warnick, John and Pat Helmick, Cyndi Kolb and her mother Sophie Richmond, Maggie Mullich, George and Joyce Landers, and Marlene Taliaferro.

Park Zoning Board Sets Hearing On Apartment Request

The Mt. Lake Park Board of Zoning Appeals will hear testimony September 13 at 4:30 p.m. at a public hearing on a request to construct an apartment complex behind The Meadows.

EHP Associates II have requested a special exception permit to construct 29 one-bedroom apartments in a unit behind The Meadows, and is also requesting a variance from the two-parking spaces per apartment regulation.

A FULL COMPUTER SYSTEM was recently installed in the office of Adrian Spiker, agent for Nationwide Insurance, at his place of business north of Oakland. The system links the office directly with a central computer at Nationwide's international headquarters in Columbus, Ohio, and provides processing and filing capabilities as well as word processing potential. It will give speedy access to policyholder's records. Spiker's computer equipment will exchange policy data daily with the central computer at headquarters, and at night the central computer will call the agent's system to collect updated files and deposit new information for the next day's use. Nationwide ordered more than 3,500 computer systems from the Mohawk Data Sciences Corporation to connect agents' offices with the home office. Pictured above are Kim Shillingburg, agent; Adrain Spiker, Jerry Ferguson, agent; and Joanna Harvey, secretary and data processor.

Sheriff's Dept. Probes Thefts In Accident Area

Two complaints of theft were filed with the Garrett County Sheriff's Department this past week, both occurring in the Accident area.

The Garrett County Road's Department reported that unknown person(s) removed a computerized traffic counter from the Bear Hill Road on the night of August 28. The traffic counter is valued at $1,425.

Another theft was reported to the department on August 28 by Galen Resh, Accident. Resh reported that someone had taken seven sets of scaffolding and five joints of six-inch sewer pipe from a field behind his residence.

Investigations by that department are continuing.

Walker Receives Safety Award

Jim Walker, conservation assistant at Herrington Manor State Park, was recently awarded the monthly safe person award for the month of August by the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service.

Walker received the award for "his outstanding leadership ability" and setting a safe work example among his co-workers during the month. The "safe person award" is given each month by the local park's safety unit.

In addition to the park's recognition of Walker's efforts, the Oakland Pizza Hut has presented him with a certificate good for a free pizza of any size and topping.

Walker began his employment with the Park Service in May of this year after having had employment at Sterling Processing as a supervisor and at Shiever Sheet Metal in Keyser, W. Va. He is currently enrolled in fulltime night classes at the Diesel Institute of America in Grantsville.

The Mtn. Lake Park resident is a Viet Nam Veteran and enjoys hunting and fishing. He and his family have been area residents for the past several years.

SEPTEMBER IS SQUARE DANCE MONTH across the nation, and dancers everywhere celebrate by giving others a chance to join in their fun. The Mt. Top Promenaders will hold a mixer night Monday, September 24, at the Dennett Road School gymnasium at 8 p.m. The caller will be Bob Boswell of Cumberland, a regular caller for the club. Classes will begin in October for those who are interested. During the Congressional hearings to make square dancing the national folk dance, it was brought out that square dancing is one of the finest forms of recreation, coming out of a long American heritage in all parts of the country and being an art form in which all may participate.

FRESHMAN FACES QUAD

At one of our universities the freshman dormitories completely surround a grassy plot reached through a shadowy stone portal. Originally called the "QUADRANGLE" because of its four imposing sides, it has long since become simply the Quad.

Perhaps this Fall a freshman from your family will begin a new life away from home. For him, or her there will be opportunities and obstacles, triumphs and temptations.

How well we meet life's challenges when we are on our own depends on our character, our convictions.

Hopefully, years before a freshman faces the Quad, a church back home has been helping to mold that freshman's character and deepening that freshman's convictions.

APOCRINES AND ECCRINES EVERYBODY HAS THEM

Your body has millions of tiny useful eccrine sweat glands which prevent the body from overheating by secreting a clear odorless liquid that is mostly water. In areas where this liquid can not evaporate, the underarms and on the feet, the sweat can be noticeable and uncomfortable. But, this wetness alone does not cause body odor.

Body odor can come from the less numerous apocrine glands which work mainly in the underarm area. These glands secrete a complex organic fluid that is broken down by normal skin bacteria to form a smelly substance. A deodorant will just hide a body odor but an anti-perspirant works against both odor and wetness. We carry a complete selection of these products and can recommend one to you that is non-irritating.

Background Scripture: Romans 1:1-17.
Devotional Reading: Romans 16:17-20.

Paul says it plainly, "For I am not ashamed of the gospel..." (Romans 1:16). And, if asked if I have ever been "ashamed of the gospel" and I answer quickly, I can probably say "No."

But if I take a long, deep breath before answering and let my mind give more than just a glancing thought to that question, I'm afraid honesty might compel me to acknowledge that, although I may never have been outright "ashamed" of the gospel, there have been times when it has been of some embarrassment.

To be sure, sometimes it has been the church for which I've felt some embarrassment, not the gospel and particularly at those times when the church has been least true to the gospel. One cannot but view the stupid, unreasoning violence and bloodshed in Northern Ireland and Lebanon today without being embarrassed over what Christians are doing to each other.

THE SHADOWED CROSS

There have been times, too, when I have been embarrassed and even ashamed when Christians have committed grave injustices and crimes in the name of Jesus Christ. In touring Spain last year we were not proud to learn that when the Catholic Kings expelled the Moors, the society they brought was far less humane and tolerant than the one they destroyed. And, in touring the memorial to the Holocaust at Yad Vashem in Israel, one cannot overlook the fact that every infamous concentration camp existed in the figurative shadow of a steepled cross.

But, having said all that, I must admit that there have been times when it has been nothing less than the gospel itself—not some distortion of it by someone else—that has been a cause of embarrassment. And, of course, the problem is not with the gospel but with me!

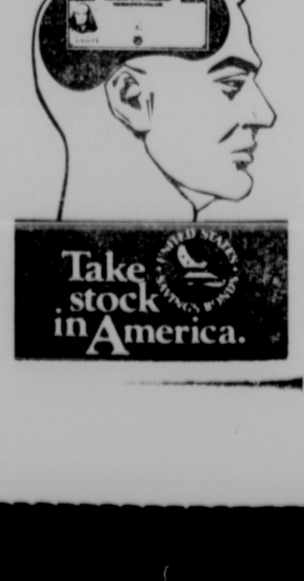

If this has never happened to you, I am glad for you and you should count your blessings. But I must confess that there have been times when the stigma of being a Christian has gotten in the way with something I have wanted to do, or be something I have wanted to be. To put it simply, there have been times when being a Christian has seemed to "crimp my style," as we used to say.

UNDER OBLIGATION

Perhaps there have been times when I have felt that being identified as a Christian was too limiting and restricted too much my lifestyle. We all want to be cosmopolitan today and Christianity may seem to get in our way.

Yet, Paul was a very cosmopolitan person and he could say, "I am under obligation both to Greeks and barbarians..." (1:14), yet it did not keep him from also saying, "I am not ashamed of the gospel"! For Paul knew what I must constantly be reminded of: faith is never limiting; it is, in fact, the one thing above all others that is empowering and sets us free of all littleness and narrowness. If I have anything over which to be embarrassed or ashamed, it is my tendency to forget that.

Northern Band Makes Ready For Marching Season

The Northern High School Band recently began the fall marching season by holding its second annual band camp at Camp Hickory. At the camp, which ran from August 19 to 24, band members concentrated on field show pieces for the marching competition this fall. They include: "Fiero" by Bob Cotter, "Gospel John" by Jeff Steinberg and "Can You Read My Mind" by John Williams.

To accomplish the work the band needed to do during camp, it was necessary to spend 14-16 hours every day and some units worked further into the morning hours to perfect their particular portion of the program. "The students of the band showed a strong commitment to create the best band Northern High School has had in many years and showed a willingness to help each other that has not been seen in a long time," stated Jim Boord, band director.

Among the other instructors at the camp were: Larry Jackson, director's assistant, a graduate of Frankfort High School and presently a music major at West Virginia University; Robin Combs, silk instructor, a graduate of Frankfort High School and former captain of the silk squad there; Richard Philips, silk instructor, a graduate of Frankfort High School, present student at WVU and former member of the WVU silk squad; Betty Walker, woodwinds, music teacher at Grantsville, Accident and Yoder schools; Marty Crump, percussion, band director at Valley High School; and Jamie Spiker, assistant percussion, graduate of Northern High School.

Among the graduates who held various positions of responsibility at the camp were Miranda Hicks, drum majorette, who attended the West Chester State University's camp for drum majors; Sharon Weimer, captain of silks; Karen Fink and Shari Broom, co-captains.

Boord stated that the band is willing to participate in any community activities and persons may contact him at Northern High School to make arrangements or obtain more information about the band.

Sachs Schedules Public Hearing

Maryland Attorney General Stephen H. Sachs scheduled a public hearing Friday and asked for public comment on several proposed changes designed to greatly expand the Attorney General's program for resolving consumer complaints through binding arbitration.

The Attorney General's arbitration program has grown considerably in recent years, Sachs said, and the Consumer Protection Division is especially interested in the public's response to a proposal to recruit a pool of volunteer arbitrators from different regions of the State, and include non-lawyers along with lawyers in that pool.

"Lawyers will still be eligible to serve as arbitrators, and we expect that they will still hear a substantial number of the arbitrations cases," Sachs said. "But if we change the existing rules, being a lawyer will no longer be a requirement.

"In our all-volunteer Complaint Handling Unit, we've found that non-lawyers are awfully good at settling disputes, and the positive experience of some other arbitration programs, such as the one operated by the Better Business Bureau, convinces us that average citizens under professional supervision can do an effective job resolving consumer complaints.

"Legal issues surely surround most consumer-merchant disputes, but arbitration decisions are grounded on principles of equity and common sense, as well as on the law, and they shouldn't be overly legalistic or technical," Sachs said. "That's what has made this program work so well in the past, and we want to make it even more effective in the future."

The existing regulations governing the Attorney General's Arbitration Program went into effect in 1977, according to Assistant Attorney General Steven J. Cole, Chief of the Consumer Protection Division. Since then, over 1,200 arbitrations have been held on a wide variety of disputes that have involved amounts ranging from $50 to $50,000, Cole said.

In the past year and a half, the Division has been aggressively expanding the program's operations and has more than tripled the number of Maryland businesses that have agreed in advance to submit unresolved consumer complaints to binding arbitration, Cole explained. Now over 600 businesses—ranging from bridal shops to service stations to new car dealerships—have precommitted themselves to the program, he said.

"These proposed regulations are designed to maintain and enhance our commitment to the five bedrock principles which have governed the arbitration program since its inception: fairness, simplicity, convenience, speed and economy," Cole said. "The arbitration procedure doesn't cost the consumer or the business anything to use, and it's a lot quicker and simpler than going to court. It also cuts down the confrontational nature of the dispute."

Other proposed rule changes would clarify the type of relief an arbitrator can grant a party in a dispute and also formalize the use of expert advisors when the issues in the dispute require special knowledge of a product or service, Cole explained.

The proposed rules will also clarify existing arbitration procedures, put into regulatory form certain informal practices that have been followed in the past, and improve the organization of the program's rules.

Persons interested in commenting on the proposed new rules may submit written comments to Larry Munson, Arbitration Administrator at the Consumer Protection Division, 7 N. Calvert Street, 3rd Floor, Baltimore, Maryland 21202. Comments should be mailed no later than sixty days from today.

The Division also will conduct a public hearing on the proposed rules. Persons wishing to provide oral comments on the rule changes at the hearing, which will be held at 10:30 a.m. on Friday, September 21, 1984, University of Maryland, School of Law, 500 W. Baltimore Street, Room 101 (Moot Court Room), Baltimore, Maryland 21201, should contact Mary Wiggins, at (301) 576-6550, to arrange for placement on the hearing schedule.

Artists Invited To Participate In Legislative Exhibit

Senator John N. Bambacus (R-Allegany, Garrett) once again invites District I artists to participate in the State Legislature's annual juried art exhibition. The show will run from January 9, 1985 through April 8, 1985 in the State capitol complex in Annapolis.

The entry deadline is October 10. The exhibition is open to all professional artists who reside in Maryland. Most types of art are acceptable, provided that the objects can be displayed as wall hangings. All entries must be original and must have been executed within the past two years.

"I am especially proud of the 'Art for Legislative Spaces' program and the opportunity it provides to showcase Maryland's artistic excellence," Bambacus said. "This year the show will feature a news photography division for the first time, in addition to the multi-media and fine arts photography categories."

Sales of all works accepted for the exhibition will be encouraged and no commission will be taken. The jurors for the show include the Directors of the Walters Art Gallery (Baltimore), the Delaware Art Museum (Wilmington), and the Norton Museum (West Palm Beach, Florida). Arrangements are being coordinated by Judith Lippman, General Assembly Visual Arts Coordination Program.

Entry forms may be obtained by contacting the Allegany Arts Council office, 8 Greene Street, Cumberland, at 777-9137.

Thanks . . .

The Appalachian Parent Association along with the clients and staff wish to thank the Garrett County Fair Board and the Gambrill Amusements for their generosity in allowing us to again enjoy the fair.

Assessment Answers & Tax Talk

CHANGES IN FARMLANDS AND AGRICULTURAL USE ASSESSMENT

by James Burley

There have been several significant changes made in the law as it relates to the assessment and taxation of property falling in the agricultural use category. The changes were made by the 1984 Maryland General Assembly and became effective July 1, 1984. Although important, they affect only pieces of land that are under 20 acres. Land areas of 20 acres or more are not affected.

Prior to the change, there had been a provision which said that properties which were subdivided after July 1, 1972, into parcels of less than 20 acres would no longer qualify for being placed in the agricultural use category, irrespective of whether or not the land was in actual agricultural use. This provision has been struck from the statute.

Another important change adds one more criterion that is to be used in determining whether the land qualifies for the agricultural use assessment. Previously, the criteria as specified in the law for making this determination have been: the zoning that was applicable to the land; the present and past use of the land; and, third, the productive capability of the land.

To these, a fourth factor has been added which requires that consideration is to be given to the gross revenue that is derived from the agricultural activity. The intent of this additional standard has been construed to mean that the income information will be utilized primarily as a supporting measurement in deciding the appropriateness of the agricultural use classification for those properties where the nature of the agricultural use of the land is not easily discerned.

Generally, rural properties between 5 and 20 acres in size will qualify on the basis of agricultural use and the income information will not be necessary. When the income factor is used as an additional consideration, the property owner will be required to certify that the agricultural activity results in an average annual gross income of $2,500. This is defined to mean the 2 highest years in the 3-year period.

Family farm units are excluded from the income provision. A family farm unit means land of less than 20 acres that is contiguous to land receiving the use assessment if the parcels are owned by a member of the immediate family of the owner of the adjacent land. The law also allows limited exemption from the income provision if the owner is at least 70 or disabled.

Several waivers of the income provision are also mandated. These are allowed for a limited duration but they can be extended in some cases. Waivers can be authorized for a new agricultural activity; for problems caused by drought or other natural disaster; and for leased lands. A waiver can also be authorized if the activity is more in the nature of a family subsistence type farming, the yield from which, if converted to a monetary worth, would be equal to the income requirement.

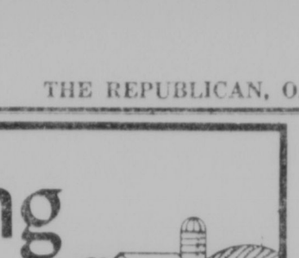

Parcels or combinations comprising less than 3 acres do not qualify unless at least 51 percent of the owner's income is attributable to the agricultural use of the land, or unless the owner and the owner of the adjoining land receiving the use assessment are one and the same.

Application for the agricultural use assessment is made by the owner on a standard form supplied by the Assessments Department. The application should be filed by November 1, to assure the agricultural use assessment for the forthcoming taxable year.

The purpose of the agricultural use assessment is to foster farming and to prevent the forced conversion through economic pressure of remaining farmlands and open space to development or other uses.

Lands in the category of agricultural use are assessed at 50 percent of their value in accordance with a schedule which is based on productive capability and use. Under certain conditions, lands assessed according to agricultural use can be subject to an agricultural transfer tax and other penalties upon subsequent sale or transfer of the land.

Frost—Just Around The Corner

Each year I will get several calls right after a killing frost concerning the feeding of sudangrass and sorghum. Feeding these frosted forages has the potential of cyanide or prussic acid poisoning of livestock. These forages are especially dangerous when immature and should not be grazed or harvested until growth reaches 24" for sudangrasses and 30" for the sorghum—sudangrass hybrids. Cured forages are less likely to be toxic because the cyanide is released when the integrity of the plant cell is destroyed. Frosted plants should not be fed for several days to allow time for the removal of the cyanide. Tillers growing following a killing frost are most likely to contain toxic levels of prussic acid or cyanide.

Using Ammonia In Corn Silage

Ammonia combined with a readily digestable energy source such as corn silage is an excellent source of protein for ruminants. The addition of 7 lbs. of ammonia per ton of corn at ensiling will increase the protein content of corn by 3 to 5 percentage units. Ammonia treated corn silage is palatable and does not require the adaptation period associated with urea feeding. Ammonia will delay or inhibit protein degradation in silage and in this manner, serves to protect the natural proteins and improve silage feeding value. Limited observations suggest that ammonia treated silage resists the secondary fermentation or heating that occurs when silos are opened and the silage is again exposed to air. This may account for part of the improved palatability of ammonia treated silage. The foremost advantage of ammonia treated silage is reducedd feed costs. Ammonia can replace part of the nitrogen or protein requirement in cattle rations at less expense than urea or natural protein sources.

Ripening Tomatoes

Tomatoes which are picked before fully ripe should be ripened in a warm place out of the direct sun. Exposure to full sun will burn tomato fruits causing red color to fade rather than develop. When tomatoes sunburn, fruits turn gray on the side exposed to intense light, they are still safe to eat but lose some of their eye appeal. Tomato fruits ripened on the plant will be more flavorful. The fruit should be refrigerated only when fully ripe. Also, never freeze raw tomatoes. They may be frozen after being cooked.

Davis Reviews Benefits Of '85 Wheat Program

"With wheat carryover stocks expected to remain large at the end of this season, farmers may want to study the benefits of the 1985 wheat acreage reduction program in relationship to their farming operation," Olin S. Davis, Jr., chairman of the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said.

In an effort to reduce planted acreage, production and total supplies to a level more in line with demand, the program contains a combined 20 percent acreage reduction requirement and a 10 percent paid land diversion. Participants may receive 50 percent of the diversion payment at signup. The program sign-up opens October 15, 1984 and closes March 1, 1985.

"Farmers who participate in the program will be eligible for target price protection at $4.38 per bushel, national average price support loans at $3.30 per bushel, and land diversion payments at $2.70 per bushel," Davis stated.

He said program participants will be required to limit their 1985 wheat planted acreage to no more than 70 percent of their farm's wheat base. Ten percent of the farm's wheat base plus 28.57 percent of its planted wheat acreage must be dedicated to an acreage conservation reserve. The 1985 acreage bases will be the average of the acres planted and considered planted to wheat for the 1983 and 1984 crops, according to Davis.

U.S. wheat production for 1984/85 is forecast at 2.54 billion bushels, 100 million bushels above 1983/84. Agriculture officials say the larger production comes at a time of declining exports. Because current supplies are large relative to use, farm prices for the 1984 crop will probably average near the $3.30 a bushel loan rate. The target price is $4.38 per bushel for this season, so wheat growers who participated in the 1984 acreage reduction program will likely earn another large deficiency payment.

Further details of the 1985 wheat program may be obtained from the local County ASCS office.

HOUSING AFFORDABILITY INDEX
An index number gives you an immediate handle on where the value of something stands at the present moment. For many years, the stock market has had indexes, such as Dow Jones, so you could judge the overall position of the stock market at a glance.
Well, after many, many years, the housing market now has an index too. It is called the Housing Affordability Index and it is published monthly by the National Association of Realtors. It shows the relationship between the median family income and the median priced home.
Assuming housing affordability to be 25% of gross income, the index would read 100 in a month when the median family income could purchase the median priced home. An index figure of 80 would indicate that the median family income was 20% below that needed to buy the median priced home for a particular month.
Now you can forget the index because every home has a buyer at the right price. We deal with people and property and no two are alike.

Farmers Urged To Get Involved In Farm Bill

One of the major priorities for Maryland Farm Bureau this year is the '85 Farm Bill, according to Henry Holloway, Bureau president. "Every farmer, regardless of his commodity, will be affected by the Farm Bill that comes out of congress next year," he said. "Many non-farm groups are already lobbying Congress for their pet gripes, and if farmers don't really get involved in this one, we will all suffer."

Martha Clark, State Women's Committee Chairman, said, "I think it is imperative that we work together closely on the direction of our 1985 Farm Bill. Writing the farm bill will be an extremely difficult task, and I personally feel that the old adage, 'the squeaky wheel gets the oil' will far outweigh the responsible foresight needed to set American agriculture on a stable-economic, philosophic and physical course."

The Maryland Farm Bureau is sponsoring three work sessions on the 1985 Farm Bill, located in three different locations for members' convenience, designed to provide information and knowledge about farm programs. These are scheduled for September 10 at the Talbot Ag Center, on Rt. 50 in Easton; September 11 at the Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis; and September 12 at the Mt. Pleasant Fire Hall, Crum Road, Mt. Pleasant. All sessions are scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Following these sessions, each county will have one or more meetings to discuss resolutions, and members are urged to attend. Everyone is being reminded by Holloway that if farmers seem too busy with farm problems, and should the Farm Bill get written by consumers and/or environmentalists, farmers may not have any more "farm problems!"

For more information, members can call Garrett County Farm Bureau president, Clark Kolb, 826-8484, or the Maryland Farm Bureau office, 922-3426.

Anyone wishing to attend the American Farm Bureau Federation Convention in Hawaii January 7-10 should get their reservations in to the Maryland Farm Bureau office as soon as possible. Maryland Farm Bureau members will be staying at the Sheraton Waikiki, the main convention hotel. Also available will be entertainment, island farm visits, pre- and post-convention tours, and study missions to the South Pacific and Orient. Base cost of the trip is $938.50 per person, double occupancy, but may vary if airline rates change. A deposit of $160.00 is required to guarantee a reservation.

Area Young Farmers are urged by the county Bureau to compete in the State Young Farmer Discussion Meet to be conducted during the Maryland Farm Bureau Convention in Hagerstown, December 2-5.

Deadline to enter is September 15. The winner will receive a free trip to the AFBF Convention in Hawaii in January.

FOOD NOTES

With beef prices down, the wise consumer should take advantage of the situation and serve a variety of cuts now and freeze some for use later when costs are higher. In order to be a smart shopper when purchasing beef, one needs to get to know the many different cuts available and consider all of them, even those less familiar ones. A buyer who wants to stretch the food dollar will buy beef cuts from the chuck, round, shank and short plate. Here's a beef recipe that you will enjoy:

GARDEN BEEF KABOBS
2 to 3 pounds beef sirloin tip
1 cup Italian salad dressing
2 to 3 medium sized carrots, cut in 1-inch pieces
2 medium-sized zucchini squash, cut in 1-inch pieces
4 15-inch metal skewers

Place beef cubes in plastic bag or bowl, pour Italian salad dressing over them and stir to coat. Close bag securely or cover bowl and marinate in refrigerator 6 hours or overnight. Pre-off and reserve marinade. Thread beef cubes on skewers alternately with carrots and zucchini. Brush vegetables with marinade and place skewers on grill. Broil at moderate temperature for 10 to 15 minutes, depending on degree of doneness desired, turning and brushing with marinade occasionally.

Judy Haley And Thomas Stewart Wed August 25 In Sistersville

Judy Lynn Haley became the bride of Thomas E. Stewart in a double-ring candlelight ceremony Saturday, August 25, at the First United Methodist Church, Sistersville, West Virginia. The Reverend Jeff Lovely officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lillian M. Sebree of Morgantown and Dennis O. Haley of Sistersville. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Joe Stewart of Sistersville.

Music selections were provided during the ceremony by Nyla Kelly, organist, and Brenda Haney, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a floor-length white Alfred Angelo embroidered gown of bridal silk taffeta featuring a shirred, ruffled off-the-shoulder neckline with silk organza roses. Venise appliques of lace trimmed with seed pearls and iridescent crystals accented the fitted bodice. Wedgwood lace ruffles and silk organza roses accented the hemline of a flowing cathedral-length train of double bridal silk taffeta which fell from a basque waistline.

The bride wore a Camelot headpiece of seed pearls and lace from which fell a cathedral-length silk illusion veil and blusher. The veil, with appliques and borders of Alencon lace, was adorned with silk orange roses with bows of pearls. She carried a flowing silk cascade of large white sweetheart roses, lily of the valley, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was JoLynn White of Sistersville. Bridesmaids were Rhonda Burton of New Martinsville, Carol Haley, half-sister of the bride, and Malee Haley of Lewistown, Pa., sister-in-law of the bride. Flower girl was Michelle Haley, niece of the bride.

The main of honor and bridesmaids wore floor-length light peach gowns of silk taffeta with off-the-shoulder necklines. Their headpieces were rings of miniature peach roses and azaleas with baby's breath and they carried nosegays of peach and mint green roses and azaleas accented with baby's breath, bunny tails and satin streamers. The flower girl wore a long white dress adorned with peach ribbon at the neck and waist.

The mother of the bride wore a long gown of oriental seaspray brocade. The mother of the groom wore a long peach gown with a capelet of chiffon. Their flowers were miniature roses.

Best man was Jim Stewart of Charlestown, W. Va., brother of the groom.

Ushers were Craig Eddy, Jeff Moore and Mike Wells, all of Sistersville.

Registering guests were Jennifer Stewart, sister of the groom.

A buffet reception at the Sistersville Country Club followed the ceremony.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the Wills Inn, given by the groom's parents.

The bride carried three silk apricot long-stemmed roses. The matron of honor, junior bridesmaids and flower girls all carried baskets with a profusion of silk apricot flowers.

Fall Estimated Tax Payment Due September 17

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reminds 194,000 individual income taxpayers with estimated tax accounts that this year, their third quarter payment is due September 17, about one month earlier than in previous years.

The comptroller explained, "The 1984 session of the Maryland General Assembly changed the due date for the third quarter estimated payment from October 15 to September 15, beginning in 1984. Since September 15, 1984, falls on a Saturday, the due date this year is Monday, September 17.

"We notified each affected taxpayer with a postcard in August, because the previous due date of October 15, 1984, is printed on the 3rd quarter voucher in the 1984 Estimated Tax Packet, which was mailed to taxpayers well before the law was changed," Goldstein said.

While the due date for the third quarter payment has changed, the payment period is still the same three month period of July, August and September. With the changed due date, Maryland's schedule for estimated tax payments now conforms completely with the federal schedule.

Goldstein noted that taxpayers who made a first or second quarter estimated payment will receive the notification of change, even though they may not need to make a third quarter payment.

Individuals who don't have taxes withheld by an employer must estimate taxes due and pay on a quarterly installment basis.

Maryland Closes Fiscal Year With Surplus

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said the State of Maryland closed Fiscal Year 1984, on June 30, 1984, with an unobligated general fund surplus of $16,653,167. "The $16.6 million unobligated surplus means that Maryland is operating in the black, but the surplus is not even enough to operate the state for one day," Goldstein stated. "Based on the Fiscal Year 1985 budget of more than $6.9 billion, the State of Maryland is spending $19 million per day, $13,254 per minute and $221 per second."

The comptroller noted that Maryland's surplus seems modest in comparison with Virginia's $117 million surplus and Pennsylvania's $76 million surplus.

"We had estimated the surplus to be approximately $4.5 million, but a surge in corporation income tax revenue late in the fiscal year and continued growth in sales tax revenue provided an additional $32.5 million in unanticipated revenue," Goldstein said. "State agencies also returned $4 million more than expected to the treasury as unspent funds at the close of the fiscal year."

From these funds, the General Assembly appropriated $1.5 million to help fund the Fiscal Year 1985 state budget, and the state used an additional $22.8 million to carry out recommendatins of the bond rating agencies and Maryland's independent auditors. These recommendations principally relate to funding for the state's long-term retirement obligation and more fully implementing generally accepted accounting principles in the federal Title XIX program and income tax refunds.

"Maryland has been a leader among the states in taking these kinds of steps to protect its credit rating and the taxpayers of the state, and to provide sound fiscal management and financial integrity," Goldstein said.

He said Maryland's surplus came primarily as a result of the improving economy that sent sales tax revenue booming and improved corporate profits that increased corporate income tax revenue.

"Corporation income tax revenue produced $85.9 million for the general fund, or $16.8 million more than was estimated. Most of this additional revenue came in during the closing months of Fiscal Year 1984, and directly reflects the improved profits picture for corporations," Goldstein said. "Individual income tax revenue lagged behind estimates for the first ten months of the fiscal year, closing the year only three one-hundreths of one percent above estimates."

Sales and use tax revenues, the second largest source of general fund revenue, totaled $988.3 million, or $16.1 million more than the revenue estimate, reflecting a recovery in the construction industry and the growth of consumer confidence.

"Revenues from the building and contractors category of sales tax collections grew by nearly 26.8% over the previous year, while the closely related furniture, fixtures and appliances category grew by nearly 22%. This reflects the improved construction market during Fiscal Year 1984, especially in new homes," Goldstein said.

Net State Lottery revenues amounted to $209.6 million while earnings from interest on state investments totaled $36 million. Both figures were the same as the amount estimated.

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our Tara Lynne Tasker who passed away one year ago today, September 8, 1983. "I'll lend you for a little while a child of mine God said." "For you to love the while she lives and mourn for when she's dead." It may be one or two years or forty-two or three; but will you, till I call her back, take care of her for me? She'll bring her charms to gladden you and should her stay be brief, you'll have lonely memories to comfort you in your time of grief. I can't promise she will stay since all from earth return. But the lessons taught below I want this child to learn. I've looked the whole world over, in search for teachers true and from the things that crowd life's lane, I've chosen you. Will you give her all your love? And think the labor vain! And hate me when I come to take this lent child back again. I fancied that I heard them say "Dear Lord, Thy will be done for the joys thy child will bring the risk of grief will run." We will shelter her with tenderness, we'll love her while we may and for the happiness we've known forever grateful stay. But should thy angels call for her much sooner than we've planned, we'll brave the grief that comes and try to understand. Thy will be done this child you lent to us.
Sadly missed and loved by her family

VOLUME 107 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1984 | PER COPY 25¢

THE MISTS OF AUTUMN have already taken over the valleys and hollows of the mountaintop, reminding Garrett Countians that summer is running its course once again. Many areas of the county experienced another preview of autumn late last week as early frosts threatened gardens. Determined gardeners brought out protective blankets to give tomatoes and other tender plants a few weeks reprieve. Despite regrets about summer's passing, residents and visitors to the mountaintop enjoyed the clear crispness of the air, a brilliant harvest moon, and the special beauty of the county's farmlands as oats harvesting and final haymaking testified to the fruitfulness of our county.

Administrators Of County Roads Dept. Resign

Ken Metheny and Earl Foster, Garrett County roads administrator and assistant administrator, have resigned their positions effective September 28, the Board of County Commissioners announced Tuesday. They have held those positions since 1981.

The two top roads officials submitted letters of resignation Tuesday while meeting with the commissioners regarding routine roads matters. The commissioners said the resignation were for "personal reasons."

Commissioner Ernest Gregg expressed total shock in announcing the resignations. "Those two gentlmen have done a very good job under difficult circumstances. The roads department has fit into the mold the commissioners have attempted to shape. It has made tremendous strides under those two men. There may be some battle fatigue involved here," Gregg commented.

Commissioner Elwood Groves called Foster and Metheny "tremendously sincere and highly motivated. We owe a lot in our reduced tax rate to their work in the roads department," he said, expressing "deep regret" in accepting the resignations.

Commissioner John Braskey, who had commended the two earlier in the day for the successful completion of the Limestone Bridge under the budgeted amount, and for generally doing a good job, said he was upset at the resignations, and repeated his praise for "the wonderful job they did."

The commissioners met late into the night Wednesday evening to discuss strategy for filling the two positions, and suggested Tuesday that a restructuring of the roads department was among the alternatives being considered.

Earlier Tuesday, while meeting with the commissioners, Metheny reported that the summer paving program had come in about $22,000 under budget, and suggested a number of alternatives for spending the surplus funds from that project, as well as the approximately $15,000 saved on the Limestone Bridge. Among the alternatives suggested was conducting a test of several paving mixes on a one mile stretch of Trap Run Road.

Hopes For Conference Center Here Squelched By Gov. Hughes, DNR

Hopes that Garrett County would be the site chosen for an all-season western Maryland conference center were squelched Monday when Gov. Harry Hughes endorsed a site at Rocky Gap State Park in Allegany County.

Hughes' decision was confirmed after the governor met with DNR Secretary Dr. Torrey Brown to review the secretary's recommendation in the matter. A request for proposal will now be developed to see if a private developer will build a 250 to 350-room conference center on state-owned land. The developer would lease the site from the state and the county where the conference center is located will receive a percentage of the gross receipts of the business.

In the 1984 General Assembly session, legislators authorized spending $250,000 to plan, design and construct a conference facility on state property in western Maryland. A $10,000,000 bond issue had first been sought.

In June 1983, Sen. John Bambacus and Del. George Edwards met with Dr. Brown to ask that this county be included in a feasibility study to examine potential state sites for a recreation-type facility. Both legislators urged consideration of the county because of its year-round recreation base and for the economic boost it would provide to the area.

In early November of that year, requests for proposals for a market reconnaisance were sent to four major mid-east cities. A firm was chosen from Annapolis but no go-ahead to begin the analysis was given. Instead the state postponed that segment of the study until a market analysis could be completed. The decision to put the site study contract on hold was made by DNR at the suggestion of Douglass A. McGregor, chairman of the Western Maryland Enterprise Development Task Force.

At that time, DNR emphasized that the delay was merely to gather market research information before completing the site study.

Later the county commissioners requested that Garrett continue to be included in the consideration for a state-subsidized conference center but pointed out that such a venture would be in direct competition with two similar projects planned by developers in the Deep Creek Lake area.

In June the county commissioners were informed that both Deep Creek State Park and Rocky Gap State Park had been recommended for study by the Western Maryland Enterprise Task Force.

Despite further correspondence on the matter, the commissioners heard nothing further until Monday's announcement that DNR supports the Rocky Gap site.

Mike Nelson, DNR liaison for western Maryland, said Monday there were "a substantial number of constraints" at Deep Creek which worked against the site, including "insufficient land to accommodate the center without a negative impact to park management" and "a severely taxed sewerage system." Nelson also mentioned a wish to "not create unnecessary competition for an existing resort at Deep Creek."

Nelson pointed out Deep Creek Lake State Park is "not

County Man Gets Life Sentences For Double Murder

Dennis Leroy Crowe, Sr., 35, Finzel, was given two life sentences by Washington County Circuit Court Judge Fred Wright after pleading guilty to the murder of his estranged wife, Lois Faye Crowe, and William Walter Eichorn of Frostburg.

Mrs. Crowe and Eichorn were shot at Eichorn's home in Frostburg October 23, 1983. Eichorn was pronounced dead at the scene and Mrs. Crowe died four days later as a result of the gunshot wound.

In a plea bargain, Allegany County State's Attorney Robert W. Hamilton, agreed the state would not seek the death penalty. Also, two counts of the use of a handgun in the commission of a crime were dismissed.

Lawrence V. Kelly, defense attorney, said Crowe had been despondent about financial matters and the deteriorating state of his marriage and that he believed his wife was romantically involved with Eichorn.

According to Hamilton, Crowe could be eligible for parole in 15 years.

Because the state had earlier indicated it would seek the death penalty for Crowe, the case was automatically moved to Hagerstown from Allegany County.

Savage River To Be U.S. Candidate For Whitewater World Championship

The Savage River in Garrett County has been officially designated as the United States' candidate to host the 1989 Wildwater World Championships, it was announced by Cindy Kutchman, director of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council Monday.

The Promotion Council received word of the selection late last week. The Savage River and Wausau, Wisconsin were the two final areas under consideration by the National Slalom and Wildwater Committee of the American Canoe Association.

The International Canoe Federation will meet in October to select the World Championship site. Other countries under consideration to host the event are Switzerland, Spain and Yugoslavia.

Susan Chamberlain, president of the American Canoe Association, met with the board of County Commissioners Tuesday to discuss the county's support for the hosting of the Championships. She was accompanied by Jim Raleigh, a member of the sub-committee that is providing assistance to Garrett County in preparing its bid to host the World Championships, Elizabeth Hayman, chairman of the sub-committee, and her sister Mimi Demaree, Friendsville resident and co-owner of the Demaree Inflatable Boat Co., Friendsville. Tom Jones, county development director, and Kutchman also attended the meeting.

Combined Offices Of Assessments "A Dead Issue"

A proposal by State Superintendent of Assessments Joe Szabo to combine the assessment offices for Garrett and Allegany Counties into a single regional office is probably already a dead issue, according to James Margroff, supervisor of assessments for Garrett County.

Margroff told the Board of County Commissioners Tuesday that in a telephone conversation Tuesday morning, Szabo told him that the inability of the two counties' boards of commissioners to agree on a location for the office makes the issue dead, as far as he is concerned.

Margroff and Szabo met with the Garrett County Board of Commissioners last week in executive session to discuss the possible combining of offices in Grantsville, which had been determined to be most centrally located to serve the two counties.

However, Allegany County Commissioners said Monday that they were willing to see the combined office located in Frostburg, but opposed the Garrett County location.

The Garrett County Commissioners are equally opposed to locating the office in Allegany county.

Commissioner Elwood Groves commented on the proposed move Tuesday, saying, "I commend Mr. Szabo's desire to save money and make government more efficient, but the timing leaves much to be desired," he said, referring to a decision this week by Governor Harry Hughes to support the location of a state-subsidized conference center in Allegany County despite opposition from Garrett County officials who feel it will compete unfairly with private-sector development plans in Garrett County.

Judge Thayer Rules Ad Valorem Taxes Collectable

Chief Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer has ruled that ad valorem taxes in Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn are collectable and enforceable.

In making his decision, the judge said that the complaint filed by Mayor Russell Alexander of Mt. Lake Park and Mayor Charles Tressler of Loch Lynn in 1981 was dismissed. The mayors had asked an injunction to keep county treasurer Arzella Parsons from collecting ad valorem taxes on the towns' water and sewer system which is under the jurisdiction of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission. Costs will be charged to the defendants, the county commissioners and the sanitary commission.

The two municipalities had sought a permanent injunction from imposition and collection of the taxes for repayment of monies borrowed for the acquisition, construction and improvement of the Mt. Lake Park/Loch Lynn water rehabilitation project and for construction of the Trout Run sewerage treatment facility.

According to the judge's findings, the plaintiffs raised three basic issues, contending that the sanitary district was not validly created and amended; that the water rehabilitation bond issue was flawed because the county commissioners did not specifically approve issuance of the bonds; and challenging that the levy process adopted by the county commissioners in imposing ad valorem taxes for both projects.

Judge Thayer's 18-page opinion, issued September 10, cites numerous legal precedent in the state. At one point, he brought up the fact that at one time the town of Mt. Lake Park

DNR Secretary Draws Wrath Over Yough Proposal

Department of Natural Resources Secretary Dr.. Torrey Brown has drawn the wrath of Garrett county officials following Brown's statement Monday that he is going to abolish the present composition of the Youghiogheny River local advisory board.

Sen. John Bambacus said Tuesday morning that he had talked with Brown and that Brown indicated at that time he would have legislation introduced to abolish the present membership and have an 11-member board appointed.

Brown is apparently miffed because two of his suggested members have been rejected on the nine-member advisory board by the local county commissioners. The commissioners are opposed to appointment of Jack Fridinger and Jack King, which would make an unwieldly 11-member panel. This issue is presently stalemated as neither side will compromise.

The commissioners and elected officials are also concerned

Tourism Effort Eyed By W. Md. Commissioners

A regional effort to promote Western Maryland tourism and landfill problems were the main topics of discussion at last Thursday's meeting of Western Maryland County Commissioners at the Will O' the Wisp on Deep Creek Lake.

The five-county association discussed a proposal to institute a cooperative effort to promote tourism in the area. Participating counties would be asked to contribute $10,000 each to fund the project.

The association voted to consider the proposal, with Garrett, Frederick and Carroll Counties wanting to see a specific plan before committing funds to the project.

The association's Tourism Development Committee will develop a more specific plan for consideration at a future meeting of the association.

Allegany and Washington County Commissioners expressed support for the project. "United we stand, divided we fall," was the comment of Francis Philpot, Allegany County Commissioner.

Commissioner Elwood Groves said that discussion of landfills brought to light similar problems experienced by all the counties in that area. Among the common problems he mentioned were the location of suitable landfill sites, obtaining approval from the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene for those sites, and disposal of bulky items such as old tires and tree stumps.

"We all face a real challenge with the disposal of tires," Groves said. "After tires are covered with dirt in the ordinary way, they tend to re-

Carl Belt Gets State Highway Contract For Keyser Ridge Job

A $464,000 contract for improvements to the State Highway Administration's Keyser's Ridge Maintenance Facility in Garrett County is being awarded to Carl Belt, Inc., of Cumberland. Work will begin within the next six weeks. The contractor will have approximately four months in which to complete the project.

The improvements, which include the installation of an impervious membrane and paving on the salt storage pad, construction of a salt storage dome to supplement the existing facilities, and the installation of concrete drainage ditches, will protect SHA's salt supply from the weather and prevent salt from being dissolved by rain or snow and absorbed in the soil.

This is one of the steps being taken by the State Highway Administration to help reduce the levels of chloride that have been found in wells in the Keyser's Ridge, Grantsville and Finzel areas of Garrett County. T. Wallace Beaulieu, SHA's District Engineer for Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties, has been working with State Highway Administrator Hal Kassoff, Dr. A. Haleem Tahir, Deputy Chief Engineer for Materials and Research, and William B. Greene, Chief of SHA's Bureau of Soils and Foundations, to examine the Administration's policies and practices regarding the use of salt in snow removal.

On August 20, Beaulieu and Dr. Tahir met with highway engineers from neighboring areas of Pennsylvania and West Virginia to explore other maintenance management systems and snow removal technology. Although SHA staff will continue to research other states' procedures for possible application in Maryland, some actions have already been taken, the SHA reports.

This winter a mix of salt and abrasives will be used on state highways in Garrett County. Road crews will receive special instruction and supervision to ensure that excessive amounts of salt are not used. Strict housekeeping practices will be enforced at storage facilities to contain salt supplies in environmentally secure areas.

These measures will be taken with the objective of minimizing the effects of salt on the soil and water in the future. Meanwhile, SHA is investigating the extent of the problem and its causes in the three areas where the water is found to be contaminated, and is reportedly undertaking appropriate corrective actions.

At the request of residents, SHA's Bureau of Soils and Foundations began testing water samples in the Keyser's

Va. Man Drowns While Swimming In Resort Pool

Howard Hay Smith, 77, Falls Church, Va., drowned September 6 in the Alpine Village Resort swimming pool as other guests were unable to save him.

According to the Maryland State Police, Smith, reportedly a strong swimmer, apparently drowned after swimming for approximately 15 minutes. An unidentified man reportedly saw Smith two feet under the water in the eight-foot section of the pool then watched the man's body sink to the bottom. The man attempted to dive in to retrieve Smith but was unable to do so. The victim's wife, also present, was also unable to render assistance.

The Southern Rescue Squad responded to the scene and a member of the crew, George Brady, recovered Mr. Smith's body. Garrett County Medical Examiner, Dr. James H. Feaster, was summoned and pronounced Mr. Smith dead at the scene at 4 p.m. Dr. Feaster ordered the body be taken to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland for an autopsy, which revealed that Smith had died from accidental drowning.

Cpl. Gary Berkebile reported that the victim's wife had stated that her husband had been taking medication for high blood pressure.

McHenry Area Community Park Dedicated Sunday

Dedication ceremonies were held Saturday, September 8, for the McHenry Area Community Park conducted by the members of the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club, sponsoring organization for the park.

Lion Bill Baker, from the Oakland Club, was master of ceremonies. A number of dignitaries were present including John N. Bambacus, state senator; George Edwards, state legislator; Ray Johnson and wife, from the state's Program Open Space division; John Braskey, county commissioner; and Wayne Fratz, mayor of Accident.

Stanley Clark, pastor of the United Methodist Church at McHenry, gave the invocation and benediction.

Kathy K. Sines, Winterfest Queen, christened the park with a bottle of champagne, and also threw out the first ball for the softball game between the Deep Creek Lions and members of the Deep Creek Lake Volunteer Fire Department. That game was won by the firemen by a score of 11-7.

Hot dogs and drinks were served by the Lions club members.

Special thanks were given to the Coca-Cola Bottling Company, represented by John Ackerman, for donating a scoreboard for the park and for the soft drinks provided for the dedication.

Paul E. Miller, president of the Deep Creek Lions Club, also thanked everyone who participated in the dedication ceremonies and those who attended, as well as the club members who helped build the park.

Commission Discusses Kitzmiller, Shallmar, Upper Yough Projects

The Kitzmiller and Shallmar water projects, Upper Youghiogheny sewer rehabilitation, and Shady Acres water line were topics for the Garrett County Sanitary Commission at its September 4 meeting.

Contractors for Kitzmiller, Frank Arnold Construction and H.J. Schneider, have encountered no serious problems with their work so far.

Currently their crews are working on the water storage tank site and the treatment plant site, as well as putting in lines in the upper portion of town.

A temporary easement has been obtained from a property owner to allow construction access to the water storage tank site, and the sanitary commission is hopeful this easement would be made permanent. The steep slope on the original easement could contribute to safety problems entering and leaving the site, according to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator.

Shallmar

The commission had sought engineering proposals for the Shallmar water system to bring the town into compliance with an order from the state health department but did not make a final choice on the engineer as yet.

A recent letter from state officials indicate that the state will fund 87½ percent of the costs for the system, subject to final approval by the Maryland Board of Public Works.

Upper Yough

Morgan France of Franklin Associates has submitted preliminary designs for the sewer rehabilitation program in and around Shady Acres, Mtn. Lake Park, and Bausch and Lomb. At Tuesday's meeting France pointed out several items he feels should be included in the scope of work. The commission basically agreed with France's recommendations and gave the engineer the go-ahead to proceed with final design of the system.

Shady Acres

The commission members had previously accepted the low bid from Potomac Engineering to design a water system for the Southern Garrett Industrial Park, and gave formal notice to proceed to Potomac Engineering Tuesday.

Board Defers Patterson Opinion

Members of the Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals decided last Thursday to defer further action in the case of Mrs. Betty Friend, owner of Patterson Boat Company on Harvey's Peninsula, until the board has a chance to review the information provided in the case.

In other action Thursday night, the board approved four other cases and denied one request for a variance.

The Patterson Boat case had been remanded to the zoning board by Circuit Court Judge L. Frederick Sharer, who found that the board was not in compliance with procedures outlined in the ordinance when they granted a special exception to park boats on trailers on a lot owned by Mrs. Friend and her husband in the Enterprise Vacation Homes subdivision.

Their original decision to grant permission was appealed by a group of Harvey's Peninsula residents but Judge Sharer said in his statement that it appeared evidence was ample to support the board decision against the Harvey's Peninsula residents who filed the appeal.

However, the ordinance requires that three members must concur in a decision. In the Patterson case, two members affirmed the decision against the appellants and a third gave a negative reply.

The matter will be taken up again at the October 4 meeting.

Called to the meeting to assist with procedural matters was zoning board attorney Linda Shirbin. Also present was Mary Naylor Bennett, chairman of the Garrett County Ethics committee, to ensure that procedures were carried out in an ethical manner.

Acting chairman Dr. William Savage said at one point during the session devoted to the Patterson case that he was "very offended by charges the client (Walter O'Brien and others) has made regarding cronyism." Dr. Savage said the board's decision was reached after a lot of soul searching, and his opinion was backed up by zoning board member Irving Day.

Testifying for the boat company were Mrs. Friend and her husband Richard, who said that most of the material recently referred to as "junk" by the opposition is materials to be used by the boat company, but that it can be moved. The Friends also said that they have deferred planting a second row of pine trees until the zoning board has made a final decision. Testifying in their behalf was Robert Fleming, Pittsburgh.

The appellants were represented by Attorney Stephen Fielder who asked that some reasonable limit on use of the lot, zoned residential, should be set forth. Letters giving negative testimony were read from Walter O'Brien, Theodore Zurinsky, Melvin Whitefield and Robert Keener.

Decisions Made

A request made by Jonathan Kessler that his property in the Paradise Gardens subdivision can be divided by a road was granted by the board. The board approved the concept he broached that two of the lots can be divided by a road through the property.

Another segment of the request for a variance, for back lot use of a common area, was dropped until after lake regulations are adopted.

Jonathan Eckhart was given approval of his request for a variance from the rear yard setback requirements. However, the board attached the condition that Eckhart move his proposed house back 15 feet from the Penelec line instead of 12 feet.

The zoning board also approved a request by James Railey to build 27 additional townhouse units on the Railey property north of the Route 219 bridge. The board requested Railey to move the units closer to the eight condo units originally planned for the land, suggesting that Railey use 27 acres close to Route 219 for his site.

A request for a variance made by Randy Williams on behalf of the estate of Fannbel Reider was denied. The board felt that Williams did not prove extreme hardship if he is not allowed to establish 11 lots along Marsh Hill Road. He had proposed to divide by lots by Marsh Hill Road.

A final application by James Railey, Jr. to relocate Railey Realty to another portion of the Railey property north of its current site along Route 219 was granted. The vote was split three to two.

Zoning members participating Thursday were Dr. Savage, Day, John Marple, James Hull and William Heise. John Nelson, county zoning administrator, assisted in conducting the meeting and recorded the proceedings.

Diabetes Group To Meet Monday

The next meeting of the Garrett County Diabetes Association will be held Monday, September 17, at 7:30 p.m. at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland.

The speaker will be Richard Diamond, sales representative for the Roerig Pharmaceutical Company. His topic will be "The Advantages of Second Generation Oral Hypoglycemics."

Free blood sugar testing will also be available.

The public is invited to attend.

Two Remain Hospitalized After Accidents

Two men remain hospitalized following a motorcycle accident and an automobile accident, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police this week.

David Eugene Greer, 31, Grantsville, is listed in "stable" condition at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland as a result of injuries sustained Sunday evening when the 750 Honda he was operating collided with a 1984 Chevrolet Citation operated by Curtis Burdette Bolen, 74, East Millsboro, Pa.

Bolen reportedly pulled onto Route 40 from the parking lot at the Hilltop Fruit Market causing Greer's motorcycle to strike the front fender of the automobile. Greer was then thrown into an embankment. Medevac transported Greer to the hospital.

Tfc. Dale K. Williams investigated the accident and charged Bolen with failure to stop and yield right of way to another vehicle.

Robert Allen Tasker, 29, Reedsville, W.Va., is listed in "good" condition following an automobile accident Friday on Route 219 south at 10:25 a.m. Tasker received numerous fractures of his lower extremities when the 1983 Dodge Colt he was operating crossed the center line, striking a 1979 Chevrolet pickup owned by Hawkinson Tread Service and operated by Larry Eugene Shoemaker, 27, Swanton. The collision caused the Tasker vehicle to come to rest on an embankment.

Tfc. Dale K. Williams is investigating and charges are pending.

In a motorcycle mishap which occurred Monday at 4 p.m., Paul Glenn Helsel, 18, Johnstown, Pa., was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad where he was treated and released. While turning onto U.S. Route 219 from Deep Creek Drive, Helsel reportedly lost control of his Yamaha motorcycle when the front wheel left the ground, throwing Helsel to the pavement as the motorcycle overturned.

Cpl. E.D. Selby charged Helsel with failure to possess a driver's license.

The Maryland State Police also investigated a mishap involving Deputy David Lee Crossland, 31, Oakland. Crossland reportedly hit a deer with the 1982 Garrett County Sheriff's Department patrol car Monday at 1:15 a.m. The vehicle sustained minor damages and no charges were filed.

Special Needs Children Sought By School Board

The Garrett County Board of Education is currenty looking for handicapped children from birth to age 20 who have not been in school to make their parents aware of the educational programs available to them through the county school system, according to Al Coviello, director of pupil services.

"Early enrollment in an educational program can be extremely important to the future educational progress of a handicapped child. We urge parents who think their child may have special needs to contact the Board of Education while their child is still very young, rather than waiting until he or she approaches school age," commented Coviello, who added that the school board is currently in the process of expanding its early education programs for the severely handicapped children in cooperation with the Head Start Program.

The program "Child Find" is designed to search out young people who are blind, deaf, physically handicapped, emotionally disturbed, mentally retarded, or with learning disabilities.

"Child Find" is a comprehensive statewide campaign to locate handicapped children, to counsel and advise their families, and to provide special education for the child.

Persons who have a handicapped child or know of one that is not receiving an educational program are asked to call the Garrett County Board of Education at 334-8121 and ask for Coviello, Sarah Wilson, or William Carlson.

School Board Agenda Noted

The Garrett County Board of Education will meet today at 2:15 to consider the establishment of a policy of tobacco use by non-students in Board of Education facilities, as well as a number of other matters.

Following executive session beginning at 1:15 p.m., the board will deal with instructional concerns, including a report on the county results of the Maryland Functional Writing Test taken by ninth graders in the spring of this year.

Reports will also be heard on the Career/Employability Program, the impact of academic requirements on extra-curricular participation, and on the Values Education Program.

At 3:35, the board will take up administrative concerns, including the use of tobacco in school board facilities by non-students. Also on the administrative agenda are the FY 1986 capital improvement program, a discussion of the Board of Education meetings for the 1984-85 year, status of the Southern High School Open Space Project, and coal bid awards for the Dennett Road School.

At 4:50 p.m., the board will discuss personnel concerns, followed by public comment.

Local Man Jailed; Charged With Theft, Forgery

An Oakland man remains incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond, after being charged with theft and forgery Monday by the Maryland State Police.

Lynn Duane Hewitt, 53, was arrested for allegedly taking guns, money, tools, jewelry, clothing, stereo equipment, liquor and two social security checks belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Lewis Tuel. Hewitt is the step-son of Mr. Tuel and the adopted son of Mrs. Tuel.

Hewitt was also arrested for allegedly committing forgery at the Midtown office of First United National Bank and Trust on September 4.

The State Police are also investigating several other thefts reported to them recently.

William Edwin Leyda, Sr, 58 Gaithersburg, reported on August 30 that someone had stolen his 1973 Ford Mustang which was parked at his summer cottage on the White Oak Road. Tfc. G.R. Chaney is investigating the theft.

Another theft was reported on September 2 by Ronald Lee Brvenik, 37, Owings. Brvenik reported that someone had broken into his camper on the Oakland-Sang Run Road and removed a television, a portable generator, a garden sprayer and a five-gallon gas can. Loss is estimated at $745. Cpl. G.A Berkebile of the McHenry detachment is investigating.

Yet another theft was reported on September 2 by Bradley J. Lewis, 28, Oakland. Lewis stated that someone had removed a M1 carbine 30 caliber rifle from a closet at his residence. The gun is valued at $300. Tfc. David Broadwater is investigating the incident.

An attempted breaking and entering of the Maranatha Assembly of God Church in Grantsville was reported by Roger A. Brenneman, a member of that church. He stated that someone had broken the glass of a jalousie window located at the rear of the building to gain entrance. The attempt was apparently unsuccessful. Tfc. G.R. Chancy investigated.

Hunting, Fishing Day Set At GCC September 22

The second annual Garrett County National Hunting and Fishing Day Exposition will be held at the student center of Garrett Community College on Saturday, September 22, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the McHenry campus.

The event, which is part of a nationwide hunting and fishing day observance, is co-sponsored by the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service and GCC.

This year's theme is "Share the Outdoor Tradition" and the program is intended to encourage sportsmen and non-sportsmen to enjoy the outdoors and fish and wildlife resources. The activities will focus on the importance of conserving the resources and the vital role hunters and fishermen play in conservation through hunting license fees and special taxes on sporting equipment. These contributions pay for land acquisition and research and management of habitat for fish and wildlife, and benefit non-sportsmen as well as sportsmen.

September 22 will mark the 13th annual observance of National Hunting and Fishing Day. Last year more than 12 million Americans celebrated the event which was sponsored by over 3,000 sportsmen's organizations nationwide. Over 100 persons participated in the program at GCC last year.

Several exhibits and demonstrations will highlight the day's activities this year. Of particular interest will be demonstrations by local sportsmen on archery, hunting, muzzle loader rifles and tomahawk throwing, trapping, turkey calling, fly fishing, and reptile identification, including a live rattlesnake and copperhead exhibit.

There will be a local taxidermist present, along with representatives from the hunter safety program to provide information on classes; DNR police, Trout Unlimited, the Ruffed Grouse Society, the Maryland Wildlife Federation, Maryland Fur Trappers, Soil Conservation Service, Maryland Fisheries Administration, and the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service.

The program is open to the public without charge.

Any person or organization interested in having a display at National Hunting or Fishing Day or seeking further information may call Al Bourgeois at 334-4255 or Hugh Trimble at 387-6666.

FORGET-ME-NOT MONTH was proclaimed by the Board of County Commissioners in recognition of "the many sons and daughters who have fought bravely for our country and have demonstrated courageous devotion to our nation's quest for world peace, many of whom have suffered lasting disabilities." Each year the Maryland Disabled American Veterans conduct a sale of simulated Forget-Me-Not flowers during the month of September as reminders of the lasting debt of gratitude to all who served the nation in our wars for the maintenance of freedom. In proclaiming Forget-Me-Not Month, the commissioners recognized the fine services of the DAV and gave their support to its program. Pictured left to right standing are Bill Meyers, Commander of the Garrett County DAV, State Senator John Bambacus, and Hazel Meyers, Commander of the DAV Auxiliary. Seated, same order, are Commissioners Ernest Gregg, Elwood Groves, and John Braskey.

GCC Receives Job Training Skills Funding

Garrett Community College has announced it will receive additional monies this fall under the dislocated Workers Program for the purpose of providing job training skills for unemployed persons 16 years of age and older. These funds are made available through the State Department of Employment and Training and the Western Maryland JTPA Consortium. Funds will be used to pay tuition, books, and registration fees for eligible students.

The program is designed to re-train individuals who have lost their jobs and need new skills in order to secure employment. Students may elect to take both credit and non-credit courses which are vocationally oriented. Additional courses specifically designed for the dislocated worker will be offered throughout the semester as the need arises.

The final goal of the program is for each student to find job placement. Types of courses to be offered include: Pre-employment Skills Training, Geriatric Aide, Carpentry, Plumbing, Computers, Office Practice and Procedures, Underground and Surface Mining, Welding and GED Preparation.

Eligibility for the program is determined by the Western Maryland Consortium. Interested persons should contact the Consortium by calling 334-8445 and make an appointment for an interview. Although considered, income level is not a deciding factor for this program.

For additional information persons may contact Bonnie Swyter, Coordinator of Special Program, GCC Continuing Education Office, 334-8266.

Secession? . . .

It's a real kick in the teeth to local private developers, to the citizens of Garrett County and to all taxpayers in the state.

We refer, of course, to Governor Hughes' endorsement this week of the Rocky Gap State Park site in Allegany County for a state convention center rather than a site in Garrett County.

This was no big surprise to anyone. It wouldn't have been so bad if Garrett County had been given fair and equal consideration for the center. But the deck was so obviously stacked against us from the beginning by persons such as Benjamin L. Cardin, Maryland Speaker of the House; Governor Hughes and Torrey Brown, head of the Department of Natural Resources.

We are still enraged that not a single elected official from Garrett County was named by Mr. Brown to the special 15-member task force created to investigate and make a recommendation on the best site. Allegany County certainly had such representation on the committee. "An oversight" was the ridiculous excuse given Senator John Bambacus when he inquired as to why Garrett County had no similar representation.

We agree with County Commissioner John Braskey who said that this issue had been decided from the beginning and the "flim flam" study was a waste of the taxpayers' money.

We agree with Commissioner Ernie Gregg that the taxpayers of the state "will pay for the arbitrary decision by a handful of people."

We agree with Commissioner Groves that this is "a classic case of pork-barrel politics, where the state will be spending money to compete with private enterprise."

We are furious that the state is going to go ahead and spend millions of tax dollars when we have perhaps as many as three private developers who are willing to build the center. It is interesting that there are no developers clamoring to build a center in Rocky Gap. We are furious that the state is going to use tax dollars in direct competition with private enterprise. We are furious that our local economy is going to suffer since Rocky Gap State Park is now the furthest west that state conventions will ever be held.

We are convinced that Torrey Brown and the DNR, whose power in this state is frightening, were as much behind this decision as anyone. Frankly, many of us are extremely tired of Mr. Brown and the DNR tactics. The DNR does precisely what it wants to do, while giving the mistaken impression that it welcomes and uses public and local government input. In reality, the Deep Creek Lake Advisory Board, the Yough River Advisory Board and, indeed, Garrett County government, are a big joke to the DNR. They run whatever they desire down the throats of the Garrett County public, such as the Deep Creek Lake regulations and Yough River regulations. They successfully gutted the Yough River legislation introduced by Senator Bambacus and Delegate Edwards to the point that nothing remained intact except the local advisory board and Brown stated this week that he would see that this board is abolished.

We suspect that Mr. Brown is embarrassed and angry right now because the DNR's ill-prepared attorneys lost a case to a local lumber company which was allegedly harvesting lumber in a regulated area along the Yough River. Brown has been advised for the past several months that boundaries for the regulated areas needed to be established, but he never followed through and thus, the court ruled in favor of the defendant.

We also hope that the county commissioners do not blink an eye at rejecting the proposal that the six most western counties in the state go together on financing a tourism program. Guess which county's name is already on the short end of that stick.

Perhaps secession from the state might not be a bad idea. West Virginia would probably love to have us.

LINE-STANDERS
by Susan Alvarez

One needn't look far to understand the true nature of man. Just spend a little time observing people standing in line. Nowhere else on earth can a perfectly calm, mature adult be transformed into a raging, stomping maniac, clawing his way to that destination of destinations—the front of the line.

There are several categories of line-standers, each of which seems to propogate as the wait gets longer. First, you have the "poker." This line-stander is always in line behind you. Within milliseconds, the "poker" will have jabbed you in the back with a grocery cart, camera, umbrella, or whatever implement the "poker" happens to have in his possession. There are the vicious "pokers" who leave their victims black and blue.

In my opinion, the more annoying of the species is the "touchy." The "touchy" will just barely graze your back with a pencil, magazine, feather, etc. The critical rule for a "touchy" is to always maintain contact with the "pokee" in the lightest possible fashion. This is to ensure "touchy" that he's not poking hard enough to elicit a response from the victim, but that he is still being supremely annoying.

The next species is the "look-aheader." This line-stander spends every available minute stretching and straining to look ahead and see how far the line has moved. They are the first to bellow "MOVE IT UP!" if per chance a space of one to two feet appears anywhere in the line. The "look-aheader" invariably turns into a "look-behinder" as his position in line improves, as a "look-behinder's" greatest delight is seeing how far they've moved up in the line.

The all-time annoyer, though, is the "loudmouth." There is one in every line of any considerable length at any given time in the U.S. Why? They have a perfect set-up. The captive audience. Unfortunately for the audience, the "loudmouth" loves to launch a diatribe on the weather, politics, or most likely, themselves. Most "loudmouths" are intent on letting everyone in the line know what big shots they are. The loud "loudmouth" never stops to think that if he were such a big shot he wouldn't be standing in a line in the first place.

Now, remember the raging maniac I spoke of earlier? Alas, this pitiable being is neither the "poker," the "touchy," the "look-aheader," or the "loudmouth." Yes, the maniac is the unfortunate soul stuck standing in line next to one of them, wanting desperately to escape with his sanity intact.

25 Years Ago . . . We Remember

by Pam Ashby

A tragedy occurred here 25 years ago that is still fresh and painful in the hearts of those who remember.

On September 10, 1959, seven children lost their lives in a devastating bus-train crash in Loch Lynn.

Although every attempt was made to evacuate the school bus that had stalled on the railroad tracks, there wasn't enough time before the Diplomat, a passenger train, smashed into the side of the bus.

We need to remember the tragedy to keep us ever mindful of how quickly life can be taken from our children.

We, as drivers, must continue not only to observe the flashing school bus lights, but also to go one step further. There is always the possibility that one small child is still in the path of traffic, although the bus lights have stopped flashing. Or perhaps the child dropped a pencil or a prized piece of art work and will dart back into the street. Would you be prepared?

Awareness to what may happen is the key to safety for our children. They are depending on us.

Let us always think twice as we remember the children who lost their lives at tender ages.

Janet Deems, Nancy Deems, Merle Harvey, Nancy Harvey, Richard Hinkle, Shirley Lee, and Lee Hoffman—you are not forgotten.

Start Up, Testing Scheduled For Lake Sewer Plant

Start up and testing operations for the Deep Creek Lake sewer system treatment plant are expected between September 24 and 28 if all goes as planned, according to the Garrett County Sanitary Commission.

That board met last Tuesday to hear progress reports on the lake's basic sewer system presented by Henry Doyle and Jeff Gilbert, of Greenhorne and O'Mara. George Construction is scheduled to have the treatment plant complete by early October, while H.J. Schneider will have the pumping stations in contract 10 substantially complete by September 24.

Contract nine is 91 percent complete and contract 10 is now 95 percent complete. All the other eight contracts for the lake's basic system are complete.

Presently the engineers and the sanitary commission are reviewing the work of the eight contracts which are complete to see if problems have been completely resolved before the bonds expire.

UV Light Missing

Design engineer Tom Lash of Rummel, Klepper and Kahl is still trying to obtain proper submittals from the manufacturer and contractor on the ultra-violet light system for disinfection at the treatment plant.

A unit has been ordered and should arrive this week but the commission plans to make certain the unit is as requested before payment.

Public Meeting Set

A public information meeting on the final draft of the sewer rate study will be held September 27 at Garrett Community College. Engineer Lash presented the final draft to the sanitary commission members last Tuesday and the commission is examining the way monies will be obtained to pay off the debt and operate and maintain the system. It also sets forth the rates for all users of the system.

According to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator, the flat rate capital cost charges will be $800 up front or $77 a year of those initially on the system. Later users will have to pay the $800 charge up front. Ad valorem taxes will be imposed to pay off the debt for the surplus capacity of the system. This will average $20 per assessed property. Sewer service charges or operating and maintenance charges will be $148 per year.

Savage River

Hayman, who has been on World Championship teams in both wildwater and slalom events, will be working with Garrett County officials to conform the county's bid to host the championships to international specifications. The Board of County Commissiners recently approved the spending of $1,000 to hire Hayman to work on the proposal. She and Chamberlain will attend the ICF meeting in Bulgaria to promote the Savage River site.

The Commissioners expressed strong support for hosting the competition. "We are very enthusiastic about hosting the Championships. I'm sure we will be able to successfully host an event of this magnitude," said Commissioner John Braskey.

"We understand that this is a competitive situation. We want to indicate that we will actively go after the site location here, and will do anything possible to help," commented Commissioner Ernest Gregg.

"We are real pleased to be involved. This area has been truly blessed with natural beauty, and has an already active tourist industry that is growing and developing," said Commissioner Elwood Groves.

Following the meeting with the commissioners, the delegation met with Helmuth Heise, owner of Will O' the Wisp and the Wisp Ski area, who showed them plans for his proposed convention center.

A conference-type facility would probably be necessary to house the large influx of competitors, officials and spectators that the World Championships would attract.

The delegation toured the Deep Creek Lake area and visited the Savage River site, where Kutchman showed them proposed site improvements to allow for spectator viewing and other considerations.

Kutchman said that the response of the canoe association representatives was "very positive", and said that they were impressed with the area, the enthusiasm of county officials, and plans for improvements that are underway.

Yough Proposal

about Brown's promise that when an 11-member panel is approved, Brown will appoint six of the members and the county commissioners five.

Gov. Harry Hughes has apparently indicated that he will go along with whatever Secretary Brown proposes in the matter. His agreement was outlined Tuesday morning in a telephone conversation with Sen. John Bambacus on that issue and the Rocky Gap issue.

In that conversation, Brown mapped out plans to submit legislation which would effectively strip Yough landowners of any rights they gained in the 1984 session of the Maryland General Assembly.

Commissioner Elwood Groves, who is the commissioner representative on the advisory board, said at Tuesday's press conference that concurring with the membership of the advisory board is the only power local government has under the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act which governs the controversial corridor.

The issue of landowners' rights vs. DNR power to set laws in the corridor has been a sore point for nearly ten years. During the past two legislative sessions landowners banded together with Commissioner Groves and the county's elected legislators to try to gain property rights back from DNR control, but to little effect.

"It just seems to me that the DNR isn't satisfied in allowing local governments to do their parts and contribute in that way without having the DNR dictating to us and asking us to be a rubber stamp," Groves said bitterly.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg was even stronger in his negative comments about Brown's threat. "That w - - - wouldn't have the guts to call us . . . This is folly - sheer idiocy. We will continue to pressure DNR to explain to the public why they are doing this."

Sen. John Bambacus said Tuesday "We will be prepared to defend the rights of property owners and local government's rights in this area. It (Brown's proposal) shows a total arrogance of power. I am prepared to fight him all the way on this."

Sen. Bambacus concluded his remarks by saying "He is delaying and obstructing the process we thought would be fully in place by now."

Conference

close to a major airport or a major transportation corridor" and said the choice for Rocky Gap was made as a result of the enterprise task force's analysis of both sites.

Garrett busienssman Helmuth Heise had recently announced plans to provide a huge expansion at Wisp Ski area, including ski slopes and lifts, a hotel, single and multi-family residential development. John Brenneman presented the proposal to the planning commission last month.

Another developer has announced plans for a motel complex to be developed by Penn Point Associates on a site off Boy Scout Road.

It is expected to take a consultant about 60 days to complete the request for proposal. Enterprise Committee member Del. Casper Taylor (D., Washington, Allegany) said this will be in time for the 1985 General Assembly to consider additional bond money, perhaps $4 to $5 million, to build a golf course, riding trails and similar outside attractions to the Rocky Gap site.

Taylor and House of Delegates Speaker Benjamin Cardin were sponsors of the bond bill.

Taylor said Tuesday that Deep Creek attracts mainly Pittsburgh residents while the Rocky Gap resort would pull people from the Baltimore-Washington area and elsewhere and said that the Deep Creek and Rocky Gap resorts could coexist. One would complement the other, Taylor stated.

In contrast, Senate President Melvin Steinberg said that when built at Rocky Gap, the resort would give the state balance for tourist attractions and that Rocky Gap "would open up the marketplace to Pennyslvania as well as Baltimore-Washington people who want to go to a mountain resort. They know have to go to West Virginia or Pennsylvania." He added "I am very positive about this."

Disappointed But Not Surprised

Garrett County commissioners and legislators were sorely disappointed by Hughes' announcement Monday but all indicated that it came as no great surprise.

"This is a classic case of pork barrel politics, where the state will be spending money to compete with private enterprise. Every time a state agency needs to have a conference in western Maryland it is obvious that it will be going to the state-sponsored conference center," commented Commissioner Elwood Groves Tuesday afternoon during a press conference.

He continued "By his attitude, it is apparent that Dr. Brown is lumping all these DNR-Garrett County issues together. It shows a total lack of respect for local government and the will of the people of Garrett County."

Commissioner Chairman John Braskey said "In my opinion this has been decided from the beginning. Why they went through this flim-flam of a study which was in my opinion a waste of taxpayers' money, I don't know.

"The committee was stacked from the beginning, "(referring to the fact that no local legislators were appointed to the enterprise task force and the county's only representative was Carl Fike, a member of the Chamber of Commerce)," Braskey concluded his indignant remarks by saying that "The State Senator and Delegate representing Garrett County were not on the committee and Del. Edwards was not allowed to make a statement at a recent meeting of the task force."

Commissioner Gregg addressed strong statements to DNR Secretary Brown about handling of the issue. "The issue is how the matter was handled. This principle can occur in any process in the state. The taxpayers will pay for the arbitrary decision by a handful of people. I don't know how those judgments are made."

Carl Fike was clearly not happy about the decision but commented only that "I am not surprised." He also said he wants to look at the document signed by Brown to see if it is in keeping with the last task force meeting.

Del. Edwards and Sen. Bambacus both were obviously disappointed that DNR didn't even consider some Garrett County sites which are just as good or better than Rocky Gap.

Sen. Bambacus noted, however, that "I have doubts about stopping the bond issue. We must put it behind us and move on."

Plans by a color photography printing lab to relocate from Alexandria, Va. to the McHenry area were revealed Tuesday when Tom Jones, county development director and Steve Adams, owner of The Colour Company Inc. met with the Board of County Commissioners Tuesday to begin the process of issuing an industrial revenue bond of $850,000 to finance the relocation.

Adams said that he has entered into an agreement to purchase a 3.4 acre tract of land at the intersection of Deep Creek Drive and Sang Run Road, currently the site of Beowulf's Armour Shop on which he plans to construct a new two-story frame structure to house his photo lab service.

His business in Alexandria currently includes work for the Washington Post, National Geographic Magazine, the U.S. Supreme Court, United Way of America, and other commercial portrait, wedding and news photographers.

Adams plans to expand his business to include the offering of top-quality professional seminars and overnight service to local convention centers, which he said are in need of such services to attract convention business.

A minimum of seven employees will staff the facility in the beginning, according to Adams, who said that the business has a growth potential to support fifteen employees within two years.

He said that he wants to relocate to this area because of high labor and real estate costs in the Washington, D.C. area that have prevented the expansion of his business beyond its current scope.

Adams plans to utilize the bond proceeds to purchase the land, construct the building, perform ground improvements, and purchase additional equipment.

A public hearing on the bond resolution will be held Tuesday September 25 at 11 a.m. in the meeting room of the Board of County Commissioners.

Ridge area for chlorides in November, 1983. Sampling was later begun in the Grantsville area. The Garrett County Health Department suggested that testing also be done for sodium. SHA's Resident Maintenance Engineer is now sampling the water supplies on a monthly basis.

By mid-October the Bureau of Soils and Foundations will have completed a comprehensive survey of the Grantsville area and will make specific recommendations for each affected property. Similar studies of the Keyser's Ridge and Finzel areas should be completed later this fall.

The SHA says that its goal in Garrett County is to minimize threats to the environment that could be attributed to the storage and spreading of salt on the highways, without sacrificing the level of safety that residents, business travelers, and tourists in Garrett County have come to expect.

Letters to the Editor

Editor's note: A letter appeared in last week's issue of The Republican in response to a complaint about the care of the Fairview Cemetery. The letter was written by members of the Fairview Cemetery Committee and was received by the Editor apparently for publication; however it was learned this week that the persons who wrote the letter to Mrs. Harsh never intended for it to be published. They stated that it was a matter that they wanted to handle privately and not through the newspaper. It was apparently submitted to the newspaper for publication not by the persons who wrote it, but by Mrs. Harsh.

To the Editor:

The action by the State Department of Natural Resources against the Frantz Corporation for cutting their own timber on their own land was a travesty, and certainly a vicious attempt to deprive a land owner of his Constitutional rights.

It is a good example of how far an impudent State Bureaucracy will go if permitted by the people who are being robbed. It is also a good example of our need to be more cautious in selecting and electing representatives to go to Annapolis that will try harder to protect us, and safeguard our rights, especially our property rights.

The Frantz Corporation was acquitted, but the attempt by a bureaucrat took up precious time of the accused, and required them to waste money and time to hire a lawyer and defend themselves.

Under a Bill recently enacted by our representatives in Annapolis we can look forward to more and stronger attempts by this same State Department to rob our citizens of their land and other resources.

This Department is in the business of grabbing our lands and taking control without paying for what they take.

Whether they succeed in grabbing more lands and controls over our properties and our homes, will depend upon our Representatives we send to Annapolis.

The people in other counties have been fairly well protected by their elected representatives. So far, here in Garrett County, we have been unfortunate during recent years.

Clifford Friend
Accident

To the Editor:

Recently my son and I nearly came to blows over the necessity of obtaining a high school diploma. He had an undeniable reason for quitting school. When I gave him all the reasons for staying in high school, he came back with "Where has it gotten you? You don't even have a job. When you did work, you barely made over minimum wage. So and so quit school, and he makes $13.00 an hour at Metiki. What about that?"

Well I mumbled a few words like "What happens when the mine shuts down?" The sad fact was that he was right. I, who graduated from high school and who took college courses, was sitting home unemployed, while high school dropouts were making the "big bucks."

What a shame it is when dropouts are making more money than college professors! I know some who work in the mines who are making "mega bucks" and can barely read. I think all employers should start a new policy of hiring only high school graduates. Just think of all the tax money we could save on all the government programs we fund to help dropouts. If they couldn't get a job, they'd stay in school.

Hopefully, some day mothers will be able to argue with their kids about "staying in college."

Inspectors Finish Final Report On Mettiki Fatality

Federal inspectors for the Mine Safety and Health Administration have compiled a final report on the fatal accident at Mettiki Coal's A mine in June, listing three main conditions leading to the fatality. Four violations which directly contributed to the mishap were also given.

Killed in the May 30 rib roll accident was Larry F. Kirby, Keyser. Injured were foreman Paul Baker; also of Keyser, and Ronald Smith, Mt. Lake Park. At that time, Mettiki was cited for 11 violations but only one was said to have contributed directly to Kirby's death.

The final report, completed by the Morgantown district office of MSHA, was published by the federal office in Arlington, Va., last week. Much of the investigative work was completed by John Dower from the field office in Oakland.

The report draws the conclusion that the accident and resultant fatality was due to three main factors: that an overhanging brow was not properly evaluated and taken down or supported; that the foreman for the section was working (moving trailing cable) instead of testing the area where miners were exposed to the potential fall of rib and brow; and that an adjoining intersection was mined in excess of the allowable distance, creating great stresses on the coal rib (walls).

In the findings of fact segment of the report, four violations were found to have directly contributed to the accident. The first was that the operator did not test ribs in the number two entry between 84 and 85 breaks (the area where the mishap occurred) before the work was started and as frequently as necessary thereafter.

An overhanging rib along the right rib at the accident scene exceeding the maximum overhang of 18½ inches was not taken down or supported.

The sum of the diagonal distance of the four-way intersection at the 84 and 85 breaks exceeded the maximum 64-foot distance approved in the roof control plan.

Also, nine roof bolts at intermittent locations at the accident scene had not been installed at or within the required four-foot maximum spacing as required in the approved roof control plan of the mine.

According to John McGrath of the Office of Information for MSHA's national office, fines will be assessed once the federal office in Washington receives the final report. A special assessment is levied for any violation which contributes to a serious injury or fatality with fines ranging from $20 to $10,000. Special assessments usually range in the thousands of dollars, McGrath concluded.

Day Of Prayer, Action Requested By Habitat Group

Habitat for Humanity, an international, ecumenical Christian ministry dedicated to the eliminating of poverty housing from the face of the earth, has called upon all people and all churches to observe the third Sunday of September as an International Day of Prayer and Action for Habitat.

"The problem is that millions of people, all made in the image of God, live in sub-human conditions," stated a spokesman for Garrett Habitat for Humanity. "They simply do not have a decent place in which to live. "Habitat also believes that we can do something about it, and this is good news. Habitat puts the good news into action by establishing a fund which is sustained by gifts and donations."

Low cost but adequate houses are built and sold to inadequately housed people. These people can afford houses for the first time because costs are kept low through non-profit, interest free financing and as much volunteer labor as possible. A family can pay for a house over a 20-year period, and their payments provide "recycled" capital for building.

Garrett County Habitat for Humanity is an affiliate of the International organization. The local group is responsible for its own fund raising. The Habitat philosophy is that no government funds are used in the construction of the houses. Garrett County churches, businesses, organizations, civic clubs, and individuals, along with some outside donations, have raised $50,000 since December of 1983.

Information concerning Habitat can be received by writing Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, P.O. Box 363, Oakland, Md. 21550.

Deer Park Sets Second Meeting On Cemetery Care

A group of citizens concerned about perpetual upkeep for the Deer Park Cemetery met at the Deer Park United Methodist Church last Friday. The group found that the cemetery, with approximately 850 interments dating back to the 1870s, has historically been remarkably well maintained, principally by volunteers.

However, the ever-increasing size of the cemetery and the fact that many people live too far away to help has made upkeep more than can be managed by volunteers.

Mrs. Arlene Wilson acted as moderator for the group and various ways of achieving perpetual care were discussed. Mrs. Wilson and Mason Paugh were appointed to obtain information on the legal and monetary aspects of the project and these two will report at the next meeting of the group Friday, September 21, at 7:30 p.m. at the United Methodist Church.

All interested persons are urged to attend. Anyone wishing to discuss the project in the meantime may call Mrs. Wilson after 5 p.m. at 334-4252 or Mr. Paugh at 334-9089.

Southern Rescue Slates Events For EMS Week

In observance of Emergency Medical Services Week, September 16-22, the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad has planned a series of events for the public.

There will be a display at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland throughout the week consisting of the winners of the poster contest currently being sponsored by the squad.

On Monday at the squad hall, located on Oak Street, Oakland, there will be a demonstration of the Seatbelt Convincer, a device which demonstrates in "convincing" fashion the necessity of using seat belts.

The Convincer is designed so that a participant can be belted into a car seat with both a lap belt and shoulder harness. The cart on which the seat is mounted is then released from the top of the unit's inclined rails, attaining a descent rate of approximately seven miles per hour. Upon reaching the bottom of the inclined rails, the cart jolts to an abrupt stop against a pair of rubber bumpers. The impact helps demonstrate the need for all occupants of automobiles to use seat belts and harnesses.

The public is invited to participate in the demonstration, which will be from 6 to 9 p.m.

The Convincer will be used for driver's education classes at Southern High School on Tuesday.

The winners of the poster contest will be presented awards on Thursday evening at the squad hall, beginning at 7 p.m. The public is invited.

Following the presentations, at about 8 p.m., a film entitled "Code Red: Trauma Alert" will be shown. The program consists of five eight-minute segments that emphasize the EMS System that cares for victims of trauma. It shows the actions of all EMS providers, from communications to emergency medical technicians and paramedics to hospital and rehabilitation personnel. Actual patient cases are used.

While the material in the film is not gory, some of it may be too intense for children under the age of 12.

surface."

The various counties are coping with the problem in different ways, Groves said, including shredding and cutting the tires in half.

Garrett County is currently considering instituting a policy of charging a user fee to commercial refuse haulers to help cover the cost of landfill operation.

"Landfills are so expensive to develop and operate that we will see more counties instituting user fees. Putting some of the cost on profit making business that utilize the landfill would not be inequitable," Grove commented.

Following the morning meeting the delegation toured Deep Creek Lake on three pontoon boats, viewing the Glendale Bridge, which is to be replaced next year, the proposed site of a hotel resort development in the Penn Point area, and other areas of interest.

failed to pay amounts allocated for its share of the construction and operation of the Trout Run facility and the sanitary district filed suit. A judgment was rendered by the Circuit Court in favor of the sanitary district and a rate was set. However, negotiations by the parties bypassed the court's agreement and the two parties eliminated the original construction costs from the amounts paid by Mt. Lake Park and from annual payments made thereafter. "Thus, repayment of the $160,000 loan is still an open issue," Thayer noted.

Judge Thayer also said that "Often times, if not generally, limited purpose governmental institutions are created by earnest but inexperienced persons. They are for the most part directed by civic-minded volunteers . . . These limited-function agencies are created and operated in good faith but occasionally suffer from a technical oversight in compliance with enabling legislation."

Thayer continued, "Thus, although the earlier creation and modification of the sanitary district here involved is indeed flawed, the court finds that it was created and modified pursuant to a valid statute authorizing its creation and modification and that it was organized, modified and operated in good faith with colorable compliance with the statute."

The opinion also says that "The plaintiffs have stood idly by for at least 18 years without challenging its (the sanitary district) existence, creation or modification until it came time to pay the piper, having anticipated and enjoyed the benefits, at least insofar as the Trout Run sewerage facility is concerned, of the operation of the sanitary district."

Mayor Tressler indicated Wednesday that neither town has decided whether to appeal Judge Thayer's decision. He also said that Loch Lynn will go along with whatever Mt. Lake officials decide. Mayor Alexander had not been informed of the court decision as of Wednesday morning.

Appalachian Mt. Square Dancers In Nat'l Magazine

The Appalachian Mountain Square Dancers were featured in the September issue of Square Dancing, the official publication of The Sets In Order American Square Dancing Society.

Accident is the home base of the Appalachian Mountain Square Dancers, but members of the group are from southwestern Pennsylvania and western Maryland.

The group, coached by Dot Bowser, practice once a month. Mrs. Bowser also calls figures for the group along with Claude Strickler, a professional caller from Belle Vernon, Pa.

Square Dancing magazine said of the group, "Their favorite and most rewarding dancing exhibitions are those performed for the shut-ins residing in homes for the elderly and retarded. When the dancers take a breather between sets, several members continue the entertainment with singing and guitar playing of gospel and country music."

The magazine went on to say, "Everyone loves a parade and that certainly includes this tune-stomping group. Co-founder and president, John Turney, constructed a wagon with a special suspension system allowing dancers to whirl and twirl more freely while moving en route . . . over the years the club has developed several decorative themes for their parade entries."

The Appalachian Mountain Square Dancers come from all walks of life but the one common denominator is their love of dancing and music.

Local Bankers Begin Push For Balanced Budget Amendment

A constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget has been a hot item on the national news front recently in light of the huge federal deficit facing the nation, and the American Bankers Association has decided to coordinate a campaign to push for such an amendment.

The presidents of four local independent banks spoke out on this issue this week and all are in agreement that the balanced budget amendment is essential if the present $1.6 trillion deficit is ever to be erased.

"The nation and Western Maryland could face higher interest rates, recession, unemployment, backruptcies and economic instability down the road if the House of Representatvies does not come to grips with massive budget deficits," stated the four local bank presidents, including Milford E. Beckman, Garrett National Bank; Richard Deckerhoff, First Federal Savings Bank; John A. Hercher, Liberty Trust Company of Maryland; and Courtney R. Tusing, First United National Bank & Trust. "Action this year on a balanced budget constitutional amendment is the best way to start," they said.

The Senate version of the balanced budget legislation is now out of committee; however the House version is still locked in committee and will require a simple majority vote of the entire House to force it out of committee. Both bills require a balanced federal budget except in cases of national emergency or an override of three-fifths of the House and Senate. The resolution would become effective two years after enactment by Congress. As with all constitutional amendments, ratification by three-fourths of the states will also be needed.

The local bankers stated that there is still time to have the bill enacted this year and that adoption of the resolution will "send a powerful signal that your elected lawmakers intend to come to grips with the impending deficit crisis."

The joint statement stated further:

"Amending our Constitution is not an action to be taken lightly. But frankly, progress toward federal budgetary discipline has been almost nonexistant so far, and it now becomes necessary to impose external discipline on Congress through this major reform.

"The local banks and their staff will be working together in this effort with national organizations representing financial institutions, business, agriculture and citizens groups. But it will take the involvement of citizens in Western Maryland and across the country to ensure success.

"The federal deficit, left unchecked, will continue to consume an increasing percentage of total credit available in this country and will raise interest rates on the remaining credit that business and consumers need.

"This fiscal irresponsibility, if continued, will lead to higher interest rates, increased inflation, growing unemployment and sluggish investment."

The bankers pointed out that the present $1.6 trillion deficit will double in just seven years if the debt continues to grow at its present rate. "It would take nearly every dollar on deposit today in the domestic offices of America's banks to pay that debt off," they said.

The local bank leaders agreed that all citizens of Western Maryland should be encouraged to contact their Congressional representatives regarding this issue.

THE STORY OF JIMMY THE GREEK'S BIGGEST LOSS—His Kids

"I lost two of my daughters to a disease my wife and I passed on to them. It's called cystic fibrosis. You probably never heard of it. Neither did I—until my kids started dying."

CF Kills More Kids Than Any Other Inherited Disease

"At present, the only way to discover that you carry the fatal CF gene is to have children with another carrier. Like I did. That's why the CF Foundation needs volunteers and money—to help science find a cure.

"Look, I'm not naive. I've spent my whole career understanding odds, and I know the chances are you won't do a thing about what I've told you. But for the first time in my life, I'm betting against the odds."

Laker Volleyball Season To Open This Saturday Against Frostburg

The Garrett Volleyball program begins its sixth season of competition this week in a home match Saturday at 2 p.m., against the Frostburg State College Club.

The Lakers enjoyed a surprising 20-7 record last season and will return four hitters from that squad to this year's line-up.

Utility players Lani Dailey and Sue Snyder will provide all-round proficiency for the team in addition to their hitting assignments. Karen Holyfield is by far the most improved returning player from last season's team and will be depended on for her outside hitting power and blocking. Christy Fratz, the team captain, will also play a hitter position and her passing will be very important to the game plan of the Lakers, according to Laker Coach Mike Friend.

Molly Coberly joins the Laker squad this year via a transfer from Potomac State College and will play a hitter/blocker position.

Freshmen recruits include Cindy King, a setter from Southern High School, and Kim Martin and Amy Tate, both from Herbert Hoover High School in Clendenin, W.Va. Kim will be a setter for the Lakers and Amy is learning the middle blocker position.

"We have a lot of hitting power this year if we can pass and set well enough to use it," Friend said. "We are learning a new offensive system of play, so our inexperience at setter will be a concern early in the season."

The Garrett team began its season with a week-long volleyball training camp. They will scrimmage an alumni team this evening in preparation for the season opening match with Frostburg.

The 1984 schedule features 29 matches, which is the largest schedule ever undertaken by the GCC program.

Admission is free to all home volleyball matches and the public is invited to attend.

Rams Open Season With Convincing Win Over Philip Barbour, 30-6

The Southern Rams opened their 1984 campaign in convincing fashion Friday night by rolling over Philip Barbour High School, 30-6, on the West Virginians' gridiron.

Sophomore tailback Bruce Bosley led the Rams' rushing attack as he picked up 125 yards on 16 carries, while Steve Schrock and Dave McLaughlin added 61 yards each to the Rams' total of 334 yards on the ground. The Rams used nine different running backs in the game.

Senior quarterback J.R. Gibson added another 50 yards through the air as he completed four of six passes. The two missed aerials were dropped by the intended receivers.

Bosley opened this scoring with a four-yard run in the first quarter, followed by a Gibson to Steve Bennett two-point conversion pass. The score capped an 89-yard drive by the Rams.

In the second period, Gibson engineered another long drive, this one for 87 yards, and then dove over from the one-yard line for Southern's second touchdown. Bosley ran for the two-point conversion, giving the Rams a 16-0 halftime advantage.

It was Schrock's turn to add some points in the third quarter as he dashed into the end zone from 11 yards out to complete a 67-yard march by the Rams. The run for the conversion failed.

Bennett became the fourth Southern player to score when he returned a punt 65 yards late in the third quarter. McLaughlin put Southern's final two points on the board with his successful conversion run.

Philip Barbour's Lucas averted a shutout for the home team when he completed a 53-yard pass play from quarterback Mouser. The pass for the two-point conversion was incomplete.

It was the second loss in as many starts for the Colts, a Class AAA school, who fell to powerful Grafton the previous week. It was the first meeting between the Rams and the Colts.

Pacing Philip Barbour's rushing was Todd England, who gained 92 yards on 21 carries, while standout fullback Scott Gainer, 5-10, 215, was held to just 12 yards on eight carries.

"I still haven't changed my opinion about Philip Barbour," stated Ram Coach Tom Woods. "I still believe they are one of the better teams on our schedule. We were just able to capitalize on some good moments. But we also showed a need for vast improvement."

Woods was pleased with the running of Bosley and Schrock and the fact that he was able to use so many people in the backfield which kept the runners fresh. He also attributed much of the success on the ground to the perimeter blocking of Bennett, McLaughlin, Allen Sharpless and Kurk Turney on sweeps.

He gave considerable credit to Gibson also. "J.R. contributes a lot of things that may not show up in the statistics," Woods said, referring to his general execution and leadership abilities.

Woods felt that his interior offensive line trapped well, but that the backs occasionally missed the holes.

Southern's young defense, which includes seven new players, showed good quickness, but were a bit sloppy in their tackling. "We bent a few times defensively, but fortunately never broke," Woods said. He noted the performance of linebacker Scott Colaw, who was given the weekly defensive captain award: Bill Hesen at defensive end; Steve Bennett, who had an interception and almost had two more; and Dave McLaughlin, who was the second leading tackler behind Colaw. He was also pleased with the efforts of the interior line, including nose guard Schrock and tackles Jay Stewart and Warren Livengood.

Southern will go after win number two Friday evening in Kingwood against a 0-2 Central Preston squad, which is in a rebuilding year after losing two dozen players to graduation and several more via the new West Virginia C Rule, which requires that all players maintain at least a 2.0 grade point average.

Central is being led by senior Gary Castle, 6-1, 170-pound end and defensive back; senior tailback Carl Barnett, 5-9, 155, who gained 100 yards against Grafton last week; and sophomore Phil Dupert, 6-2, 175, who Woods believes will develop into an excellent quarterback.

Central uses multiple offensive sets, including the pro, multiple-I and T-formation. They tend to throw about 60 percent of the time. Defensively they use primarily a 5-2 formation.

Despite their inexperience, Woods is by no means taking the Trojans lightly. "They still have an aggressive defense, we have never won over there since I have been coach at Southern, it will be their first home game and this match-up has developed into a big rivalry," Woods said. "It should be an exciting game."

J.R. Gibson, who suffered some bruised ribs last week, is listed as probable for this week, as is Joey Matthews, who is nearly recovered from a dislocated finger.

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Huskies Top Bulldogs, 14-16, With Touchdown Toss In Waning Moments

A perfectly executed six-yard pass, lofted into the corner of the end zone by Kevin Sines and into the hands of Steve Zumpano with just 12 seconds remaining in the game, gave the Northern High Huskies a 14-6 season opening win over visiting Bruce Friday night.

The Huskies led throughout most of the contest by a 6-0 margin after Sines took the ball in for a touchdown from the one-yard line in the first quarter. The quarterback sneak was set up by a fumble recovery by Jeff Eggleston the play before, following a bad snap from center on a punt attempt by the Bulldogs.

Jeff McClintock's kick for the extra point went wide of the goal posts and Bruce came back mid-way through the final period with a 24-yard touchdown run by Alex Taylor. The kick for the extra point failed and it appeared that the game would be decided in overtime.

The Sines-to-Zumpano scoring toss was followed by a two-point conversion run by Bill Murray, who had to carry the ball eight yards because of a five-yard penalty assessed against the Huskies on the first conversion attempt.

"We didn't capitalize on some opportunities," Northern Coach Jack Settle stated, "which could have resulted in our scoring a few more points, but we were generally pleased with our effort—not satisfied, but pleased."

Complete statistics for the game were unavailable because of a statistician mix-up, however the teams were virtually even in yardage on the ground, while the Huskies held an edge in passing yardage. Sines completed three of nine passes, while Charlie Wilson was unable to connect for any aerial yardage for Bruce.

Settle was encouraged by the running of Eggleston and Bill Friend from the fullback position. "They showed some strong, power running unlike anything we have had at Northern for awhile," he said.

The Huskies will need all the power they can muster this Friday evening if they hope to come home a winner over Frankfort, probably the strongest 0-2 team in the area.

The Falcons, are fielding ten seniors both offensively and defensively, including 11 starters from last season's West Virginia Class AA playoff team, fell in triple overtime to Keyser in their season opener and were defeated last week by Tucker County, 22-15.

One of the returnees is 6-0, 200-pound senior fullback Craig Scott, who raced for over 800 yards on 175 carries last season for a 4.5 average per carry.

Also back is Robbie Shepherd, a 5-10, 145 pound senior tailback, who led the Falcons in scoring last year with seven touchdowns, rolled up 740 yards on 158 carries and caught 11 passes for 117 yards.

Senior Kevin Whiteman, 6-2, 175, is calling the signals, and according to Settle, "has a strong arm."

The Falcons' defensive line averages over six feet in height and 214 pounds, with Bob Suesse (6-3, 230) and Dave Dixon (6-3, 215) at the tackle slots. They also have a fairly strong kicking game.

In the first meeting between the two schools last season, the Huskies went head to head with the Falcons and the score was tied until the fourth quarter when Frankfort broke away for a 26-13 win.

"They finally wore us down last year and we know that we're in for just as tough a game this year, despite the fact that they are 0-2," Settle said. "We will certainly know a lot more about our team after Friday night."

Settle said his team had had good practices this week and is injury-free at the moment. "We know we are going to have all we want to handle down there," he said, "but our kids are really enthusiastic and ready to play."

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Oakland Residents Concerned Over Second Street Apartment Conversion

Approximately 15 Oakland area residents gathered at Monday night's council meeting to express concern over a proposal to turn a residence on Second Street into apartments for low income renters.

The property is owned by photographer G. David Green, who will be moving his family to the Washington, D.C. area. The large house had been used as five apartments before the Greens bought it several years ago.

Green has applied for a Housing and Urban Development grant to assist with the conversion but status of the application is not known at present.

Willis Shaffer, property owner on N Second and spokesman for the group Monday night, said this morning that he made a presentation to the council to let them know of plans for the building. The delegation expressed their opinion that Second Street, a part of the town's historic district, is not a proper location for a low income apartment house but did not formally protest Green's plans.

Shaffer went on to say the property owners would have no objection to rental units such as those elsewhere on the street, for the elderly or middle-income groups. Shaffer also pointed out that in Green's proposal, he will be an absentee landlord.

Green arrived after the delegation had left to inform the council of his plans and his HUD application.

Councilman and sanitation commissioner Robert Boal said that the council is nearly unanimous in its opinion against the low-income housing unit on that street, particularly since a sewer moratorium is in effect for the town.

Boal noted that there will not be four sewer taps available for the project since only one is issued for the house as a private dwelling.

According to county Zoning Administrator John Nelson, Oakland's zoning laws allow apartments without requiring special exceptions in town residential zones. A requirement for two parking spaces per unit is not seen as a problem for Green, who has adequate land to meet the regulation.

Edgar Harman, director of the environmental health division of the Garrett County Health Department, said in his opinion converting the house back into five apartments is not a violation of the sewer moratorium. He cited precedents in the area and said that no new sewer taps will be needed because only one tap is needed per dwelling.

Talk Of The Towns

To Send Survey

A representative from Cablentertainment discussed their proposal to add two channels and also increase rates at Monday's session. Al Gencarella told the town officials that a report is due next month on the issue, including a financial disclosure on the company.

The company is also planning to send out a clearly-worded survey concerning their proposed changes, and will send a copy to the council for review before mailing the survey forms to customers.

Savage Retires

The town noted the retirement of Stanley Savage from the street department after more than 34 years of service. The officials plan to write Savage a thank you letter and to give him an appropriate gift.

The town officials do not plan to replace Savage with a new employee at this time.

No Response

As of Monday night, there had been no response from the county commissioners on whether the county roads department will repair the roads in the Third Street Extended vicinity after sewer rehabilitation is complete.

Two representatives from the town, Mayor H.D. Swartzentruber and Councilman Terry Heibig, met with the commissioners September 4 to request assistance and were promised an answer this week.

A tentative proposal to Sterling Processing for the town to purchase its water treatment plant was sent to officials some weeks ago but no response has been forthcoming.

The town's next regularly scheduled meeting will be October 1.

Loch Lynn Signs Water And Sewer Contract Monday

A lengthy discussion with Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator, over water and sewer rates comprised the largest segment of the Loch Lynn mayor and council meeting Monday evening. The town officials then signed the annual contract with the sanitary commission.

Discussion centered on how the sanitary commission arrives at annual estimates for water and sewer billings. Beitzel explained that estimates are prepared a year in advance, and that the annual audit determines whether the town is credited or additional billing is needed.

Kight Trucking was awarded the contract to surface Seneca Street. Kight had filed three separate bids for surfacing work in the town. Keystone Surfacing was the only other bidder for the Seneca Street job.

The town agreed to put up a yield sign at the intersection of Seneca and Tuscawalla Streets.

A new sign, designed by Melvin Callis, has been placed at the town hall to identify the town offices.

The town's next meeting will be October 1 at 7:30 at the town hall. That will also mark the opportunity for citizens to file for town offices prior to the November election.

The position of mayor, two councilmen, clerk and treasurer are open, according to town clerk Virginia Eichorn.

TCC Director Visits Accident

Topics varying from Tri-County Council help to financial management assistance greeted the mayor and council of Accident at the September 10 council meeting.

Tri-County Council

Barry LeBaron, the new executive director of the Tri-County Council of Western Maryland, attended the September 10 meeting of the mayor and town council of Accident. He stated that his primary purpose for coming was to visit and let town officials know that Tri-County Council is here to help the small municipalities.

LeBaron went on to say that he viewed the role of Tri-County Council as more than economic development through federal and state programs. Through the council's staff of professionals, assistance could be offered in preparing such things as feasibility studies, grant packages, technical assistance, and contact with other agencies.

The council relayed that they could foresee requests for staff assistance in the town's problem areas of resolution of the inflow and infiltration in the wastewater collector lines, development and implementation of a storm drainage system, and the construction of sidewalks and curbs throughout the town. LeBaron remained for a time to observe the discussion of various business items on the agenda.

Fire Department

The town and the Accident Volunteer Fire Department will be working jointly to develop an access road and additional parking off South Street. A gravel road will be constructed from South Street to the lower bay of the fire station. This driveway will also be used for access to the northeast end of the playground, but no parking will be permitted that would block exit from the lower bay of the fire station. An additional parking area will be made along South Street to accommodate diagonal parking for the firehall as well as playground activities.

Sewer System Survey

The council reviewed a report from the town employee, Vaughn Sweitzer, on the status of the building survey for sewer and storm drainage. This survey of property connections to the town's sewer system got underway on August 29. Edgar Harman of the Garrett County Health Department made site visits and provided assistance to Sweitzer on reviewing the various types of drains. According to Sweitzer, the survey and discussions with property owners should be completed for all building structures within the next few weeks.

Financial Management Assistance

The council approved a proposal from Jim Cooper, Municipal Management Consultant, to prepare a schedule of fixed assets of the water and sewer fund. In past years, a portion of the town's annual financial audit report to the state was not in compliance because depreciation was not recorded on the fixed assets of the Enterprise Fund. Part of the funding for the consulting fees is being provided through the Maryland Center for Environmental Training, Charles Community College to help the town solve problems at the water and sewer plants have been on the job for some weeks now.

Lenny Gold and Jake Bair are working on the operational aspects of the plants to help them operate more effectively. They have met with plant operator Mitch Hetzel several times and so far several cost-sharing operations have been put into effect.

James Cooper is handling fiscal aspects of the plants and has met several times with town clerk Lisa Hetzel and councilman Spencer Schlosnagle to examine records. He plans to submit a report in the near future to outline his suggestions.

Mrs. Hetzel notes that all three men will continue to be available in the future to provide further assistance, at a nominal fee.

Plant In Compliance

The sewerage treatment plant is now operating in compliance with state discharge parameters, even during times of heavy rainfall.

Water Problem

An electrical storm caused problems with a three-phase system at the town's water plant two days this month. When the three-phase system was damaged it allowed dirty water to circulate through the town's water lines despite best efforts of the operator, employees and health department workers.

Friendsville Plans House Numbering, Benefit Dance

Numbering of houses and a dance to benefit a young open-heart surgery patient were among the highlights of Friendsville's regular town meeting September 4. Details of the sewer and water matters meeting the following night were also outlined in the town clerk's minutes of the sessions.

A previous mayor had set up a numbering project so that all houses in the town will be numbered, and the town officials have agreed that these numbers should be purchased by the town so that the figures will be uniform in style, size and color.

The three to four-inch numerals will be handed out to property owners so that each will have the correct set of digits.

When the numbers are in place, it will be the first time in the 80 years since Friendsville was incorporated that all houses will be identified. This will make location of homes much easier for the rescue squad or law enforcement department.

A dance to benefit four-year-old Christopher Sines, who recently underwent open heart surgery, will be held September 21 at the outdoor auditorium at the Friendsville School from 7 to 11 p.m. Providing the music will be "Morning Star Band." Cost is $3 for everyone over 12 years of age.

The council also took action to agree to personally contact Mrs. Butler, Dunbar, Pa., whenever special events are planned in the town. Mrs. Dunbar had suggested that the town advertise such events in the Uniontown newspaper but the town fathers agreed this would not be feasible.

Due to a lack of support, the town will not be pursuing the Crime Watch program at this time.

EMS Week—Sept. 16-22

Internationally Renowned Maryland Emergency Medical System To Observe Tenth Birthday

by Don Sincell

It was at 8:02 on a warm July evening that the car being driven by a young Oakland mother suddenly crossed the center line on State Rt. 135 near Deer Park and struck a westbound vehicle head-on.

Her two-year-old son was injured when he was thrown from the 1975 Ford Pinto, while she, her husband and her mother were also injured, but remained in the automobile. Her mother's injuries would later prove to be fatal.

The driver of the other car, a 1982 Plymouth Reliant, his son and his grandson were also injured, the driver seriously.

What transpired during the following 50 minutes was the full utilization of a highly organized, intricate Maryland system of emergency medical services, the first of its kind in the United States and now an international model for emergency health care.

Within two minutes, Garrett County Central Alarm, the local nucleus of the vital communication portion of the system, was notified of the accident by way of a raido transmission from a Garrett County deputy who came upon the mishap.

At 8:04, Garrett Central Alarm dispatched an ambulance and equipment truck from Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad and the Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department. Deer Park VFD personnel arrived on the scene three minutes later and the rescue squad arrived at 8:09, just seven minutes after the collision.

At 8:11, the crew chief of the first rescue unit, Southern Medic One, requested assistance from Southern Medic Two, which was dispatched immediately and arrived six minutes later. Moments after the crew chief asked for Medic Two assistance, he also directed Garrett Central to dispatch the State Police Medevac helicopter, which arrived at the scene from Cumberland just 25 minutes later.

Garrett Central also used its interstate capabilities to summon an ambulance and crew from Elk District Rescue Squad, located in nearby Elk Garden, W. Va.

Because there were seven injured persons and one of them was trapped in the wreckage, on-the-scene medics requested at 8:26 for more rescue peronnel skilled in auto extrication to respond to the scene. Fulfilling this request, coupled with a totally unrelated emergency call for Southern Rescue Three, virtually drained the manpower and equipment from Southern Rescue's squad hall in Oakland.

In response to this sudden lack of coverage for the Oakland area if additional calls for emergency assistance were received, the Garrett Central Alarm dispatcher summoned a unit and crew from the Northern Rescue Squad in Accident to respond to Southern's Rescue's station, and likewise, sent a crew and vehicle from the Grantsville station of Northern Rescue to Accident.

For the same reasoning, Garrett Central also directed a crew of firefighters and a pumper from the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department to stand by at Deer Park's fire station in case another alarm came in for the Deer Park area.

The emergency medical technicians and paramedics worked together at the scene, treating the injured, while firefighters, county and state police assisted and directed traffic. Within one hour, the most seriously injured patient, the mother of the young driver, was in flight to the region's trauma unit at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland. Forty-five minutes of that hour were needed just to free her from the wreckage.

By that time, all of the remaining injured were at Garrett County Memorial Hospital being treated. The Medevac helicopter made a second trip to the county at 9:53 p.m. to transport the driver of the other car to the trauma center. Oakland firefighters stood by at the hospital for the landing.

The preceding account of this traffic accident was used primarily to emphasize the fact that emergency medical care in the state of Maryland is a complete, rapid efficient system, composed of many facets. Little mention was made of the expert training and certification of Maryland's paramedics and emergency medical technicians, who have the know-how and equipment to save lives; there was no mention of the continual radio communication and telemetry system which allows physicians at the hospital to actually examine the patient's heart activity and general condition and then prescribe certain life-saving drugs which can then be administered in the field by the paramedics. Little mention was made of the fact that the great majority of persons who make this system work so well are not paid personnel, but volunteers.

"A Maryland System to Save Your Life" is the theme for Emergency Medical Services Week, September 16-22, so designated by Governor Harry Hughes to honor over 25,000 emergency care providers and to recognize this incredible, statewide system of emergency medical care which has now completed ten full years of service.

The observance of EMS week will be marked by numerous exhibits, emergency rescue demonstrations and health tests at various locations all over the state. A local schedule of events appears in another story in today's issue of The Republican.

"It is the system that we wish to highlight this year," Dave Ramsay, Region I coordinator for the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems, stated, "and emphasize that it a great cooperative effort among numerous agencies, and particularly volunteers, that makes it so effective."

Last year the Medevac helicopter carried out 193 missions in the Garrett-Allegany region and ambulance crews completed 11,000 calls. Statewide, Maryland ambulances responded to almost 320,000 medical emergency calls, meaning that on the average day, every other minute, an ambulance or Medevac helicopter responds to a call for help.

The EMS System provides expeditious and appropriate emergency medical care and has been highly successful in minimizing the amount of time that elapses before people needing care receive attention. The interval between the time of the emergency and the time of arrival at the hospital has been shortened considerably by using a faster mode of transportation and, in effect, by providing initial emergency care in the field and during transport to the hospital.

However, there are still patients who are dead on arrival at the hospital because the prehospital care providers were unable to arrive on the scene fast enough to start treatment. Moreover, there is probably a minimum response time that no improvement in the EMS System will be able to shorten.

For example, it is highly unlikely that the average response time could ever be shortened to less than six minutes, the maximum time that a person who stops breathing has to live.

This gap in the ability of the formal EMS System to respond to emergencies can be filled only by the general public. A passerby frequently is the first person on the scene of an emergency. That person can make the difference between life and death for a victim of illness or injury by his or her abilty to render immediate first aid until professional help arrives. Everyone can be prepared for this eventuality by knowing how to call for emergency help and by learning to perform such life-saving procedures as cardiopulmonary resuscitation and the Heimlich maneuver. These procedures and many other first aid measures are described in the MIEMSS-prepared "Emergency Medical Guide," found in the front of all Yellow Pages directories for Maryland. "In this way, individual citizens become an integral part of the Maryland EMS System and contribute personally to making the system in Maryland the best in the nation," stated Dr. R. Adams Cowley, founder and director of MIEMSS.

Dr. Cowley offers the following tips:

First - get involved before the emergency hits:

•Memorize the Emergency telephone numbers and keep all phone numbers—for fire, for police, for ambulance and poision center—next to the phone.

•Be sure your residence street number is clearly visible from the road.

•Take a first aid course and a course in CPR.

When an accident or other health emergency occurs, particularly a heart attack, don't wait to call the ambulance. Call at once. Then:

•Stay on the scene with the victim if possible, and have someone else call for help.

•Make certain to give an accurate address, name and the phone number from which you are calling.

•Tell the kind of emergency—a heart attack, a car accident, etc.—and describe the victim's condition as best you can. Are there any burns? Is the victim bleeding?

•Stay on the phone. The Emergency operator may have additional questions.

•Never move the victim unless he is in danger.

•When the ambulance arrives, explain to the rescue squad what you have done, and then let the squad take over.

"There is another way to participate in the EMS System," Cowley said. "Join it. Rescue squads and fire departments in the Garrett-Allegany county region provide free training in emergency services, and will give a comprehensive working knowledge of equipment and life saving techniques which could certify you as a volunteer emergency medical technician, a rescue technician, or other emergency responder. Call your local rescue squad or firehouse, or call the regional EMS office at 895-5934 for details."

Master's Degree In EHS Offered

For those interested in a career in the health field, the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS) and the University of Maryland, Baltimore County (UMBC) offer a baccalaureate and now a master's degree in emergency health services.

It is the only program of its kind in the county, MIEMSS said. Since Congress passed the Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Act of 1973, communities across the country are faced with the challenge of improving their emergency care. Job opportunities for graduates of the Emergency Health Services, (EHS) program can expect to range from industrial health service positions to those as EMS technicians, instructors, planners or managers.

To earn a baccalaureate degree, students need to take two years of pre-professional coursework similar to the requirements of other professional programs in health science. In the junior and senior years they take 60 credits, which builds on the previous courses and focuses on the development and management of an EMS system. Two tracts are offered in the program: management of an EMS system and paramedic training. This program is a preparation for a professional career in EMS.

In addition to graduates of the baccalaureate program, many physicians, nurses and other health care professionals find themselves in positions where they need further knowledge in health care systems. The courses offer an opportunity for professionals to keep abreast of growth in this rapidly developing field.

The new master's degree will have three areas of concentration: education, administration and research. A doctoral degree will be added to the EHS program in about five years.

Because of the close affiliation with MIEMSS, students can use the Shock Trauma Center and its statewide system for internships. R. Adams Cowley, M.D., director of MIEMSS and the Center, as well as a visiting professor in the EHS program, is recognized internationally as a pioneer in the field of trauma care.

"MIEMSS is charged with coordinating emergency medical activities statewide," said Dr. Cowley. "From prehospital transport through rehabilitation, we plan and manage the full gamut of emergency care. These degrees are designed to provide the high quality education needed to deliver efficient emergency medical services."

For further information about either of the EHS degrees, persons may contact the EHS office on the campus of UMBC at (301) 455-2291.

The spot where Caesar was killed, the Coliseum, the Tiber River . . . all of them are monuments to history; reminders of the power that was ancient Rome.

Yes, stand today in the crumbling Coliseum of Rome and you can almost hear the clashes of gladiators pitted against death. Visit the ruins of the Capitol Building, and imagine Caesar, himself, in conference, or walk along the banks of the Tiber and imagine what life was like for a Roman citizen. Almost everywhere you see landmarks that breathe the nature of this Eternal City.

There's another Eternal City whose streams flow from one great fountain of everlasting life. The Church is the lamp which lights the way to the joyful peace of the changeless city of God.

Find the light for your own way. Worship this week in the church or synagogue of your choice.

A HIGH FEVER IS VERY SCARY

When a child's temperature shoots up very high, it is very frightening to the parents. And often, this will happen without any other symptoms. Fortunately children are able to tolerate high temperatures much more easily than adults.

If a fever gets over 102 in a small child, a physician very often prescribes a sedating suppository to guard against the possibility of a convulsion. Some physicians suggest you have these prescription suppositories in the house for use if a fever is raging late at night. Children's aspirin helps to bring down the fever but if it gets up as high as 104 or 105, your physician might recommend putting the child in a bath of cool water. Follow his advice.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

DIVINE OR DEPRAVED?
September 16, 1984

Background Scripture:
Romans 2:1 through 3:20.

Devotional Reading:
Romans 2:3-16.

Thirty years in the Christian ministry have led me to the conclusion that there are essentially three erroneous views of human nature.

One of these is the conviction that human nature is "totally depraved." Another: that human beings are basically "good." Both of these have had their champions in Christianity: the former in ages past and the latter in our present time.

Today I find that many people who have been born and raised in the Christian church are reacting vigorously against the concept of sin. As someone told me a few weeks ago, "I've spent too much of my life agonizing over this idea that, because of sin, I am a worthless 'wretch.'"

THE DARK SIDE

As one who has spent many hours in pastoral counselling, I would have to acknowledge that one of the most persistent problems that plagues people raised in the Christian church is a crippling lack of self-esteem. Most of the people I counsel have learned all too well to think of themselves as sinners. They have focused much too much on human depravity and neglected to consider the divine potential with which we are also endowed. It is a serious distortion of human nature because it sees only the dark side of our nature.

On the other hand, that human nature may be equally distorted if we think of it as only "good." And the consequences are grave because our experiences with people will not long live up to our expectations. We will find it hard to deal with the tons of human failure and sin that is all around us all the time. Go to Dachau some time and then see how persuasive is the concept that essentially human beings are "good." Pick up your morning newspaper and read the grisly accounts of rapes, murders, and betrayals and then see how long you can continue to reject the Christian concept of sin. It just won't work.

There is, of course, a third erroneous view of human nature and it was to this to which Paul was addressing himself in his Epistle to the Romans. In Judaism in those days—and in much of the Christian church as well—there was an assumption that some people are essentially "good," while others are basically "evil."

NO, NOT ONE!

This is still a popular view today: the "good guys" vs. the "bad guys"—the "good guys" being us, our church, our brand of the gospel, and the "bad guys" being those who don't follow our way. But Paul made it clear in Romans that that idea too is in error, for, as he puts it, "None is righteous, no, not one" (3:10). All of us belong to the "bad guys" for there are none of us who are without sin.

The "good news" on Christianity, then, is neither "all-pie-in-the-sky" nor all "gloom-in-the-tomb," and we can never truly understand and employ our true human nature until we acknowledge both the depravity and the divinity that co-exist and struggle in the same human being.

Energy Tips

by Patricia Driscoll Easterday
Extension Agent for Community Resource Development for Allegany and Garrett Counties

The cool evenings we've been experiencing are a warning to us that it won't be long before winter is here. If you're concerned about high fuel bills next winter, a few hours of time around your home can save a lot of headaches and a lot of money in the form of lower fuel bills next winter.

Thirty to fifty percent of the average home's heating bill is due to infiltration. Ironically, infiltration of air into a home is one of the easiest and least expensive energy management problems to repair. Caulking and weatherstripping are available virtually everywhere, and there are many new types available in which no special tools are needed to install them.

To help prepare for winter, here's a checklist to help tighten up the home.

•Loose-fitting storm windows don't help much in saving energy. Check to make sure the frames are square. If they aren't, in most cases they can be adjusted.

•Clean out the weep holes at the bottom of storm window frames, so condensation will drain away.

•Check your primary windows to make sure the sashes sit solidly in the window frames. If the sash is loose, you can adjust the window to make it tighter. Try moving the window stops and parting strips inward until they press firmly against the sashes.

•If the windows sit tightly in the frames, apply weatherstripping or rope caulk to block air leakage.

•Install interior storm windows in basement windows.

•Remove awnings and other shading devices, especially those over south windows.

•Clean the glass on all south facing windows to let as much heat in as possible.

•Adjust hinges if necessary to let exterior doors hang squarely in their frames. If needed, move door stops inward so they press firmly against the doors.

•Add weatherstripping to seal any gaps between doors and their frames.

•Install a doorsweep on any exterior door that doesn't have one.

•Install weatherstripping on doors leading to unheated parts of the house.

•Check all caulk on the exterior and interior of the home. Clean off caulk that is crumbling and dry. Replace it with the appropriate caulk for the situation.

•Make sure vent flaps are not stuck in the open position.

•Remove room-unit air conditioners and seal the openings, or wrap the air conditioner in an insulated jacket.

•Make sure all electrical outlets and switches have foam-rubber gaskets. Place plastic plugs in unused electrical outlets.

•Repair cracks in foundation walls.

•Clean all rain gutters. If they clog up with leaves and then fill with ice and snow, they can break or water from them may damage your walls and ceilings.

For more information about tightening up your home for winter, contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 202 South Third Street, Oakland, Md. 21550, telephone (301) 334-2145; or in Grantsville at telephone (301) 895-3124 on Mondays and Fridays.

Youth For Christ Notes Plans For Youth Congress

Youth for Christ has teamed up with Campus Crusade for Christ to present the first national conference for Christian youth at the Capitol Convention Center in Washington, D.C. The Youth Congress will meet July 26-30, 1985.

The participants will stay in one of 35 regionally selected hotels. Approximately 25,000 teens from across the United States are expected to attend.

The Youth Congress goal is to involve in the convention two students and one teacher from every high school. It is the first event of its kind in the nation.

Mt. Top Youth for Christ will be working towards the goal of taking at least two high school students from schools in Garrett and Allegany counties. There are promotional films and brochures available locally. Local churches may wish to promote the event to their youth.

Some of the speakers involved are Chuck Colson, Josh McDowell, Tony Campolo, and Dawson McAllister. The music will include Glad, Tramaine Hawkins, Freddie Langston, and Michelle Pillar. There will be a launching ceremony at the end of the convention by national personalities and leaders at the Washington Memorial Mall.

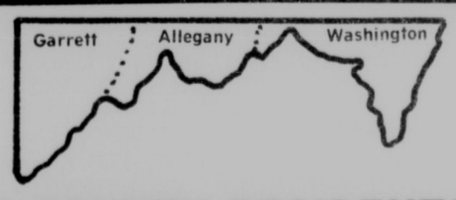

Mt. Top YFC is encouraging all local churches to consider sending a few of their most teachable youth. For more details persons may call 334-9244.

She was given an 89-day suspended jail sentence and placed on 18 months of unsupervised probation. Turney also fined Lewis $25 plus court costs on each count and ordered her to make restitution to both establishments.

In another bad check case, a bench warrant was issued for Anita F. Nazelrod, 34, Oakland, on six counts of passing worthless checks at Ralph's Richfood, Browning's Foodland and High's Dairy Store in Oakland.

As proceedings continued, Judge Turney declared Arlen L. Miller, 42, Lonaconing, not guilty of theft of 320 fifty-pound bags of fertilizer from Southern States Cooperative in Grantsville stemming from a May 21 incident.

Sixth Service Squadron To Hold Reunion Here

The Sixth Service Squadron of the 8th Air Force will hold their annual reunion at the Village Inn on Deep Creek Lake September 14, 15, 16, and 17.

Formed at Langley Field, Va., in the early part of 1940, the unit spent almost three years in the European Theater and serviced the 96th and 384th Bomb Groups, which pulled the first and last daylight missions over occupied Europe during World War II. The unit was stationed first at the Grafton Underwood Base in the midlands of England, later moving to a southern French base called Istres.

The annual reunion was started by three former members, two of whom are now deceased. Arrangements are still made by a former resident of Oakland, Fred Tichnell.

The Squadron began holding reunions in 1953. For 11 years they took place at the Mountain Lake Park Hotel in Mountain Lake Park. According to a spokesman for the squadron, the members still think of Mountain Lake Park as "the beginning of great times" for them.

About thirty former squadron members and their families will be attending this year. They will be arriving from California, Colorado, Ohio, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, Virginia, North Carolina, Florida, Connecticut and Texas.

The squadron invites G.I.s from any war to stop by the reunion and visit the hospitality room.

Annual Report Released By Local Hospice

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., has presented its Annual Report for Fiscal Year 1984.

The Hospice Program is organized for the following purposes:

(1) To provide psychological, spiritual and physical support to the dying patient and their family.

(2) To help the terminally ill patient remain home as long as possible or as long as he/she desires.

(3) To control distressing symptoms and prevent further complications as much as possible.

(4) To educate the community concerning the Hospice philosophy and the needs of those who are seriously ill or dying.

(5) To be "care effective" as well as "cost effective" through utilization of community resources and provision of Hospice services with both inpatients and outpatients.

Hospice received its first patient February 4, 1983, and cared for 23 people through June 21, 1984. There were 14 men and nine women, with an age range of 15 to 88, with the primary diagnosis being cancer. The average length of Hospice care was 76 days. Eighteen patients died during the year, six at home, seven in a hospital, five in a nursing home or elsewhere. Length of Hospice treatment ranged from two to 365 days.

Hospice care relies heavily on volunteers to augment professional services and provide emotional and practical support to patients and their families. During the year, three volunteer training classes for 31 persons were held at Garrett Community College, and volunteers were assigned to 21 patients.

Administrative and operative costs come primarily from a grant obtained from the Public Welfare Foundation. Hospice cash donations amounted to $3,776, used for volunteer recruitment, training, brochures, and patient support. The total cost of Hospice for FY1984 was $24,259.

A detailed statement of the budget and the budget proposal of $28,185 for the present fiscal year can be obtained by calling Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., at 334-8111 or 895-5050 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Community Calendar For Mineral County Will Be Published

The printing of a community calendar for Mineral County is being sponsored by the Community Services Council. The calendar will give free publicity to county groups for their meetings and events. A list of county organizations and contact persons to be included in the calendar will make it easier for groups to contact one another and work cooperatively, the council stated.

The creation of the community calendar has long been a goal of the Community Services Council. The group's purpose is to help coordinate and improve human services to citizens of Mineral County and nearby areas. The Council's members include representatives of service groups and agencies.

In order to be included in the calendar, community groups must write or call information by October 1, to Community Calendar, P.O. Box 207, Keyser, W. Va. 26726, 788-0945. Information needed is the club's name and address; the name, address and phone number of a contact person; the date, time and place of regular meetings; the primary activities of the organization; and dates of major events planned for 1985. The calendar will go on sale for a small fee in December.

Named Academic All-American

The National Secondary Education Council announced recently that Sheli Bittinger, a student at Northern High School, has been named an Academic All-American. She was nominated for the award by Mrs. Lillian Reckner, music and band instructor.

The NSEC established this award to offer recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines. Students must earn at least a 3.3 grade point average to qualify for the award. The Council selects award recipients upon recommendations of teachers, coaches, counselors and other qualified sponsors. Winners' names appear in the Council's directory, which is published nationally.

Sheli is the daughter of Mike and Linda Bittinger.

WHY VALUE INCREASES

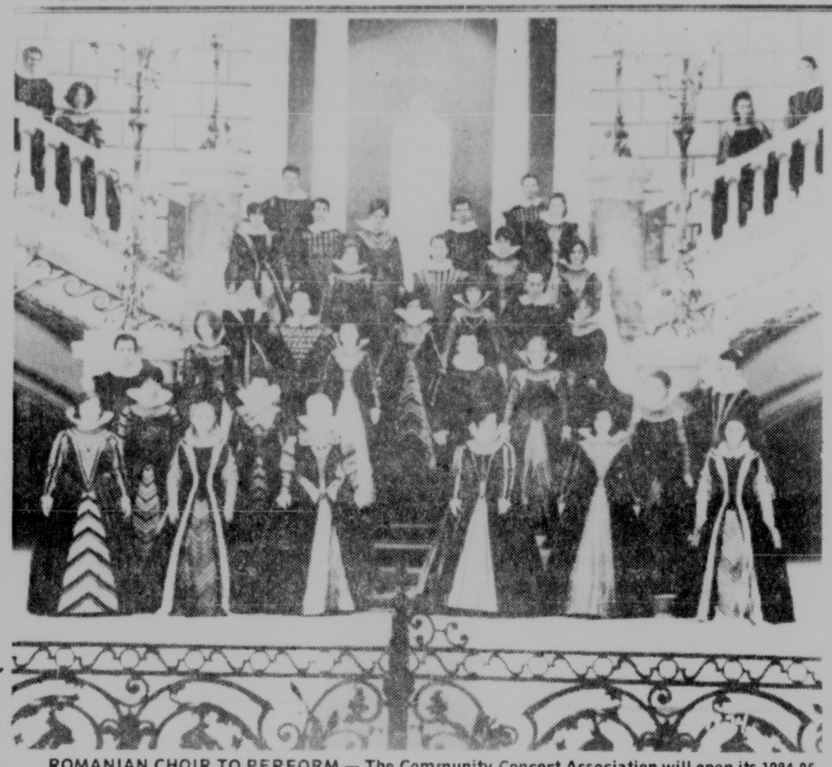

Very few people have lost money in real estate ownership. The reason is simple. More often than not, real estate values increase as time goes on.

There are many reasons why property value will increase, such as: bettering the property, changes in zoning, etc., but one which happens all by itself, with little help from the property-owner, is inflation. Why does this happen?

To begin with, real estate is typically heavily reliant on borrowed money. Borrowers benefit from inflation because they are able to repay their loans with cheaper dollars. Inflation can also benefit a real estate investment by generally allowing owners to increase rents by amounts greater than the expenses increase. This disproportionately increases the cash flow. The reason: Rents start out higher than expenses, and the loan payments normally remain fixed. Remember, the value of investment property is always a function of its income. A dramatic increase in income should result in an equally dramatic increase in value.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

ROMANIAN CHOIR TO PERFORM — The Community Concert Association will open its 1984-85 season with the Romanian National Choir, which will perform at Fort Hill Auditorium, Cumberland, on Tuesday, September 18, at 8 p.m. The Romanian National Choir, which draws its membership from the students and graduates of Bucharest's famed Conservatory, was founded in 1963 and since that time, under the directorship of Marin Constantin, it has gained international renown. The repertoire, which was originally based on renaissance music, has been expanded to include folk songs and modern compositions. To set off the three parts of the program, the singers appear in costume, wearing Elizabethan splendor for the baroque and renaissance choruses, traditional native dress for the folk songs, and formal evening attire for the rest of the repertory. The Choir has toured extensively since 1964. Critics in European capitals, as well as in American cities from Washington, D.C., to San Francisco, have praised the "purity of tone, the exquisite melding of voices, and the fine musicianship" of the group.

Census Bureau Slates Survey

The U.S. Bureau of the Census will conduct its regular survey on employment and unemployment in Garrett County during the week of September 17-22, according to James F. Holmes, director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Philadelphia.

In September, additional survey questions will provide information on incidence of and immunization against certain, primarily childhood, diseases.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 71,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the nation.

For example, in July 1984 the survey indicated that of the 113.9 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 105.4 million were employed. The nation's unemployment rate rose to 7.5 percent.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals, according to Holmes.

Peggy A. Kelley, Charles E. Roth Exchange Wedding Vows June 2

Wedding vows were exchanged June 2 by Peggy Ann Kelley and Charles Edward Roth, Jr. The double-ring ceremony took place at the St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Red House, with Pastor Daniel Yeiser officiating. Mrs. Elaine Roth was organist and Miss Kimberly Correll was vocalist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weir W. Roth, Rawlings, and the late Therman R. Kelley. Mr. Roth is the son of Mrs. Carol Sue Roth, Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., and the late Charles Edward Roth, Sr.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her great-uncle, Louis Sharrer, Glen Burnie, the bride was attired in a floor length gown from the Country Bridal Collection. The dress was antique Cluny lace over bridal taffeta. The bodice was adorned with antique lace appliques of embroidery and tiny satin ribbons. A deep lace ruffle extending from the shoulder to the waist created a V-effect front and back. The bell sleeves were ruffled mid-length with satin ribbon streamers. The full skirt was tiered in wide rows of matching Cluny lace from the fitted waist to the hemline. A pearl trimmed cap held a veil of bridal illusion trimmed in lace. The bride's only jewelry consisted of her mother's pearl earrings and her grandmother's gold wedding band. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white carnations.

Miss Cindy Kelley, Rawlings, served as her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Cindy Shaffer, Terra Alta, W.Va., and Miss Mary Africa, Cumberland. Mrs. Virginia Massey, sister of the bridegroom, Asheville, N.C., registered the guests.

Serving as best man was David Roth, cousin of the bride, Horse Shoe Run; Allen Roth, brother of the groom, Horse Shoe Run; and William Kelley, brother of the bride, Rawlings, were ushers. Dennis Roth, cousin of the bride, Horse Shoe Run, and Floyd Massey, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Asheville, N.C., were greeters.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Aurora Fire Hall, Aurora, W.Va. The three-tier fountain cake was baked by Mrs. Penny Smoot and Mrs. Mary Parr, Huntington, W.Va. Mrs. Helen Roth, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Penny Smoot served the cake. Mrs. Roberta Schrecongost, aunt of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Ruth Luizzi, great-aunt of the bride, served the punch. The Aurora Fire Hall Ladies Auxiliary assisted with the reception. Music was provided by Memory Lane. Brent Richards was the photographer.

Following a trip to Williamsburg and Virginia Beach, the couple established residence on Gnegy Church Road, near Oakland.

The program of events on Sunday, June 24, opened with family and friends attending and participating in the celebration of Mass at St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Cumberland. During the Mass, the Sheehes, in the presence of their seven children, 17 grandchildren, and the public, reaffirmed their wedding covenant with Reverend James McGovern performing the ceremony.

The reception at the Knights of Columbus Recreation Center followed the Mass. Entertainment was provided by the Beau-Sha-Lings.

David Sheehe, son of the celebrants, served as master of ceremonies. He initiated the presentation with a history of the family and the nuptial tie as it progressed from its inception during the depression to the present date.

Ena McKague, sister of Mrs. Sheehe, who was married on the same day 50 years ago to the late Herbert McKague, read a poem honoring the married couple. The poetry was composed by Mrs. McKague and Leslee Robinson, the couple's daughter.

Morton Peskin, former employer of Mr. Sheehe, participated in the presentation. The Sheehes are long time fans of the Winner Brothers Girls Softball Team and their coach, Bill Bryner, also spoke. Bernard Sheehe concluded the ceremony with observations, as the couple's youngest child.

The event was organized by Lyn (Sheehe) Ammons.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheehe are former owners of Oakland businesses, including the Manhattan Hotel.

TO REPRESENT STATE — Richard Bender, Mark Harman and Dove Wassell, of Northern High School, will represent Maryland in the FFA North Atlantic Farm Management contest this weekend. The trio won the right to represent the state by placing second in state contest in June. Teams from FFA chapters in 15 states will compete at the Eastern State Exposition in Springfield, Mass. The contest is sponsored and supervised by The Federal Land Bank and Production Credit Associations.

Davis Says Wheat May Be Placed In Loan Program

"Farm program participants who have suitable storage on their farms, or the use of an approved warehouse, are eligible to obtain a price support loan on their 1984 wheat crop," Olin S. Davis, Jr., chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee said. The 1984 wheat loan rate in Maryland is $3.31 per bushel.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture forecasts a 2.53-billion-bushel wheat crop this year, 100 million bushels more than last year. Because supplies are large relative to use, Davis said the farm price for wheat will probably average only slightly more than the $3.30-per-bushel national average loan rate. The target price is $4.38 per bushel for this season, therefore wheat growers who participated in the acreage reduction program will likely earn deficiency payments.

The ASCS commodity loan program provides farmers with operating cash and allows them to hold their crops off the market and benefit from price increases that often come after harvest. Although the program does not guarantee participating farmers a profit, it does guarantee a minimum price.

Davis said farmers can store the wheat for as short a time as they wish or for as long as nine months.

Milk Production Down In July

Milk cow numbers for July 1984 averaged 121,000 head, down 2,000 head from last year.

Production per cow during July averaged 1,040 pounds, down 60 pounds from last year.

Milk production in the United States during July 1984 totaled 11.6 billion pounds, four percent less than a year ago.

Gypsy Moth - Advice to Citizens

I have had several reports on Gypsy Moth damage in our county. We knew it would be only a matter of time before they arrived. There is no practical way to eradictate the Gypsy Moth. Using all available methods it is possible to manage this pest and to slow its movement. While moth larvae will eat leaves of many trees, Oak is their preferred food. Deciduous trees usually can tolerate up to 50% defoliation without serious effects. Trees like Oaks often can be completely defoliated in one season and not be killed. They usually grow new leaves by the end of summer. Defoliation for several years in a row can be fatal. The different methods of control include the use of insecticides, destroying the egg mass, banding trees, and male trapping. For more detailed information, contact my office and ask for Fact Sheet-242, entitled "The Gypsy Moth and the Home Owner."

Fertilize Lawns Now

Yes, your lawn has been green all summer. It has grown like a hayfield and it still looks lush and green. Experts all agree—an application of fertilizer in early fall will do more to improve and encourage growth of cool season turf grasses than if applied at any other time. Between now and very cold weather, cool season grasses develop an entire new root system. Kentucky Bluegrass which has the ability to push out runners which grow into new grass plants to fill sparse and bare areas makes all its runners during cool season from now until late winter. I am often asked which is the best fertilizer to buy. There are a lot of good fertilizers on the market—the choice is yours.

Farming in Maryland

Census Report Shows More Small Farms, But Fewer Farms Overall

The number of small farms in the United States and the value of all agricultural product sales increased between the 1978 and 1982 agriculture censuses, preliminary data from the Commerce Department's Census Bureau shows.

Farms of less than 50 acres increased 17 percent to 637,000, according to the 1982 census, conducted in 1983. Their growth helped to keep the total farm loss under one percent, one of the smallest declines in recent decades. The new count is 2,241,000 compared with 2,257,000 in 1978.

At the other end of the scale, the number of farms with 2,000 acres or more rose by 1,224 between censuses to a total of 64,525.

The market value of agricultural products sold amounted to $131.8 billion compared with $107.1 billion in 1978, up 23 percent. Average sales per farm grew to $58,814 from $47,424. Farms with sales of $100,000 or more gained by 80,723 for a total of 302,964. The dollar figures have not been adjusted for inflation during the period. The Bureau points out that the Consumer price Index (CPI), based on the costs of food and beverages, was up 35 percent for food for the same period.

Livestock, dairy and poultry products in 1982 accounted for 53 percent of sales, or $69.5 billion; livestock alone brought in 33 percent or $43.5 billion. Other totals were dairy products, $16.3 billion or 13 percent; and poultry, $9.7 billion or seven percent. Crop sales totaled $62.3 billion, or 47 percent of all sales; grain accounted for more than half.

Small farm growth was greatest in Texas, which saw an increase of 14,109 farms under 50 acres to 44,587. This was a 46 percent gain from the 1978 census and small farms now account for one-fourth of the state's farms and ranches. Vermont's increase was 59 percent, to 1,026.

The census data show that large operations continue to dominate sales and production. Here are some figures:

•Only one percent of farms sold 500 or more head of cattle and calves but they had 43 percent of cattle sold.

•Those selling 500 or more head of hogs totaled 16 percent of farms selling hogs but captured 70 percent of hogs sold.

•Farms with 20,000 or more hens and pullets comprised only two percent of producers but had 79 percent of inventories.

Other findings from the 1982 Census of Agriculture:

•The farmland total of 984.8 million acres was down from 1 billion acres from 1978.

•Harvested cropland was 326.3 million acres, up three percent.

•There was relatively little change in the number of acres irrigated between 1978 and 1982. This is against the background of an expansion in irrigation from 39.1 million to 49 million acres from 1969 to 1982. In that period, the West gained 14 percent to 26.1 million acres, 8.5 million of it in California. The North Central Region's irrigation doubled, from 5.1 million to 10.9 million acres.

•In acres harvested, wheat edged out corn, 70.9 million to 69.9 million. Soybeans increased from 61.3 million in 1978 to 64.8 million acres in 1982.

•The milk cow total rose from 10.2 million to 10.9 million.

17th Annual Autumn Glory Festival Slated

The awakening of autumn foliage marks the approach of the 17th Annual Autumn Glory Festival, which is scheduled for Thursday, October 11, through Sunday, October 14.

The Festival will feature several acitivites of years past such as: the Maryland State Five-String Banjo Championship, the Maryland State Fiddler Championship, the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands, the Firemen's Oktoberfest sponsored by the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, the Organ Recital at the St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Mountainmen Competitions, Beechnut Tobacco Spitting Contest, antique show and sale, crafts show and sale, and others.

The Saturday Grand Feature Parade will begin at 2 p.m., featuring marching units, twirling groups, clowns, and floats.

As in previous years the festivities have included the Autumn Glory Craft Show. However, this year, due to the interest generated by the annual craft show, there will be an additional show. A Heritage Crafts Fest will be held at the Garrett Community College Oakland Center and the Autumn Glory Craft Show, which will present more traditional bazaar-type crafts, will be hosted at the St. Peter's School on Oak Street in Oakland.

Accompanying the four-day festival of events and exhibits will be numerous booths featuring various types of food and beverages. Turkey dinners will be served at Southern Middle School as well as other locations throughout Garrett County.

For further information, persons may contact Autumn Glory Festival Headquarters, Courthouse, Oakland, or phone (301) 334-3888 for a complete schedule of events brochure. A map of festival locations and activities around the Oakland area is also available free of charge.

SELF SUFFICIENCY is the goal of the Owen Stanton family, near Bittinger. Mr. Stanton and his son, Joe, are pictured above harvesting oats that will feed the family's livestock herd this winter. The Stantons grow all of their own vegetables, as well as producing all the pork, beef, eggs, butter, cream, and poultry the family uses. "Flour, sugar, and salt are the main things we have to buy," Mabel Stanton said, adding that the family's maple syrup camp reduces the need to buy much sugar. Mrs. Stanton grows more than 30 varieties of fruits and vegetables in her garden and truck patch, which she says is "mostly organic." The family utilizes two large freezers to store meat and vegetables, and cans an equal amount. All feed for the farm's livestock is raised on the farm, including oats, hay, corn, and silage. Mr. and Mrs. Stanton live on the farm with Mr. Stanton's mother, and son, Joe, wife and child. The beautifully tended farm is an example of Garrett County agriculture at its best. Commissioners Discuss Roads Dept. Strategy

The Board of County Commissioners spent most of their Tuesday meeting in executive session discussing possible organizational changes in the County Roads Department, which lost its two top administrators through resignation last week

"This is a major department that is such an important part of county government that we want to do it right," commented Commissioner Elwood Groves at press conference Tuesday. He said that no decisions about filling the positions vacated by Ken Metheny and Earl Foster have been made.

County personnel director Paul Shockey is serving as interim roads administrator, working with Metheny to

One Arrested For Rape, Another For Child Abuse

Two arrests were made this past week by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, one involving rape and one child abuse.

Charles French Stinson, 28, Mt. Lake Park, was indicted September 11 by the Garrett County Circuit Court Grand Jury for second degree rape, sexual offense and assault on an 18-year-old woman.

The rape allegedly occurred on August 27 at the home of Stinson's brother in Mt. Lake Park. The woman reportedly spent the night at the Stinson residence and the rape allegedly took place at 7:30 in the morning. Stinson has been released on bond from the Garrett County Jail.

Chief Deputy Van Evans investigated the case and made the arrest after Stinson turned himself in following the indictment.

Clyde Welch, 37, Mt. Lake Park, was arrested on September 15 for child abuse of a 16-year-old girl. Deputy Evans made the arrest following a complaint and an investigation.

Others arrested this week by the department include: James Holloway Roper for assault and battery; James E. Maule, battery; and Karl Wilson, Jr., for assault and carrying a dangerous and deadly weapon. (See separate story)

From a complaint filed by George Kight, Loch Lynn, the department is investigating an attempted breaking and entering. Kight stated that someone

Family Of Eight Loses Belongings In Fire Tuesday

A local family of eight lost all of their possessions in a fire which destroyed the house they were renting along the King Wildesen Road off State Rt. 560 just north of Gorman.

Volunteer firefighters from Gorman and Bayard were summoned by Garrett Central Alarm at 7:36 p.m. to the residence of Ronald and Linda Boler and their six children after fire was discovered on the porch of the one-story frame house. Upon their arrival, they found the structure to be totally involved in flame

Also called to the scene were the county air cascade unit presently being housed at Bloomington Fire Department, plus tankers from Oakland and Deer Park VFDs and the Southern Rescue Squad.

The structure was owned by Evelyn Wildesen, who lives nearby.

According to Guy Carola, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties, Mrs. Boler reportedly had placed hot ashes in a plastic bucket outside on the porch that afternoon. Mr. Boler, who arrived home about ten minutes before discovering the fire, told Carola he was sitting in the living room of the three-bedroom house when he noticed smoke coming in under the door leading out onto the porch. He opened the door to find the entire porch and the exterior wall in flames. He then called Garrett Central Alarm and exited the house along with the other members of the

Audit Report Shows College In Sound Fiscal Condition Last Year

Jim Murray, representing Rodeheaver and Associates, Certified Public Accountants, reported that an audit completed by his firm reflected Garrett Community College to be in sound fiscal condition at a board meeting held at the college Tuesday.

Murray informed the board that the auditors expressed an unqualified opinion on the financial statement of the college for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1984. He also stated that the audit report shows the college earned a small surplus after allowances for outstanding commitments at year's end.

Total FTE (full-time equivalent) students increased slightly from the prior year and the average cost per FTE was comparable to that of prior years. According to Murray, this indicated that the college is controlling costs consistent with its enrollment.

Mr. Murray went on to say that the surplus resulted from a combination of cost saving measures and actual FTE student enrollment exceeding budgeted enrollment.

Enrollment Report

Enrollment at the college is up slightly, according to a report given by Leo Martin, dean of financial affairs.

Although full-time student enrollment is down slightly, a substantial increase in part-time student enrollment contributed to the upswing. According to Martin, several courses are still open to registration for the fall semester which will show an even greater increase compared to last year's enrollment figures.

A headcount of 148 students enrolled in this year's summer session as opposed to 89 last summer also accounted for part of the increase.

Fall Admissions Report

An overall decline of five new applicants for the 1984 fall semester was reported by Leo Martin. The fall admissions report showed a decrease of 29 Garrett County admissions which was nearly offset by an increase of 24 students from throughout the state.

Included in the report was a breakdown listing reasons students, who had originally applied to GCC, had declined admission when accepted. Among the reasons listed were employment, financial and housing reasons, personal

Christian Radio Station To Begin Operation Soon

A new radio station will begin operation the last of this month or the first of October, according to Rev. Dewayne Johnson, pastor of Maranatha Tabernacle in Grantsville.

Rev. Johnson, his wife, Sharon, and Rev. Ray Beahm, pastor of the Crellin Assembly of God church, are the board of directors for "He's Alive Incorporated," a non-profit corporation which spear-headed the new radio station.

Station WAIJ, which stands for We're Alive In Jesus, will operate on the 90.3 FM dial on 10,000 watts.

The non-commercial station, which will be totally sponsored by gifts and contributions of its listeners, will feature recorded Christian music and national ministries along with news and weather. WAIJ will also offer air time to local pastors for making announcements and to advertise their services and meetings at no charge.

Rev. Johnson stated, "We are now awaiting the arrival of our transmitter, which is due here

Health Department Schedules Rabies Clinics For Pets

With over 700 cases of rabies reported statewide, and with Garrett County reporting cases in new areas, the Garrett County Health Department has scheduled a series of rabies clinics for dogs and cats next week.

Clinics are planned September 22 at Southern Middle School from noon to 2 p.m.; September 24 at Route 40 School from 5 to 6 p.m.; September 25 at Garrett Community College, McHenry, from 5 to 6 p.m.; September 26 at the Swanton Community Center from 5 to 6 p.m.; and September 27 at the Kitzmiller Community Center from 5 to 6 p.m.

Cost will be $3 per animal, and the vaccine is effective for three years for all dogs and cats over one year of age. State health department totals for last year show that more cats than dogs contracted the disease last year, so pet owners are urged to have all cats vaccinated.

Animals between three months and one year of age must be revaccinated in one year, according to Rodney Glotfelty, rabies prevention coordinator for the local health department.

Pet owners are reminded to restrain dogs on leashes and to contain cats in carriers or sturdy boxes.

Commissioners Okay Sludge For Franklin Site

The Garrett County Commissioners, acting on a recommendation by the county health department, approved a sludge application proposal for Westvaco on a Franklin Hill site.

Edgar Harman, head of the environmental health division for the local health department, told the commissioners that the permit would be similar to an amendment to the Westvaco originial proposal for four other strip mine sites on the property. The land is owned by Moran Inc. and mined by Westvaco Resources, Inc., a subsidiary of Westvaco Corporation, then top-dressed with sludge before seeding.

The commissioners agreed that a 50-tons-per-acre limit should be continued rather than the 100 tons per acre requested by WRI.

Ninety-five percent of the sludge is industrial waste generated by Westvaco's Luke Mill, with the remainder coming from the Upper Potomac River Commission sewerage treatment plant in Westernport.

The sludge is tested four times yearly by Westvaco for compliance with state standards.

The sludge is trucked to the site, which may be reached from Westernport and is located near Aaron's Run, and then backbladed by bulldozer prior to being seeded to grasses. Harman testified that this top-dressing method has proved effective in the past, noting that "some very nice strands of grass are presently growing" on previously top-dressed sites.

The new site just stripped is on a 150-170 acre tract. The

Nearly 60% Of Local Ninth Graders Fail State Functional Writing Test

Nearly 60% of ninth grade students from Northern Middle School and Southern Middle School failed the Maryland Functional Writing Test given this spring according to Albert Ringer, Assistant Superintendent of Curriculum and Instruction at the Garrett County Board of Education.

At a board meeting Thursday, Ringer announced that only 40.1% passed the exam and added, "We are sick. The whole state of Maryland is sick." Of all the ninth grade students tested in the state of Maryland, only 50.7 passed the test. Ringer stressed the students must pass the Maryland Functional Writing Test in order to graduate.

The same ninth grade students also took the test in the spring of 1983. Of those taking the preliminary test 50.8% failed, although a breakdown of the scores revealed improvement in the following test criteria: organization, audience, sentence formation and conventions. The only decline in scores in the second test was in the area of content.

The Maryland Functional Writing Test contains two parts, narrative writing and explanatory writing. The test is scored on the five components mentioned above on a scale of one to four.

Paul W. Harr, Project Basic Facilitator, presented a report to the board outlining strategies for teachers to aid students in improving their writing skills. The report emphasized that all students should be oriented to the requirements of the passing standard and that students should be taught a "recipe approach" for dealing with the test topics.

Harr stated that the test involved a tough scoring system and that a student must score 5.5 to pass, out of a possible 8.4.

Harr also said he has worked with teacher groups since last year to develop long-term and short-term activities to improve the writing skills of students who must re-take the test in April.

Of the 152 college preparatory students who took the test, 58 failed and 11 of 33 honor students at Southern High School failed.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent of Schools in Garrett County, commented, "I don't know if the students didn't take the test seriously or what."

Board member Leo O'Neill stated that he felt the teachers need more inservice time to devise better methods for teaching writing skills. He also pointed out that perhaps science and social studies teachers as well as English teachers should give writing assignments in order that students might better their writing skills through practice.

Luther Parrack, director of secondary education added, "Don't just make a child write. Encourage him to write properly."

Ringer expressed his gratitude to Garrett County teachers for the efforts made in preparing students for the writing test and ended the discussion of student testing on a positive note by briefing the board on a

The Fireman of the Year Award and the Training Award will be presented at this time by the Garrett County Firemen's Association. There will be no admission charge.

Plans are also underway for a "Bingo and Games" night at the Oakland fire hall on Friday, October 12. Details will be announced at a later date.

Karl Wilson, Jr. Being Held On Weapon Charges

Karl Wilson, Jr., 44, Oakland, is incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond following his arrest on Monday.

Wilson apparently became annoyed with some children playing in an alley by his house and allegedly pointed a 12-gauge semi-automatic shotgun at the youngsters, threatening their lives, according to Officer Ron Beeghly of the Oakland City Police.

Beeghly reported that Wilson first pointed the gun at two girls and then a juvenile boy came out of his house and Wilson also allegedly pointed the gun at him.

According to Beeghly, Wilson was standing in the road when he arrived at the scene, but Wilson had no gun. The gun was found later in the bedroom of Wilson's house.

Wilson was charged with three counts of carrying a dangerous and deadly weapon and three counts of assault.

Deputies Charles Nolan and Rick Kutchman of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department also responded to the scene.

It was noted by Officer Beeghly that Wilson had been arrested for assault on September 14 and released on his own recognizance.

Sanitary Commission Attends To Kitzmiller, Gorman, Upper Yough

The Kitzmiller water and sewer projects, Gorman water, the Upper Yough, and computer installation were given attention by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission Tuesday night.

Thomas Bourne, engineer for the Kitzmiller sewer project, gave a status report and brought preliminary plans for the system. Once the sanitary district has reviewed the documents and determines the engineer is proceeding in the right direction the plans will be made available to the town officials for input before the final plans are drawn up and submitted to the health department for review.

Once the plans are finalized, cost estimates can be prepared and the sanitary commission will hold a public hearing on the proposed improvements. That hearing should be sometime this winter, according to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district engineer.

Kitzmiller Water

Bond closing will be held September 27 for the Kitzmiller water project. At Tuesday's meeting, Bill Elliott, resident engineer for Greenhorne and O'Mara, gave a brief report on project status. Construction is underway on all three contracts.

Permits have not yet been received from the Department of Natural Resources so that work can be done in the floodplain which includes most of the town. Line work has been started above the town pending receipt of the permits by Frank Arnold Contracting.

The commission acted Tuesday to approve several change orders for the project, including application of magnetic tape over the PVC waterline to make locating the lines easier if they ever need to be dug up.

This is expected to add approximately $100 to the project costs.

The board also agreed to extend the water line up to the school and to install a fire hydrant. This action will reduce the costs for the school to hook onto the system and increase fire protection.

Upper Yough

The board took action to sign a letter of intent to meet the conditions set by Farmers Home to obtain an FHA bond for the local poriton.

The group also discussed engineering proposals received to construct the interceptor line for Bausch and Lomb and upgrade the Trout Run treatment plant.

The commission was unable to concur on a selection from the five proposals, however, and will take up the matter again at the next meeting.

If the plan to construct an interceptor line at the Bausch and Lomb plant, abandon the Bausch and Lomb treatment plant, and aerate the lagoon at Trout Run is approved and funding obtained, the commission will be proceeding with the entire project.

This could lead to lifting of the sewer moratorium placed on the towns in the Upper Yough area. Before construction stage is reached, a public hearing will be scheduled to allow review of the plan and public comments.

Shallmar Water

The commission now has an engineering proposal for design of the Shallmar water system. The proposal is from Greenhorne and O'Mara, engineer for the Kitzmiller water system.

Gorman Decision

The sanitary commission denied two requests for elimination of front footage assessments for the Gorman water system. Hearings on the matter were held approximately two months ago for the property owners involved.

Computer System

Main records and billings will soon be stored in a Zenith computer system obtained from Buzz Updyke. After a review of Updyke's presentation Tuesday, the commission agreed to purchase the system. Total cost for the system and the majority of the software needed will be less than $10,000.

SHA To Drill, Evaluate Wells

The State Highway Administration expects to choose a well driller this week to drill four experimental wells near Grantsville and Keyser Ridge to evaluate whether new wells would be a solution to many property owners' problems with contaminated wells.

T. Wallace Beaulieu, SHA administrator for District 6, announced late last week that four property owners have given permission for the test wells. The SHA will pay for drilling costs, casing and grouting as they gather data about the feasibility of drilling wells to end problems with salt-contaminated water.

Joe Dorsey, assistant administrator for the district, said this morning that three of the wells will be located between Grantsville and Route 219 north. The fourth well will be in the Keyser Ridge vicinity. The engineers are hopeful that deep wells, cased and grouted for a great part of their depth, will end problems encountered by many property owners who feel their shallow wells or springs have been contaminated by salt runoff from snow removal operations. The proposals have gone to well drillers who are to respond by the end of this week.

If this seems to be the solution to the water problems, then the SHA will evaluate other properties to determine if additional wells should be drilled.

Pumping Stations For Lake System Now In Service

Pumping stations are now being placed in service prior to start up of the Deep Creek Lake sewer system within the next few weeks, according to a report fromthe Garrett County Sanitary Commission.

Start up and tests at the treatment plant will begin next week, with manufacturer representatives, contractors, and the design engineer present. Following plant tests the entire system will be ready to accept sewage, according to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator.

The ultraviolet light system for the plant has not yet been received but officials have been assured that it will be here and ready for installation by October 1.

The official ribbon-cutting ceremony is scheduled October 17, with officials from the Environmental Protection Agency, state health department, contractors, and political representatives expected to be present.

Following the ceremony there will be tours of the project.

Sewer Connection

The sanitary commission discussed Tuesday how to proceed to notify property owners about making sewer connections. The commission agreed to ask Greenhorne and O'Mara, inspection engineers, to prepare a set of guidelines for the commission to consider to augment the sewer user ordinance and any public requirements that the district would adopt for controlling connections to the system.

The commission then discussed providing notices to property owners and agreed to send a letter containing recommendations and requirements for hookup. Hookups are to be completed by late spring, giving property owners who do not come to the county during the winter time to install their connections.

Condo Assoc. Unhappy

Walter Clark, chairman of the management committee for Red Run Condominiums, expressed that group's dissatisfaction with repairs made to their road. He outlined concerns and recommendations which could correct the situation.

The sanitary commission will discuss the recommendations to see if anything else is needed in order to meet requirements of the contract and easement agreement which was obtained from the condo association in order to install the lines. Beitzel assured Clark that the commission will attempt to work with Red Run to reach satisfactory conclusion.

Easements

The commission also reviewed recording of the massive piles of easements which were required to install the system across private property. The state now requires payment of a minimum of $10 per instrument for such recording.

This would mean a total local share of the costs (EPA and the state have no provisions for such payments) of $20,000.

The commission is presently investigating ways to circumvent this cost, and has been advised by its attorney Gorman Getty III that if the easements are the property of the county rather than the sanitary commission, they could be recorded free of charge.

The commission urged Beitzel to pursue transferring all rights to the county commissioners and to approach the commissioners on the matter. Preliminary encounters indicate the commissioners are willing, but that board has delayed a decision while county attorney W. Dwight Stover investigates to make sure no legal problems would be attached to such a method.

We Favor a Balanced Federal Budget . . . Now!

Here's why:

1. There have been budget deficits in 22 of the last 23 fiscal years resulting in an enormous federal deficit now totaling $1.6 trillion.
2. If continued, this figure will continue to grow and could lead to higher interest rates, increased inflation, growing unemployment and sluggish investment.
3. Action this year on a balanced budget constitutional amendment is the best way to begin correction of this serious problem.
4. The Senate is currently acting on Balanced Budget legislation but on the House side of Congress, House Joint Resolution No. 243 - which calls for an annual balanced federal budget - is tied up in committee.
5. The House of Representatives leadership has refused to schedule action in spite of the fact that more than 165 representatives (well over ⅓ of the total House membership) are co-sponsors of the legislation.

We urge you to contact your Congressional Representative now and ask for their support of H.J.R. No. 243 - which calls for an annual balanced federal budget. Your Congressional Representative is:

Rep. Beverly B. Byron

Time For Balancing . . .

Our nation is over $1.6 trillion in debt right now. It's difficult to imagine how much money that is. If it were divided among every man, woman and child in the country today, each would receive about $7,600. It is enough to buy over 24 million new homes, plus almost 270 million new automobiles. A stack of $1,000-bills totalling $1.6 trillion would be 160 miles high!

What can be done about this debt, which will double in just seven years if it continues its present rate of growth?

President Reagan and a number of our legislators believe that a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget, except in the event of a national emergency, will be one positive step toward eliminating this deficit.

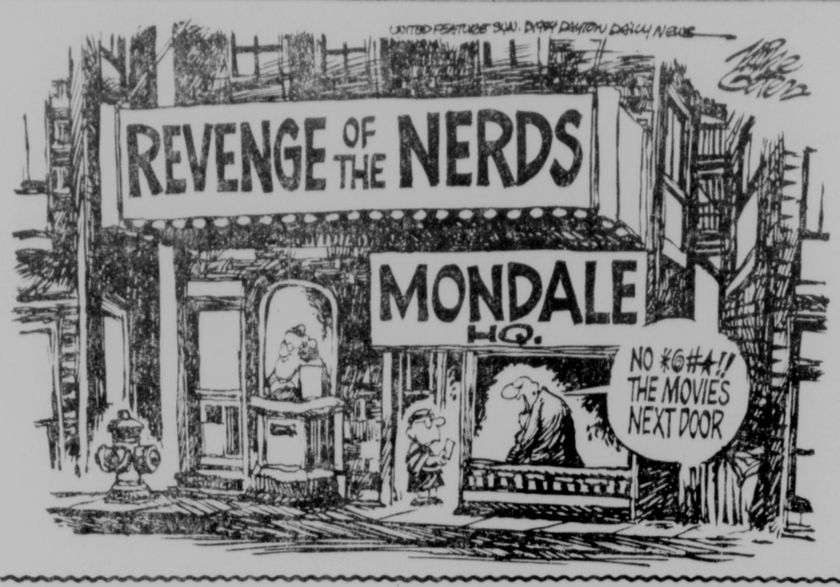

The American Bankers Association, a group which proved its powerful influence by leading the successful campaign to have the tax withholding law repealed last year, has climbed upon the bandwagon in support of the balanced budget amendment. Local bank leaders are united in this effort.

Although we're not sure that the federal government can realistically operate on a balanced budget, we certainly support the concept. As individuals and family members, we all know in working out our own personal finances that we should never spend money that we don't have. If we borrow money, which is a necessity for almost all of us, we should first make sure we have the means of making the payments back. It seems that this same philosophy should be adopted by our federal government.

With the balanced budget amendment, at least Congress would be given some guidelines and a limit on spending, both of which seem quite desirable in light of the huge deficit.

The Senate version of the amendment bill is out of committee, but its companion House bill is still locked in committee. Lots of pressure from constituents, via letters and phone calls to our legislators, will help force this bill out of committee and to a vote by the entire House of Representatives. If the bill is passed by Congress, state-by-state ratification would be the next step.

We, like the ABA, encourage citizens to contact their Congressional representatives on this matter. Our economy simply cannot continue to run deeper and deeper in the red if it is to survive.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Three hundred words is hardly enough to say what is wrong with Garrett County and the Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals.

After my return from World War II I built a cabin at Green Glades, cutting a road through my own land. The public was invited to use it. This road has served very well those people who have objected to Wanda Maphis placing a trailer on her land. She is the only person in that area who owns a right of way to the Lake and has a dock in place. The objections of the zoning board seem ridiculous in the light of other favorable opinions they rendered at the same meeting.

In the course of my life in dealing with people I have quite often noted that there is a story behind the story. It is my belief there might just possibly be some person or persons who would like to obtain her piece of land and even more importantly, the twenty foot strip of land with the dock in place, that she owns to the lake. Judging from the grossly inflated prices of land, this could be for some entrepreneur, a bonanza.

It is the opinion of this writer that "cronyism" is rampant in Garrett County and just possibly, it might influence decisions made in the whole area.

Finally, this writer believes that there should be a change in the membership of the Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals and that this widow lady should not be denied her constitutional right for liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Sincerely,
Richard J. Williams, M.D.

To the Editor:

It came as a shock to many people of Garrett County to receive word the Rocky Gap was chosen to be the site for a Convention Center in Western Maryland, when out of three locations of State Parks in Garrett County, only one was considered.

If this is a sample of the way to legislate and spend taxpayers money in Maryland, God have mercy on us. It reminds me of the adage, "Let's be democratic and do it my way."

In my estimation this sham legislation should be known to the entire State of Maryland, because it shows a lack of respect to the voters for local government and the will of the people.

Catherine L. Hoye

To the Editor:

Governor Hughes' endorsement of the convention resort plan for Rocky Gap State Park follows sanctioning of the plan by Senator Steinberg and Delegate Cardin. Could this be payment of a political debt for the Pension Revision Bill vote in the 1984 General Assembly session? If so, imagine Baltimore's reward for the efforts of Mayor Schaefer in "whipping the city delegation into line."

Sincerely yours,

To the Editor:

Your topic for last week's editorial, "Secession?" . . . is certainly a one sided view concerning the location of a State Convention Center. I found it to be saturated with the "Sour Grapes" syndrome. Truthfully I can't imagine any politician in this county (or yourself) who wouldn't have been tickled to have such a large investment rooted at Deep Creek Lake, State initiated or otherwise.

But now that the decision to have a center placed at Rocky Gap State Park has been made, a chorus of accusations have risen to denounce this "waste of taxpayer's money." Well, I assure you this isn't "a kick in my mouth" and I would wager that the average citizen in Garrett County could care less as well. After the high paying construction jobs are finished, this resort will employ many score of minimum wage workers while a handful of managers will make a bundle. What kind of economic future is that?

The fact remains that Rocky Gap is a better location for the center than Deep Creek Lake. Route 40 is more than adequate to handle the increase in vehicular traffic, whereas the Glendale Bridge Road can barely handle existing traffic. The majority of Marylanders live closer to Allegany County than Garrett County. Why should they have to drive an hour further when there is an adequate Mountain setting at Rocky Gap.

This talk of secession sounds peculiar, coming from a Republican. Remember, it was Abraham Lincoln and his Republican strong arms that prevented Maryland from seceding to the Confederacy years ago.

Sincerely,
Steve Shaffer
Deer Park

To the Editor:

Shame on you!

Your dissertation on the evils of the DNR was in very poor taste and your suggestion that we secede from Maryland was even worse.

Did it ever enter your mind that Rocky Gap was chosen because it was honestly believed to be the better site?

Over the years this county has been the subject of much bad press—too many Bradley Manors, Jawbreaker Road, Courthouse, hospital, community college and county roads fiascos to name a few. One group wants tourism, another wants to be left strickly alone, and who pays for all this indecision? All of us pay, but mostly the young kids just starting out trying to make sense out of all this mumbo-jumbo we are subjected to daily.

Talk about Pork-barrel politics, no state is any worse today, in my opinion, than West Virginia. Look at her terrible roads, unemployment, decaying towns . . . and you recommend seceding to this state! How foolish can you get?

Name withheld

P.S.

Please do not publish my name, as it would be unfair to some of my relations who probably do not have these same opinions.

To the Editor:

Your "Secession?" editorial was magnificent. Being a former Preston County native where cover-up is not the name of the game, I am 100% for it. The DNR on the lake this summer has been magnificently superior—don't forget that.

Mr. Friend's letter regarding our elected officials is timely but include our county commissioners also, who may be too busy signing proclamations and having pictures taken for answers to legitimate deep problems in their jurisdiction. Their saying last week all is so beautiful in the Roads Department is a travesty. Why two resignations now and why a resignation three years ago? Cover-up? Read Garrett County commissioners' regular meeting minutes authorization 14 July '81, regular session 14 July '81 and regular session 7/28/81 and regular session 8/4/81. I have been trying for months to get an official clearing of a stop sign on Blooming Rose Road and Route 42 and it's still not cleared. What right does a county roads employee have to come on my property concerning my complaint?

What's wrong that the minutes don't relate all the true business spoken in the commissioners' real meetings? Why no recording? Why no Garrett County Ethics Committee looking into this? Why the news media aren't publicizing the actual business pursued in the regular county commissioners' meetings? Who is responsible for this coverage?

Why are the commissioners unable to act for the citizen they are elected to represent now in my situation? How did they get in this fix? Legal and or general incompetence or what? Answers? Carol Nill's, Turkey Neck, Republican letter 30 August summed it well on The Republican cartoon depicting violence and abuse of women as a joke—typical Garrett County male chauvinistic attitude plus brutality and stupidity. How come? Think!

This is my opinion.

Thayer Elected To First Federal Directors Board

First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland held the annual meeting of its members on Wednesday at its home office in the Downtown Cumberland Mall for the purpose of electing directors and officers for the coming year.

R. Thomas Thayer, Jr., Oakland, was elected to the Board of Directors for a three-year term. Thayer, president of Garrettland Realty comes to the Board bringing a background of varied professional and community activities in the Garrett County area.

After serving in the Air Force in WW II, he graduated from West Virginia University and was employed by the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks as Assistant District Forester. He became District Forester in 1960 and in 1962 left the Department to become associated with the Garrett National Bank in Oakland as special representative. In 1965, he and Fred A. Thayer formed Garrettland Realty and he has been active in the real estate and development field since.

Thayer developed Sky Valley and Four Hooppole South, a condominium project on Deep Creek Lake, and in recent years has been developing elderly and moderate income housing facilities. He has served in many positions in his professional field as well as in the community. He has served two terms as Regional Vice President of the National Farm and Land Institute, is past president of the Maryland Farm and Land Institute, past chairman and member of the Advisory Board to the Secretary of the Department of Natural Resources, and a member of the steering committee for the Maryland Affordable Housing Conference. He was named Maryland "Farm and Land Broker of the Year" in 1981 and was designated by the Governor as a "Distinguished Citizen of Maryland."

Thayer serves on the Garrett County Development Corporation. He is past president of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council and was one of the founders and chairman of the Autumn Glory Festival. He is past president of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club, retired from the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and a member of the American Legion and Elks.

He and his wife, Sallie, reside on an 80-acre tree farm outside of Oakland. He lists his avocations as hunting, fishing and gardening.

First Federal maintains eight offices throughout Allegany and Garrett counties with an office in the Midtowns Shopping Plaza in Oakland.

family.

Although firemen were able to stop the blaze, the entire interior was either gutted by the fire or sustained severe heat damage and smoke damage. All of the family's possessions were lost.

Carola estimated the damage to be at least $25,000. He said Mrs. Wildesen had insurance on the structure, but the family had no insurance on their possessions.

Carola said there was no smoke detector in the house and once again stressed the importance for all residential structures to have working smoke alarms, which is now a Maryland state law. "If this fire had occurred in the middle of the night, there may have been eight fatalities," he said.

The members of the Boler family are reportedly temporarily scattered about staying with relatives. The House of Hope, which has supplied food to the family, is assisting with finding a place of residence for them.

Firemen remained on the scene until about 9:55 p.m. There were no injuries reported.

DNR To Issue 3,000 Antlerless Deer Permits

The Department of Natural Resources announced at a public meeting last night that 3,000 anterless deer permits will be issued in the county, the same number as last year.

In response to numerous complaints voiced at an earlier public meeting, however, the DNR will be issuing additional antlerless permits in areas where severe crop damage has been encountered over the last few years. These permits will be used during the regular antlerless season, and the landowner will be responsible for seeing that a list of the hunters who will be eligible to use the additional permits on his property is given to DNR personnel.

A hunter will not be permitted to kill more than one antleress deer.

Most of the 30 or more persons who turned out at the Garrett Community College auditorium Wednesday night seemed satisfied with DNR's attempt to resolve the deer damage problem, according to Al Bourgeois, district wildlife manager for Garrett County. Moderator was Bob Miller, director of the forest game program for DNR. Others present from DNR were Donald MacLaughlan, director of the Maryland Forest, Parks and Wildlife Service, and Ed Golden, regional director. Del. George Edwards was also present, along with a representative from Sen. John Bambacus' office.

Bourgeois also pointed out that the DNR will be looking into the possibility of instituting zones for next year and will welcome comments on the issue during the annual meeting on hunting regulations. The meeting will be held next March, and written comments will be accepted for 30 days beyond the date of the meeting.

The zone concept was suggested too late to implement this year since the hunting and trapping guides had already gone to the printer.

Roads Dept.

smooth the transition period the roads department is experiencing, according to a spokesman for the commissioners.

The commissioners inspected several county roads Tuesday that have recently undergone construction and re-paving, including Sang Run Road, Cranesville Road, and Blooming Rose Road. They also inspected the recently reopened Limestone Bridge near Friendsville.

They met with Ted Raynovich regarding an ownership dispute about the Glen Cove Road. The commissioners said that they have referred the matter to county attorney Dwight Stover.

In other business, the commissioners met with Promotional Council Director Cindy Kutchman, who requested $2,500 to have the county's proposal to host the 1989 Whitewater World Championships printed for presentation to the International Canoe Association in October. No action was taken on the request.

The commissioners also deferred action on a request by Assistant Superintendent of Schools James Lupis to carry over revenue sharing funds from 1983-84 into the new year.

Our Turn

LITTLE LEAGUE MOTHERS
by Pam Ashby

'I've had it with "Little League Mothers"! You know that I mean - those seemingly harmless women who transform before your very eyes into raging sideline referees or umpires. This tends to happen when they don't quite agree with the umpire's or referee's decision.

They are the women who refuse to let their children watch the Three Stooges bop each other over the head and gouge each other in the eyes because it's too violent, but think nothing of chasing the umpire around the bases with a basebal bat. (He called her son "out".) I mean really!

They are the women who never raise their voices to their children because it will destroy the little tyke's egos, yet it's only human nature to accuse the referee of being - - - - , as she slam dunks him through the hoop. (He called a foul on her daughter.) Is that rich?

They are the women who preach constantly that "it isn't who wins but how you play the game", but feel justifed in demanding from the refreee, "How much did the other team pay you under the table." (Her son's team just lost the football game.) Disgusting!

I could go on and on, telling you stories that would send shivers up your spine, but what's the use? It's that old Jekyll and Hyde syndrome—a sweet, innocent woman gone berserk.

As I was relating this tale of woe to a woman seated beside me at my son's football game last Saturday, some irate mother, who felt her son wasn't being aggressive enough, yelled, "Kill him, Jamie!" Mortified, I (. . . I mean she) immediately sank into the bleachers realizing what I (opps! I mean she) had just said. I mean really! Is that rich!? Disgusting!

Note: For anyone who attended that game Saturday, the above is merely fiction (honest . . gulp) and any similarities are purely coincidental. Really, it's just a coincidence that my son's name is Jamie. Oh, come on . . . your don't think that I . . .

He also had requested that the commissioners approve the spending of $13,500 in revenue sharing funds to fence in the Southern High School Open Space Project to keep out three-wheelers and other vehicles.

commissioners questioned whether there is any unusual topography, and were told there is none. The tract drains off each side of the mountain, either to Savage River or George's Creek.

reasons, the desire to take a break from schooling, preference for a four-year program, the lack of a desired athletic program, enrollment in the Army, moving out of town, and lack of interest.

Registrations for fall were down 29 persons as of September 18 compared to last year.

Revenue Projections

A funding shortage of about $30,000 based on FTEs, combined with a decrease in in-county tuition of about $19,000, will be offset by increases in out-of-county and out-of-state tuition, increases in West Virginia reciprocity tuition, increases in miscellaneous income, and a reduction in the bookstore deficit, according to a revenue projection report presented by Martin.

The revenue projection report showed the areas of increased income coming within $1,440 of balancing out the reductions in FTE funding and in-county tuition.

Cash Flow Report

Martin reported that cash flow is approximately $104,000 ahead of projections due to a number of positions that were unfilled early in the fiscal year, and a subsequent slowdown in the velocity of spending in the area of personnel.

Computerization

Martin presented a report on the computerization of the accounting and registration functions at the college. The board was taken on a tour of the computer center, where Martin demonstrated some of the capabilities of the computer in the areas of student information and purchasing.

Dean of Academic Affairs Fred Learey commented on the computer system, "We are extremely fortunate to have this tool . . . it has aided us greatly."

College President Randall Harman commended Martin and the other college employees that worked on the computerization process for the speed with which the system was implemented.

Organizational Report

Dean Learey and Dean Martin presented a report on the organization of college personnel. The report showed the employees falling under the jurisdiction of either the dean of academic affairs or the dean of finance.

Under the jurisdiction of the Dean of Academic Affairs are the director of student services, Mike Friend; director of athletics, Denny Fearnow; director of academic programs, Dr. Lillian Mitchell; director of learning resources, Carol Smith; and director of continuing education, Lowell Bender.

Under the jurisdiction of the Director of Academic Programs are academic chairperson for the arts, Bob Crone; academic chairperson for the sciences, Mike Logston; and extended learning chairperson, Joan Crawford.

The Dean of Finance supervises the director of accounting, John Culp; director of admissions, Bill Ewing; and supervisor of building and grounds, Bill Nedrow.

Board member Pat Fischetti called the revised system "logical and workable."

Displaced Worker Program

President Harman outlined the Job Training Partnership Act Title III Dislocated Workers Program operated by the college in FY1984.

Fifty-two individuals participated in the program, which offered paid tuition, books, and fees to eligible unemployed persons. About 75% of the participants were involved in on-job training at subsidized work sites.

A placement rate of 54%, which well exceeded the required rate of 40% was realized during the year.

Lowell Bender, director of continuing education, said that the college had done "an excellent job with the program" in cooperation with the local Jobs Training Partnership Act Office.

Harman told the board that the college will be receiving additional funding to continue the program this year.

Funding Study Update

Harman updated the board on a study of how two-year colleges are funded by the state. The package, which was scheduled to be approved by the State Board for Community Colleges last week, has stirred considerable controversy throughout the state, particularly in the area of equity funding to five colleges identified as particularly in need of aid. GCC is not among the five, which includes the Community College of Baltimore, Allegany, Hagerstown, Harford, and Prince George's Community Colleges.

The controversy has delayed the approval of the plan for another month. After approval by the SBCC, the plan will be presented to the Maryland General Assembly.

The study was requested by Governor Harry Hughes to examine community college funding, which has lagged behind funding to state four-year institutions. Harman estimated that four-year colleges receive 80% aid, as compared to 30% aid to community colleges.

Food Service Contract

The board voted to approve the renewal of the food service contract for the college with Casselman Inc., Grantsville. The contract calls for Casselman Inc. to provide hot meals during the school year, and offers the option for offering breakfast and catering special functions at the college if desired.

Three Escape Serious Injury In Auto Mishaps

A Mt. Lake Park woman escaped injury Monday evening when the automobile she was operating was struck in the side by a self-propelled piece of railroad equipment used to allign and level railroad tracks.

Rebecca Rosemary Esposito, 30, began to cross the railroad tracks near the intersection of Rt. 135 and Rt. 560 in Loch Lynn at 9:50 p.m. after seeing there were no warning lights flashing at the railroad crossing when the railroad vehicle hit her 1976 Ford Mustang causing considerable damage.

The Southern Rescue Squad responded to the scene and transported Mrs. Esposito to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released.

Tfc. G.R. Chaney of the Maryland State Police investigated the accident and stated that the railroad warning lights did not work, and Mrs. Esposito failed to see the railroad vehicle, driven by Thomas Shay, 24, Rowlesburg, W.Va., as it crossed Route 560.

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department was also summoned to the scene by Central Alarm.

In another accident occurring Monday at 8:15 a.m., Julius Edmond Kinser, 45, Swanton, also escaped serious injury when the Garrett County Roads Department Truck he was operating was forced off the road by an unknown automobile, causing him to lose control. The 1978 Ford truck overturned.

Tfc. D.G. Riggleman investigated and no charges were filed. Kinser was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

In a one-vehicle accident which occurred last Thursday at 3:34 a.m., Mark Sanford Duckworth, 27, Swanton, walked away from his automobile after it left the roadway striking a guardrail and overturning. Tfc. R.J. Rush investigated the accident and charged Duckworth with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs.

Students Fail

statement by David W. Hornbeck, state superintendent of schools.

Hornbeck's report noted that on functional tests of ninth grade students in reading, writing, and mathematics, scores are up across the board. On nationally normed tests, such as the California Achievements Tests, which are taken by third, fifth and eighth graders, all three grades performed significantly above the national norms.

It was stated in the report that the third grade, which began this series in 1980 below national norms, are now scoring above the norms across the board.

The report also noted that Maryland student performance on the Scholastic Achievement Test has shown steady improvement for the past several years. For more that a decade there had been a steady decline in test scores.

Finally Ringer stated, "We have quite a job ahead of us in order to get new ninth grade students to pass as well as the tenth grade students who failed last spring to pass. We can't sit back any longer and let this problem ride."

Capital Improvements

James Lupis, assistant superintendent for administrative affairs, presented a summary of a five year plan for current and future capital improvement projects, including the renovation of Northern High School, a proposed renovation of Southern High School, and the construction of a new school to replace Loch Lynn Elementary School, to the board. Lupis will present the plan to the Inter-Agency Committee on Public School Construction in October.

Lupis told the board that he will request almost $5 million from the IACPSC for the renovation of Northern High School, and that schematics for the project were approved by the committtee with three minor recommended changes.

One of the top priorities of the NHS project, slated for 1986, is the renovation of the science and math areas and the need to bring departmental areas closer together. Also the media center would be moved downstairs to a central location with added space. The cafetorium would be redesigned to include more stage space. The vocational areas would also be redesigned and enlarged. More space would be added in the special education areas to better accommodate the handicapped.

Lupis will request planning approval for the proposed renovations to Southern High School at the October meeting with the IACPSC. The work envisioned for SHS would involve the renovation of existing facilities to provide more space in the areas of art, English, music, physical education, science, foreign language, and special education. Provisions would also be and improved administrative and improved adminsitrative spaces. This project is scheduled to begin in 1987.

The replacement of Loch Lynn Elementary School with a new school named Lynn Valley is projected for the year 1989 pending IACPSC approval. Lupis stated that the new facility would provide space for a maximum of 300 kindergarten through fifth grade students and would be located on a site close to the community of Loch Lynn, yet easily assessible to the Pleasant Valley area.

Career Employability Program

Efforts to acquire funding for the Career Employability Program from the Western Maryland Consortium and other outside sources since early April have been slowed by "bureaucratic red tape," according to John Ledden, career employability coordinator.

In a report submitted to the board by Ledden, it was noted that differing philosophies between agencies, coupled with the desire of those agencies to protect their philosophies by controlling and receiving credit for funding, and the large amount of paperwork required, has slowed down the funding process and resulted in a decreased level of funding for the program.

As a result of the delays, the program has already lost one career-employability teacher, and class enrollment has been reduced by 15-20%. Reduced funds also forced the program to eliminate the field advisor position and reduced the secretary to half-time.

Last year the career employability program served 150 economically disadvantaged youth, and 14 youth identified as eligible under other criteria, representing 12.38% of Garrett County High School students based on 1984 enrollment figures.

Due to difficulties of "strings attached" funding from outside sources, Ledden requested that the board "think of new ways to make the Career Employability program part of the regular curriculum supported within the local budget structure to build stability and availability."

Parrack noted that "We saw a need to help terminal students in a vocational way. We used federal and state resources but that will work no longer. There is too much red tape, and too much trying to match pieces."

He added, "We've got to give John Ledden a pat on the back. This has been a very stressful experience for him," referring to Ledden's efforts to unsort the bureaucratic tangle connected with the employability grants.

Tobacco Use

A draft of a policy on the use of tobacco by non-students in county schools was distributed by Ryscavage, who requested that the board review the draft before taking action in its adoption next month.

The policy would allow use of tobacco by non-students in designated areas only. The staff at each school would be allowed to decide whether to designate such an area.

Use of tobacco at board and non-board sponsored activities such as plays, basketball games, etc. would be allowed only in designated areas.

Tobacco use on the school grounds by non-students would be allowed at activities such as football games and other outdoor activities.

"We feel this is a reasonable compromise in terms of the point that the same standard should apply for students and non-students alike. We have a different responsibility to the two groups," Ryscavage said.

Open Space Project

James Lupis, assistant superintendent for administrative affairs, reported on the Southern High School Open Space project. He told the board that the softball fields look very good, and that he has received the assurance of Paul Shockey, interim administrator of the county roads department, that the necessary ditching work in the area will be done.

Lupis told the board that there is $34,000 in 1984 federal revenue sharing funds still unspent, and requested that the board authorize him to spend $13,500 of that money to fence the Open Space area to keep out three-wheelers and other vehicles. He emphasized that the fence would include walk-in gates to allow foot traffic in and out of the area.

He also asked for authorization to request that the Board of County Commissioners allow the remaining $21,000 in revenue sharing monies to be carried over into the new year. Both requests were approved unanimously by the school board.

IS HOME STILL GOOD INVESTMENT?

Is the purchase of a home still a good investment when the inflation rate drops to say, 4%? It certainly is!

If you buy a house for $80,000 with a $20,000 down payment and the house appreciates at 4%, it will increase in value in one year alone by $3,200. This $3,200 represents a 16% return on your $20,000 investment. Sixteen percent is an excellent return. It's hard to find an investment that returns 16% when the inflation rate is only 4%. It doesn't stop there.

If you are financing the $60,000 at (for example) 13%, you would be paying $7,800 in interest during the first year. Interest is an income tax deduction. For a person in the 30% tax bracket, this interest deduction has a cash equivalency value of $2,340. Add this to the increase in home value during the first year and you have a total of $5,540. This figure translates to a whopping 27.7% return on the down payment investment. Property taxes are also a deduction which further increases the return. No doubt about it. A home is an excellent investment.

District Court Results Noted

Cases involving trespassing and bad checks charges were heard September 11 by Judge Jack Turney in Garrett County District Court.

Marvin Sines, Jr., 18, Friendsville, was found guilty of wanton trespassing on the property of Edward L. Ross, Friendsville, and given 12 months unsupervised probation. He was also fined $500 plus court costs for trespassing and fined additional $25 plus court costs for trespassing with a vehicle. Turney ordered Sines to stay off the property of Ross as a condition of his probation.

In another case, Jessie Ruth Glotfelty, 46, Mt. Lake Park, was found guilty of wanton trespassing at Bud's Package Store in Crellin owned by Willard Reckart. Turney fined the woman $500 plus court costs with $475 suspended. She was also ordered not to enter the property of Reckart or to use the telphone to harass him.

In a case involving a bad check charge, Frank Raymond Gianny, Rockville, was found guilty and Turney ordered a pre-sentence investigation pending sentencing.

Correction

In a District Court story which appeared in The Republican September 7, it was erroneously reported that Barbara L. Lewis, 23, was found guilty of three bad check charges and fined $50 plus court costs and given 18 months unsupervised probation. In fact, it was Barbara A. Lewis, 25, who was ordered to pay the fines and given probation. Barbara L. Lewis was found guilty of one bad check charge but her fine and court costs were waived by Judge Turney.

Election Board Responds To GOH Info Requests

Representatives from the Garrett Organization for the Handicapped met Monday night with the Board of Election Supervisors to obtain information on barrier-free polling places and to explain plans to register handicapped residents of Garrett Crossroads to vote.

Dorothy Leuba, president of GOH, and Mrs. Ruth Ryan were told by election clerk-registrar Fred Sanders that 16 of the county's 19 polling places are barrier-free for the handicapped. Handicapped voters in the three polls with barriers may request a transfer to another district to vote or may mail in an absentee ballot if requested before the end of October.

The three polling places not barrier-free are Swanton, Red House and Crellin.

The GOH organization plans to begin a campaign to register handicapped voters and will place an advertisement to that effect in local newspapers once the board of elections reviews their plans.

Special Meeting On Ballot

The Board of Election Supervisors held a special meeting Saturday on the state-prepared ballot and the placement of the judicial questions.

The board had reservations that the placement compiled with Article 33 of the Annotated Code, and had their attorney Thomas Dabney contact the state board of elections.

A reply was received Tuesday from Jack Schwartz, assistant Attorney General, giving his advice that the arrangement is legally sufficient. Following review of Schwartz' opinion, the local board agreed to use the state ballot as prepared.

Approximately 15 persons sessions required to enlist new sessions require to enlist new voters. Classes were held September 18, 19 and 20 in the courthouse.

October 8 is the final day to register before the November 6 general election. The office will be open daily from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 and until 9 p.m. on the 8th.

Gibson Sparkles As Rams Coast Past Central Preston, 33-14; Musselman Next

Senior quarterback J.R. Gibson provided an outstanding performance in Kingwood Friday evening as he led the Southern Rams, both offensively and defensively, over Central Preston, 33-14. It was Southern's second win in as many starts this season.

C. Preston		Southern

Gibson ran for a pair of touchdowns, passed for another and either ran for or kicked three conversion points on offense, and also recorded six tackles and five assists from his safety position on defense.

Southern coasted to a 27-0 halftime lead before bogging down somewhat in the second half and allowing the West Virginians to record two fourth quarter touchdowns.

Gibson put the Rams on the board in the first period when he dived over from the one, which he followed with a successful run for the two-point conversion.

Dave McLaughlin, who finished with 100 yards rushing on just six carries, broke away on Southern's next possession and raced 75 yards to the end zone. The run for the conversion failed.

In the second quarter, Kurk Turney was on the scoring end of a 33-yard aerial from Gibson to give Southern a 20-0 advantage. Turney nearly added another score in the third quarter on a pass play, but was hauled down by one remaining Cavalier.

Sophomore running back Bruce Bosley, who gained 67 yards on 13 carries, gave the Rams their final touchdown in the first half when he dashed in from the four. Gibson booted the extra point.

After intermission, it was Gibson again, this time running in for a touchdown from 27 yards out, which completed the Rams' scoring for the evening.

Central Preston averted a shutout when Carl Barnett forced his way into the end zone from the one in the third quarter. The run for the conversion failed.

Quarterback Darrell Dupert hit Todd Warnick with a six-yard scoring strike in the final period and then connected with David Chidester for the two-pointer to round out Central Preston's scoring.

Southern led in total yardage, 395-165, with 118 of the Rams' yardage coming through the air.

Other standouts defensively for Southern were Steve Schrock, who was awarded the Defensive Champion award of the week; McLaughlin, who had six tackles and four assists; and Steve Bennett, who picked off a pair of interceptions, his second and third of the season.

"We were certainly pleased with our first half of play," Coach Tom Woods stated. "We had a few breakdowns, but only minor ones.

"The second half was a different story though," he continued. "We had only 14 offensive plays in the third quarter which was below our average of about 40. Our defense simply was not intensive."

Woods admitted that it is difficult not to let down after jumping out to such a big lead in the first half. The coaching staff also did quite a bit of substituting in the second half, and Woods stated that he would have liked to have played everyone, but there were numerous players on the sidelines who had played in a previous contest on Monday and thus were ineligible to play Friday.

Woods said he was "very happy" with the performance of Gibson, noted that the receivers played well and that the offensive line "blocked superbly." There were no sacks by the Central Preston defense.

"Defensively, everyone played well at times," Woods said, "but other times they didn't play well at all as a unit." Eight of the Rams' defensive positions are being filled by first-year starters.

Coach Woods said he was pleased with the offensive balance of passing yardage with rushing yardage.

What most consider the first real test for the Rams will be staged this Friday evening in Oakland against Musselman, a team that Woods says for the past five years has been the toughest on Southern's schedule and overall probably the toughest in the state of West Virginia.

The Applemen are suffering in number this season, partially as a result of graduation, but mainly due to West Virginia's new "C law" that requires at least a 2.0 grade point average before a student can engage in extracurricular athletics. Musselman lost 30 players because of this law and consequently is fielding only 24 players.

However, Tom Woods believes that the two dozen remaining players possess as much talent as Musselman teams of the recent past, but in a different way.

"Before, they were a quick, big-play team," he said. "This year they seem to be a power-oriented team. They are big and strong."

Musselman uses a wing-T formation primarily, with a lot of motion and shifts, thus utilizing a lot of different ball carriers.

Among the most outstanding seniors on the team are: Mike Dick, 6-0, 190-pound tailback and linebacker; John Petry, 5-8, 185-pound fullback and linebacker; John Thomas, 5-9, 215-pound guard; Tim Magruder, 6-3, 225-pound tackle; Alan Flatness, 5-10, 160-pound quarterback and safety; and Terry Shetley, 6-0, 170-pound tailback and defensive halfback.

The Applemen are currently 2-0, having defeated Tucker County, 20-0, and Berkeley Springs, 35-6.

"We have scored a total of six points against Musselman in the past three years," Woods recalled, "during which time we averaged about 28 points per game."

Woods said he and the team are "happy to be home" after two away contests and that the team "is excited, has a lot of momentum and is expecting a good game." All members of Southern's team are reported to be healthy.

"We know this is a key game to our season," Woods said, "so we have been working awfully hard. I expect a tightly contested game."

The coach said the Rams will need all the momentum they can muster, for following Musselman the Rams will face undefeated Hampshire and Keyser.

The seventh annual Golf for Heart held September 8 to benefit the research and community programs of the Western Maryland Heart Association involved 49 players at the Oakland Country Club.

The total donated to the American Heart Association was $340, $93 better than the 1983 tournament, according to Charles Kitzmiller and John Wolf co-chairman of the event.

The members of the first place team, Mary Peterson, Barbara Ward, Bob Finch and Bob Bobo, carding a 65, each received a trophy purchased by Rudy's Department Store, Miller's Market, Fred E. Beachy Lumber and Oakland Clothing Wear-House.

There was a tie at 67 for second place between the teams of Diana Kennedy, Cheryl Wotherspoon, Ernie Shaffer and Tom Shaffer, and Carol Sleightholm, Lucy Denning, Ken Metheny and Gary Daniels.

The team of Ann Jesnak, Sue Pagenhart, Charles Kitz and Jim Denning tied with the team of Marianna Naylor, Diana Geare, Henry Trickett and Dale Sweitzer for third place. Each shot a 69.

Jim Kreyenbuhl, club pro, supplied golf balls as prizes for the second and third place teams and kept the statistics.

A grand prize drawing was held following the awards dinner prepared by Dick and Jean Bugha in the clubhouse at the Oakland Country Club.

Marianna Naylor won a wall telephone, donated by Kelly Appliance & Furniture Store. Pearl Daniels was the winner of a thermos cooler, given by the Ben Franklin Store, and Roberta Pfirmann was presented a quartz desk clock.

Old Timers' Championship Won By Bethlehem

The Mt. Top Old Timers Softball League closed its first season with a playoff tournament over the weekend of September 8-9, with Bethlehem emerging as the championship team. Bethlehem also finished in first place during the regular season.

My-O-Tire was the runner-up in the tournament and league standings, followed by Oak Grove Tavern.

Bethlehem and My-O-Tire team members received individual trophies, plus a team sponsor trophy.

Other teams competing in the tourney were Doerr's Construction, Ralph's Richfood, Sheriff's Fall Guys and Coors of Preston County.

The Most Valuable Player trophy was awarded to Curt Glotfelty, of the Bethlehem team.

A league meeting will be held in November. Persons interested in entering a team for the 1985 season may contact Don Savage at 334-9688 during the evening hours.

Raiders Crush Jets In Youth League Action

The Oakland Raiders upped their Mt. Top Youth Football League record to 3-0 by crushing arch rivals, the Oakland Jets, 51-0, on Sunday afternoon at the Southern High School field.

Zack Gibson accounted for the Raiders' first three touchdowns on runs of 14, nine and 15 yards. All three extra point conversion attempts failed.

Brent Sanders added the next touchdown by racing into the end zone from 16 yards out. The extra point try failed again and the Raiders took a 24-0 advantage into the locker room at halftime.

The Raiders defense opened the third period by forcing a Jet fumble, which was recovered on the Jets' 18-yard line. Two plays later Bobby Horner scored on a 16-yard run. The conversion run again failed.

On their next possession, the Jets were forced to punt and Zack Gibson returned the ball 41 yards for another score. Gibson also booted the conversion to give the Raiders a 38-0 lead.

The Raiders scored twice in the fourth quarter on a 26-yard run by Mike Fulmer and a 35-yard pass interception return by Randy Marple. Kevin Lohr ran for the extra point on Marple's touchdown.

The Raider coaches praised their defensive units which caused eight Jet fumbles and picked off a pair of aerials. Leading the winners' defense were Gibson, Horner and Mike Madigan. The Jet defense was paced by Charles Paugh, Mike Flinn, Marshall Pike and Tommy Ritchey. Scott Watson grabbed an interception for the Jets.

The Raiders will return to action this Sunday at 1:30 p.m. when they host the Thomas-Davis Rams, while the Jets will travel to Northern High School to do battle with the Terra Alta Dolphins in a 1:30 p.m. game.

Northern Jayvees Whip Beall, 14-8

The Northern jayvee football team upped its record to 2-0 Monday afternoon by defeating host Beall, 14-8.

Quarterback Wayne Tabor put the Huskies on the board first by scoring from the two-yard line and then kicking the extra point.

Rodney Lipscombe followed with a 95-yard kickoff return for the Huskies' second touchdown. Tabor again booted the extra point.

The Mountaineers avoided a shutout when Bill McFarland returned a punt for 45 yards for a score in the third period. Jeff Phillips ran for the two-point conversion.

Huskies noted for their outstanding play included Tabor, Lipscombe, Mike Smoot, Ed Lytle, Dave Jones and Fred Glotfelty. Pacing Beall's efforts were McFarland, John Ralston, Dennis Clark, Phillips and Dave Weimer.

The Huskies will bring their undefeated record to Oakland on Monday afternoon to face arch-rival Southern. Beall is now 0-2.

Huskies Buried In First Six Minutes Against Frankfort, Defeated 32-6

After opening the season with a win over Bruce, the Northern Huskies were stopped cold in their tracks Friday evening by host Frankfort, 32-6.

Frankfort		Northern
11	First Downs Rush	1
1	First Downs Pass	11
0	First Downs Penalty	1
12	Total First Downs	13
7	Passes Attempted	27
7	Passes Completed	13
0	Passes Intercepted By	4
94	Yards Passing	183
243	Net Yards Rushing	-4
2-25	Punts-Average	5-35
8-56	Penalties-Yards	6-50
3-3	Fumbles-Lost	0-0
339	Total Offense	179

The first six minutes of the contest were disastrous for the Huskies, who suddenly found themselves down 20-0 in that period of time and, although they regrouped, made some adjustments and slowed the Falcons down throughout the remainder for the game, they were never really able to recover.

The Falcons had opened their season with a pair of close losses to Keyser and Tucker County and were obviously anxious to show what kind of team they really are.

Senior fullback Craig Scott picked up 153 yards on 23 carries for the Falcons and scored a pair of touchdowns, while quarterback Kevin Whiteman completed all six of his passes for 80 yards.

Scott opened the scoring with a five-yard touchdown run in the early moments of the contest. The kick for the extra point was no good.

Northern was held deep in their own territory on their next possession and were forced to punt, giving the Falcons good field position, culminating in a four-yard touchdown run by Robbie Shepherd. The conversion kick again failed.

The Huskies' next drive was halted when Kenny Rector picked off a Kevin Sines pass and raced 35 yards into the end zone for Frankfort's third quick score. Whiteman tossed a two-point conversion pass to Brian Bohrer.

Scott scored his second TD of the evening in the second period on a one-yard drive, which closed out the first half scoring.

In the third period, it was the Whiteman-Bohrer combination again on a 15-yard aerial touchdown.

The Huskies got on the board in the third period when Sines plunged over from the one-yard line. The kick for the extra point was no good.

Another opportunity for a touchdown for Northern was erased when Sines' pass into the endzone was picked off by a defender who, according to some Husky fans, interferred with the receiver; however, the referees did not see it that way.

"This was certainly one of the physically strongest teams we have played in several years," Husky Coach Jack Settle stated. "That fact, compounded by our poor blocking, missed tackles and lack of a ground game, allowed them to bury us in the first six minutes of the game. Our overall play as a unit during that time was terrible, one of the poorest starts by us in the past five or six years."

Settle felt that some quick adjustments and regrouping did put the Huskies back in the game, but they were not able to overcome the initial scoring onslaught by the Falcons.

"I give Frankfort a lot of credit," he said. "They are a strong, well-coached team. All the things that went wrong for them in the first two games, they were able to eliminate and make everything go right for them against us."

Settle said that one bright spot for his team was the passing of Kevin Sines, who completed 13 of 27 attempts for 183 yards, the most yardage in the air by a Northern team in at least a decade.

"Kevin played an outstanding game," Settle said. "Frankfort knew that we had to throw, so they were blitzing all night long. But Kevin was still able to pass."

Playing an outstanding defensive game for the Huskies was Matt Eggleston, who recorded 11 solo tackles and assisted on 13 others. Steve Zumpano had five receptions for 79 yards. Charlie Beiler had three catches for 48 yards and Randy Kamp grabbed three for 36 yards.

"We also learned a lesson that will pay off later down the road," he said. "Our kids realized that there are better teams around and that we simply have to work harder, make some adjustments and look ahead with pride and optimism."

Settle is expecting another physical contest this Friday evening at home against Beall, a team which is 0-1 on the season, having dropped its opener to undefeated Hampshire.

Beall returns ten starters from last season's squad, including senior tight end Bryan Hughes, 6-3, 180 pounds; Dean Shiver at linebacker, 5-11, 176, who was the leading tackler last year; and Bryan LaRue, 6-0, 196-pound senior center and defensive tackle. Also providing strength on the line is sophomore Wayne Seifarth, 6-4, 235-pound tackle.

"We anticipate another typical dog fight with the Mountaineers," Settle said. "Physicallly, we are still in good shape and I think we are ready to go mentally as well."

Kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m.

Talk Of The Towns

Deer Park Decides Not To Pursue Sewer Grant Funds

The Mayor and Council of Deer Park decided at their meeting Tuesday night not to pursue a grant application at the present time for the town's sewerage treatment.

There was also some discussion concerning a letter from a church-affiliated group calling itself the Rescue Shop, which proposed to renovate a house on Main Street for a crisis center for teenagers.

Members of the Church of God of Prophecy have contacted Raymond Dubinsky asking to rent the former Haines house on Main Street. Dubinsky advised the group rental would depend on the support and approval of the town officials for the project.

At Tuesday's meeting, council neither supported nor denied the project. Instead, the members suggest that the group sponsor a public meeting to gain input on the proposal.

The remainder of the meeting dealt with routine matters, and with the town's hosting the Maryland Municipal League dinner meeting and election of officers September 19.

The town's next regularly scheduled meeting will be October 8.

Mt. Lake Park Board Approves Apartment Plan

The Mt. Lake Park Board of Zoning Appeals decided in favor of granting a special exception to permit an apartment complex for the elderly behind The Meadows off N Street during a hearing September 13 in the town hall.

The board did not grant, how-ever, a variance which requested that only one parking space per unit be required. The town's zoning laws require two spaces per apartment unit.

Speaking against the variance for parking, were Dr. Joseph Wooddell and Ivan "Red" Frederick.

The 29 one-bedroom apartments would be constructed by EHP Associates II. Partners are R. Thomas Thayer and Dick Devlin, who built the present Meadows complex. As Thayer pointed out, the corporation must have zoning approval before filing an application for Farmers Home Administration funding. The project will now be in competition with other projects nationwide for available funding.

Members of the zoning board are Dan Elmlinger, Charlotte Griffith and Bill Clary.

Mt. Lake Park Will Appeal Ad Valorem Decision

The Mt. Lake Park council made a unanimous decision September 13 to file an appeal with the Maryland Court of Appeals on the recent circuit court decision that the ad valorem tax is enforceable.

The decision was made after Robert Watson, town attorney, briefed the council on the decision announced earlier in September by Judge Fred A. Thayer. A lengthy discussion between members of the town council of Loch Lynn, the attorney and members of the Mt. Lake Park council preceded the decision.

When asked by the councils of both towns for his opinion, Mt. Lake Park Mayor Russell Alexander replied that he was "tired and disgusted with the whole ugly mess."

Before concluding with legal matters, the council agreed to turn over to the town attorney all delinquent sewerage and tax accounts.

Zoning Ordinance

The council agreed to incorporate a non-conforming permit clause into the town's zoning ordinances.

Sewer Matters

The Youghiogheny Plaza sewer project has been completed and all businesses have been connected with the exception of the post office. The mayor stated that the post office will have to have a sewer line installed to the existing manhole and then the town will make the tap for them.

The mayor also noted that the state Department of Health and Mental Hygiene owes approximately $15,000 to the town for force account work done by the town crew on sewer lines.

A letter of approval for a fail-ing septic tank grant was in the amount of $51,680 was read to the council.

A decision was reached to proceed with Broadford Phase II immediately.

Apartments Are Topic

The new housing project for senior citizens has received zoning appeals board approval for construction of the apartments, but a variance requested for fewer parking spaces was denied.

Miscellaneous Topics

A letter was read from Del. George Edwards regarding the Enclave Bill, and the council was informed that the legislators will be discussing the matter very shortly.

Mayor Alexander informed the council that a radiator has been purchased for the grader from Coopers Mfg. and Equipment, Salunga, Pa.; that the town has used 30½ tons of cold mix in repairing potholes in town streets; and that tar and chipping is nearly completed. The council then approved a bid from Frank Arnold for a tractor and cutter bar for $2,395.

Wooddells Get Letter

Mayor Alexander, on behalf of the council, presented a letter of appreciation to Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Wooddell for their continuing interest in and efforts in behalf of the town.

Annual Address

In his annual address to the council, Mayor Alexander announced that for the eighth consecutive year, the town has realized a decrease in the real estate tax rate, from 82 cents in fiscal 1977 to 55 cents in fiscal 1985, while granting an average of 11.7 percent discount over the same period of time.

The annual operating budget and grants budget combined has risen from $262,222 in 1984 to an estimated $536,490 for 1985.

Under capital improvements $127,575 from EPA and state funds and $18,225 of local monies were provided for repair and upgrading of the sewer system throughout the town.

The state is granting $51,680 for the extension of sewer service along Broadford Road and the Manor Mart area. Total cost to the town will not exceed $26,000, the mayor said.

Program Open Space is providing $81,024 for improvements to the playground on L Street. Total cost of the project is $92,774.

The town has been successful in convincing the state that a portion of the local funds for repair and maintenance of the sewer system should be repaid and $15,000 has been promised.

Also, town officials have contracted with the Institute for Governmental Programs and a local attorney for revision of the comprehensive development plan and the zoning ordinance both of which are approximately ten years old.

The mayor also publicly announced his intention to resubmit the tax differential to the commissioners for reconsideration in the upcoming fiscal year.

The mayor also pointed out that since he began in that position in 1977, the Park has expended $122,000 in road paving for the 31 miles of streets in the town. This amount does not include funds expended for tar and chipping, patching potholes, cleaning ditches, etc.

The mayor concluded his remarks by saying "It is my opinion that the town has maintained a high level of service to the residents of this community at one of the lowest municipal tax rates throughout the state of Maryland. I am extremely proud of the progress we have made in Mtn. Lake Park over the past several years and I appreciate the support and hard work you, our elected officials and our town employees have given in order to achieve this success."

Grantsville Hears Sewer Report, Approves Station

Grantsville's town officials had a light agenda during September meetings on the 4th and 17th, according to Mayor Fred Holliday.

Most of the meetings were given to discussion of the sewer project, which is proceeding on schedule. According to word given by the Trim' Corporation, which is in charge of rehablitation, work is proceeding so well that the company is hopeful the work can be completed before winter.

No major problems have been encountered recently, according to the mayor.

Approve Construction

The town officials approved a construction permit for the Shop n' Gas gas station proposed to be constructed by Peters Fuel on the site of the former National Hotel.

A zoning board hearing on the proposal is planned for the future.

The Coulee Dam in Washington is the largest U.S. hydroelectric plant.

EMS To Honor 17 Marylanders

Seventeen Marylanders have been selected to receive the certificate of outstanding contribution from the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems. The awards ceremony will take place in Baltimore at the Engineering Center, Mt. Vernon Place, on Wednesday, September 19, at noon. The certificates will be presented by the Institute's internationally acclaimed founder and director, Dr. R. Adams Cowley.

The award recipient from Western Maryland is Sergeant Carl Marshall, an 18-year veteran of the Maryland State Police, who is being honored for his efforts in establishing the Med-Evac helicopter section at Cumberland.

The awards are presented annually to cite those who have been instrumental in establishing and serving the emergency needs of their communities. This year, the Emergency Medical Services System completed a decade of service to the state. The system serves as an international model for the provision of emergency medical services and guarantees that any citizen of Maryland who needs emergency medical care will be seen by the right people at the right place and time, regardless of their ability to pay.

Bivouac Exercise Slated For Guard

Members of Company C, 121st Engineer Bn, Oakland, of the Maryland Army National Guard are to bivouac overnight during their October Training Assembly. The overnight bivouac will be conducted at the Piney Mountain State Forest, Cransville.

During the two-day tactical training exercise, the local guardsmen will establish route and bridge reconnaissance patrols to insure safe movement through the area.

Once the bivouac area is safely secured, a communications net with headquarters located in the Oakland Armory will be established. Aggressive measures and maneuvers are to be performed between individual platoons in the unit, with the concepts of camouflage and concealment being applied. Nuclear, biological and chemical warfare activities will be presented in the form of tear gas or smoke.

Cystic Fibrosis Bike-A-Thon Set For Saturday

Healthy children and adults will be bicycling in Loch Lynn on Saturday, September 22, to help children and young adults for whom breathing is a daily struggle—victims of cystic fibrosis.

Patti Blythe, Mtn. Lake Park, has organized a "Bike-A-Thon" to raise funds for research to find a cure for this fatal genetic disease. Cystic fibrosis produces a thick mucus that clogs the lungs and intestines, literally suffocating and starving the body.

Persons can help in this effort to fight cystic fibrosis either by bicycling on Saturday or by sponsoring one of the participants. Persons may call Ms. Blythe at 334-3123 for a sponsor form and for more information. Rain date is October 6.

Hearing Dates Scheduled For IRB Allocations

Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development Secretary Frank J. De Francis has announced October 4 and October 18 as dates for public hearings to present written and oral testimony regarding allocation of Industrial Revenue Bond (IRB) issuing authority for 1985 by state and local issuers.

The hearings will begin at 9:30 a.m. in Room 258 at DECD's headquarters building, 45 Calvert Street, Annapolis. The record will remain open to receive written testimony until November 4.

State and local issuers of IRBs will be asked to present testimony on October 4. Bond counsel, underwriters and the general public are invited to testify on Ocobter 18.

"The federal government has put a cap on the dollar-amount of IRBs that can be issued in each state in the nation. I anticipate that the demand for IRBs in 1985 will exceed the federally-imposed cap, therefore I strongly urge everyone concerned with this issue to participate in these hearings," De Francis said.

"This could be the most important issue facing Maryland during 1985," he added.

GUARDSMEN ASSIST CAC — Members of Company C, 121st Engineer Battalion, Maryland Army National Guard, Oakland, recently assisted the Garrett County Community Action Committee in the loading, unloading and distribution of government surplus food. Members assisted in the unloading of trucks on September 5 for overnight storage of the food at the Community Action building in Oakland. The following day they provided vehicles and loaded the food for delivery to the armory, where it was separated and made ready for distribution. Guardsmen carried food to automobiles for handicapped persons and senior citizens. Pictured are SP4 Dave A. Athey, left, and SP4 William Guthrie placing food on the armory drill floor for distribution. This was the fourth time that SP4 Athey has assisted in the distribution of surplus food.

Under the present allocation system, Maryland and its local governments can issue $632 million in bonds during 1984. This limit is based on federal formula of $150 of bonding authority for each of the state's 4.2 million citizens.

On August 1, Governor Hughes issued a proclamation with an initial allocation of $316 million for Maryland's 23 counties, $129 million for state users and the remaining $187 million to be allocated later to counties, municipalities and state users. Allocations of the $187 million will be at the discretion of DECD Secretary De Francis.

Data available to DECD shows that about $528 million of the $632 million 1984 allocation will be used. However, the state's 1984 allocation does not affect those projects on which official action took place before June 19, therefore Maryland has 12 months of allocations be be used during the last seven months of the year.

"I believe there will be adequate bonding authority for the remainder of 1984, but we could have problems next year if requests exceed the federally-mandated ceilings," De Francies said.

Individuals interested in testifying at either hearing are urged to contact Luther Miller at 269-2711.

Teen Center Meeting Slated

The public is invited to attend a special meeting on Monday, September 24, at 7 p.m. at the Garrett Community College auditorium, McHenry, to discuss details of a proposed teen center for Garrett County.

The meeting is being sponsored by a program entitled "Operation Teen." Persons desiring more information may contact Dave Terlizzi at 334-9398.

State Forest Boundaries Being Marked By Paint

Travelers along Garrett County roadways should start noticing new yellow paint on trees marking state forest boundary lines. David Hathway, Forest, Park and Wildlife Service Chief of Operations, said that a program has begun to mark all state forest lands along county roads.

Until now, only the outside boundaries of Savage River, Potomac and Garrett State Forests were marked. State forest personnel will begin marking along paved roads, followed in priority by gravel and woods roads. All of Potomac and Garrett State Forests and half of Savage River should be marked by hunting season.

Delegate George Edwards and other county residents pointed out that on roads where a state forest was on both sides of the highway, no markings appeared so it was difficult at best for hunters and other forest users to identify private and public land. Hathway hopes that this state forest boundary marking effort will help adjoining private property owners who have had problems with trespassers from state lands.

The marking of all state forest boundary lines will add many miles to the yearly maintenance, Hathway noted. On Savage River alone, personnel already have to paint approximately 50 miles each year to stay on a planned eight-year schedule. "It will be well worth the effort, however, when residents and users can better identify state forest lands," Hathway said.

IT IS ALWAYS DOCTOR APPRECIATION WEEK

A doctor always must be emotionally geared to handle any emergencies. Any phone call or visit can result in a situation where on the spot decisions must be made that can effect a person's life. Sometimes a doctor will call us late at night for a medicine that must be quickly made available for a seriously ill patient. We are glad to help.

Too many of us take our doctors for granted. We do not stop to realize the long, arduous years of study and preparation and the very exacting life a physician must lead. In the pharmacy we are in close contact with doctors and it is very evident to us how much they give of themselves.

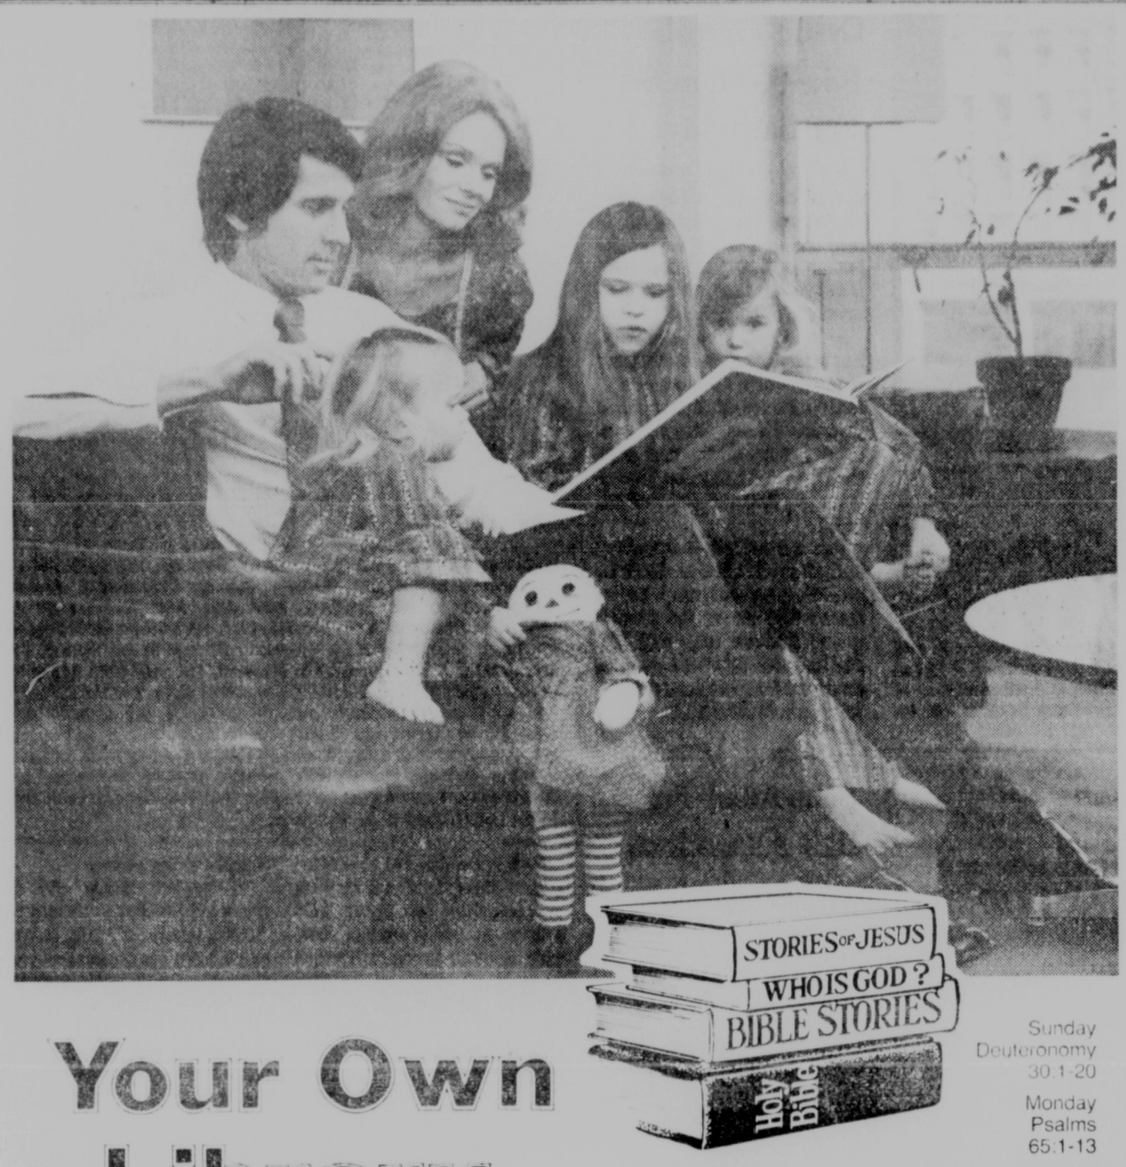

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE BEST DEAL
September 23, 1984

Background Scripture: Romans 7:4-25.

Devotional Reading: Romans 6:12-23.

The young man thought he had made a deal with God.

He would straighten out his life and live according to God's will. In return, God was expected to save his marriage.

In vain, I tried to help him understand that God cannot be manipulated like that. Although I could assure him that God would forgive the mess he had made of his life, that did not mean that he would be spared the consequences of all that he had done in the past. And the break-up of his marriage was likely to be one of those consequences.

BARGAINING WITH GOD

When at last his marriage ended in divorce, the young man gave up on his short-lived commitment to put his life in order. His justification: God had failed to live up to his end of the deal. Nothing I said seemed to help him realize that that wasn't the deal God had offered him in the first place.

It wasn't long after this that I was faced with a situation of my own. I was in a position where my conscience told me that I had to speak out against a certain situation. I really didn't want to do it, because I knew it would be a rather unpopular stand (as it turned out, it was even more unpopular than I had realized). I would be standing virtually alone and I didn't relish having to do so.

The time came, however, when I could no longer refuse to take a stand. And I did. Yet, when I had said my piece and done what I felt I had to do, I was disturbed to find that I didn't really feel all that "good" for having done what I thought to be the right thing. I must confess that I was a little resentful that almost no one seemed to notice that I was doing the "right" thing.

DELIVERANCE!

It was then that I realized that that had not been the deal God offered me in the first place. The deal God offers me and all of us is far better than that. The fact is that, at best, we never win the battle against our tendency to sin. For, as Paul puts it so well, "I can will what is right, but I cannot do it. For I do not do the good I want, but the evil I do not want is what I do" (7:19,20).

This, then, is where our bargains with God go astray: the problem is not with God, but with us, for we are the ones who often are not able to keep up our end of the deal. Like Paul, we are tempted to shout, "Wretched man that I am! Who will deliver me from this body of death?"

The deal that God offers us is one that is not dependent upon our goodness at all, but upon his grace. It is the best possible deal we could ever be offered, for with the vastness of God's love and mercy it overcomes our inability to help ourselves. And what we get has nothing to do with what we "have coming to us"—God forbid! It is grace, not "just deserts" that leads us to join Paul in singing, "Thanks be to God through Jesus Christ our Lord!"

Mimi Rogers papers herself with fame

By Marc Minnelli

This has been a good year for Mimi Rogers. In June, she was on the cover of a leading fitness magazine. The money she had invested in T-bills and the stock market was shaping up nicely. And though her series "The Rousters" had been canceled, another one — "Paper Dolls" — was about to begin. It was a time for celebrating, and Miss Rogers chose an unlikely spot: a busy newsstand in Manhattan.

Mimi Rogers

"I hung out near the stack of magazines I was on," the 30-year-old actress recalls, "but no one recognized me. I thought of picking an issue up and saying, 'Isn't she pretty?,' but I figured it wasn't worth the trouble. So I went home. And no one," she adds, "recognized me on the way either."

Miss Rogers' life of anonymity will soon be in for a change, now that ABC's "Paper Dolls" is heating up the airwaves on Tuesday nights. The actress plays Blair Harper Fenton, Lloyd Bridges' model daughter who also happens to be a highly successful model.

"Blair is a great acting role and I model her after Grace Kelly," Miss Rogers says. "She's loving and warm, but she's not without problems. Should she have a baby? Is she getting too old for modeling? All the time she's fighting within herself," the actress adds, "she never loses her manners. How could anyone not like the poor dear?"

Two other actresses liked her — and almost too much. "The role was originally written for Cristina Ferrare, but she was refused the part after the problems with her husband, John DeLorean, surfaced," Miss Rogers explains. "On the final day of casting, the part was between me and Marisa Berenson. At first, I was worried because Marisa had once been a well-known model. But she lost the part because of her nationality. Let's be honest," Miss Rogers adds, "who'd really believe that Lloyd Bridges would have a daughter with a French accent?"

Now the accent's on Miss Rogers. "I was offered the lead on 'Remington Steele,' but I refused it because there was no written guarantee it would ever materialize," she remembers. "Ever since then I wonder if I made the right choice. But the first — and only — time I watched the show, I was bored; it had turned into something much different from its original concept." Miss Rogers takes a sip of coffee. "I've worked my share of flops," she says. "But now I'm working with a great cast and making lots of money. That's exactly what I need. I may be a paper doll, but I'm really made of steel!"

Bob Hope takes a look at the highlights of his career as he celebrates his 35th year in show biz with "Bob Hope's Classic Outtakes ... Stars' Unrehearsed Antics," airing Friday, Sept. 28 on NBC.

Phyllis Diller gets down to the bare facts

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — For a future NBC practical joke-type show, Phyllis Diller conned Richard Simmons into an exercise seminar. The come-on was that it was a charity event. Here are the bare facts: The exercisers were all nudists. They took it all off in front of the cameras. So will the show be aired? Sure. How? With careful editing.

Richard Simmons

Phyllis Diller

John Forsythe is shoving his "Dynasty" money into racehorses. He's not betting on them — he's breeding them. ... Dena Kaye, Danny's daughter, finally made it to Venice. She's CBS's new travel correspondent. ... Ursula Andress is taping a European TV series for the fall. ... Harold Robbins is creating a mini-series for 20th Century-Fox for the '85 season. His wife, Grace Robbins, guarantees the show will outsex, outsteam and outjazz "Dynasty." Speaking of the Robbins family, they're aiming to peddle their Beverly Hills joint and they're willing to let it go cheap. They only want $10 million. I guess they'll then buy a new one for $12 million. But if they can't find a new place to live, they can always hole up in their homes in Acapulco or Cannes. Or better yet, they can float away on their yacht — the one that makes the Queen Elizabeth 2 look like a dinghy. ... Italian film director Federico Fellini and his wife, actress Giulletta Masina, were offered a weekly European TV show. Seems they were asked to do a series of fables for kids.

Kathleen Turner, who turned more than a few faces in "Romancing the Stone," stars with Rutger Hauer in "A Breed Apart." Looks like the film will always be a breed apart. Movie experts and poultry growers concur that the flick's a turkey. Look for it to show up on your local pay-TV channel.

Lindsay Bloom hammers out a revamped Velda

By Peter M. McCauley

Last season, the most developed part of Lindsay Bloom's role as Velda on "Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer" was her body. To become the character created by Spillane, Miss Bloom, 34, dyed her hair from blond to brown. The actress also adhered to a vigorous schedule of dieting, aerobics and swimming, losing 22 pounds in the process. The regime gave her the pulchritudious profile — and a size 6 dress — necessary to play detective Hammer's shapely secretary. To maintain her svelte figure, the actress works out regularly and watches what she eats.

"I look back at those days as a marathon," says Miss Bloom, who beat out more than 400 other actresses for the role of Velda. "A lot of the battle was within myself. I was a blonde on the inside and a brunette on the outside. Half of my friends didn't recognize me. My mom called me after the first show; it took her several scenes before even she recognized me!"

This season, however, the former Miss USA (1973) is working toward developing other parts of her character on the CBS series. Miss Bloom admits she received much criticism because of the low-cut dresses she wore each week. Sometime the outfits were so revealing, she says, that it was "embarrassing to walk around the set." So after much discussion and compromise, Miss Bloom is happy to announce that this season's Velda will show more ingenuity — and less cleavage.

"I think the clothing change is for the better," the Omaha native explains. "The low-cut look tended to take away from the believability of the character. The new clothes I'll be wearing will be revealing, but they'll be different since Velda will be getting out in the field this season. She'll even go undercover."

But not in her underclothes. Since Miss Bloom will be sharing some of the weekly gumshoe action, the actress will wear something a little more businesslike than the decollete raincoat she sported in one of last season's promotion photographs.

Yet male viewers don't have to worry that Miss Bloom will hammer out all the fun on "Mike Hammer." As the detective, Stacy Keach will continue to be accosted by enough scantily clad females to make even Hugh Hefner envious.

Co-starring with Miss Taylor in the episode entitled "Intimate Strangers," will be her real-life friend Roddy McDowall, who plays the actress's greatest fan.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

Is "Scarecrow and Mrs. King" star Bruce Boxleitner married? If he is, does he have any children? — A.E., Elmira, N.Y.

Boxleitner is married to Kathryn Holcomb, the actress who portrayed his sister Laura in the 1978-79 series "How the West Was Won." The Boxleitners live with their son Sam in Hidden Hills, Calif.

Boxleitner, who hails from Elgin, Ill., enrolled in Chicago's prestigious Goodman Theater in 1968. Four years later, after a short stint in New York City, he moved to Los Angeles and received his first break — a five-line role on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

Bruce Boxleitner

I read that Nell Carter earns $60,000 per episode of "Gimme a Break." What do stars do with all their money? It doesn't seem fair since I'm struggling on less than $5,000 per year. — Y.J., Wilmore, Ky.

It's strange that, in one week, a person can earn more than what many people don't earn in a year. The money seems exorbitant, but as a performer becomes more famous, expenses rise. Usually there's a secretary to answer fan mail, and this means a salary as well as postage fees. Then there are maids, gardeners and, if there's children, a nanny. Stars may earn high salaries, but remember, like all of us, they also have taxes to pay. You may not be able to buck the system, but you can write to Nell Carter c/o Richard Astor, 119 West 57 St., New York, NY 10019.

James Garner is my favorite actor. Will we ever see "The Rockford Files" in Canada? Was Stephen Cannell that show's producer? — S.E.C, Saskatchewan

"The Rockford Files," which ran from 1974-1980, was produced by Cannell, and is now in syndication; if it's not in your area, your best bet would be to contact your local TV station. Ask your friends to do the same.

Livingston hopes series is Taylor-made

By Wayne Miller

After 13 years of performing in high-school auditoriums, college rathskellers and noisy nightclubs, Livingston Taylor has decided to illuminate his career even further. "I'm tired of putting out records that leave listeners wondering who I am and where my music's going," Taylor, 33, says. "That's why I'm doing TV. I want people to see my show and later say, 'Gee, he can sing too.' I want light bulbs to go off in their heads."

Viewers will have a chance to see Taylor when "This Week's Music," a new syndicated series which he hosts, premieres Monday, Sept. 24. The variety show will air as daily half-hour episodes in most cities; major cities — such as Chicago, New York and Los Angeles — will see weekly one-hour versions.

"I'm the perfect guy to host this show because my identity in the business is nebulous," says Taylor, whose brother James will be the special guest star on the Thanksgiving and Christmas segments of "This Week's Music." "I'm not the star of the show; the guest stars and kids who visit each week are. And that's exactly how I want it to be. My job is to come in, tell the cameras where to point and get the hell out."

Taylor is not new to TV hosting — he periodically hosts the early morning Boston talk show "Good Day," — but "This Week's Music" marks his first full-time hosting chore. "I don't mind fumbling at first," he says, "because I won't be perfect. If viewers want to see perfection, then they should switch channels and catch Wink Martindale." Taylor clasps his hands, readying himself to make a point. "I don't want my show to be as slick as 'Solid Gold,' 'American Bandstand' or 'Star Search.' It has to be natural. And it will be, as long as I'm around. And," he adds with a wink, "I plan on being around for at least for 10 years."

Livingston Taylor

If "This Week's Music" fades out earlier, however, Taylor can always return to recording or a relatively recent venture, jingles. He's written jingles for Hershey's and A-1 Steak Sauce and has sung on several spots, including ones for Gravy Train, Tender Vittles and Maxwell House Coffee. But right now, Taylor feels he's more commercial out of commercials.

"People tend to panic when their careers go away from the sun," he says. "I've been in and out of the sun many, many times. But now," he adds, "it's time for me to get sunburned!"

SHOW AND TELL

Lauri Hendler keeps her career in focus

By Gregory Garver

Lauri Hendler

HOLLYWOOD — "Men seldom make passes," wrote Dorothy Parker, "at girls who wear glasses." There's a new version to that rhyme, and it focuses in on TV: "Girls who wear glasses excel in their classes."

"TV automatically assumes that eyeglasses equal brains," says Lauri Hendler, who stars as Julie on NBC's "Gimme a Break." When producers decided they wanted a smart Julie, they asked Miss Hendler to wear glasses.

"I like wearing them on the show," says the actress, who, off-set, wears contact lenses. "It makes me stand out. I think I'm the only regular TV character who wears glasses — certainly I'm the only girl."

Miss Hendler, 19, admits that she's not the only woman who relates to Julie. "She's a terrific person," the actress says. "There are thousands of teenage girls who can relate to her. She's not tall, thin, blond and beautiful, but she's intelligent and she knows who she is. I don't want to change her."

The Virginia native has been acting for almost all her life. She began modeling as an 8-month-old baby, and her "career" continued when everyone kept telling her mother what a beautiful baby Miss Hendler was.

"I don't understand that at all," she confesses. "When I see my baby pictures now, I see a particularly ugly baby — pointed head and all. But I did get a few modeling jobs as a baby and, as I got older, I began to act, too."

Miss Hendler claims she grew up acting and never wanted to do anything else. She still doesn't. But she does admit she'd like to go onto college. She graduated from high school last spring and has been accepted at UCLA.

"I was also on the waiting list at Yale," she proudly says, "but when I heard 'Gimme a Break' was picked up, I declined their invitation to wait."

It's probably something she won't regret. "I'm not in the class of a Brooke Shields or a Jodie Foster," she says. "They can go to college and know that, four years from now, they will still be hot. I have to keep working or I'll be forgotten."

We doubt it. Miss Hendler is an actress for keeps — with or without her glasses.

CALCIUM—ARE YOU GETTING ENOUGH?

At a recent National Institutes of Health conference on osteoporosis (porous bones), it was noted that "the major source of calcium for most Americans is not dairy products, but bone . . . their own!" It is true that if your body is not receiving enough calcium, it "robs" it from your bone, to make sure your blood has enough. The result of a lifetime of this can be osteoporosis, especially for those in high-risk categories.

Calcium is a major component of bone and, despite common belief, is needed by your bones throughout life. The bone you have at age 20 is not the same bone you have at age 50. Bone cells are constantly being broken down, while others are being formed. This process is called "remodeling," and requires a constant supply of calcium if the bones are going to be strong and remain strong.

How do you ensure an adequate calcium intake? Current thinking suggests that women may need 1000-1500 mg. calcium daily—much more than most of us get right now. Here are some good sources of calcium:

Sesame seeds, whole ¼ cup, 348 mg. Milk, 8 oz. glass, 285 mg. Salmon, red, canned with bones, 2/5 cup, 259 mg. Sardines, canned, in oil, with bones 2 fish, 174 mg. Leafy green vegetables, cooked, ½ cup, 140 mg. (Includes: dandelion, mustard, turnip greens, collards and kale).

Dietary sources are preferred, because this calcium is absorbed more efficiently, and provides calcium in the correct proportion to protein, vitamin D, phosphorus and fiber, all of which influence how much calcium you need.

If it is not possible to take in enough dietary calcium, a supplement may be necessary. Supplements, however, differ tremendously. None are pure calcium. Care should be taken to read the label carefully so the amount of elemental calcium can be distinguished from the amount of the entire compound. Calcium carbonate is probably the best choice because it provides the most calcium and is the least expensive form. While antiacids such as Tums provide a convenient form of calcium carbonate, preparations containing aluminum may actually increase calcium loss from bones. Calcium supplementation has little risk up to 2 grams per day. Vitamin D, which is important for the absorption and utilization of calcium, is much more toxic and supplementation is not generally recommended. The percentage of calcium in the following supplements is: (Note: those with asterisks are not recommended because of possible contamination with heavy metals).

Calcium carbonate, 40%. Bone Meal*, 31%. Calcium phosphate dihydrate, 23%. Dolomite*, 22%. Calcium lactate, 13%. Calcium gluconate, 9%.

The following economical recipe will help you include some calcium in your diet:

INSTANT
POTATO CHOWDER

4 strips bacon, diced
1½ c. chicken broth or
2 chicken boullion
cubes to 1½ c. hot water
1 can whole kernal corn drain off liquid and add enough water to the liquid to make 2 cups
1 can evaporated milk
1 can Vienna sausages, sliced or 3 frankfurters
1 medium onion, chopped
1 cup of instant potatoes or 2 c. leftover mashed potatoes

Brown bacon in large pan, add onion and cook till onion is tender. Add chicken broth, corn and the 2 cups of liquid. Then add milk, instant potatoes and sausages. Heat slowly, stirring constantly till chowder is piping hot.

Third Feldstein Album Endorsed By Committee

Dr. George Callcott, vice chairman of the State's Maryland Heritage Committee, recently announced that organization's full endorsement of the forthcoming work entitled "Feldstein's Historic Postcard Album of Washington County."

Compiled by Al Feldstein, LaVale, this will be the third publication in his western Maryland historic trilogy endorsed this year by the committee. In a recent book review, the Maryland Historical Trust characterized the previous Allegany and Garrett County publications as "the only readily available pictorial documentation for some sections of the (western Maryland) region."

The Washington County effort will contain 391 views with Hagerstown represented by 238 depictions and Hancock and Williamsport 44 and 41 scenes, respectively.

The Maryland Heritage Committee was appointed by Governor Harry Hughes to coordinate Maryland's 350th Anniversary.

Bausch & Lomb Reports Increased Sales, Earnings

Bausch & Lomb reported on Wednesday, July 18, a 16% gain in sales and a 29% increase in net earnings for the second quarter ended June 23, 1984. Sales for the period were $172.0 million compared to $148.8 million in 1983, and net earnings were $14.8 million versus $11.5 million a year ago. Net earnings per share increased 28% to $.50 compared to $.39 in the 1983 second quarter.

The company's net earnings performance reflected continued strong gains in operating income which rose 38% over 1983 to $23.7 million. For the first six months of 1984 sales were $326.2 million, an increase of 16% over 1983 sales of $281.2 million. Net earnings advanced 28% over the year ago first half and totaled $24.8 million versus $19.4 million. Net earnings per share were $.84 compared to $.66, an increase of 27%.

Operating earnings of $52.7 million were 41% higher than the $37.3 million for the comparable six-month period. Results for the 1983 second quarter and six months have been restated to reflect the acquisitions of Synemed, Inc. and Charles River Laboratories in pooling of interests transactions.

Commenting on Bausch & Lomb's second quarter results, Daniel E. Gill, chairman of the board and president, said, "We are very pleased by the continuing gains in sales and profitabilty of our contact lens and eye care solutions business-es, and we expect the effects of these trends will be visible in our results for the second half of the year." Gill also stated the remainder of 1984 should benefit from strong domestic demand for sunglasses and sports optics, an improvement in the sunglass operating earnings margin versus the prior year, and a good performance from Charles River Laboratories. Although he cautioned that the strength of the U.S. dollar could have some dampening effect on Bausch & Lomb's overseas operations, Bill concluded by affirming that the 1984 second half would be a period of further important progress for the company.

THE STORY OF JIMMY THE GREEK'S BIGGEST LOSS — His Kids

"I lost two of my daughters to a disease my wife and I passed on to them. It's called cystic fibrosis. You probably never heard of it. Neither did I—until my kids started dying."

CF Kills More Kids Than Any Other Inherited Disease

"At present, the only way to discover that you carry the fatal CF gene is to have children with another carrier. Like I did. That's why the CF Foundation needs volunteers and money—to help science find a cure.

"Look, I'm not naive. I've spent my whole career understanding odds, and I know the chances are you won't do a thing about what I've told you. But for the first time in my life, I'm betting against the odds."

Help beat the odds. Contact The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, Box 48, Washington, D.C. 20004. Thank you.

Local Artist To Be Featured At Stephanie Ann Roper Gallery

TO BE FEATURED AT FSC — Diana Feld, a Deer Park area resident, and her works of art will be featured in a one-woman show at the Stephanie Ann Roper Art Gallery of Frostburg State College. The show will open this Friday, September 21, at 8 p.m., and will continue through October 8. At left, Ms. Feld is seated in front of "Encounter", one of her oil paintings in the exhibition, and above is "Two Worlds", a 35" by 23" drawing.

The Stephanie Ann Roper Art Gallery at Frostburg State College will present recent works by local resident, Diana Feld, in a one-woman show opening at 8 p.m. this Friday, September 21.

Over the four years the artist has exhibited works in the area she has been increasingly recognized for her haunting use of colors to convey mood in addition to form. Ms. Feld's work ranges from large oils to drawing to print.

Educated in France and a painter by training, Diana resides near Deer Park with her husband, Fred, and two daughters. Attracted by the immensity of America, the artist says she most enjoys working oversized forms on large canvases.

Four such key pieces are included in the show at FSC. Their style, inspired in part by Georgia O'Keefe's skull series, deals with the discovery of anthropomorphic forms in unexpected places. Working with color values more than lines to eliminate unnecessry detail, these works magnify emotion, according to a spokesman for the Roper Gallery.

The drawings in the exhibition emphasize the artist's movement from abstract to bare realism. The drawings were sketched and begun on location in Morocco, Western Africa, using native pigments. The color values are essentially monochromatic in keeping with the subjects of the works; the effect enlarges the telling features of that remote and ageless region.

The staff of the Stephanie Roper Gallery invites the public to attend the show which will run through October 8. Gallery hours are 1-4 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Sunday. Sales information may be obtained opening night, or by contacting Diana Feld at 334-2321.

In Loving Memory of our beloved husband, father and grandfather, Alston D. Evans, who passed away one year ago on September 23, 1983:

Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall.
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
The voice is mute and stilled the heart
That loved us well and true,
Ah, bitter was the trial to part
From one so good as you.
You are not forgotten, Dad.
Nor will you ever be.
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes by we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.

You are loved and missed by: wife, Alma; daughter, Geraldine; son-in-law, Fred; your grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Off-Road Loading Zones A Success

Off-road loading zones are proving successful in reducing risks to students while at the same time lessening the inconvenience to motorists on major highways in the county, according to Mike Sines, transportation director for the Garrett County Board of Educaiton.

The zones were inaugurated last March on Route 219 from Keyser's Ridge to Gortner, and along Route 135 from Oakland to the intersection of Route 495 near Swanton.

This September Route 219 from Hill Top to the Pennsylvania state line and Route 135 from the intersection of Route 38 to Bloomington were added to the off-road program.

On those routes, buses pull off onto the shoulder of the road to pick up passengers. The customary red flashing lights are not activated, permitting drivers to proceed past the school bus without stopping. At school bus stops where students must cross the highway to board or leave the bus, the bus will remain on the highway and flashing lights will be activated, requiring traffic to stop.

Motorists are reminded that when a school bus has activated its red flashing lights, traffic must stop at least ten feet from either the front or rear of the bus. In order to avoid confusion in the areas designated to utilize the off-road procedures a simple rule of thumb applies - if the red warning lights are flashing, stop; if no lights are on, continue past the bus with caution.

Puppies, and Kittens, under one year	Should be vaccinated at three months of age, revaccinate after twelve months
Dogs and Cats, over one year	vaccinate every three years

AURORA-EGLON NEWS

Smith-Roth Wedding

Lynn Marie Roth of Renick and Fredric David Smith of Marlinton were united in marriage on August 11, 1984 in the Mount Hermon United Methodist Church in Renick.

Lynn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Roth of Renick. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Fredric W. Smith of Lewisburg.

The Rev. Barry Moll performed the ceremony and the bride was given in marriage by her parents. Serving as maid of honor was Marsha Munsey. Bridesmaids were Lisa Sisler, Laura Smith, Charlotte Roth and Phyllis Arnold. Kimberly Workman scattered flowers for the bride.

The groom's friend, Chris Burns, served as best man. Serving as ushers were Larry Roth, Mark Smith, John Burns and Neal Roth.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the church. The couple honeymooned at Nags Head, N.C. and will reside in Marlinton. The bride is attending Greenbrier Community College Center. The groom attended Concord College and is employed by Burns Motor Freight, Inc.

Lynn is the granddaughter of Mrs. Virginia Roth and great-granddaughter of Mrs. Maude Mosser, both of Horse Shoe Run. Her grandfather, Fred Douglas, is formerly of Aurora and now resides with a daughter in Cleveland, Ohio.

The Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club held its final meeting of the year on September 10 at the Eglon Memorial Building. The completed project books and ribbons, letters concerning the Buckwheat Festival and county awards were given to members attending. A letter from the West Virginia IFYE, Frank Morrow, who is spending his exchange time in Norway, was read to the club.

Announcements included the meat tickets to be sold for the 4-H Foundation, county officers' training on October 13, county achievement dinner to be held November 2 at the Kingwood Community Building, and all livestock books, the club treasurer's and secretary's books are due to the Extension Office by October 15. Plans are being made to present an assembly program at the Aurora School during National 4-H Week, October 7-13.

Reports were made on the State Roundup and Dairy Show and Sale, the Horticulture Judging teams, and also on the recent Mt. Grove Potato Festival.

Officers for the 1984-85 4-H year were elected with Danny Roth assuming the presidency: Brent Hauser, vice president; Debra Rinehart, secretary; Julie Beckman, treasurer; and Jackie Lantz, reporter. Volunteering as song leaders were Nathan and Nikki Teets, Emily Lewis, Stephanie Evans and Laura Shaffer. Elizabeth and Jennifer Whitehair and Mark and John Utterback volunteered as recreation leaders.

The next meeting will be October 8 at 7 p.m. in the Eglon Memorial Building and to which all members are invited to come and bring their parents.

Refreshments were served by the Eskridge and Rinehart families to Tonya Beckman, Donna Mullenax, Andrea Delaney, Carolyn Evans, Donnie Rinehart, Mark Harsh, and Julie Lewis in addition to the above mentioned. Also attending were Jean Rinehart, Elaine Roth, Linda Lewis.

Mrs. Nellie Evans of Horse Shoe Run was recently a patient in Preston Memorial Hospital, but has returned to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gatto of Aurora, visited this past week with their children, June and Bill Shahan and children at Points, W.Va., and in Keyser with Roger and Brenda Gatto.

The family of the late George and Ada Wotring met for a reunion at the home farm near Aurora on September 9 where a family photo album was displayed. Nearly 60 attended.

Conducting the first meeting of the Aurora PTO on September 11 was the new president, Ed Utterback. Other officers for the 1984-85 year are Mary Stemple, first vice president; Gary Henline, 2nd vice president; John Lofink, secretary, and J. Michael Fike, treasurer.

Mr. Utterback addressed the group, presenting some ideas for attracting a better attendance at meetings. He stressed the need for parental involvement in the various activities of the school. Several committees will be established to help organize the fund-raiding activities, speakers or programs for meetings, and for the Halloween Social.

A questionnaire was sent home with the students which response will be used to hopefully improve the PTO meetings, also to involve more people in the organization and also to inform them of what needs to be accomplished.

One idea presented was that perhaps the PTO could help to organize a trip to Morgantown or to Pittsburgh for members of the community. This will be discussed at a later meeting.

During the meeting a motion was made and approved to have the Executive Committee set dates for possible fund raisers during the first semester of the school year. Possible speakers include county staff and others related to education. Suggestions for reporting the actions of the meeting and for publishing a brief agenda prior to the time of meeting were made.

Teachers introduced or mentioned were: Kindergarten, Ranelda Frazee (substituting this year for Delores Harsh); First Grade, Donna Beckman and Grace Bachtel (substituting first semester for Teri McWilliams); Second Grade, Krista Hayes and Leona Baker; Third Grade, Linda Martin and Tamara Fauber; Fourth Grade, John Lofink; Fourth and Fifth Grades, Hazel Durst; Fifth Grade, Allen Mullins; Sixth Grade, J. FEATURED AT BENEFIT DANCE — A dance featuring "The Morningstar Band" will be held Friday evening at 7 p.m., at the Friendsville Elementary School to benefit five-year-old Christopher Sines, who underwent open heart surgery last November. Chris's mother said that her husband, Kenneth Sines, got the idea to sponsor the dance at the Friendsville Summer Festival in August. "Chris is a real music lover and we thought he would enjoy it very much," she said, adding that Chris was very excited when he got the opportunity to meet the band, "Alabama" last year. "The Morningstar Band", pictured above, has agreed to play at the dance for a reduced fee, with some band members coming free of charge. Mrs. Sines said that Chris is doing very well following his surgery, which involved repairing a hole in his heart, and valve repair. The Sines family still owes about $2,500 for the surgery.

Construction And Consumer Spending Boost Tax Revenue

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said this week that retail sales tax revenue continued its rapid growth, with August, 1984, revenue totaling $86,032,175, up 13% from the $76,119,285 collected for the same month a year ago.

"We continue to see strong growth in the building and contractors category of collections and in the closely related furniture, fixtures and appliances category - both reflecting construction activity in Maryland," Goldstein said.

The building and contractors category of collections produced $13.5 million in sales tax revenue during August, 1984, a 15.5% increase over August, 1983, while the furniture, fixtures and appliances category generated $9.2 million, up 22.5%.

The taxable food and beverage category produced the largest amount of revenue, $19.2 million, while the general merchandise category produced $14.3 million.

"These figures indicate that both the construction and consumer categories of sales tax collections are contributing to the unusually large growth in revenue the state has been experiencing for most of the past year," Goldstein said.

New Horizons Slates Evening Workshop Series

New Horizons, a displaced homemaker project sponsored by Garrett Community College, will present a free evening series of workshops this fall. The evening series will be using a video tool entitled "Images."

The tapes for "Images" were filmed and produced in cooperation with Cable 4 Television at Catonsville College. The form of presentation of these video tapes will be one of moderator and a panel of local people familiar with the topic of the tape for the evening discussion.

The following schedule will be followed for this presentation:

October 3—Family and Divorce Laws in the State of Maryland: A woman going through the complex transition of married to separated and/or divorced must face many realities. A more than adequate knowledge of many new legal changes to her rights and responsibilities is a necessity. How does society expect to ask her to cope? A local panel will discuss issues relevant to these changing laws to make more clear what a person's legal status is.

October 10—"Beginning or Beginning Again"—Career Counseling: A woman faces many facts and must make many decisions when starting an educational experience or work experience for the first time or returning to one put aside or neglected over a number of years. In this program, a panel will discuss the many forces affecting the decision-making process and some of the options available.

October 17—"Who Cares When I Can't?"—Child Care for the Working Mother: A formidable problem for women going into the job market for the first time or returning after an absence is that of who or where do they leave their child or children. A new job experience or educational experience will be much more positive if she possesses a confidence in the child care situation she has settled on. It helps, especially if she finds herself dealing with some guilt. Several types of alternatives which are available will be discussed and evaluated. Emotional and psychological factors will be discussed.

October 24—"Growing Old—Usefully"—the Aging Myth: When and why are we "Put out to pasture?" Does society set some time when a woman's usefulness or creative ability can be deemed as "worn out," and if so, why has this been allowed to happen? There is a world of warmth, knowledge, and creativity in the world of sixty and over that has yet to be tapped. In this tape, we will explore that world and see how its members are dealing with it.

October 31—"Who Do We Blame?"—Domestic Violence: More and more it is becoming a part of our culture to see violence in the family structure. What is the driving force behind this phenomena of violence and what has brought the more public awareness to the surface? Also, what has been the reaction of the legal community to the problem? This issue, in its complexity will be discussed from many angles by a panel of professionals.

The series of free evening workshops will be held each Wednesday from 7 until 8:30 p.m. at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College. For more information or to register for these sessions, persons may call 334-9184. Preregistration is required for all sessions.

Farming in Maryland

Farmers Debate Farm Bill At Regional Meetings

Maryland farmers debated Farm Bill '85 at three regional meetings recently.

Import restrictions, the cost of farm programs and government's role in agriculture were key issues at "Farm Bill '85—Your Future," sponsored by the Maryland Farm Bureau.

Identical meetings were held September 10 in Easton, September 11 in Annapolis and September 12 in Mt. Pleasant, Frederick County. One hundred and fifty members attended the three seminars.

"Most elements of the '85 Bill will have been tried before," said Glenn Tussey, Associate Director of the American Farm Bureau's Washington office. Tussey, speaking in Easton and Annapolis, also said some programs won't be back.

"We probably won't have another PIK," he said, referring to the 1983 program that paid farmers to idle grain acreage. "The American people just won't foot the bill for something that expensive."

Farm programs cost $11.7 billion in 1982 and, because of PIK, $18.9 billion in 1983. Outlays for 1984 are expected to be about $6 billion.

Discussion often centered around the issue of supply management vs. market orientation. "Do we really even need a Farm Bill," Charles Feaga, Howard County FB President, asked John Datt, Director of AFBF's Washington office. Datt, at the Mt. Pleasant meeting, said farmers will get a Farm Bill "whether they want one or not."

"There are many farmers who would like government out of agriculture," Datt continued. "Especially the 50% whose commodities aren't under any government programs."

Commodities like beef, poultry, Maryland tobacco and pork operate according to market conditions, and are not covered by farm program provisions. Government programs presently cover wheat, feed grains, cotton, rice, soybeans, sunflowers, dairy, sugar, sheep, peanuts and some types of tobacco.

The Maryland Farm Bureau, American Farm Bureau, and U.S. Department of Agriculture have publicly supported a move away from government controls and toward a system that relies on supply and demand, according to Henry Holloway, MFB president.

"How about imports," asked a Caroline County farmer. He quoted figures supporting his statement that the U.S. is buying much more than it is selling, and suggested import quotas were the only answer.

Tussey replied "I can't think of any worse thing that could happen to farmers than import restrictions." According to Tussey, when the U.S. restricts imports like steel or cars, foreign countries retaliate by looking elsewhere for agricultural commodities.

Datt said it is impossible to specifically predict what will replace the 1981 Farm Bill, which expires next year, but he offered two politicial scenarios.

If Ronald Reagan is re-elected President, the Farm Bill will be written and enacted in 1985; if Walter Mondale is elected it will not be.

"Histrocially, a new administration pleads 'we're new, not, prepared to discuss this yet' and extends present provisions for one year. So it is possible we will not have new legislation until 1986," Datt said.

Harvesting Corn Silage

Most of the corn, particularly in the southern part of the county, has been frosted. Harvesting is just around the corner. Harvesting time and procedures will have a large effect upon the quality of silage. The proper maturity and moisture content along with dropping and packing are extremely important. When is the corn ready for silage? Corn silage is ready when a black layer has developed in the tip of the kernel. You can easily identify this layer by cutting a cross-section of the kernel. The best quality silage should be between 32% and 40%. Dry matter with a kernel dry matter of 65% to 70%. Also the chopper knives should make cuts of ¼ to 1/8 inches. This setting allows the kernel to be cracked which helps in digestion of the silage. Your corn silage should be topped off with wet forages (30-35% dry matter) and covered with plastic to help prevent spoilage. Remember to have your silage analyzed for nutrient value.

Harvesting High-Moisture Corn

Most corn kernels continue to accumulate nutrients until they have reached 35% moisture. When corn has accumulated the maximum amount of nutrients possible, it is considered physiologically mature. So the yield is at its maximum. The presence of a black layer close to the tip of the kernel just under the outer layer is a sign of physiological maturity. The moisture level at harvest time has a significant effect on field losses and on the feeding value of the ensiled product. The harvesting of high-moisture corn should begin when the moisture content in 35% for ear corn and 30% for shelled corn. If the kernel moisture is below 25%, the corn may not ferment and molding can occur. Corn stored above the recommended moisture levels, may ferment satisfactorily but may present special problems such as bridging and freezing; also a reduced dry matter intake by livestock. Ground ear corn and rolled or grounded shelled corn can be stored safely at lower moisture contents than unprocessed corn. A moderately coarse grind with all kernels cracked or broken provides the most desirable preparation in terms of acceptability and digestability. The cob pieces should be no larger than a pea. This facilitates good packing and prevents sorting by animals.

Assessment Answers & Tax Talk

ON THE AGRICULTURAL TRANSFER TAX

by James Burley

The State of Maryland takes a special approach in the treatment of farmlands and lands devoted to agricultural use and open space with respect to assessment and taxation. The purpose is to preserve these lands for this use and to protect them from being adversely affected by influences and economic pressures caused by the enroachment of land uses devoted to more intensive use.

The position taken by the State is that it is in the general best interest to foster farming, thereby assuring an available food supply close to its metropolitan areas. In conjunction with the effort to discourage development of farmlands and remaining open space, the State imposes what is known as an Agricultural Transfer Tax whenever real property is removed from agricultural use through sale of the property.

The agricultural transfer tax first became effective July 1, 1981, at which time it replaced the previous agricultural development tax, which came into existence two years before.

The agricultural transfer tax is calculated by the Assessment Office and is due when the transfer of the property takes place. The tax is not calculated on any part of the property involved in the transaction that has not been assessed on the basis of agricultural use. When it does apply, the rate of the tax is 5% when the size of the land is 20 acres or more. The rate is 4% when the parcel is less than 20 acres. When the land comprises less than 20 acres, and when it has site improvements which have been considered in the valuation and the assessment, the rate is calculated at 3%.

If the assessment has been based on a combination of both an agricultural use assessment and one other than agricultural use, the net consideration is used for calculating the tax that would be due. The "net consideration," for this purpose, is the purchase price minus the most recent valuation of the non-agriculturally assessed portions, including structures.

If real property taxes have been paid on the basis of other than the agricultural use, the tax is then reduced by 25% for each consecutive year that taxes have been paid on this basis.

The law regarding the agricultural transfer tax was modifed this year and makes a distinction between lands that are 20 acres and more and lands transferred of less than 20 acres. For lands of 20 acres or more, no tax is imposed provided the buyer files a Declaration of Intent, requiring that the land remain in agricultural use for at least five years. If the buyer does not adhere to this requirement, the land then becomes subject to the tax that would have applied at the time of the transfer. If real property taxes have been paid on the basis of a non-agricultural use assessment for five years, from the time the requirement was not kept, the 25% reduction will apply beginning with the sixth year.

For parcels of less than 20 acres, again no tax is imposed provided the buyer files a Declaration of Intent. Additionally, the stipulation contains a clause that an average gross income of $2,500

Wool Price Support Level Placed At $1.65 Per Pound

The federal support for 1984 shorn wool marketings is $1.65 per pound, 12 cents a pound higher than the 1983 level, according to Olin S. Davis, Jr., chairman of the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Mohair marketings will be supported at $5.169 per pound, about 54 cents per pound more than the 1983 rate.

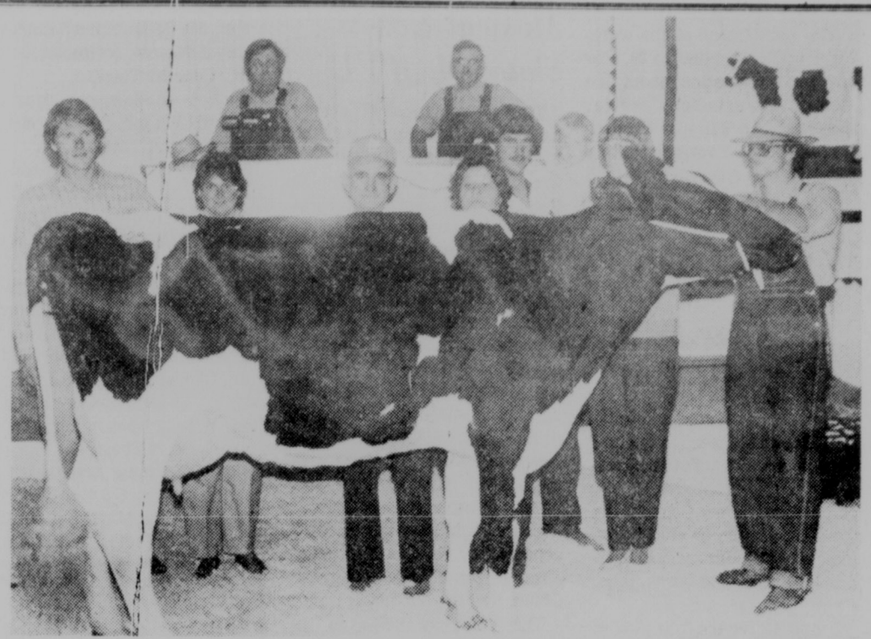

The ASCS wool and mohair programs are designed to encourage sheep growers to do their best job of marketing and to improve the quality of fibers. Davis said, the better the marketing effort by a producer, the better the incentive payment. Maryland's sheep growers received payments totaling about $97,365 for their 1983 sales of shorn wool and unshorn lambs.

"Shorn wool and mohair payments are based on a percentage of each producers returns from sales. The percentage is the amount required to raise the national average price for 1984 wool up to the $1.65 per pound support price."

Davis said that pulled wool will continue to be supported at a level comparable to the price support level for shorn wool through payments on unshorn lambs.

He said projected prices indicate payments will be necessary for 1984 mohair markets, and these payments will be calculated in a manner similar to wool.

Wool prices for 1984 are expected to average around 75 cents per pound. Mohair prices could average about $4.75 per pound.

Tax Talk

will be expected. If the buyer does not comply with the stipulations during the five-year period, the land then becomes subject to the tax plus interest at the rate of 12% per year. The tax and interest become a lien on the property and are due when the real property taxes are due.

When lands are transferred for the residential use of the owner or a member of the owner's immediate family, no tax is due; but the parcel made exempt cannot be greater than the minimum zoning size for residential use in effect at the time of the transfer.

The seller is legally responsible for informing the buyer in writing no later than at the consummation of the transaction that the land being sold may be subject to the agricultural transfer tax. A seller who fails to do this becomes liable, if problems arise as a result, for the amount of the tax paid by the buyer.

FARMERS FACE RECORD INCOME AND FINANCIAL PROBLEMS

by R.J. Beiter

Total U.S. farm income in 1984 is expected to reach a near record level for the second consecutive year, but many farmers will continue to face financial problems, bankruptcies and liquidations. Dr. George Irvin, Chief Economist of the Farm Credit Administration, speaking at a meeting on Agricultural Credit Summit in Denver said, "Farmers are not sharing fully in the nation's rapid economic growth." He continued, "While some farmers enjoy record incomes, others face nearly total disaster."

There are many factors which have established the wide disparity of farm income. In 1983, producers' participation in the PIK program, areas hit by draught and whether producers were primarily in crop or livestock production were major factors affecting farm income distribution.

Another factor important in farm income distribution is the financial position of the individual farmer. The high debt to asset ratio and the cash income flow are important in assessing the individual position.

Net cash income for all Maryland farms in 1982 was $266 million, $16.4 more than in 1981 and $67.9 million more than 1980.* The net cash income is that which provides for the purchase of assets, debt retirement and the farmer's realized cash income.

Maryland's total farm assets in 1983 were valued at $6,696 million while the total farm debt was $1,030 million. Maryland farmers in 1983 had a total equity to total asset ratio of 84.6 which means that Maryland farmers in 1983 had a total net worth of 85 percent.

The value of Maryland farm real estate in 1983 was $5,279 million making up 78.8 percent of Maryland's total farm assets. The debt to asset ratio for real estate alone was 12.1. This compared with a ratio of 10.4 in 1982 and 9.0 in 1981 and, although increasing in recent years, is still well below the national average.

Dr. Irvin stated that two-thirds of all farm debt is held by large operators with debt to asset ratios of 40 percent or more. This is twice the national ratio and over twice the Maryland debt to asset ratio.

As has so often been stated, the financial position of the individual farmer is due largely to the individual's ability to handle debt management as well as other farm management practices.

Writing Workshop Slated At FSC

Frostburg State College will host a two-day practical writing workshop for foresters and environmental writers October 24 and 25.

Initiated in cooperation with representatives of the Westvaco Corporation and the Frostburg State College Foundation, FSC's workshop will aid writing professionals in constructing effective letters, memoranda, press releases, newsletter articles, and technical reports.

On the agenda are seminars devoted to exploring the communication process, audience analysis, and organizational techniques. Editorial skills, including work in style; grammar, and diction, will also be taught. Finally, there will be a seminar focusing specifically on the writing tasks confronted in forestry-related and environmental writing.

Members of the FSC English Department who will teach the classes include Larry W. Bielawski and Dr. A. Franklin Parks.

According to Bielawski, technical writing specialist and former manufacturing superintendent, "Our workshop speaks to the need in today's information-age society for clear, convincing communication within corporations and between corporations and the public-at-large."

Parks, who teaches journalistic writing, said "the program will aid writers practically to build their writing skills: enrollees in the workshop will have the opportunity to evaluate their own writing in a constructive setting."

The enrollment of the workshop will be limited to 20. For further information about the two-day workshop, write: Writing Workshop, English Department, Frostburg State College, Frostburg, Maryland 21532.

PREVENTING CHILDHOOD ACCIDENTS

Accidents are the fifth leading cause of death among infants under one year (following birth circumstances, inherited disorders, sudden infant death, and pneumonia), but they are one of the most preventable causes.

According to statistics from the National Safety Council, the major fatal accidents for infants are suffocation or choking on food or objects, auto accidents, mechanical suffocation (from cords, plastic, or balloons, for examples), fires and burns, falls, drowning, poisoning and electrocution.

Below is a partial list of safety precautions for the first year of life prepared by the Emergency Room staff of Garrett County Memorial Hospital in observance of Emergency Medicine Week. In addition a booklet, Common Pediatric Problems: What To Do, developed for parents covering such topics as fever, nasal congestion, and sore throats is now available at the outpatient desk at the hospital.

Choking

—Never feed your baby large or hard pieces of food (for example, popcorn, raw vegetables, crisp bacon, or nuts).

—Don't allow any object near your baby that can be swallowed whole or broken and swallowed (for example, loosely fastened button eyes of dolls).

—Don't prop bottles or feed your baby in your bed (you may fall asleep).

—Contact your doctor now to find out how to aid a choking baby.

Automobile Accidents

—Install properly and approved auto safety restraint device and use it every time your baby is in the car.

Mechanical Suffocation

—Slats in the crib and playpen should be spaced so that your baby's head cannot go between them (they should not be more than 2-3/8 inches apart).

—Keep all balloons, pillows, plastic bags, and strings or cords (on clothing, mobiles, toys, window blinds, electric cords) away from your baby, crib and playpen.

Fire and Burns

—Install smoke detectors in your home and in your baby's room.

—Never smoke or eat, drink, carry, or leave anything hot (cup of coffee, a hot pot) near your baby.

—Lower the hot-water temperature in your house to 120 to 130 degrees and test the temperature of bath water with your elbows.

—Do not allow your baby to play on the kitchen floor while you cook (use a playpen, high chair, or an adjacent fenced room).

—Plug all unused electrical sockets and screen heating radiators.

—Put a burn in cold water until your baby calms down, then cover it loosely with a clean bandage or cloth and call a physician.

Falls

—Never leave your baby, even for a second, unrestrained or out of your touch any place from which he or she can fall (bed, changing table, sofa).

—Fence or gate stairwells and dangerous rooms.

—Remove sharp-edged furniture.

—Call the doctor if your child hits his or her head hard or does not move arms or legs normally after a fall.

Drowning

—Keep one hand on your baby at all times in the bath and never leave your baby alone near any amount of water (toilet, swimming pools, water bucket), even if he or she can swim.

Poison

—Remove from reach everything you do not want your baby to taste and lock all medicine, cleansers, pesticides, bleaches, cosmetics and paints in cabinets.

—Do not allow your baby to chew on painted objects and use only lead-free paint for baby furniture.

—Have one-ounce bottles of syrup of ipecac available, but use only if directed by a doctor or poison-control center, whose numbers should be on the telephone.

Accidents become a greater problem as your child grows older, so ask your doctor for additional safety tips.

Eventually you will want to teach your child how to deal with dangerous situations (streets, water, matches, the stove, for example). But babies are too young to learn such things. So child-proof your house and your actions now.

SHOELAND, one of the county's newest businesses, opened in late August along Route 135, right beside Tressler's Auto Electric in the Youghiogheny Plaza east of Mt. Lake Park. Managers Doug Tressler and Tammy Rudiger say the store is a total family shoe store offering name-brand quality at discount prices, as much as 30 and 40 percent off other stores. Some of the brands carried are Bass, Candies, Dexter, Hush Puppies, Nike, Pony, and Levis. The store is open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily except Friday, when it will be open until 9 p.m. Shoeland will be closed on Sundays. The building is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tressler, parents of Doug. Mrs. Charles (Claudia) Tressler is the manager of Hair Dimensions, a beauty shop operated in the Tressler building complex. Doug, who formerly worked for the Anne Arundel Police Department, says they plan a grand opening whenever all stock is in and on the shelves.

ANYTHING ELECTRICAL is the slogan employed by a new business at Sand Flat, along Route 219 just north of the 219 Drive-In. Interstate Electrical, managed by Charles Overton, is in the electrical business in a big way, providing needs for commercial, industrial and residential buildings. In addition, the firm does contract work, electrical design, and appliance repair. Stock is kept on hand for most needs, but special orders are available within a few days. Interstate Electrical is open seven days a week, from 7 to 5 on Mondays through Saturdays, and from noon to 5 p.m. on Sundays. Overton brings 14 years of experience in the electrical trade to the business, assisted by new employee Ronnie Welch. The business is also offering free verbal assistance to do-it-yourselfers stumped by a problem in wiring.

Freedom Of Information Request Is Filed With DHHS By Sachs

In an effort to help consumers control their health care costs, Maryland Attorney General Stephen H. Sachs announced that his office has filed a Freedom of Information request with the federal Department of Health and Human Services, seeking the statistical information the government keeps on fees that are charged by physicians in the state who treat Medicare patients.

"We believe we can help contain the rise in health care costs by making this information available to average consumers, who could use it to comparison shop for the best price for the health care services they need," Sach said. "It also will be helpful to the businesses and labor unions that arrange for health care services for their employees and members.

"We're not saying that cost is the definitive measure of quality in health care, but it certainly is one of a number of important factors that consumers should consider when choosing a physician—and it is something that often is underestimated or overlooked," Sachs said.

In his request under the federal Freedom of Information Act, Sachs is asking the federal government for the customary charge profiles—which essentially are median price lists—it has for each Maryland physician who treats Medicare patients, as well as for the so-called prevailing charge screens, which are a composite of the customary charges for specific procedures by all physicians in a given geographic area.

These two statistical records are used by Medicare to determine the "reasonable" amount of reimbursement a physician should receive for the services provided to an individual patient, Sachs explained.

As of June 30, there were over 15,000 licensed medical professionals in Maryland, including physicians, podiatrists, dentists, chiropractors and optometrists, and while the number of them who treat Medicare patients is not known, Sachs said it is likely that a very substantial number do and that the amount of statistical information being sought by his office will be massive.

He said the Union-Management Health Care Cost Containment Committee, which represents members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME); the AFL-CIO, and local employees of General Motors, the Koppers Company, Baltimore Gas and Electric, Westinghouse and other area organizations and employers, will use its resources to help put all the material in a form that both it and individual consumers can use. The statistics also will help institutional health care purchasers, such as businesses and labor organizations, to design new, cost-savings benefit programs for their employees, retirees and members.

"We and other members of the . . . Committee are simply delighted with this consumer education project," wrote Ernest B. Crofoot, Executive Director of AFSCME Council 67, and Douglas Macnab, Manager of Industrial Relations of Koppers, in a letter to Sachs. "The availability of this cost information will be of enormous benefit to large purchasers of health care, as well as to individual consumers. It will foster a competitive environment and encourage consumers to be more conscious of the range of choices available to them in making health care decisions, both of which will, in the long run, help to reduce or stabilize the cost of medical care," the Committee co-chairman wrote.

Sachs said that the Consumer Protection and Antitrust Divisions in his office believe that making the doctors' price lists and average prices available for inspection will encourage people to recognize that paying for health care is similar to other consumer purchases and should involve comparison shopping. He said it also should encourage increased competition in the health care industry and hopefully will contribute to a de-escalation in the costs of health care.

Deputy Attorney General Charles O. Monk III, formerly head of the Antitrust Division, and Assistant Attorney General Steven J. Cole, Chief of Consumer Protection, said that once the statistics are obtained and compiled, individual consumers should be able to use the figures to compare the prices their doctors charge with the prices charged by other physicians in the same community. Consumers also should be able to compare the prices their physician or some other physician charges with the average prices charged by doctors in a community, as well as evaluate the costs of alternative types of treatment that may be available to treat a specific condition.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my sister, Helen Michaels, who passed away one year ago, September 19, 1983. Have you ever lost a sister who was very dear to you? One you loved so very much and miss her like I do? Have you ever known a heartache or felt a bitter pain and wiped away the tears that drop like falling rain? Dear Helen, when you left me, you did not go alone, for part of me went with you, the morning God called you home.

Sadly missed by Betty, Dan Upole and family

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Helen Michaels who passed away one year ago September 19, 1983. This month comes with sad regrets. The day of the month we will never forget, she fell asleep without a goodbye, our memories of her, will never die. We miss her more, than anyone knows, as each day passes, our emptiness grows. The tears we shed, we can wipe away, but the ache in our hearts, will always stay. No one knows the grief we bear. When the family meets and she's not there. She left so suddenly, her thoughts unknown, but she left us memories we're proud to own.

Loved and sadly missed by her children, grandson, sisters and brothers

A BOARDWALK TRAIL now leads visitors deep into Canesville Swamp without damaging the ecology, thanks to combined efforts of the West Virginia and Maryland chapters of the Nature Conservancy. Numerous other groups also assisted in design and completion of the walk. Additional segments will be added later to protect the wetland bog community from trampling by the many people who visit the area. Del. Edwards Notes Changes Of County S.S.C.

Delegate George Edwards met with the Garrett County Commissioners and the Salary Study Commission Tuesday and announced a change in an existing law, Section 32A-1, Article 12, concerning the Commission.

Edwards enacted the change to add the Board of Education to the existing county government branches since it is now an elected board and that the commission would meet and set salaries for county officials two sessions prior to the elections.

The Salary Commission already studies salaries of the county commissioners,

Commissioners Endorse IRB's For New Business

The Garrett County Commissioners passed a resolution Tuesday endorsing The Colour Company, Inc., for Industrial Revenue Bonds to locate their business in the Deep Creek Lake area.

The purpose of an Industrial Revenue Bond is to give the borrower lower interest rates. When county governments give their approval of such bonds, the county has no obligation on the part of the borrower. In order to receive the bonds, though, county governments must recommend businesses they believe will benefit the community.

As of January 1, 1985, the Federal Government will be enacting new guidelines for IRB's due to the fact that they lost income in the past because local governments granted the bonds without much regard with what a facility might do for the community. Formerly, unlimited funds were available for local governments to use at their discretion. Under the new guidelines, a certain amount of money will be alloted to each state on a yearly basis. When that money has been distributed, no additional monies will be allocated until the next year, which would alleviate the problem of indiscriminate spending.

Ernie Gregg said of the resolution to recommend an IRB to the Colour Company, "I feel it's a very positive addition to the business community of Garrett County."

The Colour Company was established in 1967 by Steve Adams, then known as Steve Adams Photography, in the Washington, D.C. area. In 1974 Adams added a color printing lab to his business to provide the quality of color printing expected from his clients. Space for growth became a problem for Adams when he got the idea to move to the Deep Creek Lake area.

Some of Adams clients include: The Washington Post, National Geographic Magazine, United States Supreme Court, United Way of America, National Rifle Association, Air Force

Mother, Son Injured When Hit By Pickup

A Bittinger area mother and her young son were seriously injured Saturday afternoon when they were struck by a pickup truck near their home along Orendorf Road.

Cyndi Anne Kolbe, 32, and her son, Joshua Henry Kolbe, 8, were transported to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland by the State Police Medevac helicopter where both were listed in "critical" condition.

As of today, Joshua is listed in "serious" condition in the intensive care unit of the hospital and Mrs. Kolbe, who is now listed as "satisfactory," was removed from the intensive care unit last night.

The accident occurred at 5:30 p.m. when David Fulton Shaulis, 36, Accident, who was operating a 1974 Ford pickup, met another vehicle on the Orendorf Road and applied his brakes to avoid hitting the other vehicle. Shaulis' brakes reportedly failed, causing the right front fender to strike Mrs. Kolbe and her son, who were walking along the roadway.

Janet M. Hoover, 35, Akron, Ohio, driver of the other vehicle, stated that she realized there wasn't enough room for the approaching pickup and the pedestrians, so she stopped her car in order to avoid a collision.

Called to the scene were the Northern Rescue Squad, Bittinger Fire Department and the Medevac unit.

According to Mrs. Kolbe's mother, Sophia Richmond, Baltimore, she and her husband and the Kolbes' two other children were walking ahead of Mrs. Kolbe and Joshua, saw the oncoming pickup and heard the impact. Mrs. Richmond stated that Mrs. Kolbe knew at the last moment they were going to be hit and she attempted to push Joshua away, however the vehicle still struck both of them.

Young Kolbe remains in a coma, however is reportedly showing signs of improvement daily. He also sustained a fracture of femur (thigh bone) and damage to one lung, according

Health Department

Dr. William Pope, county health officer, told the commissioners that "Project Lighthouse," a social program for the emotionally handicapped, has met zoning requirements and will begin operation in the near future.

"Lighthouse" will be located across from the courthouse on Alder Street and will be ready for use after some minor renovations, especially to the kitchen area, have been made.

Scott Ward, director of Mental Health and Addictions, is heading the project.

Board of Education

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage commented on the low scores of county students on the Maryland Functional Writing Test given last spring.

Commissioners Vent Frustration On Resort Outcome

The Garrett County Commissioners vocalized their frustration and disappointment over the state's selection of a convention center location in a letter to Gov. Harry Hughes September 19.

The board reiterated its position on opposition to state funding and/or sponsorship of a conference center which poses "a very real threat to the business viability of existing as well as planned private resort and conference facilities," and said a very significant portion of the business which existing western Maryland facilities depend upon are a result of state agency conferences. "A state-sponsored facility threatens to rob these facilities of this much-needed market segment," the letter continues.

After pointing out that contrary to a thesis frequently voiced by Del. Caspar Taylor and reiterated by Dr. Torrey Brown, Secretary of the Department of Natural Resources, the county resort centers do not look toward the Pittsburgh market area as the driving force for their existence. Now marketing efforts are concen-

Stormwater And Sediment Permit Fees Established

A fee schedule for required stormwater management and sediment and erosion control permits was presented to the Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday morning during staff meetings by Lee Thorne, county stormwater management engineer and sediment control officer.

Thorne has designed a permit schedule of $10 for each stormwater management plan and sediment control plan for single family homes. All others will be required to pay $25 for each permit. The fees will be used to offset administrative costs and required site inspections.

These plans are to include the schedule for development, type of materials to be used, drawings when possible, a map of the area and sketch of the planned roadway. The plans are also to include gradients of any slopes involved (3-1, 2-1, etc.).

Thorne is also in the process of designing a checklist to help property owners determine if they might be eligible for an exemption from either permit.

A property owner is granted an automatic exemption if his home is to be on a lot greater than two acres, or if the builder will disturb less than 5,000 square feet (a basement smaller than 50 by 100 feet, for instance).

The sediment and erosion control plan provides basically the same requirements, although if there is any possibility that construction might introduce sediment into any natural or manmade drainage way, a permit will be required.

The engineer is responsible for review and approval of stormwater permits, while John Reckner of the Soil Conservation Service will review and approve sediment con-

Rural Residential Zoning Is Approved By Planning Commission

The Garrett County Planning Commission voted unanimously to approve the Rural Residential Zoning District yesterday at a special meeting of that agency.

The long-awaited decision was made after an appeal by Commissioner Elwood Groves to act swiftly on the matter. He said "I felt after listening to the debates for several months that there was an inequity by zoning the more remote areas of the Deep Creek Watershed the same as the lake recreational area. The Rural Residential Zoning ruling will now differentiate the two areas making it more fair for everyone involved."

The Rural Residential Zoning District proposal has been a topic of controversy for months. Several lake property owners felt that the sight of house trailers would deter potential lake property buyers and that the trailers would decrease property values.

The new ruling will allow the placement of mobile homes on permanent foundations in a number of outlying areas of the Deep Creek Watershed.

Bruce Sweitzer, Jr., whose request initiated the study on the Rural Residential Zoning District expressed his appreciation to the commission for acting favorably on the ruling.

Also on the agenda yesterday were plan updates on Viola Bylon, Thurl Tower, Joseph and Loretta DeWitt, and James and Robert McCann rezoning requests.

On the Tower and Bylon requests, Anna McNallie suggested Town Residential Zoning to allow some commercial use as a special exception and asked the commission for approval to finalize a proposal on the request. The commission gave its approval.

Bylon had requested the rezoning because she has a potential buyer if her land is approved for commercial use. Mrs. Bylon's property, which is currently zoned Lake Residential, is situated between a site-built residential unit and a commercial operation (Garrett Automotive Company) on the east side of U.S. Route 219 just north of the Mayhew Inn Road intersection.

Tower is requesting that the existing Thayerville Town Center zoning district be extended down U.S. Route 219 toward the Sand Flat Road. Currently all of that land except for two lots occupied by Garrett Automotive and an Exxon station and Poor Richard's Suds and Grub, is zoned Lake Residential. Tower owns slightly over nine acres of vacant land on the south side of the Mayhew Inn Road at its intersection with U.S. Route 219.

Joseph and Loretta DeWitt requested that their property on the Sang Run Road be included in the Town Center district of the lake since they are under the impression that the zoning line is located on their property.

The McCanns also requested rezoning of their property on the Marsh Hill Road to allow for commercial ventures.

McNallie contacted Sanitary Commissioner, Wendell Beitzel, as to the feasibility of the sewage system handling the added flow if growth occurred in the Marsh Hill area. Beitzel replied, "Logically, growth should occur, but we won't know for sure if the sewage system can handle the flow until the system has been in operation for at least one year."

Chairman Charles Bender expressed traffic concerns if rezoning occurred in the Marsh Hill area. Bender said "What effect would this have on traffic?" He also stated that some residents of that area had already written letters to him expressing concern about Garrett Rated Among 100 Best Counties In U.S.

Of the 3,092 counties in the U.S.A., Outside Magazine has compiled a list of the best 100 and Garrett County, is on that list.

The monthly magazine, which is produced in Chicago, looked for the counties that were the most beautiful, rugged, sporting, livable places in the United States.

The article, which appears in the October issue, stated they were looking for "places where you can settle in for a brief vacation or an entire lifetime." The article then states, "But we finally managed to pare down the last to 100 of the finest places you'd ever want to set foot in."

Outside Magazine is available to subscribers and on book stands.

Commissioners Express Dismay At Test Scores

At a press conference Tuesday, County Commissioners Ernest Gregg, Jr., and Elwood Groves emphasized their disappointment with the low scores of county students on the Maryland Functional Writing Test.

Groves stated, "It's became clear to me that we have a problem here." Groves went on to comment on the amount of the county budget spent on public education. He said that education was a top budget priority and that the county spends nearly $5 million a year (48.8%) on education. "We must strive for a solution and make the appropriate people accountable for this problem," commented Groves.

When asked about county scores being comparable to state scores Gregg replied, "It's small comfort to me that we're comparable to state scores . . . misery loves company."

Gregg said he felt the Board of Education needed to re-evaluate the basics of education and summarized the situation by saying, "It's a sad commentary that we're graduating students who cannot express themselves verbally or in writing. It reflects badly on all of us."

Gregg also stressed that they were not pointing a finger of blame, but that immediate attention must be focused on the problem to quickly resolve it.

FEATURED ON FLOAT — Young Donald Gordon Aronhalt, age 11, will be the special guest aboard the Ali Ghan Shrine parade float this year in the Autumn Glory Parade October 13. A sixth grader at East Preston High School, Donny has been going to the Shriners' Children's Hospital in Philadelphia since 1981 because of a birth defect which has caused his left leg to be two inches shorter than his right. Doctors at the hospital are considering corrective measures which will lead to even leg lengths in the future. In the meantime, Donny refuses to let his handicap get him down and has played on the Little League baseball team and plans to go out for wrestling. He is the oldest of three children of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Aronhalt, formerly of Oakland. The Shriner Hospital offers care to children without cost, and also pays transportation expenses.

CRANESVILLE SWAMP PRESERVE saw installation of its first segment of boardwalk trail September 22. Need for the boardwalk was documented in recent months by the Preserve Committee which did planning for the project. Chairman of the Preserve Committee is Drew Ferrier, assistant professor of biology at Garrett Community College. The walkway reaches approximately 320 feet into the bog community and was installed by Company C, 121st Engineering Battalion, Maryland National Guard. Modules for the boardwalk were constructed by CETA students at GCC and transported to the preserve by the National Guard. Installation was coordinated by Hugh Trimble, assistant professor of wildlife management at GCC. Pictured above are Trimble, Donald and Barbara Phillips, who own the historic Reckart Mill in Cranesville, and Red Bowser. Below, members of the Guard place boardwalk segments. Bloodmobile To Visit College

The Student Government Association at Garrett Community College will sponsor its second blood drive Thursday, October 4, between the hours of 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. in the old Servomation Room across from the auditorium. Donations will be accepted from students, faculty and staff, as well as from members of the community.

Karen Holyfield, SGA president and coordinator of the Bloodmobile visit, said that the SGA decided to hold the blood collection twice annually since the first Bloodmobile visit in October of last year was such a success, yielding 30 units over the college's goal of 50 units. "We expect to easily go over the 50 unit goal again this year, especially with extra community participation," she said.

A mini health exam will be held to screen donors. Persons who weigh less than 110 lbs., who have had hepatitis, or who are not feeling well may be deferred from donating.

Refreshments will be served following donation. Potential donors should allow about one hour for the donating process, to include time for the exam.

The American Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown, which is conducting the drive in cooperating with the SGA, held blood drives at more than 30 area colleges and universities in 1982 and 1983, collecting almost 10,000 units of blood. That total amounted to 11% of the total regional blood collection in 1982-83.

Coal Miners Voting Today On New Contract

Today is the day coal miners across the nation will be voting on a new contract at work sites and union halls. If accepted, this will be the first time since 1964 that the union has concluded negotiations without an industry-wide strike. The present contract expires at midnight September 30.

Although most union officials seem optimistic that the contract will pass, many union members who have been laid off feel there is nothing in the document to help address their problems.

Some 45,000 of 155,000 active miners are presently unemployed.

The 30-page complex document was read to rank and file miners Tuesday and the workers had 48 hours to ponder the document before making their decisions today.

United Mine Workers field representative David Vidovich said in an Associated Press story Wednesday that "This is the first major labor contract we know of that hasn't had any concessions in it."

Vidovich also said union operations of A.T. Massey Coal Group, the nation's sixth-largest coal producer, are almost a certain target of a selective strike. Earlier this year Massey withdrew from the Bituminous Coal Operators Association and demanded separate negotiations.

Another source said Wednesday that union workers at Consolidated Coal had threatened to burn their copies of the new contract.

~~Whose~~ Who's To Blame?

The response this week to news last week concerning a poor showing on the Maryland functional writing test by local ninth graders has been interesting and, to some, infuriating. Nearly 60% of the local students failed the test, while almost 50% failed statewide.

As expected, most of the blame for this result was laid at the feet of school teachers. One member of the board of education stated publicly that the reason for the high failure rate is that "all our middle school students do in language arts are oral reports." It's interesting to note that this board member has not set foot in the middle school language arts departments since she has been a board member, despite numerous invitations to do so. In reality, her claim is ludicrous and an unwarranted slap in the face to teachers.

Two of our county commissioners also took the opportunity to fire criticism at the board of education and school system, even though they said they were not pointing a finger of blame at anyone. It's a little ironic that one of the commissioners who voiced his displeasure, although quite bright, would probably be hard pressed to pass a functional grammar test himself.

How quickly we forget that just a few months ago our middle school students scored well above the national average on the California Achievement Tests, a proven, nationally recognized battery of tests. In view of this, we suspect that there may be some problems with the functional reading test itself.

We admit, a problem apparently does exist. But is it really a problem with the teachers? If the same functional writing test were given to the adult society in this county, how would we fare on it? We predict that it would be a dismal showing.

Also, why hasn't the board of education administrative personnel organized a curriculum for teaching writing? All of the other major subjects have a curriculum, such as math, science and social studies, but for writing there is none. Allegany County reportedly has an excellent writing curriculum and we see no reason that Garrett County should not have a similar one.

Of course there are poor teachers, just as there are poor doctors, lawyers, Indian chiefs and newspaper editors. But we still maintain that the majority of our local teachers are anywhere from good to superstars.

We believe that teachers and the school system in general are often the scapegoats for parents who actually are most responsible for their child's achievement. The school system gets blamed for almost everything: lack of discipline, teenage alcoholism, vandalism, drug abuse, lack of respect, low self esteem, poor grades, when in fact, most of these children have these problems and characteristics because of poor parenting. Where are all of those complaining, buck-passing parents on PTA night, for example?

Perhaps we should all have to pass a functional parenting test before we are allowed to have children.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

It is the opinion of this writer that Steve Shaffer, in his letter to the Editor of September 20, 1984, had the stamina to stand up in his own bailiwick and tell it as it is, without any rancor or even a touch provincialism, concerning Rocky Gap State Park and the Convention center. One thing he failed to mention is that Amtrak runs service through Cumberland connecting Washington and Pittsburgh.

From what I have read it would seem to me, that Garrett County and its "officialdom" is in a state of malignant confusion. Some months ago we wrote the county commissioners about the vandalism on the road that leads to our cabin. Our letter was ignored.

It has become necessary for us to retain an attorney to try to do something about the Potomac Edison cutting down trees on our property without our knowledge and consent and the matter of an electric line, not serving our property but hanging low over our cabin. We realize it would be futile to ask the county authorities for help.

Many Garrett County residents visit Cumberland for the purpose of obtaining goods and services. These people will be just as welcome to Rocky Gap State Park and convention center as are any other persons, even though they have been taking verbal pot shots "for lo these many weeks" at Allegany County.

Sincerely,
Beverly E. Williams

To the Editor:

Walter Mondale is better suited for the lead role in a laxative commercial than he is for the job of President. His constant sniveling and whining has touched a raw nerve in practically all of us.

Mondale drones on about President Reagan's inability to deal with terrorists, while he and the "Georgia Mafia" (Jimmy Carter, et al) were responsible for 52 Americans being held hostage in Iran for over a year by communist revolutionaries. It was the same "tough stance" that compelled Carter and Mondale to give away the Panama Canal to a drunken dictator, who threatened to take it by force.

Mondale is no novice at exercising shrewd military judgment either. The fatal "Blue Light" rescue mission to free the hostages in Iran resulted in a multitude of death and injury. The only problem was that it was inflicted upon our own troops following a tragic crash in the desert. Carter and Mondale's advisors all warned against the undertaking of this mission. Carter and Mondale pursued for only one reason: to free the hostages before the election. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance resigned as a result. The hostages were released the day President Reagan took office.

Mondale is chirping about high interest rates (currently about 11%) while he and Jimmy Carter strapped Americans with a rate as high as 21.5%. They also burdened us with an inflation rate of 17% (currently about 3.6%).

Geraldine Ferraro should possess a fine knowledge of finance though, as she and her husband have allegedly been chiseling the government out of taxes and incompetent widows out of their trust funds for years, not to mention campaign financing tactics that are blatantly illegal and unethical, according to some.

Mondale and Ferraro can't emit enough smoke to screen their pathetic records. The voting public is simply too wise!

To the Editor:

There are times when things are best left unsaid. However, with the recent resignation of the Garrett County Roads Administrator, Kenneth Metheny, and Assistant Administrator, Earl Foster, I can no longer remain silent.

During their administration, Mr. Metheny and Mr. Foster consecutively lowered the budget while they increased productivity, something uncommon in government today. One commissioner sighted possible cause for their resignation as "battle fatigue." With whom were they fighting? The interference of our elected and appointed officials due to political favoritism proved to be the greatest battle.

Now to add insult to injury, the county personnel director is acting administrater on a "temporary basis." But just how long is temporary; one, two, three months or more? It appears the situation has gone from one extreme to another. Apparently qualifications weren't an issue in the selection.

Politics does not paint a pretty picture when it disrupts a proven cost effective system as our county roads. Yes, it is true one can't please everyone but the end result is what counts. Our road systems are a subject of pride for the residents of Garrett County; yet with the current state of affairs, what can we expect, more pot holes from pot heads?

As the motto (which is becoming increasingly popular) states—elect three and get one free—sums up this unfortunate incident.

Dear Sir:

"Time for Balancing" was excellent; Dr. William's letter re.: the Maphis Deep Creek Zoning Appeals Board, etc., really hit the mark. I wonder, will anyone listen and act? That the zoning board could get by with their action of even the last few months is absolutely incredible. The Maphis property has mobile homes on both sides of it and all over that area, plus a private, accumulating junkyard a stone's throw away for years which, absolutely nothing has been done about. How come?

The county commissioners and taxpayers who should be on top of this disgraceful situation. Where are they? Does anyone in *power care? Are the Republi*cans and Democrats and their cronies getting what they want and to the devil goes the hindmost?

What in the world can thinking people be thinking of in shirking their citizen or Christian responsibilities to their fellow men? No wonder we are left out in left field from any real consideration for Garrett County in any really worthwhile consideration for enterprises!

Garrett County has to clean itself up and we aren't doing that! Business as usual? Corruption? Leadership? What? To whom do we turn?

Town and country women you have shown you can do a very real job for years! Maybe you could get us out of this quagmire? Surely the men and their leadership aren't! Think!

This is my opinion!

Thanking you,
Louise V. Harvey

To the Editor:

The Potomac Heritage Trail is a national scenic trail designated by Congress which is proposed to run through Garrett County as it goes from the Potomac River to Connellsville, Pa. The National Park Service has approached our county government for local input, but the entire idea was rejected even though some money was available to help with the planning effort. The Park Service might now consider running the trail through Allegany County and into Pennsylvania. Again, this is a recreational opportunity which would put Garrett County on the national map and help create jobs for our citizens. Is there some good reason that the National Park Service was treated so abruptly?

In January of 1983, the Board of Commissioners adopted the Garrett County Recreation and Open Space Plan which ". . . suggests increasing the importance of recreation as a factor in the county's economy . . ." and to "increase and diversify facilities and areas to improve the attractiveness of Garrett County as a year-round location for recreation and tourism." Since few job sectors can expect to provide employment opportunities for our children and their children, recreation is possibly the most important long-term industry developing in the county today. County citizens must consider the long range effects of actions by our local government which discourage or limit the growth of our tourist industry.

Sincerely,
Keith Roberts

New Guidelines Set Down By Board Of Ed.

New guidelines, designed to better protect school children, have been set by the Garrett County Board of Education.

A news release from the board stated that no child will be released from school to any person other than the parent or guardian of record unless a signed permission note has been received from that parent or guardian. In addition, the parent or guardian or the person who has permission to pick up the student must sign out the student.

The note giving permission for a person other than the parent or guardain to pick up the student should include the name of the person who is to pick up the student and the date and time the student is to be released.

A spokesman from the board said, "The movie, 'Adam', which was recently televised, has helped in focusing the nation's attention on missing children - childen who have disappeared from playgrounds, shopping areas, school yards, recreational centers, homes and other places. This problem can occur in rural areas as well as metropolitian areas. Although Garrett County has been fortunate in the relative absence of this problem, the board feels these new guidelines will aid in keeping the problem away from our schools."

Area Homemakers Form New Group

A new Garrett County Extension Homemakers group was formed on September 7, by women interested in pooling their knowledge about handiwork, crafts, fashion, food, family life, home improvements and other aspects of daily living. The name of the group is "The Towners."

Each month a different topic will be presented so the members can share ideas and learn from one another in an informal manner. The goal of the group is to exchange topics and ideas of interest to all. Topics already planned include candlewicking; creative sewing for the home; and Christmas handiwork/Christmas cooking. Future topics are unlimited and will be determined by the group's desires.

The Towners will meet the first Friday of the month from September through May at 10 a.m. in the basement of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Second Street, Oakland. Membership is open to all. Annual dues are $2.00 and babysitting is available at the church for a reasonable rate.

Chairperson for the Towners is Mary Lynn Evans, and secretary-treasurer is Jane Nolan.

The next scheduled meeting is October 5 and the topic will be "Children's Clothing—Selection and Construction." Anyone interested in more information about the group and/or babysitting costs is encouraged to call Mary Lynn Evans at 334-4006 or Patti Battista at 334-1295.

Pa. Man Injured After Falling From Bridge

Kent Smith, 25, an employee of Weiss Construction Company, was admitted to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland Tuesday in "stable" condition after falling from a bridge in the Gorman area.

Smith sustained fractured ribs and a fractured right wrist in the fall from the bridge on which he was working, located on U.S. Route 50.

Garrett Central Alarm received the call at 11:09 a.m. and dispatched the Southern Rescue Squad and Gorman Fire Department, along with Medevac, which transported Smith to the hospital.

Mrs. Kolbe suffered a compound fracture of the left leg just above the ankle, another fracture in the shin area, plus two fractures of the pelvis. Mr. Kolbe said she is slated to undergo surgery later this week to repair the fracture just above the ankle.

Mrs. Richmond stated Wednesday night that she has been "overwhelmed" by the response of the neighbors and residents of the Bittinger community. "I have simply never seen anything like it," she stated, referring to how so many people have "pitched in" to help the family.

William Kolbe expressed similar comments, noting how appreciative he was for the concern, caring and assistance with the couple's other two children.

Tfc. R.G. Georg investigated the accident and charged Shaulis with operating a vehicle not covered by insurance and driving an unregistered vehicle.

trol plans. Thorne is responsible for issuance of all permits.

So far this year 37 permits have been granted for plans for sediment and erosion control and stormwater management. Ten of these have been in the past two weeks since Thorne accepted his position. Anyone wishing further information or clarification may contact Thorne at 334-8339. His office will be moving from its present quarters with the Soil Concervation Service to the second floor of the Courthouse within the next two weeks. At that time the new phone number will be released.

The commissioners agreed Tuesday that Thorne may suggest changes in the present ordinance which would cause extreme difficulty in compliance for property owners. One such change the board approved is waiving the requirement for topographical maps, which adds greatly to the expense of preparing plans.

Other changes will be reviewed by the commissioners as they are suggested by the engineer.

The board also authorized Thorne to attend a three-day conference in Hagerstown in mid-October on state policies for stormwater management.

It will be the most modern and technically advanced lab in the Eastern United States . . . it will provide excellent high quality color support for the professional photographer. There will be seminars on a regular basis for the professional as well as the 35mm amateur."

The Colour Company is expected to employ seven persons initially with a growth potential of 15 employees within two years.

Merle Garlitz, member of the commission, asked McNallie to set up a meeting at the McCann and DeWitt sites to further study the area so that the commission might better make a decision on what action to take on the rezoning requests.

Col. Haig Jackson, member, requested that a more detailed map be made available to better assess the properties involved.

treasurer, sheriff, state's attorney and deputy, judges of the Orphans Court, Board of Supervisors of Elections, and members of the Liquor Control Board.

Those selected to serve on the Salary Study Commission are Carl Fike, Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce, chairman; Paul Frantz, Republican State Central Committee; Donald Fratz, Democrat State Central Committee; Jessie McCullough, Garrett County League of Women Voters; and William DeWitt, Garrett County Farm Bureau.

Edwards said the reason for having the commission meet two sessions before an election was to make the study "as nonpolitical as possible and not to influence the voters in an election year."

Commissioner Ernie Gregg agreed with Edwards, stating, "This system works well in business, and should work well in this case."

Former Delegate DeCorsey Bolden, who originally introduced the bill to the legislature which passed in 1978, commented on the change of the study being conducted far in advance of the elections, saying, "The candidates for various county offices and the voters of Garrett County should be aware of the salaries of public officials. This information should be emphasized during the election year and any legislation that involves salaries should be introduced into the legislature at that time so that it's fresh in the minds of the voters."

Bolden went on to say that he felt "the intent here is to have the salaries increased in an election year . . . the public is apprised of any changes in the salaries of the elected officials."

Our Turn

SWEEPSTAKES
by Susan Alvarez

Don't you love how complicated these new mail-out sweepstakes forms are becoming? Used to be, one received a mere postcard in the mail offering a "chance at $1,000." But now you must set aside a couple of evenings a week and hire a computer analyst to simply fill out and mail the form.

First, after hurriedly opening the envelope marked "HURRY! You May Have Won A MILLION!" you discover that you must wait at least six months to a year before the contest is over and the results are known. (I'm always impressed by the personal touch these letters try to use. "Yes, you, Mrs. Alvarez, will be picked up in a new Cadillac limousine in Oakland, Maryland, and driven to the Washington International Airport for your flight to NY to pick up your prize!" Don't these guys realize that the Washington Airport is slightly more than a limo ride away? I'd love to win sometime just to see the reaction on their faces when they realize they have to send that limo three and a half hours one way just to get to Oakland!)

Oh, all right, it can't hurt to enter. OK? So you plan on spending several hours decoding all of the secret squares for bonuses or rubbing off the secret message boxes with a coin. Then you proceed to lick all the secret stamps that the secret message has told you to "lick and stick" on the hidden prize box. Wait! You're not finished yet! Any contest worth its salt will have you choose your grand prize. Usually, you are offered a choice between a "dream house" or a yacht off the coast of Rio or a $1,000 a month for the rest of your life. Don't forget that you will need the $1,000 a month for life to simply maintain a dream home or a yacht off the coast of Rio.

Now you are faced with another, pardon the pun, sticky situation. You must select a subscription or product on a trial basis so you may place your entry into an envelope marked with a large "YES" in red letters, or take your chances placing the entry in the horrid "NO" envelope. (I have visions of what happens to the "NO" envelopes once they reach their destination).

The final blow comes for the now-weary contestant when you read the bottom line of their entry form. "If your entry is postmarked before the first of next month, you are eligible for the early bird bonus of $25,000." Trouble is, it's taken sixty days to get to the bottom line of the entry form.

trated on the Baltimore-Washington area.

The final two paragraphs are worthy of quoting in full:

"We regret that the state of Maryland did not see fit to perform a market feasibility study prior to launching this unprecedented initiative. It is our belief that an objective market evaluation would indicate that it would not be feasible to profitably sustain several resort/conference facilities in western Maryland. Already Garrett County has at least three facilities catering to modest sized groups (up to 125 overnight guests). Washington County has a full service conference facility, privately owned but partially financially assisted by MIDFA which will undoubtedly suffer as a result of direct state-sponsored competition.

"We find it ironic that the state of Maryland is touting its awareness of the contribution small existing businesses make in the economy simultaneously with its announcement to proceed with launching into a business which will directly compete with many existing western Maryland businesses. Governor Hughes, we are curious what Secretary DeFrancis' Enterprise Assistance Center's response might be to a query—from a Garrett County resort/conference proprietor asking why does the state of Maryland want to drive me out of business, and how can I do anything about it? We don't have the answer. Do you, Sir?"

Copies of the letter were sent to Secretary Brown, Frank DeFrancis, head of the Economic Development for the state; Sen. John Bambacus and Del. George Edwards.

Dog Run Boys To Perform During Autumn Glory

The Dog Run Boys, a celebrated group from Western Pennsylvania, will provide the entertainment following the Official Maryland State Fiddlers' Championship on Saturday, October 13, during the 17th Annual Autumn Glory Festival. The concert will be held at the Southern High School gym beginning at 8 p.m.

With two albums, "Unleashed" 1981, "Revonah and Profiles," 1983, Markisa, many major festivals, thousands of miles and countless club dates behind them, The Dog Run Boys have extended their reputation far beyond the reaches of their home in Western Pennsylvania. They have been called "the freshest sound they've heard in one of the distinct sounds in modern bluegrass music."

Organized in 1979, The Dog Run Boys soon became a top local club attraction, assuming a dominant role in Pittsburgh's 30-year-old bluegrass scene. Veteran mandolinist Bob Artis had sung with bassist, Bernie Cunningham and singer/guitarist, Rick Malis in another local band. They said they knew they had the basis of a great bluegrass trio, but it wasn't until they found young banjo wizard, Don Shean, in nearby Greensburg that they emerged as a group. This young musician has won first place in the Autumn Glory Maryland State Banjo Competition two years straight. He will once again compete this year and if he is victorious he will be named Grand Champion and will be unable to compete for two consecutive years.

Another of the group's young musicians is Danny Kelly who won the fiddle competition three years in a row and was named Grand Champion and was unable to compete for two years. He is also accredited with the National Grand Master title in Nashville.

For more information pertaining to this or any other events concerning Autumn Glory and a free schedule of events brochure, persons may contact the Festival Headquarters, Courthouse, Oakland.

THE CHURCH OF GOD OF PROPHECY of Deer Park is planning its annual Homecoming Service Sunday, October 7, beginning with the service at 10 a.m. The morning service will include special singing and a roll call of former pastors, with each former pastor present sharing some highlights of their pastorate. Guest speaker this year will be Rev. Vernard Tasker, Elkins, W.Va. Immediately following the special service there will be a dinner prepared and served by the church ladies in the church social quarters in the basement. Concluding the day's activities will be a hymn sing at 7 p.m., featuring the Pyle family from Morgantown, W.Va., and local talent. All former members and friends are welcome, according to the current Pastor Rev. Leonard Goughler. The Eagle Rock Church of God of Prophecy was organized in the fall of 1952 by State Overseer Posey Shupe after a revival with Charles Uphole of Uniontown, Pa. The Loch Lynn Church was organized by Overseer Posey Shupe in 1954 after a tent meeting with Lloyd Womack. The churches combined in 1975 to become the Deer Park Church.

Autumn Glory Princesses Selected

Autumn S. Frazee

Criss Kepple

Autumn Glory Princesses have been named from Northern and Southern High Schools to accompany Autumn Glory Queen Wendy Groves during the activities marking the 17th Annual Autumn Glory Festival.

From Northern High School, Autumn Shea Frazee was selected as princess. The daughter of Ward and Carol Frazee of Friendsville, Autumn is a senior and is the Student Council President, distinguished honor roll student, Maryland Distinguished Scholar nominee and was selected the 1984 Friendsville Summer Festival Queen. She also serves as the Husky Mascot.

Criss Kepple was selected as princess from Southern High School. The daughter of Howard and Bernice Kepple of Oakland, Criss is a senior and also is the Student Council President, 1984-85 Farm Queen, State 4-H vice-president and president of the Oakland Chapter of FFA. She also is the author of "Southern Speaks" which appears weekly in The Republican.

Study Shows That Children, Society Greatly Benefited By Head Start

New findings from an authoritative long-term study of the lifetime impact of Head Start offer the strongest evidence to date that Head Start programs pays off, for participants and for society, according to a release from the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc.

According to Duane Yoder, executive director of the Community Action Committee who administers the Garrett Head Start Program, the results released by High/Scope Educational Research Foundation show that Head Start pays off in better academic performance, lower rates of crime and delinquency and better earnings prospects. Yoder stated that they also show that Head Start pays off for society in dollars and cents, not only because participants increased their earnings power, but also because Head Start resulted in reduced costs for special education, welfare and the criminal justice system.

Jean Tressler, who is the local Head Start Program Director, said that the study, the Ypsilanti Perry Preschool Project, was conducted for the past 22 years by the High/Scope Educational Research Foundation of Ypsilanti Michigan. It followed the life of 123 disadvantaged children from preschool age to the present, comparing performance to experience of children who were in Head Start and those with no Head Start experience. The study shows that by the age of 19, young people who had attended Head Start on the average significantly out-performed youngsters who had not. The major finds are that:

*Two out of three of the young people with the Head Start group graduated from High School (67%), while only one of two of the non Head Start group graduated (49%).

*On a test of functional competence at the age of 19, 61% of the Head Start group scored average or above while only 38% of the non Head Start group did as well.

*There was a 38% rate of enrollment in post-secondary education for few Head Start group while only a 21% rate for the non Head Start group only 15% of the Head Start group were classified at some time during their school years as mentally retarded, while 35% of the non Head Start group were so classified. On the average, the Head Start group required special education class for only two years while non Head Start persons required three years and six months.

*The detention and arrest rate for the Head Start group was 31% as compared to a 51% rate among non Head Start individuals.

*Teenage pregnancy rate among women in the Head Start group was 64 out of 100 as compared to the 117 per 100 for women in the non Head Start group.

*At age of 19, 50% of the Head Start group were employed while 32½ of the non Head Start group had jobs.

*Only 18% of the Head Start group was receiving welfare as compared to the 32% of the non Head Start group.

Yoder also noted that the study had looked at the cost benefit of Head Start. According to Yoder, the study showed that the return on the initial investment was equal to 3½ times the cost of two years of Head Start and seven times the cost of one year of Head Start.

Yoder stated that, although a number of studies have been conducted over the years on the impact of Head Start, this is the first authoritative study which tracked Head Start children to adulthood. The Community Action Agency has a copy of the study available for public review for interested persons.

For more information persons may contact: Yoder at Garrett County CAC, Oakland.

Maryland Energy, Weatherization Programs Begun

Ruth Massinga, secretary of the Department of Human Resources, announced the start of the Maryland Energy Assistance and Weatherization Assistance Programs at a press conference on Tuesday in Baltimore. During the press conference she discussed plans for changes in this year's Energy Assistance (MEAP) and Weatherization (WAP) programs.

"This year, the application process for energy assistance and weatherization will be combined, making it more convenient for potential applicants," said Lawrence Hunt, executive director of the Department's Community Services Administration.

Local agencies throughout the state which administer MEAP and WAP will be authorized to begin accepting applications on Monday, October 1, according to Shirley Marcus, director of MEAP. Agencies are expected to begin actual payment of benefits on or before November 31, 1984.

Approximately 90,000 households in Maryland are expected to receive an average grant of $253 to help offset home heating costs. In addition, WAP expects to weatherize 8,400 homes throughout the state, providing an average of $1,000 in materials and labor per household.

Eligibility for energy and weatherization assistance is established at 150 percent of the federal poverty level. For example, a family of four persons with a gross annual income of not more than $15,300 or a gross monthly income of not more than $1,275 would be eligible for the program.

In prior years, MEAP has provided a "second benefit" or "emergency grant" late in the winter. This year MEAP will provide only one grant per household. However, up to $150 of the grant may be expedited if the household is in a crisis situation at the time of application. MEAP will also enroll families interested in the PSC Winter Protection Plan when the MEAP application is taken.

Persons who rent their homes, as well as homeowners, may apply for energy assistance, regardless of whether or not their home heating costs are included in thier rent.

MEAP and WAP assistance will be provided in Garrett County through the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc. Persons desiring information may call the office at 334-2151.

SHS Students Score High In Merit Program

Southern High School has been notified that two of its seniors have been designated Commended Students in the 1985 Merit Program. Art Refosco, principal, announced today that Kimberly DeBerry and John Leininger placed in the top five percent of over one million participants in the 30th annual competition and will receive a letter of Commendation in honor of outstanding promise for future academic success.

An officer of National Merit Scholarship Corporation, (NMSC), which administers the program, stated that, "The exceptionally high test performance of young people who are named Commended Students in the extremely competitive Merit Program is deserving of recognition in their communities. To acknowledge the attainments of academically talented students and to credit schools for the part they play in the development of these youth are important in a nation that values excellence. We sincerely hope that their accomplishments thus far will motivate these students to pursue higher education and to acquire the skills they will need to become productive adults and contributing citizens in a free society."

Participants entered the current Merit Program by taking the PSAT/NMSQT in the fall of 1983, when most of them were juniors. Although the qualifying test scores of the 35,000 Commended Students designated nationwide were very high, they were slightly below the level required for Semifinalist standing in the competition for some 5,500 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1985. The 15,000 Semifinalists in this year's competition were announced publicly by NMSC on September 13.

The donation was given after a request for funds was presented by Ms. Jackie Brady, a teacher at the school.

The town council unanimously agreed to pass a resolution making connection to the town water system mandatory. Wendell Betizel, sanitary distrct administrator, presented several requests concerning the water system to the council, which plans to call a special meeting on the requirements in the near future.

Federal Block Grant Funds To Be Distributed

Maryland Secretary of Human Resources Ruth Massinga has announced the state's plan for the distribution of $4.5 million in federal funds under the Community Services Block Grant for federal fiscal year 1985. The block grant funds, part of the Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981, will be distributed to local agencies, including Garrett County Commnnty Action Committee, Inc., to finance various programs for low-income persons.

Originally part of the nation's "war on poverty", the community action agencies have used federal funds since 1964 to develop programs designed to ameliorate the causes and conditions of poverty in local areas. In Maryland, these community programs have included: Head Start educational centers for young children; health, housing and weatherization projects; and other special programs for young persons and the elderly.

For 1985, 90 percent of the state's Community Services Block Grant Funds will be distributed to existing community action agencies, according to Hunt.

Persons wishing to comment on the plan may write, before September 30, 1984, to: Lawrence E. Hunt, Community Services Administration, Department of Human Resources, Room 406, 1123 North Eutaw Street, Baltimore, Maryland, 21201.

Use Of RVs On State Land Being Addressed

In response to requests from many county residents concerning the use of state owned land for recreational vehicles, County Commissioners John Braskey and Ernie Gregg acted recently by sending a letter to Donald MacLaughlan, director for the Department of Natural Resources.

The letter, mailed September 5, said that the state of Maryland retained quite a bit of land in the county with little benefit to residents and asked for guidelines to be set by the state for the purpose of using state land for recreational vehicles, such as: three and four-wheelers, snowmobiles, etc.

MacLaughlan replied to the commissioner's letter on September 18, stating that the DNR had already begun looking into the matter. He said as soon as they were able to assess the impact on adjacent private landowners, wildlife and the environment, they would act on the request. He also said he hopes to have this information together in time for an October public meeting.

Lake Zoning Board To Hear Three Variance Requests

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will hear three requests for variances during the October 4 public hearing in the old grand jury room of the Courthouse. The hearings will start at 7:30.

Alden and Nancy Perando have asked for a variance which would allow them to construct a residence within ten feet of the Penelec line. Their property is on Lake Shore Drive.

James Davis of the Turkey Neck Estates Subdivision has asked a variance so that he may construct an addition to his residence which would extend to within 24 feet of the front property line.

Dale Wagner has asked to construct an addition to his barn/storage building which would bring the structure to within two feet of his side property line on U. S. Route 219 on Hooppole Hill.

The board will also be making a decision in the Patterson Boat case on Harvey's Peninsula, after a month-long review

Autumn Glory Trivial Road Rally Planned

Charlotte Griffith, Jim Neville and Glen Rosson, Rally planners, have issued an update on the 1984 Autumn Glory Road Rally, to be held on Sunday, October 14.

Cars must be registered between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m., at the Appalachian Center, 105 South Third Street, Oakland, 334-8146. Registered cars will leave the starting line at the Southern Middle School parking lot between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., and the Rally will end at 6 p.m. There is a $10 donation per car to enter and prizes will be awarded on a point system for the best mileage and correct answers.

"Each year we, the planners, have a theme for the Rally. This year it is referred to as 'The Trivial Road Rally'," according to Griffith. "Each registered car which completes the Rally will be eligible to win a game of Trivial Pursuit (Genius Edition), which has been donated by John Kurilla and the Ben Franklin Store."

As always, the planners emphasize driver and vehicle safety. Griffith said that it is not a speed race and persons don't need a sports car or have to live in Garrett County to participate. She stated that the prizes will be awarded differently this year. There will be a first, second, and third prize for Garrett County vehicles and the same for non-Garrett County vehicles.

"We plan a beautiful, scenic and informative route through Garrett County," Griffith said. "We give you written instructions throughout the Rally to guide you along the course. If you can read, follow directions and observe things along the way, you stand a good chance of completing the course and winning a prize. A sense of humor definitely helps."

Last year, 44 cars registered and the all-time high number of cars registered was 49. "We are anticipating 55-60 cars this year," she said. "Many participants return each year because it is such a good time, they enjoy the challenge of the Rally and they usually see parts of Garrett County they have not seen before, in the fall."

The Autumn Glory Road Rally is sponsored by the Garrett Organization for the Handicapped, a local group which advocates for and financially supports programs and services for handicapped Garrett County citizens.

October is National Employ the Handicapped month. Each driver and navigator will receive a "survival pack" from the Country Oven Bakery. "Each pack will contain bakery goodies to sustain the participants along the way," Griffith said.

In 1983, the Country Oven Bakery was named the "National Employer of the Year" by the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped; and in 1982, was named by the Maryland Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped the state "Small Employer of the Year."

To date, the following prizes have been donated: $20 gas, Oakview Motors; $15 gas, Rt. 135 Amoco; $20 gas, Lakeview Exxon; and automotive items, Bell Brothers and Shaffer Ford.

For more information and to pre-register, persons may contact Charlotte Griffith at 334-1322 day, or 334-8856 after 6 p.m.

Pre-Employment Skills Training Workshop Slated

The Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College is offering a two-week workshop on Pre-Employment Skills Training, beginning Monday, October 8, and continuing through Friday, October 19. Classes will meet on a daily basis from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the McHenry campus of the college.

It was incorrectly reported last week that the workshop would begin October 1.

This course is designed for people who are either entering the job market for the first time or for those who wish to upgrade their employability and job seeking skills in order to reenter the working world. Morning classes will focus on preemployment skills whereas afternoon classes will concentrate on developmental math and English skills necessary to compete in today's job market. Upon completion of the course participants should be able to: assess academic level and plan courses to upgrade present level; understand and demonstrate methods for work and personal stress management; make effective decisions concerning employment future; update or draft resume; develop an effective job search strategy and; demonstrate competent interviewing skills.

Tuition, fees, and supplies are free to eligible dislocated workers. To determine eligibility, persons can call the Western Maryland Consortium at 334-8445. Although considered, income level is not a deciding factor in determining eligibility for this program.

Registration is now being taken. For more information, persons may contact the Office of Continuing Education at 334-8266.

IN FOR A TOUCHDOWN on a one-yard plunge is Southern High quarterback J. R. Gibson late in the first quarter Friday evening against Musselman. The Rams edged the Applemen 22-21, to remain unbeaten in four games. Also identifiable in the photo for Southern are No. 42 Steve Schrock, and No. 80 Kurk Turney.

JUST OUT OF REACH for Northern Husky Steve Zumpano is a ball tossed by quarterback Kevin Sines in the game against visiting Beall Friday night. Sines was later injured and Zumpano had to assume the signal-calling duties. The Huskies were defeated, 14-0.

Rams Edge Musselman, 22-21, In Fourth Quarter Thriller; To Face Keyser

Perhaps the most exciting fourth quarter action in the history of Southern High School football occurred Friday evening in Oakland and resulted in delight to the Rams and their fans as they edged previously undefeated powerhouse Musselman, 22-21. The victory had an extra touch of sweetness for Coach Tom Woods and his team because it was the first time the Rams had ever topped the Applemen under Woods and it avenged a number of sound defeats in recent years.

The win also provides great momentum for the 4-0 Rams who must face undefeated Keyser this Friday and unbeaten Hampshire the following week, however the team will be without their winning coach on the sidelines, who was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital Wednesday morning for an emergency appendectomy.

It appeared early in the first quarter against Musselman that the Rams would be in for another long evening with their West Virginia foes, as the Applemen took the opening kickoff and marched 68 yards, culminating with a 38-yard scoring pass from Alan Flatness to Brad Byer. David Potts booted the extra point.

But the Rams came back with a scoring drive of their own on their first possession, parading 84 yards and scoring on a one-yard dive by quarterback, J.R. Gibson. After a 15-yard penalty on the first extra-point attempt, Gibson then booted a 36-yarder to tie the score at 7-7.

The next two quarters were a standoff, as both teams were able to move the ball but failed to punch it in for a score.

Early in the fourth period, the Rams pounced on a Musselman fumble to gain good field possession, only to give the ball back when Bruce Bosley's long run toward the end zone resulted in a fumble on the two-yard line.

Terry Shetley put Musselman back on top shortly thereafter with a nine-yard scoring run. The attempt for the two-point conversion failed.

A 24-yard run to paydirt by Bosley, followed by Gibson's kick for the conversion returned the lead to the Rams, 14-13, about midway through the quarter.

However, it appeared that Mussleman would emerge as the victor when the Applemen came right back to score on a 40-yard run by Mike Dick. The two-point conversion run by Dick put the visitors on top, 21-14.

On the ensuing kickoff, Steve Bennett received the ball on the five-yard line and sneaked through a hole right in the middle of the field to record a 95-yard touchdown run, bringing the Rams to within one point, 21-20. Bosley then took a pitchout from Gibson on a sweep around the right side and crossed the line for the winning two-point conversion.

Mussleman had one final opportunity in the waning moments to organize a drive, but it was stopped cold by Scott Werdebaugh who picked off a Flatness aerial.

Bosley, who also sparkled on defense, paced Southern's 270-yard rushing performance as he picked up 93 yards on 19 carries. John Petry led the Applemen with 95 yards on 18 attempts.

Bennett also stalled a Mussleman drive with an interception.

Assistant Coach Dave Bosley, commenting on behalf of Coach Woods this week, stated that the offensive line play by the Rams "was good as we have done so far this season."

Bosley noted in particular the performances of Bosley, who received the weekly Defensive Champion award, Gibson, Bennett, Dave McLaughlin and Steve Schrock. "Jay Stewart and Warren Livengood also played very well for us from the defensive tackle positions," he said.

The Rams will face the number one running back in the area this Friday evening in Keyser, junior Sean Hill, who raced for 292 yards in less than three quarters last week (204 in the first half) against Bruce. Bosley said the 5-6, 160-pound back is "quick and elusive, but also has the strength to run over some pepole."

Returning to the backfield this week after having been out with an ankle injury is sophomore fullback, Shannon Vissman, 5-11, 190 pounds. Anchoring the lines, offensive and defensive is 6-5, 250-pound junior Jackie Todd Taylor. Right defensive end Boyd Halterman (5-11, 150), who led the team in tackles last season, is also a returnee.

"Keyser is as stong as Musselman overall", Bosley said, "but they also have an added feature in Sean Hill. They can break for a score at any time. We are going to have to key on Hill as much as possible."

Bosley said the coaching and calling of plays will be a "joint effort" between him and the other assistants, as Woods will have to be content to listen to the game on the radio from his hospital room. Woods may also miss the game against Hampshire next week.

Bosley said that all of the Rams are in good health this week, including Dave McLaughlin, who has been nursing an ankle injury, and Steve Schrock, who has been plagued with muscle cramps in his calf.

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Loss Of Sines, Lack Of Defensive Intensity Results In Husky Defeat

The loss of quarterback Kevin Sines in the second quarter and a rather lackluster performance by the defense resulted in a 14-0 defeat of the Northern Huskies at the hands of visiting Beall Friday evening.

Sines went down with a severe ankle sprain and is listed as doubtful this week when the Huskies travel to Berkeley Springs in search of their second win in four starts.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Mountaineers recorded their first points late in the second period when Shevin Kuperman scored on a 28-yard pass from Randy Eichhorn. The kick for the extra point was no good.

A 15-yard run, followed by a 15-yard penalty against Northern, highlighted a fourth quarter drive by Beall, as John Brewer dashed in from the seven-yard line with 6:20 remaining in the game. Brewer also ran for the two-point conversion.

Both teams finished nearly even in total defense, with Beall picking up 172 total yards compared to 155 for Northern. However, all but 30 yards were recorded through the air by the Huskies, who have had difficulty all season in generating a ground game. Beall rushed for 138 yards.

Steve Zumpano, who finished with eight catches for 75 yards, assumed the duties of quarterback after Sines got hurt. Zumpano was the starting quarterback early last season before being moved to the split end position.

Sines made a brief appearance in the second half against Beall, but had to leave the game for good because of his ankle injury.

"Steve did a good job under the circumstances," stated Coach Jack Settle, "but our offensive line blocking is still not what it should be and, after looking at the films, it is obvious that our defense lacked enthusiasm. Our tackling was not crisp and sharp and there was a lack of concentration on the part of our offense."

The Huskies were tagged with a few costly five-yard penalties in key situations as a result of wrong formations.

"But I can't always point the finger at the kids," Settle said. "Part of the blame has to go toward the coaching staff."

The Huskies will attempt to get back on a winning track this week by hosting Berkeley Springs, but it will not be an easy task. The Indians are 2-2,

On September 8, the band competed at Elizabeth Forward, Pa., and took awards for best rifles, best music, best general effect, best marching, and first place in Class A.

Later that day the group competed at Jeanette, Pa., and took awards for best rifles, first place in Class A, and third place overall.

On September 22, the group was rewarded for its competition at the Frankfort Invitational with awards for best silks, best rifles, best percussion, best Class A band, and grand champions over Class A, AA, and Open Class.

having lost to undefeated Hampshire and powerhouse Musselman.

The Indians are led once again by senior quarterback Joe Didawick, who is probably the leading passer in the state of West Virginia.

Didawick, 6-0, 194, is averaging about 150 yards per game through the air and is joined by 18 other lettermen. Berkeley Springs finished last season with a 7-2-1 record.

Also back are wide receiver Troy Newbraugh, 6-0, 175-pound senior, who received a pair of touchdown passes in last week's win over Moorefield; Mark Crone, senior tightend, 5-11, 180; and leading rusher Toby Stotler, a 6-0, 195-pound junior fullback.

The Indians use a wide open passing game, employing a veer formation along with a lone setback and the shotgun. They defeated the Huskies last year, 7-0.

"We are expecting them to pass 35 or 40 times," Settle said, "so we have been working real hard this week with our secondary. Their ground game is not as strong as their passing game, but it doesn't have to be. They are really skilled at offensive pass blocking."

Position changes for Northern as a result of Sines' injury will include leaving Zumpano at quarterback, moving Randy Kamp from tight end to split end, Dennis Hetrick to tight end, Charlie Beiler to the slot position and Jeff Eggleston and Bill Murray at the fullback position. Former fullback Bill Friend will be returned to the offensive line to add needed strength and experience there, Settle said.

"The attitude of our players is good," Settle said. "I told them that nearly every game on our schedule will be close and we must out-execute and concentrate in order to win. We're just a little bit away from winning right now. We are picking up the pieces and looking forward to the Berkeley Springs game."

The game will get underway at 7:30 p.m.

Ducks Unlimited Chapter Plans Annual Banquet

The Mt. Top Chapter of Ducks Unlimited will hold its fifth annual banquet at Point View Inn, Deep Creek Lake, on Wednesday, October 17, at 5:30 p.m., according to Phil Davidson, chapter chairman. It is open to all persons interested in the future of North American waterfowl, Davidson said.

"The Ducks Unlimited success story in really starting to spread around," Davidson said. "Banquets like our chapter event held throughout the country last year contributed to Ducks Unlimited's national fund-raising effort which raised $38.2 million during 1983 alone. That total must increase this year if the North American waterfowl habitat race is to be won."

According to DU officials, 70% of North America's waterfowl production occurs in Canada. Since federal duck stamp dollars cannot be spent beyond U.S. borders, sportsmen funds earmarked for waterfowl conservation are not getting to the places where the great percentage of production takes place. Through Ducks Unlimited, over $237 million has been raised in this country since 1937, most of which has been sent to Ducks Unlimited in Canada to reserve millions of acres of prime habitat encompassing over 2,400 wetland projects.

Davidson said that biologists estimate that millions of additional acres of habitat must be reserved in order to stabilize North America's waterfowl population. "When you consider that habitat today is diminishing due to agricultural and development pressures, and that DU is the only non-profit conservation organization involved in the Canadian waterfowl habitat race, you can begin to see the significance attached to the organization's fund-raising events," he stated.

Tickets for the banquet, which are $30 single, $40 couple, include a one-year DU membership and a subscription to the organization's magazine. Persons may contact Davidson at 334-5822 for tickets and further details.

DNR Planning To Stock Ringnecks

The ringnecked pheasant may make a comeback in Garrett County in the next few years if plans by the Department of Natural Resources become reality.

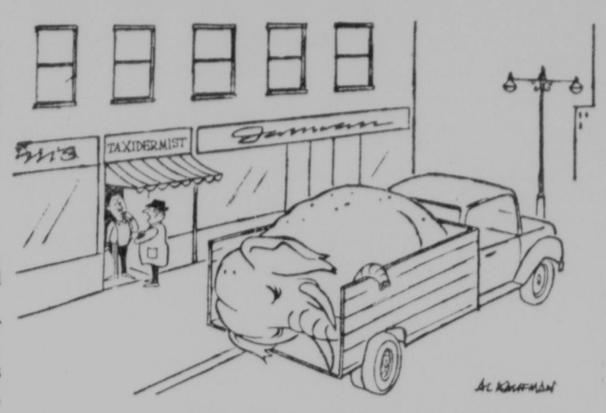

According to DNR personnel, landowners in the northern part of the county have given permission to have ringnecks turned out on their properties. The ringnecks will be trapped in funnel traps in Washington County this fall and brought here. The DNR is seeking farmland which offers abundant winter cover and small grain crops. The birds are especially fond of corn, as noted by Al Bourgeois, district wildlife manager.

Josh Sandt, upland program manager for the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service of DNR, announced recently that surveys done by Bourgeois show that area farmlands are very similar to those in southern Pennsylvania which support flourishing flocks of ringneck pheasants.

Presently, the Clear Spring area is as far west in Maryland as the game birds now live.

Previous stocking of the birds has proved unsuccessful. Birds from hatcheries apparently were unable to forage sufficiently to survive the harsh winters.

Bourgeois also said that although the stocking is part of the state's comprehensive wildlife plan, the state should instigate closed seasons on the pheasants in the county until flocks can get established.

Nearly 60% of last year's ninth grade students failed the test which must be passed in order to graduate.

Ryscavage told the board that Albert Ringer, assistant superintendent, is currently working on a short-term plan and a long-term plan, due by January 1, 1985, to devise better teaching methods to prepare students for the test.

Ryscavage then invited the commissioners to attend a luncheon meeting October 18 to hear results of the poll recently taken in Garrett County of the public's view on public education in Maryland.

At a press conference later that day, Commissioner Ernie Gregg stated, "It's small comfort to me that our students didn't fare much worse on the test than the state levels. We're concerned with the problem here and what measures will be taken by the Board of Education to remedy this sad situation." Gregg went on to say the situation "reflects badly on all of us and that we need to reevaluate the basics of education."

Sheriff's Department

Sheriff Frank Finch reported that the Garrett County Jail, which had recently undergone state inspection, was "almost in compliance with state regulations." Finch said that very few jails in the state are in compliance with state regulations.

Finch also announced that Chief Deputy Harland Tichnell has been accepted at the FBI National Academy for a three-month course in various police procedures. Tichnell will be leaving for the academy, located in Virginia, the end of this month.

Finch just returned from a two-day sheriffs' convention in Ocean City. He said the convention focused on the Police Bill of Rights and jail problems.

The sheriff concluded his report by requesting a new mechanic for the department as "the old one had been legally detained elsewhere."

Garrett Community College

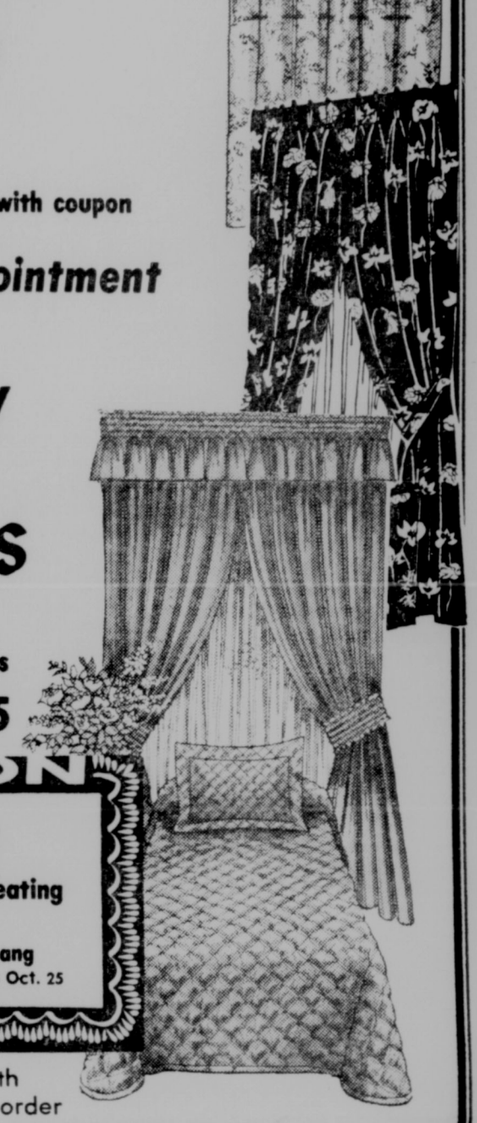

Leo Martin, dean of financial affairs at the college, reported that the college is in sound fiscal condition following an audit by Rodeheaver and Associates, a local CPA firm.

Martin also informed the commissioners that computerization at the college is nearly complete.

Rabies Clinics

Edgar Harman, director of Environmental Health Services, reported that the rabies clinics being conducted have been very successful. As of Tuesday morning 180 pets have been vaccinated. Harman went on to say that the vaccinations are vital due to the spreading of the disease to the northern end of the county.

Lakers Lose First Tri-Match, Win Second One

The Garrett Volleyball squad traveled to Westmoreland County, Pa., Saturday, and lost both ends of a tri-match with Westmoreland Community College and the Penn State—Beaver Campus.

Westmoreland Community College simply dominated a Laker squad already hampered by injuries as they won by scores of 15-5 and 15-8. Molly Coberly's five spike points were most of the Laker offense.

According to Laker Coach Mike Friend, "We simply did not pass well enough or serve well enough to be in the match, much less to win it."

The Lakers lost to Beaver Campus by scores of 15-13 and 15-12. Sue Snyder's 13 spike points and Amy Tate's six serve points were bright spots on a dismal outing.

It was a different story two days later as the Lakers moved back to form to overwhelm Frederick Community College, 15-2 and 15-6; and Dundalk Community College, 15-6 and 15-0.

In the first game with Frederick, Karen Holyfield served for nine consecutive points. Against Dundalk, Loni Dailey scored for nine points and Molly Coberly added eight as Sue Snyder led the hitters with eight spike points. Kim Martin set for 12 assists.

The Lakers play at home Saturday as they host Potomac State and Shenandoah College at 2 p.m.

Named Academic All-American

The National Secondary Education Council has announced that David McLaughlin, a senior at Southern High School, has been named an Academic All-American.

The council established this award program to offer recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines. Those chosen for the award must earn at least a 3.3 grade point average. Only those selected by a secondary school instructor, counselor or other qualified sponsor are accepted.

McLaughlin, who participates in football, basketball and baseball at Southern, was nominated for the award by Tom Woods, head football coach. His name will appear in the Council's Academic Directory, which is published nationally.

He is the son of Luther and Joan McLaughlin, Mtn. Lake Park.

Trophies will be awarded to the above at the annual banquet this Saturday, September 29.

In second round action, Jerry Tichnell and Sam Wakefield Jr. took first place, followed by the team of Arnold Tichnell and Cecil Holtschneider. Joe Lewis and Jess Fearer were third.

Ladies Golf News

The last breakfast meeting of the Ladies Golf Association of the Oakland Country Club for 1984 was held Thursday, September 20.

Certificates from the Pro Shop were distributed to the winners of the various tournaments by Pearl Daniels.

For the 1985 season, it was decided that those who wish to play only nine holes may do so and still be a part of the Association and pay regular dues. Anyone interested in participating in this group should contact Sue Pagenhardt.

Marie Nelson, outgoing president, handed the gavel over to Sue Pagenhardt, the new president. The other officers for next year are Mary Lou Shaffer, treasurer; Shirley Metheny, secretary; and Louise Messinger, corresponding secretary.

A gift exchange concluded the meeting. The Awards Banquet will be held October 20 in the Club dining room.

Raiders Remain Undefeated With Win Over Rams

The Oakland Raiders of the Mt. Top Youth Football League remained undefeated on the season Sunday with a 31-7 victory over the Davis-Thomas Rams on the Southern High field. The win raised the Raider's record to 4-0, while the Rams fell to 1-3.

The Raiders opened the scoring on the first play of the game with Bobby Horner scooting 65 yards to paydirt. The PAT attempt was no good.

After forcing the Rams to punt, the black and grey took over the ball on the Ram's 30-yard line. Four plays later Horner scored again on a nine-yard run. The PAT was again no good.

The third Raider possession began on their own 16-yard line. On the first play Zack Gibson banged ahead for a nine-yard gain. With the ball on the 25-yard line Gibson again broke the line of scrimmage and this time raced 75 yards for the touchdown. The PAT conversion failed.

Gibson scored the last touchdown of the half on the next Raider possession, going 34 yards on the third play of the drive. Jamie Colaw ran for the extra point and the black and grey led 25-0 at the end of the first half.

On the first possession of the second half, Brent Sanders scored for the Raiders on the first play from scrimmage, only to have the play called back because of illegal motion. Three plays later, Horner scored his third touchdown of the day on a 32-yard jaunt. The PAT was no good.

The Raider coaches then emptied the bench with six minutes to go in the third quarter. The Rams only score came in the fourth quarter.

Standouts on the Raider defense were Zack Gibson, Steve Wotring, David Burdock and Jamie Colaw. Brent Sanders and Bobby Orr each had an interception for the Raiders.

Standouts on the Ram defense were Brandin Bean, Vince Ponikuar, Marty Bush and Tate Layman.

Farm Bureau Has Kick-Off Dinner

Jay Hoffman, Maryland Farm Bureau field representative, gave a slide presentation on "How to Conduct a Membership Campaign" at the annual Farm Bureau membership kick-off dinner meeting held Wednesday evening, September 19, at the Bittinger Community Building. County Farm Bureau president Clark Kolb welcomed guests.

Donna Glotfelty, Women's Committee chairman, introduced the musical entertainment, Pammy and Tammy Brenneman, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Brenneman, of Bittinger. Mrs. Glotfelty also outlined current and future activities of the Women's Committee.

Criss Kepple, 1984 Garrett County Farm Queen, spoke to the group about her experience since the beginning of her reign, and the need to enlighten the general public about Garrett County, where it is located, and what it has to offer. Criss and the other three Farm Queen Contestants will ride a horse-drawn surrey in the Autumn Glory Parade October 13 in Oakland.

The men's Board of Directors and the Women's Committee met in separate sessions and began preparation of ballots for the coming elections to be held in conjunction with the annual fall dinner meeting scheduled for October 26 at the Grantsville Fire Hall. Anyone wishing to place names in nomination for officers, directors, or delegates to the State Convention, should call Karen Hamilton, Ballot chairman for the Women's Committee or Merrell Wilburn, Farm Bureau Secretary-Treasurer, before October 1.

In observance of National Safety Week, the Women's Committee participated in the Appreciation Days at Tablelands, Inc., in Oakland, September 21-23. Continuous video safety programs were shown, depicting what can happen when victims get careless while operating farm equipment and lawn mowers. An eye-opening array of potential hazards were displayed by Cecil E. Jackson Equipment Company, Inc., of Oakland, including improper use of log splitters, lawn mowers and power take-off shafts. Free safety material, informational literature, and pencils were distributed by the local Farm Bureau, and free balloons for children by the Jackson Machinery dealers.

A policy development meeting combined with Allegany County Farm Bureau will be held at the Bittinger Community Building on October 10. Jack Miller, Annapolis lobbyist, Delegate George Edwards and Senator John Bambacus will attend.

Young Farmers Meeting Slated In Annapolis

Young farmers from across Maryland will hold their annual leadership conference November 9-10 in Annapolis.

"We've had a very successful year, and I think those two days will really start the new year off right," said Lee West, State Young Farmer chairman.

Secretary of Agriculture Wayne Cawley, Jr. will speak to the group at the Department of Agriculture on Friday. The keynote address will be delivered by Reverend Ben Jones, a Washington County native, Friday evening. "Jones will offer his very special brand of inspirational humor," West noted.

During a business meeting Friday, members will elect officers for 1985 and discuss goals for next year's program.

An intensive spokesman training session on Saturday morning will be conducted by Joe Fields, information director for the American Farm Bureau's Washington office. Using video equipment, he will teach the future farm leaders effective interviewing and speaking techniques.

The conference opens at noon, November 9, at the Md. Department of Agriculture, and continues Friday evening and Saturday, November 10, at the Annapolis Holiday Inn.

County Young Farmer chairmen and the Maryland Farm Bureau office (922-3426) have applications. The deadline is October 19. The cost will be no more than $87 per person or $115 per couple.

The Young Farmers are a committee of the Maryland Farm Bureau, Maryland's largest agriculture organization.

Storm, Flood Disaster Loans Now Available

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture, Wayne A. Cawley, Jr., has announced that some farmers in Garrett, Allegany and Washington Counties may be eligible for physical and production loss loans from the USDA, Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

Their eligibility for such loans is not due to natural disasters which occurred within the counties themselves. The disaster actually took place in Pennsylvania in the form of severe storms and flash floods between August 3 and 14, 1984. But under the provisions of the disaster loan law counties contiguous to disaster areas are also eligible for assistance.

Farmers in those counties whose losses were such that they feel they are eligible for aid should contact their respective FmHA county office for information and assistance. Applications will be received through April 29, 1985.

Grain Moisture Meter

In last week's article I gave guidelines on the moisture levels for Corn. Since then I have purchased a Grain Moisture Meter. If you are in doubt about the moisture level, give me a call and I will check it for you. Dry matter level is extremely important.

A Date for Your Calendar

All interested Dairy people are invited to a barn meeting on "Breed Improvement" on Thursday, October 11, at 7:30 p.m. on the farm of Edgar Yoder's, north of Bittinger on Rt. 495. Buddy Hill of the Maryland Holstein Association, will present the program. Reservations are not necessary.

Forage Analysis

Knowing the nutritional value of your silages, etc., is extremely important in providing a well-balanced ration for your animals. Guessing or using book values is taking a big chance. The cost of forage analysis is well worth the money. I have the kits available in my office. A good time to collect your sample is when the silage is being put into the silo. Put your samples in a plastic bag and refrigerate until you can send them in. Test—Don't Guess!

Alfalfa—Phytophthora Root Rot

Last week when the soil was dry I had several calls concerning Alfalfa plants dying. In almost all cases I found Phytophthora Root Rot. This disease destroys the top root and side roots. The reason the symptoms were so prevalent last week was because of an adequate root system and dry soil the plant could not take up needed moisture. Using Root Rot disease resistant varieties is probably the best method to avoid serious problems. During the last five years the University of Maryland has researched several Alfalfa varieties that have shown disease resistance. The top ten are as follows: DeKalb 120, Trident, DeKalb 130, Olympic, Apollo, Pioneer Brand 531, Hi-Phy; WL 312, WL 220, and Weevlchek.

Oakland Chapter FFA Members To Attend Workshop

Several officers and members of the Oakland Chapter of the FFA will be attending the Ninth Annual Leadership Development Workshop September 28-29. The primary purpose of the Workshop will be to develop knowledge and skills needed for effective FFA Chapter leadership. To accomplish this goal, the workshop will stress the following areas: preparing the chapter's program of activities and budget, conducting interesting chapter meetings, organize chapter banquets, planning effective FFA ceremonies, participating in National and State FFA programs, building better community relationships, the FFA officer and his or her responsibilities, raising funds for chapter activities and personal development.

The Workshop will be held at Summit Lake Retreat Camp located near Emmitsburgf in the Catoctin Mountains. Some of the highlights of the program will include work sessions, regional meetings, recreation, parliamentary procedure demonstrations, FFA issues and answers, committee meetings, awards banquet and square dances.

The cost of this trip, $40 per person, is being paid through donations and the Oakland FFA Alumni.

4-H Goat Program Receives Boost

The 4-H Dairy Goat Program in Garrett County received a boost this past week with the donation of two six-month-old doe kids from Mrs. Susan Glotfelty of Rixeyhill Saanens near Friendsville.

The does have been used to start a program that will provide a quality animal for a beginning 4-H member who in return will care for the goat, keep 4-H project records and exhibit the goat at the Garrett County Fair. After the does reach breeding age and produce offspring, the 4-H member is also required to return one doe kid to the program so that the program can be continued.

Cooperating in this program are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kepple of Acorn Acres near Oakland who will provide free breeding services to these does by their registered Saanen buck, Gay-Mor's White Oak. The first offspring from these two does should be available for 4-H member ownership in the spring of 1986. Any 4-H members or pre-4-H'ers who would like to be considered for ownership of the 1986 doe kids should call the Garrett County Extension Office and have their names put on the waiting list.

Notification Of Acreage, Yield To Be Mailed

Farmers in Maryland soon will receive notification of their 1985 base acreage and yields. Olin S. Davis, Jr., chairman of the Maryland State ASC Committee, says the notices are scheduledd to be mailed by October 1.

Producers who want to establish proven yields for 1985 wheat or feed grain crops should assemble proof of production records for their 1984, 1983, and 1982 crops. To request a proven yield for a particular crop, the producer must collect data for all farms on which the crop was grown. "The farmer is also required to keep all production evidence separate for each year and for each farm," Davis said.

The signup period for the 1985 Feed Grain and Wheat program will be October 15 through March 1. The recently announced feed grain program requires a 10 percent acreage reduction to obtain eligibility for deficiency payments and commodity loans. While the 1985 wheat program requires a 30 percent reduction, 10 percent which is paid diversion and 20 percent acreage reduction. The wheat paid diversion rate is $2.70 per bushel.

At the time they sign up, producers may request an advance payment of 50 percent of their projected 1985 deficiency and diversion payments. U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that per bushel deficiency payment rates will be: corn, 47 cents; sorghum, 46 cents; barley, 44 cents and wheat $1.08. Davis encouraged farmers to submit the required proven yield production evidence as soon as possible so that projected 1985 payments could be determined using the proven yield.

Still No Relief For Dry Conditions

Only light scattered showers fell in Maryland for the fourth consecutive week, which further depleted soil moisture. Topsoil and subsoil moisture remains short in Southern Maryland, west of the Bay and on the Shore, and adequate in North Central and Western areas.

The condition of the field corn crop remains good to excellent. All corn has passed the dough stage, equal to 1983 and the average. Corn is 95 percent dented, ahead of 1983s 80 percent and the average of 85 percent. One-quarter of the corn is mature. This progess is well behind 1983 when 50 percent was mature and the average of 55 percent. Silage is now 65 percent cut, compared to 75 percent for last year and average. Ten percent of the corn for grain is combined, slightly behind the 15 percent normally combined by this date.

Barley, rye and some oats are being planted. Rain will be needed soon to germinate the seeds. Barley is 15 percent planted, equal to the average but ahead of last year's five percent planted. Rye is five percent planted. Last year rye planting was just beginning in a few fields. The average rye planted percentage is 10 percent. Oats is being planted in a few scattered fields.

Dry weather has slowed hay growth. The fourth cutting of alfalfa hay is 35 percent complete, compared to 55 percent for last year and average.

Del. Edwards, Commissioner Braskey Address "Women's Issues" Thursday

"Any issue in the legislature is in some way related to women," said Del. George Edwards last Thursday when he addressed some 34 members of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club at Will o' the Wisp.

Del. Edwards and Commissioner John Braskey both urged women to become involved in politics and said any constituent is welcome to call on them at any time for additional information or to get help on specific matters.

Del. Edwards pointed out several issues which will be coming before the legislature again this coming session, including child support, equality in insurance rates and pension equity; licensing of day care centers and in-home caretakers (including personnel checks); equal educational and job training opportunities for prison inmates; abortion, and comparable worth.

Commissioner Braskey humorously pointed out his propensity for "following" George Edwards - through grade school, high school, college football playing, teaching school, and the commissioners' office. In conclusion Braskey said he hopes some day George is elected governor, drawing laughter and applause from BPW members.

Braskey himself applauded women's political involvement and congratulated BPW and League of Women Voters for efforts to register voters and eliminate voter apathy and said he would like to see women running for office next year, at least in districts one and three. He elaborated on issues women face locally as well as nationally, such as discrimination.

Receives scholarship

Rosalind Lancaster, Friendsville, was presented with a $300 scholarship from the club by Mildred Wucik, Foundation chairman. Mrs. Lancaster is working toward a degree in secretarial science education and attends school full time despite the demands of a home which contains a husband and a total of ten children.

Mrs. Lancaster was praised highly by BPW member Ann Wellham, who has had Mrs. Lancaster as a student in her classes at GCC.

The club will be giving a $300 scholarship for the spring semester. For more information contact Miss Wucik at 826-8434.

Induct Ten

New members inducted by President Phyllis Buckel and membership chairman Patricia Vetter were Janet Boggess, Betty Cogan, Olive Corliss, Bea Crosco, Diana Geare, Dorothy Graham, Connie Rebro, Carolyn Russell, Joyce Winters and Kathy Zimmerman.

Project Vote

BPW members will be joining with the League of Women Voters and members of the American Association of University Women in Project Vote, an effort to get all eligible persons registered to vote.

Volunteers will be at Mid-Towns Plaza October 3 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and again October 6. Volunteers are needed to work two-hour shifts for the project and should contact Cosette White at 334-4018 for additional information. Volunteers will first undergo a half-hour training session in the election clerk's office.

Fall Board Meeting To Be At Village Inn

The state fall board meeting will be held this year at Village Inn, McHenry, and will include officers from all over the state. The local club plans a hospitality room to provide coffee, doughnuts and information, and will also sponsor a crafts and bake sale. All crafts, baked goods, jellies, preserves, etc. should be received by Bea Crosco prior to the October 25 meeting. Included should be some indication of the type of pricing desired.

Bea's home number is 334-3153.

Phyllis Trickett and Patricia Vetter are in charge of arrangements for the hospitality room.

Woman of the Year

Marci McClive, past president and active member for five years, was selected by secret ballot from five candidates for woman of the year. Marci will be recognized at the October meeting, which is held during National Business Women's Week October 21 through 27.

This year each member may invite her employer to the meeting and dinner in October. Forms are available to recognize an employer as Employer of the Year for being particularly responsive to women's needs and issues.

Brown to Get Letters

The club members voted unanimously to send a letter to Dr. Torrey Brown, Secretary of the Department of Natural Resources, voicing disappointment with the method of selection of a site for the western Maryland conference center. Phyllis Trickett and Cosette White will compose the letter, copies of which will be sent to Gov. Hughes, Sen.John Bambacus, Del. George Edwards, Del. Benjamin Cardin, and the county commissioners.

RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP — Rosalind Lancaster, Friendsville, second from right, was the recipient of the fall scholarship awarded last Thursday by the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club. Making the check presentation is Phyllis Buckel, president. Seated is Cosette White, chairman for the program which included special guest speakers Del. George Edwards and Commissioner John Braskey, and at right is Mildred Wucik, scholarship Foundation chairman for the Garrett County club.

INDUCTED AS NEW MEMBERS of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club last Thursday by membership chairman Patricia Vetter, far right, were, from left, Kathy Zimmerman, Janet Boggess, Betty Cogan, Connie Rebro, Dorothy Graham, Carolyn Russell, Olive Corliss, and Bea Crosco. Bambacus Wants No Taxes On Social Security

Senator John N. Bambacus (R-Allegany, Garrett) has announced that he has pre-filed legislation to prevent the state of Maryland from taxing Social Security benefits.

The proposal, co-sponsored with Senator Arthur Dorman (D-Prince George's) would provide for the subtraction from federal gross income of any amounts received by individuals under Title II of the Social Security Act.

"Too many of our senior citizens are affected by the newly-enacted federal tax on Social Security income," Bambacus commented. "I believe that's not fair, and will do everything I can to keep this state from adding to the burden of taxes on the elderly."

Bambacus went on to express his disappointment that no special session of the Legislature would be called to consider the issue. "I am encouraged, however, by Senate President Steinberg's commitment to passing any changes as emergency legislation. We must not let another tax year get by without resolving this question before the April 1985 filing deadline."

WARM HEAT vs. COOL HEAT

A 40° difference is why people feel more comfortable with natural gas than with a heat pump.

The difference between a natural gas furnace and a heat pump is the difference between feeling comfortable or uncomfortable at the same thermostat setting.

130° vs. 90°. A heat pump delivers air that's been warmed to only around 90°F. That's cooler than body temperature, so it actually feels cool.

But a gas furnace sends out a much warmer heat—around 130°F—so most people find it a lot more comfortable.

Single heating system. Along with the comfort comes savings. Because unlike a heat pump, a natural gas furnace does a full-time heating job, down to the coldest temperatures. It doesn't need a back-up system.

Less maintenance, longer life. You can also count on a natural gas furnace to maintain top efficiency, longer. It should need only minimum service. A heat pump's compressor may be warranted for only 5 years, while the heat exchanger of a high efficiency gas furnace is warranted up to 20 years.

Ask your heating contractor about the differences between a natural gas furnace and a heat pump. The 40° difference, the lifetime efficiency difference, and the warranty difference.

Warm heat vs. cool heat. All things considered, you'll be more comfortable with gas.

Natural gas...gives you more for your money.

Hanging On

When you're a kid it's fun! You don't even know there's a law of gravity but you're defying it, you're proving to the world you're fearless.

Later in life the idea of HANGING ON has more serious connotations. The very expression reminds us that there are precarious times in life when one isn't sure how it will all turn out.

For centuries mankind has turned to religion for moral and spiritual strength and endurance. Faith helps us grasp firmly truths that provide a sound foundation for daily living. Trust helps us withstand the downward pull of discouragement, despair.

The hour or so we spend at worship during the week can make a difference in our daily life. Attend the church or synagogue of your choice.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

MORE THAN CONQUERORS
September 30, 1984

Background Scripture: Romans 8.
Devotional Reading: Romans 8:18-30.

You know that old saying "They won the battle but lost the war." After World War II it was commonly said that "we won the war but lost the peace."

No matter how important it may seem to win, it is apparent to us that sometimes winning is not enough. Having won the contest, we must make sure that we do not lose what we have won.

So it is with many of the battles we fight in life. It is not enough to win those battles, we must also prevail when the battle is over. As Paul puts it, "No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him who loved us" (8:37).

NO SEPARATION

Jesus' death and resurrection made him "more than" a conqueror. He not only was victorious in overcoming death on a cross, but he came through that experience with his sonship in tact. Nothing had been able to separate him from the love of God.

Our usual view of life is a short-run perspective. We see the obstacles, problems and dangers before us. These things dominate our thinking and our acting, as if they were all that ultimately mattered. But, when we are able to take the long-run view of life, we realize that all of these are fleeting and transitory. What really matters ultimately is our relationship with God.

What we need to know, therefore, is that these short-run experiences cannot separate us from the love of God, not if we refuse to let them. As Paul puts it so elequently, "For I am sure that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor things present, not things to come, nor powers, nor height, nor depth, nor anything else in all creation will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord" (8:37-39).

EXCEPT FOR FAITH

A friend of mine for many years recently told me of a disastrous business deal into which he had ventured. All along the way, there had been disasters: governmental bodies delayed too long, friends had failed to support him when he needed it, people had taken advantage of him. The end result, although not yet certain, would be the loss of a fantastic amount of capital. He might even have to declare bankruptcy.

Nevertheless, despite all this frustration and disappointment, he was able to say to me, "If it was not for God, I don't know how I would have been able to take it." His faith is seeing him through this most painful situation. He is on his way to being "more than a conqueror."

That is something all of us can experience, if we let it come in to our lives. With Paul we may ask, "Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword?"

No, none of these has that power—if we are to be more than conquerors.

Mary Tyler Moore gives a strong performance as novelist Martha Lear in "Heartsounds," airing Sunday, Sept. 30 on ABC. James Garner portrays MTM's husband, Dr. Harold Lear, in the film, which details Miss Lear's rebirth after her husband's fatal heart attack.

John James gives birth to a new side of himself

By Marc Minnelli

It's barely noon and John James is already exhausted. The actor was catching up on his sleep, but was awoken by an early — and unexpected — call, asking him to report for work. James, who plays Jeff Colby on "Dynasty," forced himself out of bed and rushed to work. At least he tried to: His car wouldn't start. James finally found his way to the set, yet between the stop-and-go filming and his draining morning, he's now ready to call it quits.

John James

As James, 28, relates the story, he's reminded of another time when he wanted to call it quits. "I was sitting on the steps of the New York Public Library," he recalls, "wondering if I should quit having fantasies of being a great actor." He pauses, lost in thought. "I was enrolled in drama school and doing off-off-Broadway work, but it wasn't enough. So I quit six months before graduation."

Within a month, however, James won the role of Tom Bergman on "Search for Tomorrow," and he stayed with the soap for two years. After leaving, the actor found himself in various theatrical ventures — and on an eight-month-long unemployment line — before landing the role of Jeff Colby on "Dynasty" in 1981. Still, it hasn't been enough. "Actors need to grow," James says. "I wanted to show off my other side for a long time."

The actor will do just that when he makes his TV movie debut in "He's Not Your Son," airing Wednesday, Oct. 3 on CBS. In the film, James plays Ted Barnes, a man struggling with his life as he copes with the bitterness he feels over an aborted football career. While Ted's wife (played by Ann Dusenberry) is giving birth to their baby, another couple — the Sanders — are also having a baby. The babies' identities are mixed-up at birth; the mistake is discovered six months later when pre-operative tests show that the Sanders' child needs heart surgery — and that the child isn't theirs.

"It's pretty heavy stuff," says James, who researched his role by visiting pediatric wards of hospitals. "I have some pretty good scenes and I think," the actor adds, "that they will blow people away."

Away from "Dynasty," which should air the same night as "He's Not Your Son," James ponders the question. "The film puts me in a different light," he says, "and I think people should watch it. Jeff Colby will be drinking and whoring this season, so viewers have a whole year to watch me freakout."

Dina Merrill spends Saturdays being nasty

By Wayne Miller

There's a joke going around Hollywood that Dina Merrill is on the wrong TV series. Instead of starring on "Hot Pursuit," the jokesters quip, the actress should be on "Silver Spoons." After all, she was born with one. Mention the joke to Miss Merrill, 59, and she dismisses it with a laugh, one of those demure titters indigenous to the rich.

Dina Merrill

"I knew I was going to be an actress since I was 6," she says, "and no one ever spoon fed me. I worked hard to get where I am. As a matter of fact, when I first told my parents I wanted to go on stage, they objected."

Miss Merrill's father was stockbroker Edward F. Hutton, but when E.F. talked, she didn't listen. Nor did she listen to her mother, General Foods heiress Marjorie Merriweather Post. As a teenager, Miss Merrill enrolled in the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, and when her parents refused to pay the tuition, the budding actress paid her own way by posing as a model for Vogue. Her determination paid off. After starring in more than 15 films, the actress is making her TV series debut in "Hot Pursuit," airing Saturday nights on NBC.

The actress plays auto magnate Estelle Modrian, a socialite with a sadistic streak: She masterminded the murder of her husband and framed a female automotive engineer for the crime. It's a juicy role, but one that steers Miss Merrill away from her real-life role as one of the jet-set's grandest grande dames.

"I love playing a bitch," says Miss Merrill, who's been married to Oscar-winning actor Cliff Robertson for 17 years. "It gives me a chance to live out my fantasies. As Estelle, I can do things Dina would never do!"

The actress claims the role came at an appropriate time in her life. After completing a long-run in the 1982 Broadway revival of "On Your Toes," she found time on her hands, and a "Hot Pursuit" script in them.

"I know in my heart that this is a good show," the actress says. "And because Estelle doesn't appear on every show, I have the best of both worlds. I can shoot my part then fly home to New York and shop."

Is she worried about fans following her in hot pursuit? The titter returns. "I like where I am," she says, "because my life is balanced. I'm recoginzed enough, but not famous enough that fans mob me in Tiffany's."

Miss Turner commits passionate crimes

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — Kathleen Turner keeps insisting her performance in Ken Russell's "Crimes of Passion" is not X-rated. She's fudging to placate her new in-laws. The movie, which co-stars Anthony Perkins, is full of passion — as well as wall-to-wall sex, scenes of brutal bondage, mock rape and actors crawling all over each other. New bride Kathleen, who's married to realtor Jay Weiss, figures this isn't what her mother-in-law had in mind when she heard the actress acted.

Raquel Welch's beautiful daughter Tahnee is following in mummy's footsteps. She'll debut in "Cocoon," the Richard Zanuck-David Brown movie. ... Julie Andrews' 18-year-old daughter Emma Kate Walton did her first commercial. It's for Alpo dog food. Emma's not barking up the wrong tree. She just opened in an off-off-off-Broadway production of "Holding Hands."... Gregory Peck has everything, and now will get even more: the key to Paris. Mayor Jacques Chirac is giving it to him. ... Mary Wilson, a former Supreme, is telling all in "Dreamgirl: My Life." She promises to bare her real feelings about co-Supreme Diana Ross. ... Paul Anka wrote a new jingle for Michelob. He also banked six figures for it. ... Harrison Ford has bought 300 acres of land in Jackson Hole, Wyom. He'll build a home there. ... Wife-to-be Sigourney Weaver is getting a bridal shower tossed for her. Who's doing the tossing? Her "Hurlyburly" co-stars Judith Ivey and Cynthia Nixon. ... Muhammad Ali's stunning 13-year-old daughter Miya has set her heart on being a model. Says Miya: "Dad's the greatest, but I'll be the prettiest." ... Jill St. John, who's joined at the hip to Robert Wagner, was asked whether she dresses for men or women. "Depends," she said, "on the time of day." Came straight from the hart.

Anthony Perkins

Detective Crockett (Don Johnson) finds himself in a welcome tight squeeze with Detective Navarro (Saundra Santiago) in "Cool Runnin'," an episode of "Miami Vice" airing Friday, Oct. 5 on NBC.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Heartfelt Sounds

When Martha Lear found out that Mary Tyler Moore was going to play her in the TV adaption of her best-selling novel "Heartsounds," she turned to ex-ABC news reporter Betty Rollins for advice. Miss Moore had portrayed Miss Rollins in the 1978 TV movie "First You Cry," the story of Miss Rollins' struggle with breast cancer.

"Betty told me to make sure I first saw 'Heartsounds' alone, before I watched it with an audience," Miss Lear recalls. "She warned me it would be painful to watch, but without preparation, she felt it could be devastating."

"Heartsounds," which airs on Sunday, Sept. 30 on ABC, is Miss Lear's account of her husband's death from a heart attack in 1978 — and her rebirth because of it. James Garner plays Miss Lear's husband, Dr. Harold Lear.

Did she have any qualms about the choice of players portraying her and her husband? "Not at all," she says. "When I went to watch the filming, neither Mary nor James asked me for any advice. As I watched them shoot, I realized they didn't need any. Both of them were bringing two people to life. And Harold," she adds quietly, "would have liked that."

MTM as Martha Lear

To prepare for the film, most of which takes place in a health spa, the actress got in shape by taking two-hour yoga lessons, five to six days a week, at Beverly Hills's Yoga College of India. "It's a place where stars go, but only if they don't dress disgustingly," she says. "You'll never catch me in one of those gyms with women in designer leotards and matching leg warmers. I don't go to be seen. I go," she adds, "to sweat."

Leslie, the character Miss Harrold plays in "Best Legs," works out in fashionable fuchsia Spandex. But for her exercises in exercise, the actress dons a man's T-shirt, baggy sweat pants and wears no makeup. Then she lets go. "Yoga keeps me flexible and hard," says Miss Harrold, who can also be seen in the feature film "Heartbreakers." "If I wasn't in this business, I'd still work out, because getting in shape is like seduction. It feels good."

Sweating It Out

In "Best Legs in the 8th Grade," airing Oct. 1, 4, 7 and 10 on HBO, Kathryn Harrold plays the woman with the great gams in school. But who needs the 8th grade? Miss Harrold, 34, is in a class by herself.

David Sederholm finds peace on 'RH' corps

By Kimberly Redmond

I'd like as much information as you can give me about David Sederholm, the actor who stars on "Ryan's Hope." — C.S., Harrisonburg, Va.

Sederholm, who portrays Bill Hyde on "RH," grew up in Philadelphia, and graduated magna cum laude from Harvard with a Bachelor of Arts degree. He originally debated whether to be a lawyer or a businessman, and served a stint with the Peace Corps in the South Pacific. When he arrived in NYC, he took acting classes in between working as a cab driver and a health spa attendant. Sederholm did some off-off-Broadway roles, returned to a business career, but was bitten by the acting bug again. He finally ended up with brief roles on "One Life to Live" and "All My Children" before landing the "RH" role.

David Sederholm

Can you tell me where I can write to the actor who plays Danny the bartender on "Days of Our Lives"? — Z.W., Washington, D.C.

Roger Aaron Brown portrays Danny Grant, and you can write to him c/o "Days of Our Lives," NBC-TV, 3000 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, CA 91523.

The character of Lujack on "Guiding Light" is one of my favorite soap opera people. Can you give me a brief profile of the handsome actor who portrays him? — J.R., Metuchen, N.J.

Vincent Irizzary

Vincent Irizzary, the actor who plays Lujack, was born in Queens, N.Y. One of six children, he earned a theatrical training scholarship to the prestigious Lee Strasberg Theater Institute. The actor has also studied classical piano, and appeared in several stage productions, including a role as Paul McCartney in the off-Broadway musical "Lennon." The role of Lujack marked Irizzary's daytime television debut.

(Have a question about soap operas? Write Kimberly Redmond at 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

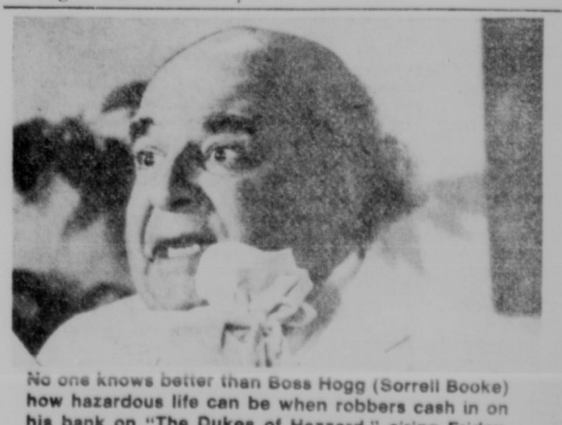

Scott Baio finds his days are happy ones when he stars as Charles, a college student who doubles as a live-in family helper to three children, on the new series "Charles in Charge." The comedy airs Wednesdays on CBS.

SUNDAY

Broadway veteran Angela Lansbury steers her way into TV when she stars as Jessica Fletcher, a teacher-turned-writer-turned-sleuth in "Murder, She Wrote," a new drama series premiering Sunday, Sept. 30 on CBS.

(Stations reserve the right to make last-minute changes.)

No one knows better than Boss Hogg (Sorrell Booke) how hazardous life can be when robbers cash in on his bank on "The Dukes of Hazzard," airing Friday, Oct. 5 on CBS.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

Did David Canary, who stars as Adam Chandler on the ABC soap, "All My Children," have a role on "Bonanza"? If so, who did he play? — D.J.B., Bensalem, PA.

Canary joined the cast of the NBC show during the 1967-68 season. The actor portrayed Candy, a ranch hand who was a friend of the Cartwrights.

David Canary

Please fill me in on "The A-Team's" Dirk Benedict. Also, where can I write to him? — J.B., Terry, Mont.

The actor, who plays Templeton "The Face" Peck on the NBC series, has also starred on the TV series "Battlestar Galactica" and "Chopper One." While attending Whitman College, the Helena, Mont. native auditioned for a role in "Showboat" — and won the lead. After moving to New York City, he co-starred with the late Gloria Swanson in "Butterflies Are Free." Benedict made his film debut in "Georgia, Georgia," and later co-starred with Twiggy in "W." You can write to Benedict c/o Stephen J. Cannell Productions, 7083 Hollywood Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90028.

Can you tell me some information on "Fame's" Debbie Allen? — K.M., Trenton, N.J.

The Houston, Texas native appeared on Broadway in "Purlie," "Raisin" and a revival of 'West Side Story," which earned her a Tony nomination. Miss Allen has also been seen in the TV series "3 Girls 3" and "Roots: The Next Generation." This year, besides starring and doing choreography on "Fame," Miss Allen will serve as one of the show's producers. The actress, who is married to basketball star Norm Nixon, recently gave birth to a girl, Vivian. The baby was born two months premature and, at birth, weighed 3 pounds, 6 ounces. Vivian has now tripled her weight and keeps her mother company on the "Fame" set in a trailer the show's crew gave the actress.

(Do you have a question about TV? Write Val Carew at 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

SHOW AND TELL

Miss Wolter casts shadow on Hollywood

By Gregory Garver

Sherilyn Wolter

HOLLYWOOD — There's a big difference between acting in a daytime soap opera and acting in a show that is aired during prime-time. The difference, Sherilyn Wolter found, is in the way the Hollywood establishment looks at the two. And the actress, who stars in the ABC soap "General Hospital," has found exactly what that difference means to her. "It's very curious being on a soap opera," Miss Wolter, 25, says. "I will be going for an interview for a part in a movie or a prime-time show. As I go to the interview, I will be stopped by a lot of people, asking for my autograph.

"Then I go inside and introduce myself to the casting people — and they won't know me! The casting people in this town just don't watch soap operas and," the actress adds, "they don't care about soap operas. Yet, to the public, we are stars every bit as big as stars from movies or nighttime TV shows."

On "GH," Miss Wolter portrays Celia Quartermaine, a rich, spoiled heiress who in true soap opera tradition, is frequently victimized by her enemies. "Somebody even put scorpions in my bed," the actress recalls with a slight smile.

Miss Wolter, the latest in the line of quaint Quartermaines, has been on the show nearly two years. She thinks that, even though casting people are not steady viewers, doing "General Hospital" has been a plus for her career.

"When I was first offered the part," she says, "I wasn't sure about doing it. So I consulted a lot of my actor friends and the consensus of opinion among them was that it would be good for me — I could learn a lot and become visible to the public."

She has accomplished both those goals. That's not bad for the Californian who almost became a gymnast. Growing up in Sacramento — Miss Wolter's family moved there when she was 3 — the actress participated in gymnastics in school. Then she hurt her knee. And though she attempted another try after her knee healed, the old enthusiasm was gone. She had discovered acting instead.

In college, Miss Wolter spent so much time acting that she neglected her studies and her other goal — to be a teacher — was put aside. It was then that she decided to become an actress. She moved to the Los Angeles area in 1978, and it's been a slow, but steady, climb ever since.

Even the casting people know her by now.

The Opening Ritual was led by Mrs. Richard L. Sherwood, newly elected Regent. Mrs. Lewis, recently appointed chaplain, offered prayer. The President General's message was read by Mrs. Edward Kovach. The new year books were distributed, reports were given, and correspondence read. Mrs. Robert Proudfoot reported on the progress of the Garrett County cemetery book and asked for volunteers to help with the indexing.

Plans were made for a group to attend the Founders' Day meeting and luncheon in Hagerstown on October 27.

Mrs. William Martin Friend gave a brief report on the nation's only permanent memorial to the men who created the Declaration of Independence. This memorial, dedicated to the 50 signers of the Declaration, was presented by Senator John Warner of Virginia to the Park Service in Washington, D.C. on July 2, 1954. These signatures are reproduced on granite blocks in West Potomac Park, about half way between the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument. The entrance to Signers Memorial bears the final words of the famous document: "And in support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

This memorial was funded by the surplus funds left from the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, which Senator Warner headed. The money was raised through the sale of special medallions during the nation's Bicentennial celebration.

A patriotic poem called "Independence Jubilee" was read by Mrs. Paul Calderwood. The next meeting will be on November 19 at the home of Mrs. James Hutchinson. Mrs. Thomas Browning, Mrs. Luther Parrack, Mrs. James Quinet, Mrs. William Hesen and Mrs. John Reckner will assist as cohostesses.

PE Notes That Utility Poles Are Not Signposts

Political posters play an important role in elections, but the nails and staples used to put them on utility poles can cause injury to the people who must climb those poles to maintain electric service, according to the Potomac Edison Company.

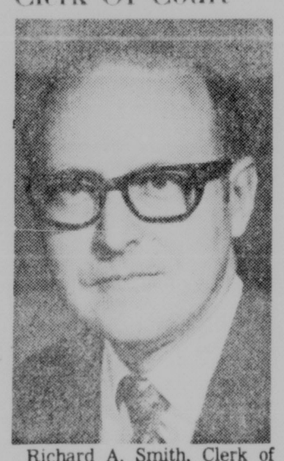

"Nails and tacks are usually left behind after posters are torn down and can cause our linemen to slip or fall from a pole," says Gerald L. Kremer, Potomac Edison's area lines superintendent at Oakland.

"Linemen wear special climbers that have sharp, steel gaffs or points that are about an inch and one-half long. Each step drives the gaff deeper into the wood for support, and that gaff must bury itself properly," Kremer explains. If the gaff hits a hard object like a nail or staple, it can cause PE linemen to "cutout" or fall from poles, according to Kremer. "The danger is even greater at night, when our people cannot get a good look at the poles before climbing. Many of our storm problems occur at night,' he adds.

He also said that nails can also tear holes in the protective rubber gloves and sleeves linemen wear to protect themselves from electrical shock.

"We are asking everyone to refrain from posting signs of any kind on utility poles. Utility poles are not signposts. The safety of our employees depends on public cooperation," Kremer said.

They were among some 4,500 delegates, family members, and guests who convened at the Sheraton Washington Hotel for the largest DAV and Auxiliary Convention in the 64-year-old organization's history. There they participated in planning the DAV's activities for the coming year. Goldstein Will Urge 50,000 Not To File Early

"IT ALL STARTED WITH HIM WANTING TO BE IN THE WEDDING PHOTOGRAPHS."

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein told county officials meeting in Annapolis to discuss senior citizen services that the time-honored formula of government—"services require appropriations which require taxes"—has led right to the door of Social Security recipients. But he hopes to soften that blow for Marylanders.

Addressing staff members of the county offices on aging gathered at the September 24th statewide conference, Goldstein said that the Maryland income tax packets now being printed will include an unusual request asking about one in ten Marylanders who receive Social Security benefits not to file early next year.

The comptroller is urging those taxpayers to delay filing until the Maryland General Assembly has the time to act on emergency legislation which he proposed to Governor Hughes and Maryland legislators, exempting from Maryland income taxes any Social Security income which became taxable under recent federal legislation.

Referring to legislation enacted by U.S. Congress and signed by President Reagan in 1983, Goldstein stated that a portion of Social Security benefits for some recipients is now considered taxable income to be included in their federal adjusted gross income. "That income automatically becomes taxable under Maryland law because the starting point for computing Maryland income tax liability is the federal adjusted gross income," he said. About 50,000 Social Security recipients in Maryland will be affected by the change.

"We know that many senior citizens are anxious to meet their obligation and file their returns early. However, those taxpayers who are affected by this proposal will miss an important benefit if they don't wait for the General Assembly to act," Goldstein stated.

"An emergency bill takes effect immediately upon the Governor's signature, so this proposed change in Maryland law would exempt from Maryland income tax the Social Security benefits being reported on the 1984 returns."

Noting that the federal action on Social Security benefits marks another fiscal reality for senior citizens, the Comptroller added that "one important reality is that we are a fast-growing segment of the population in America today. At the turn of the century, only 4% of the nation's population was over 65. Today, one out of ten Americans is 65. But 50 years from now, the ratio will be one out of five."

"The growing needs of senior citizens in America and their resulting effect on government budgets will present a great challenge to our elected leaders in the years to come," he added. "Today, about 28% of federal outlays are spent on people over 65. But according to projections offered by the Population Reference Bureau, the federal government may be spending as much as one-half of its budget on senior citizens in the year 2025.

"Our strong record of sound fiscal management, our excellent triple-A credit rating and our wide economic base make Maryland a great place to live, love, work, play and pray. These assets help us to meet the needs of our citizens today—young and old alike. But those needs are likely to grow even greater in the future, especially for senior citizens. And that is where the challenge lies."

Goldstein reminded that county officials of three important bywords in their services to senior citizens: freedom, fairness and fiscal responsibility.

"All of us here know what freedom means to senior citizens—the freedom to live where you want, go where you wish and be as productive as you can be. Fair treatment by governments and citizens alike is something senior citizens have worked long and hard for. Finally, fiscal responsibility—every government official must be fully aware of the limits of government resources, and the need to direct them wisely and efficiently," he said.

Local Students To Take PSAT, NMSQT Oct. 23

More than 1.4 million students are expected to take the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) this fall in over 19,000 high schools across the nation. Among them will be 75 students scheduled to take the test October 23 at Southern High School, according to Les McDaniel of the school's guidance staff.

The PSAT/NMSQT will be offered nationally this year on Saturday, October 20, and Tuesday, October 23. Since 1959, nearly 30 million students have taken the test, which measures verbal and mathematical abilities.

"Students take the PSAT/NMSQT for several reasons," said the local guidance official. "The PSAT/NMSQT is the qualifying exam for students wishing to participate in competitions of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. Students also want to find out how they rank among their peers taking the test in other parts of the country."

The test also provides an opportunity to become familiar with types of questions similar to those on the Scholastic Aptitude Test, which many college-bound students take. In addition, the test is the first step in qualifying for the National Hispanic Scholar Awards Program, conducted by the College Board under a $2.1 million grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation.

Before taking the PSAT/NMSQT, students receive a Student Bulletin containing a complete practice test with an answer key and scoring instructions. After the test, they receive a booklet, About Your PSAT/NMSQT Scores, that helps them to interpret their test results and plan for college.

Particularly helpful for students is the Report of Student Answers, which includes the correct answers and their own responses and scores. They also receive their own test booklets so they can review the actual questions, see the ones they got wrong, and try to figure out the correct answer and why they may have missed it.

The College Board also provides other services that enable counselors and other school personnel to better understand and interpret the test results to students and parents. These services include school summaries of students' answers, profiles of the academic characteristics and career interests of students taking the test, and a special publication for use with students as part of a general guidance program.

Mellingers Hold Annual Reunion

More than 200 descendants and friends of Peter Franklin and Annie Amelia Nolte Mellinger from California, Florida, West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania gathered at the John F. Mellinger, Jr. farm near Swanton to celebrate their 21st annual reunion on August 18 and 19.

John F. Sr. and Vauda Mellinger were the oldest couple present, 83 and 80, respectively, and are the great-great-grandparents of the several groups of five generations who attended the festivities.

Trophies for the skeet shoot were taken home by Bill Mellinger Jr. and Alice Filsinger. Traveling the greatest distance were the Ocharts from California. Newlyweds were Bert and Robin Wolf and the youngest child was five-week-old Candy Smith. Door prizes were won by Janice Janicke, Ethel Mitchell, Amanda Mellinger and John Tobin. First place horseshoe trophies went to Bob Mellinger and Bill Mellinger Jr. and Ginny Legeer and Denise Lynch. Second place went to Herb Groves and Denny Dolecheck and Becky Sines and Cathy McHale.

John Williams was honored with a surprise card shower for his 70th birthday. Also celebrating birthdays on the 19th were Pat Connard and Diane Hesse.

Many other games were played and prizes awarded on Sunday.

Following Saturday's work day, the crowd shared pit beef, crab soup, hot dogs, hamburgers and the annual corn roast.

The 22nd reunion will be held again on the third weekend of August 1985 at the same location.

Citizens Urged To Help Police Nab Poachers

A program of rewards for citizens reporting violations of Maryland hunting laws and regulations has started in a joint effort initiated by a group of sportsmen and to be administered by the Department of Natural Resources.

"I am pleased to see this cooperation between State government and private citizens to attack a very real problem," said Dr. Torrey C. Brown, Secretary of Natural Resources.

Named the "Catch A Poacher" or CAP, the program offers financial rewards to those who supply Natural Resources Police with information leading to the arrest and conviction of a violator.

The Maryland Association for Wildlife Conservation contributed the initial funding supported by affiliate clubs of the Maryland Wildlife Federation.

Citizens may lodge complaints by calling a toll free "800" telephone number. The caller's anonymity is guaranteed.

When a call is received it will be assigned a "CAP" Case Number. This will separate the call from other complaints for statistical purposes, and will also identify the type of complaint.

DNR will administer the reward program, but the reward itself shall be handled in a manner convenient to the caller.

If a conviction is recorded, the CAP complaint will be reviewed by a Board consisting of representatives of DNR, the NRP, the Maryland Association for Wildlife Conservation, and the Maryland Wildlife Federation will constitute the "CAP" Review Board.

The Board will review CAP case convictions to determine eligibility.

Simply defined, "poaching" is any illegal taking of game, fish or non-game wildlife.

Hunting out of season or hunting at night with spotlights are two of the most obvious signs of poaching. Hunters and fishermen possessing more than the legal limit is another. Slow-moving or partially hidden vehicles, shots heard at unusual hours or game being concealed are all suspect.

If a violation is suspected, as much information as possible should be reported. Do you know the suspected violator? If not, what is his approximate age, height, weight, color of hair or eyes? How is he dressed? What type of violation occurred? Are there any concealed animals? How many? Where?

Was a vehicle observed? If so, what is the licence plate number? Can you describe the year, make and color? Where was it last seen? In which direction was it traveling?

All of these questions and more may be invaluable to enforcement investigation. Accurate, detailed observations are desirable.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

People own forest land for a variety of reasons. Many own it because it is part of a farm or residence. Others hold forest land as an investment or as land to be used for recreation. A small percentage of owners state their primary reason for owning forest land as timber production yet many owners see their timber as potential money in the bank. Because for so many, a timber sale is a once in a lifetime experience, landowners should be certain they know what they are selling and what it is worth.

Garrett County Project Foresters Ernie Metz and Paul Mateer know that timber sales can seem to be a complicated process but also know that with good planning can be accomplished while protecting the resource and themselves. A timber sale is often a prescription in a forest management plan. Harvesting timber and replanting the area perpetuates the forest resource. Landowners can be certain that they are getting the most for their timber product by contacting Foresters Ernie Metz or Paul Mateer and have them advise them of market conditions, the species and quality of the timber available for sale. Landowners can protect themselves by insisting on a timber sale contract that will allow both the seller and the buyer to understand what is being sold and how. A timber sale contract should spell out the price, manner and time of payment, description of the timber or timber products to be sold, conditions and restrictions of cutting operations, a guarantee of title (this proves you own what you are selling), statement of transfer of title, liability for damage to workers or property and the time period the contract is to run, including termination date.

The time spent drawing up a formal contract can save hassles and misunderstandings later. Foresters can help you know what you are selling and how it can best be sold.

Before you sell your timber the best advise that we can provide to a landowner is to be sure that you know what you are selling and how to sell it.

Contact Project Foresters Ernie Metz and Paul Mateer at 334-3296 for more information about how you can protect yourself and make your timber sale a profitable one.

Bambacus Calls For Passage Of Crime Control Act

State Senator John N. Bambacus has called for Congressional action in moving toward passage of the Administration-backed Comprehensive Crime Control Act. S. 1762 passed the Senate by a vote of 91-1, but consideration of the bill by the House or Representatives has been stalled.

Citing a recent survey in which over 80 percent of those polled placed crime and drug problems in America as a top priority for governmental action, Senator Bambacus stated "The American public has focused on these issues as a primary problem. It is now time for the U.S. House of Representatives to move to secure substantial changes in the criminal justice system."

The Comprehensive Crime Control Act provides tough reforms for Federal criminal law and is the most sweeping anti-crime legislation to be considered in Congress in over a decade. The Act consists of 12 titles and includes major proposals affecting bail, sentencing, insanity defense reform and drug enforcement amendments.

Bambacus observed "Most Americans do not view crime as a partisan issue, even during this very partisan election session. The Comprehensive Anti-Crime Legislation is an attempt to coordinate the activities of Federal law-enforcement officials to protect the citizens of the nation. The state of Maryland has made great strides in reforming the system of criminal justice and advancing the cause of victims' rights. The federal government must do its part in addressing this issue."

CAN ANYTHING BE DONE TO EXTEND LIFE?

There are no known "anti-aging" treatments, drugs, or supplements that slow aging or extend life. But, according to the National Institute on Aging, your chances of staying healthy and living a long time will improve if you:

•Don't smoke.

•Eat a balanced diet and maintain your desirable weight.

•Exercise regularly.

•Have regular health check-ups, see a doctor when you detect a problem, and follow a doctor's advice when taking medications.

•Stay involved with family and friends.

•Allow time for rest and relaxation.

•Get enough sleep.

•Stay active through work, recreation, and community activities.

•Drink alcoholic beverages in moderation, if at all, and don't drive after drinking.

•Use seatbelts.

•Avoid exposure to the sun and cold.

•Practice good safety habits at home to prevent accidents such as fires and falls.

It also helps to have a positive attitude toward life. Expect to live a long time. Plan ahead for housing and ffnancial security. Find out what makes you happy and do it.

FOOD NOTES

One good way to stretch your food dollar is by including chicken or poultry in your menu. It is inexpensive, nutritious, andit goes a long way. There are a variety of ways to prepare chicken. Here is one recipe I know you will enjoy:

CREAMED CHICKEN

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
6 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
1½ cups chicken broth or stock
¾ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon ground savory
2 cups cooked chicken, cut in pieces
1 cup peas
½ cup almonds, blanched, slivered

Melt fat in saucepan, stir in flour. Mix in liquids and seasonings. Cook over moderate heat, stiring constantly, until smooth and thickened. Add chicken, peas, and almonds. Continue cooking until heated through. Serve hot in patty shells or over toasted waffles or biscuits.

EXTENSION HAPPENINGS

A workshop entitled "Wallpaper It With Ease" will be held on Thursday, October 4th at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. at the Oakland Extension Office in the Courthouse Annex. All interested persons are invited to attend. For more information, call 334-2145.

She carried a cascading bouquet of three Portica roses, sterling star lilies and stephanotis with ivy on a white Bible given to her by her great grandmother. She also observed the usual bridal traditions and wore a handmade garter, the gift of Mrs. Virginia Goodwin, Louisa, Va.

The matron of honor was her sister, Donna Mae Gordon, Irving, Texas, and bridesmaid was Cheryl Lynn Walton, Pittsburgh, her cousin. They both wore peach lace dresses with pearl accessories. They each carried Portica roses, freesia and ivy nosegays. The flower girl, Kelsey Hannibal, daughter of Laurence Hannibal, Fulton, wore a long peach dress and carried a basket of rose petals.

The groom was attired in a black tuxedo with tails. His best man, Kurt Sandstrom, Pittsburgh, and usher, Greg Leppert, brother of the groom, Chicago, Ill., wore black tuxedos with stephanotis boutonnieres. The groom's two sons, Joey and Jeffy, Chicago, also wore tuxedos, one as a ring bearer and the other as an altar boy.

Health Systems Body Convenes

The Governing Body of the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland met on September 19 at the Ali Ghan Country Club, Cumberland. Mrs Nancy Russell (Washington County), chairman, presided.

Mrs. Russell welcomed the following new members to the first meeting of the Agency's new fiscal year: Garrett County—Mrs. Carolyn Ganoe and Mrs. Virginia Rosenbaum; Allegany County—Ms. Carolyn Brown, Joseph Montana and William Udovich; Washington County—Luther Phillips.

Dr. Martha Schipper, Frederick County, was elected co-chairman of the Plan Development Committee and reported that the Committee reviewed Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) and primary care policies.

Ms. Annette Bargiel, a Washington County member of the Review, Evaluation and Implementation Committee gave the committee report. She announced that a public hearing will be held on Frostburg Community Hospital's CON application for expansion and renovation on October 2 at 6:30 p.m. at Frostburg State College, Lane Center, Frostburg.

Ms. Bargiel reported that HSAWM's request for reconsideration of the Maryland Health Resources Planning Commission's decision on the Comparative Review of the Washington County Nursing Home Projects has been returned because Perini Services, Inc. (Memorial Manor) has appealed to the Washington County Circuit Court, removing the case from the jurisdiction of the Health Resources Planning Commission.

Ms. Bargiel also reported that six letters of intent have been received by the Commission to construct nursing homes in Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties. The simultaneous submission date for CON applications has been set for November 14, 1984.

James Cuppett, Garrett County, chairman of the Management Committee, reported that the Committee elected Ms. Constance Ralston (Allegany County) as its co-chairman and that the Committee recommended approval that the Agency maintain the existing formula for calculating Blue Cross-Blue Shield Health Insurance Coverage for its employees, reserving the right to review when necessary. The Governing Body concurred with the Committee's recommendation.

Those members present from Garrett County were, Dr. David L. Bolinger, James E. Cuppett, Mrs. Carolyn J. Ganoe, John S. Parker and Mrs. M. Virginia Rosenbaum.

Students Prepare To Take ACT

More than one million high school juniors and seniors across the nation are preparing to participate in the ACT Assessment Program.

The ACT Assessment, which consists of four academic tests that measure educational development and a detailed questionnaire that collects information relevant to education and career planning, is recommended or required by more than 2,700 postsecondary institutions and scholarship programs.

School guidance counselors recommend that students participate in the ACT Assessment Program during the junior year or early in the senior year, so their results will be available in time for use in planning for postsecondary education and careers.

Students can obtain registration packets that contain all the information necessary to register and prepare for the Assessment from their high school guidance offices. The basic registration fee for the Assessment is $9.50. New for 1984-85, late registration will be accepted for an additional $10.00 late handling fee.

It takes about three hours to complete the four ACT examinations in English, math, social studies, and natural sciences. A sample copy of a full-length test is available in every high school. Students who would like to have copies of additional tests may obtain them at cost from ACT.

The ACT Assessment also includes a two-part questionnaire that students complete at home when they register. The questionnaire focuses on the student's interests, academic and nonacademic accomplishments, and vocational and education plans and needs.

Colleges use information from the ACT Assessment Program for academic advising, admissions counseling, course sectioning and placement, student services, and institutional research. ACT Assessment reports are sent to students, their high school counselors, and only those institutions and agencies specifically designated by the student.

The ACT Assessment Program is a major service of The American College Testing Program, which has national headquarters in Iowa City, Iowa.

Reader's Corner
BE SURE TO READ THIS
When becoming a Christian, the first conviction is one's deeds. The second conviction is one's words. These may be accomplished by enforcing rules and creeds. Then comes attitudes. How do you feel towards someone who wrongs you or someone who doesn't measure up to your standards? Do you pray for them, love them, be friendly to them in trying to lift and help them? Or do you look down on them, talk down to them and regard them as being beneath you? When these are conquered, this is referred to as being born again. Or the new man. This is where the battle for the soul rages.
Then comes our thoughts. This is where there is none involved but you and God. Here is where you go deep with God, just as deep as one wishes to go. There is no limit. Every thought must be brought into subjection. Then is when the heart begins to get pure, the mind becomes clean, the spirit right. Burdens become real and heavy, faith, hope and love increases. Then the individual will have peace like they never knew existed. Church should be one's crutch. Shaking the preacher's hand, joining church, singing in the choirs, teaching Sunday School, or even being a preacher will not accomplish being a born again Godly Christian. Where do you stand dear brother or sister?

Bluegrass Neighbors To Perform During Autumn Glory Festival

The Bluegrass Neighbors, a group comprised of mostly family members from West Virginia and Virginia, will provide entertainment following the Maryland State Five-String Banjo Championship on Thursday, October 11, during the 17th Annual Autumn Glory Festival. Beginning at 8 p.m. the musical event will be held at the Southern High School gym.

This makes one of the few times the group has played in the area. The other appearance was in January at the Country Club Mall, LaVale, and this summer at the C & O Canal Festival. Although this group is from the Short Gap, W. Va., area, one will seldom find them playing locally since the band is on the road most of the time throughout the Middle Atlantic States. This year their journeys ranged from North Carolina to New Jersey. The band has played some of the more prominent bluegrass festivals such as Wayside Park in Stuart, Va., and Klein's Grove in Bath, Pa. They have also appeared at festivals in Moorefield and Hazelton, W. Va., Indian Springs in Maryland and Waynesboro in Virginia.

Besides playing at bluegrass festivals, The Bluegrass neighbors have been featured at Maryland's largest street festival held in Laurel. Also every year they host the Apple Butter Festival in Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

The band has recorded three albums and soon they will be heading back to their recording studio in Waynesboro, Va., to record album number four.

The Bluegrass Neighbors are a five-member group with four of them family. The band leader is the founder of the group which started some 15 years ago. Tom Shrout is the group's guitar player and on occasion will sing lead. His oldest son, Roger, is the group's lead singer as well as their banjo player. In addition, Roger also contributes to arrangement of material. His sister, Kathy Davis, plays mandolin and sings some of the group's most requested songs such as "Santan's Jewel Crown", a cut off of the last album, which is entitled "Little Cabin Home On a Hill". Kathy also does some arranging of material. Her youngest brother, Tim, joined the band a little over two years ago and much of the band's style is credited to him. He also does arrangement of material for the band.

Roger, who is a National Banjo Champion, has also written a banjo instrumental which is recorded on the band's debut album.

The Bluegrass Neighbors have played to a wide variety of audiences from benefit concerts, to Congressmen in the nation's capitol. They have filmed a television show, been in Time magazine, and on occasion can be seen on stage with U.S. Senator Robert Byrd.

Found Guilty Of Soliciation To Commit Murder

Regina K. Wotring, 34, a former resident of Oakland, was convicted of solicitation to commit murder Friday, after an Allegany County Circuit Court jury deliberated less than two hours.

Allan Reeves, Rawlings, an informant for the Maryland State Police was instrumental in bringing about the conviction.

Reeves claimed that Wotring had offered him money to kill someone she had believed murdered her husband. She reportedly instructed Reeves to wait for his victim in the darkened garage at her home in Cresaptown on November 18, 1983.

Wotring claimed that it was her intent to dress in men's clothing so that the hired killer would murder her in reality. Instead, she was the one arrested that night.

Wotring said she felt the only way she could protect her children was to "remove" herself after she had received a note threatening her two children.

In June, a jury found Mrs. Wotring not guilty of the murder of her husband, Ronald K. Wotring. Six members of that panel were on the jury which found her guilty Friday.

Wotring who claimed she had lost her husband, her job, and most of her friends, stated, "When my children were threatened, I snapped. There was nothing worth living for after that."

She also said that she wanted Reeves to kill her, but told him someone else was to be the victim because he would not have done it otherwise.

Reeves reportedly taped the conversation between him and Wotring concerning the murder plot and turned the tape into the police. Reeves said he contacted police because "I didn't want to be involved or see anybody else get hurt."

Several officers, including Tfc. Martin Tichnell, were on a stakeout the night of the intended murder at Wotring's home. Tichnell said he saw a woman he later learned was Mrs. Wotring go twice to the garage, staying there briefly.

He said the Wotring car was driven away, and on its return Wotring was arrested. The only person with her was her seven-year-old son.

Defense attorney Louis A. Fatkin, asked during the trial "Why do I say she is innocent? It is a matter of court record - the longest trial in Allegany County history, and she was found not guilty." He further went on to say, "Her husband died, and on that day she died. Since that day she has died even more."

Fatkin also attacked Reeves credibility charging that Reeves admitted to lapses of memory from drinking beer while taking "nerve medicine."

Fatkin also asked, "Is there no bending of the law, a little this way, or that, depending upon the circumstances?"

State's Attorney Robert W. Hamilton told the jury he has "rarely if ever, heard an attorney ask a jury to ignore the law." He said, "there can be no question of Mrs. Wotring's guilt based on the evidence."

He also stated that Mrs. Wotring may have been her own intended victim, but that it was immaterial. "It would be no less of a crime if he (Reeves) had killed her or someone else."

Since solicitation to commit murder is a misdemeanor and a common law offense, any sentence is up to the discretion of the judge.

Judge J. Frederick Sharer, who heard the case, ordered a pre-sentence investigation and revoked Mrs. Wotring's bond.

REPAYING COLLEGE COSTS

If your son or daughter will be going to an out-of-town college, there is an expense other than tuition to be considered - living cost. In many colleges, students have to rent apartments or rooms in town and that can work out to be as much, if not more, than tuition. Here is an approach to think about.

You could kill two birds with one stone by buying a single family home or condominium or small investment property for your son or daughter to use as a residence while they are away at college. Your student offspring could sublet extra bedrooms or units to other responsible students or university personnel. This is one way to help defray all or part of the monthly carrying costs. After four years, the property should have increased by at least 25% and could then be sold at its appreciated value, returning all or part of the tuition costs.

If there is no room for subletting and your son or daughter paid you the fair market rent for the unit, you would still be entitled to all the investment tax deductions including depreciation, maintenance, etc.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of John Magar, Jr., who passed away two years ago at Deep Creek Lake, October 2, 1982.

Again another year has passed, it's still so hard to face, there will never be another you to fill that empty space; my heart aches with sadness and secret tears continue to flow, what it meant to love you, brother, no one will ever know. When days are dark and dreary, and nights are, oh so long, I seem hear you whisper, cheer up, sis, and carry on, I wonder how our lives would be, if you just would not leave us, you did no one a last farewell, nor could I even say good bye. You were gone before I knew it, and only He knows why, in my sad and troubled heart, I keep on asking why? Precious thoughts, silent tears, and cherished memories, are all that's left for me.

Sadly missed by Sister - Lori

Two Area Drivers Found Guilty On DWI Charges

During proceedings at Garrett County District Court September 19, two local drivers were found guilty of driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs.

Judge Jack Turney fined Concetta Marie Burns $450 with $250 suspended plus court costs for driving while intoxicated. She was also ordered to serve one year of supervised probation and to attend DWI school.

Robert Donald Lee, also found guilty of DWI, was fined $400 with $250 suspended plus court costs, ordered to serve one year of supervised probation and to attend DWI school.

In other cases heard that day, Judge Turney found Ronald P. Buckingham guilty of operating an uninsured vehicle and ordered him to pay a $250 fine plus court costs. He was also given a 60-day suspended jail sentence and ordered to serve two years of unsupervised probation.

Turney also found Mark Anthony Glover guilty of driving while revoked and ordered him to pay a $200 fine plus court costs. A 30-day jail sentence was suspended and he was ordered to serve two years of unsupervised probation.

Tamburitzans To Perform At FSC Friday Evening

The Tamburitzans of Duquesne University, under the direction of Nicholas Jordanoff, will present their current concert production in the physical education center of Frostburg State College on Friday, September 28, at 9 p.m.

The Tamburitzans will appear under the sponsorship of the College's Cultural Events Series Committee in cooperation with the FSC Foundation. Tickets for the public will be on sale at the door.

Each year the Tamburitzans present an entirely new concert portraying the culture of the East European peoples. The professional credits of Pittsburgh's collegiate performers extend throughout the world. Serving as goodwill ambassadors for the U.S. State Department and occasionally upon the invitation by foreign governments, the Tamburitzans have made extended tours of Europe in 1950 and 1952, Yugoslavia and Italy in 1962, Latin America in the summer of 1968 and Romania, Poland and Soviet Union during the summer of 1969. Another tour took place in the summer of 1972 when they made a nine-week, four-country tour of Czechoslovakia, France, Greece and Bulgaria. Their most recent tour was in the summer of 1978 to Bulgaria and Yugoslavia.

This group of folk artists dedicated to the preservation of East European folk culture take their name from the musical instrument they play—the "tamburitza." Using over 500 authenic costumes in each concert, the Tamburitzans sing in a dozen different European languages and do the dances of as many countries.

The 40 Tamburitza performers are fulltime students at Duquesne University and each receives a complete scholarship in exchange for participation in the troupe. Candidates are chosen on the basis of academic achievement and proficiency as singers, dancers and/or instrumentalist.

School Board Race Clarified

The Garrett County Board of Supervisors of Elections this week cleared up confusion surrounding the race for the two upcoming vacancies on the Garrett County Board of Education.

Although two persons filed for the positions, the state's Attorney General's office has ruled that both persons are seeking the same position, because only one of the two had filed by the primary election deadline. William Goldsborough will be on the ballot for the position, with Anna Mary Fratz as a write-in candidate for the same seat.

Persons wishing to cast their ballot for Mrs. Fratz to continue her position as a board of education member must ask the election judges at the voting booths for a write-in ballot.

Both Attorney General Stephen Sachs and Assistant Attorney General Jack Schwartz interpret state laws to say that since only one person was seeking one of the two available vacancies, the other vacancy must be filled by appointment of the Garrett County Commissioners.

The Attorney General's opinion was handed down earlier this year to the Board of Election Supervisors, through its Attorney Tom Dabney, and to the Garrett County Teachers Association in a letter to Betty White, president.

Both state officials concurred in that Article 33, subsection 32-6 (a) (3) "is quite clear in requiring that one of the two seats in question be considered vacant, to be filled as if it had occurred during the term for which the election is being held."

LOOKING DOWN IN MILD CURIOSITY, this black bear gave photographer Craig Phillips a perfect pose during Friday's morning drizzle. The bear had climbed into a tall tree in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Durst, who live about two miles off Route 495 on Dry Run Road. After spending some time surveying the surrounding landscape from the tree, the bear shinnied down and scrambled off into the woods without further ado.

October 8 Last Day For Voters To Register

The Board of Supervisors of Elections for Garrett County announces that the last day to register before the General Election November 6 will be October 8 at 9 p.m.

This will also be the final day to change parties or addresses prior to the General Election, according to Frederick Sanders, election clerk-registrar.

The last day to apply for an absentee ballot is October 30.

Any qualified citizens eligible to register to vote may request an application by dialing 334-3215, or appearing in person at the board office in the new section of the Courthouse. The office is open from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m, Monday through Friday.

Polls Combined

The board also reiterated this week that two Oakland polling places have been combined and will be located at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community

Unoccupied House Damaged By Fire

Quick response by volunteer firefighters from the Deer Park Community Fire Department, assisted by Oakland VFD personnel, resulted in the saving of an unoccupied house located along Rt. 135 just west of Deer Park Tuesday afternoon.

Although heat and smoke damage occurred throughout the structure, fire damage was confined primarily to one room.

Firemen were called to the scene at 3:24 p.m. by Garrett Central alarm after a passerby noticed flames coming from the back of the house. The blaze was brought under control in about ten minutes.

The one-story frame structure is owned by Edith Nicholas, Dennett Road, according to Guy Carola, fire investigator for Garrett County. Ms. Nicholas told Carola that she rents the house and new renters were about to move in.

Carola said that a fire was built in a wood stove in the house in order to provide heat for Ms. Nicholas, who was going to the house to clean. Although a cause has not yet been determined, Carola said the blaze may have been caused by some hot coals spilling out onto the floor through a vent in the stove. He said it appeared to have started as a smouldering, slow-burning fire.

Ms. Nicholas reportedly has insurance on the house. There were few contents in the structure.

Firemen remained on the scene for about one hour. There were no injuries.

State Agency Plans Not To Fund NHS Renovation In FY '86

Garrett County Board of Education officials received word Tuesday that the state has not allocated funding for the Northern High School renovation project for fiscal year 1986.

"We were quite shocked," stated James Lupis, assistant superintendent of administrative services in the county school system, after confirming with state officials Tuesday that the money had not been allocated for the next fiscal year.

Lupis said the reason given for denial of funds was that there was not enough money to meet all the construction requests throughout the state.

Lupis pointed out that the decision was made before he and Dr. James Ryscavage, county school superintendent, had presented the renovation plans before the state Board of Public Works. A meeting for that purpose had been set for October 31.

Lupis said he received a copy of the FY 1986 tentative budget for school construction late last week, issued by the Inter-Agency Committee on Public School Construction which allocates funding for school construction in the state. He called the state officials Tuesday to confirm the state's plans.

The state school system had $24,842,000 for capital improvement projects this year. Lupis stated that last year the Maryland General Assembly appropriated capital improvements funds beyond what had been set in the budget. He hopes that will occur again this year.

Although county school officials have not formally made a funding request for the project, Lupis said they expect to ask for $4.5 million. Funding for the project is to be discussed when they meet with the Board of Public Works.

Final word on funding should come in mid-November, Lupis stated. At this point, school officials will appeal the IAC PSC funding appropriation.

County school officials plan to proceed with necessary work on the project to keep it on schedule. He noted that the project architect, Kent Gandee, will present the design for the renovation to the county school board this month and will then send that design to state officials by the November 1 deadline.

Lupis noted that county officials have worked hard on the project in spite of several setbacks including deferral of state funds last year for the project.

Some of the school districts which did receive money in the tentative budget were Baltimore City which received $6,947,000; Baltimore County, $3,528,000, Montgomery County $3,487,000 and Prince George's, $2,559,000. Ten districts did not receive funds including Kent, Queen Anne's, Caroline, Somerset, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Harford and Talbot.

SHA To Review Closing Of 48 West Entrance

The State Highway Administration has promised to get back to the citizens of the town of Friendsville by October 10 regarding the closing of the westbound entrance to Route 48 in that town.

Some 30 or more citizens turned out at a public meeting September 25 to protest the closing of the ramp onto Route 48. The meeting was sponsored by the Rotary and Lions Club, with Lion Ed Bartholomew acting as chairman.

Attending from the SHA were T. Wallace Beaulieu, District Six engineer, and James Welch, assistant engineer. Beaulieu promised to review the situation and get in touch with town officials by the October 10 date.

Citizens had several points to make, including the fact that the detour outlined by the SHA is 21.6 miles long and involves traveling a complicated route of Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia secondary roads. If the Blooming Rose entrance were to be reopened, the detour would need to be only two miles long. The Blooming Rose entrance was used during

All county offices will be closed Friday, October 12, in observance of Columbus Day. Federal offices will be observing the holiday on Monday, October 8.

Local Physician Bids Farewell To Garrett County

Jared B. Zelman, M.D., a physician with the Garrett Medical Group Professional Association in Oakland, is relocating to the Baltimore area.

Dr. Zelman has been practicing in Oakland for over five years. During his time here, he served as Chief of Medical Staff and Director of Emergency Services at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. He was a team physician for Southern High School and the Garrett Community College athletic programs. He worked with a number of community social service programs as a volunteer and staff member. He was Garrett Organization for the Handicapped Professional of the Year in 1982.

Dr. Zelman will be moving to Baltimore to function as a member of the emergency room staff at Union Memorial Hospital and a faculty member of the University of Maryland School of Medicine. Dr. Zelman is disappointed that his new position will take him away from Oakland as he stated, "In all my life, I've never lived in such a warm, receptive, friendly community". He went on to say, "I have truly enjoyed my work

Industrial Park Purchase Terms Settled Tuesday

The Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday announced they had reached an agreement with officials of Bausch and Lomb, Inc., for the purchase of 96.88 acres to be used as the Southern Garrett Industrial Park Site.

The county will purchase the tract, located just east of Mountain Lake Park along Maryland Route 135 and the Chessie System Railroad, for $200,000.

Three Garrett County firms have expressed a commitment to expand their operations onto the site. Also, one out-of-state firm is prepared to commit itself to move to the site, reported Tom Jones, county development director.

The commissioners pointed out that since the early 1970's suitable locations for manufacturers have been difficult to arrange, especially those requiring rail service capability.

In the 1950's and 60's, manufacture locations could be accommodated within the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce Industrial Park in Oakland. In 1972 the Chamber sold its last available parcel.

Settlement of the transaction was held up for a few months because of a delay in state health department tests of soil samples taken from the site.

For many years, the B&L plant used the property to discard a combination of detergents, pine pitch and polishing material in a tank. These materials leeched out into the ground, in combination with

County Commissioners Address Concerns Of Browning's Quarry

James Browning and Steve Hinebaugh, representing Browning's Deep Creek Quarry, Inc., met with the Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday to express their concerns over the issue of awarding their company the bid for crusher run, used by the Garrett County Roads Department.

Browning claimed that, although Browning's had received the bid, purchases of the crusher run have been "way down".

"If the county is not buying from us, where are they buying the crusher run and for what price?" he stated.

The commissioners were unable to give Browning a definite reply because as Commissioner Ernie Gregg stated, "Due to the recent resignations of County Road's personnel, this will slow the process of answering your concerns, although we will talk to acting administrator, Paul Shockey, about this matter."

One of Browning's particular concerns was the purchase of crusher run from Fairfax Sand and Stone Company for a project on the Kempton Road this year. He claimed that crusher run from that company was a waste product from a strip operation. Browning went on to say, "In our opinion, that waste product is of no value to the County Road's Department. It will wash away and have to be redone. Should the county be using this?"

Commissioner Elwood Groves commented, "Purchasing crusher run from Fairfax for that particular project may have been due to mileage proximity."

Commissioner Gregg added, "Perhaps that type of crusher run was used for fill in the shoulder basins. We're not sure, but we'll certainly look into it."

Browning also questioned the legality of the county using other stone companies when his company had indeed received the bid for that type of stone.

The commissioners assured Browning that they would compile figures and talk with Dwight Stover, legal counsel for county government, to clear up any misconceptions as soon as possible.

Browing also expressed concern over the awarding of the bid of #4 and #10 shale to Gaylord Fuel-Stone Division. He contended that the company was not always able to keep ample stock in which to supply the county. He added that if his company were awarded that bid they would stockpile the shale for the county, making it readily available and also reducing double hauling costs for the county.

"Again, this is a legal assumption . . . the low bidder should be held responsible for supply," Gregg responded.

Browning then questioned the commissioners on the practice of purchasing blacktop from other firms when the County Road's Department had the facilities to produce their own.

Commissioner Gregg told Browning that the county, in that case, "could buy it cheaper than we could produce it."

In reply to Browning's question concerning the county's blacktop plant being leased to a private contractor, the commissioners informed Browning that they had indeed agreed to lease the blacktop plant, but that their attorney said the plant must go out for bids. The commissioners stressed that they could not award the bid until all bids were reviewed.

County's 20th Rabies Case Is Near Bittinger

Garrett's 20th rabies case this year and the first in Bittinger area was reported this morning by the county health department.

The animal was spotted by a young camper near the kitchen area at the Western Maryland 4-H Camp Monday. Caretaker Robert Smith found and shot the animal, and the test performed by the state health lab in Baltimore confirmed the rabies diagnosis this morning.

The animal was staggering through the area about 3 p.m., and gnawed a part of its leg off, apparently in response to the pain occurring at the site of a bite by a rabid animal.

There was no human exposure in this case, according to Rodney Glotfelty, rabies prevention coordinator for the health department.

Oakland Scout To Be Awarded Eagle Ranking

The rank of Eagle, Scouting's highest honor, is to be conferred on Kevin L. Keplinger of Troop 31, Oakland, as announced by the National Executive Committee of the Boy Scouts of America.

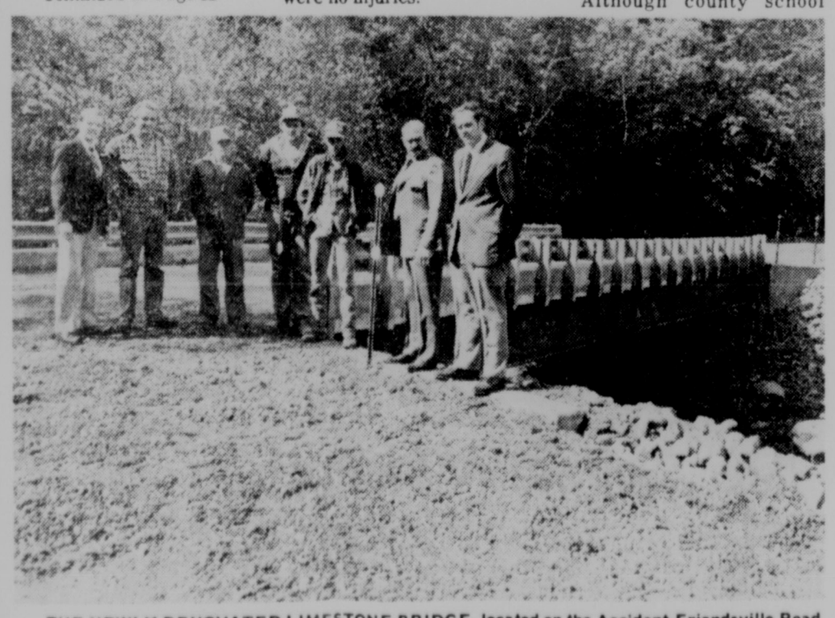

The son of Leonard and Ethel Keplinger of Rt. 1, Burlington, W. Va., Kevin is a 1984 graduate of Keyser High School.

As part of his efforts to achieve this rank, Keplinger organized and carried out which involved the mapping and partial cleanup of gravesites at the Stone Chapel Cemetery along Rt. 50 near Ridgeville. Also required for Eagle are six lesser ranks and 21 merit badges in fields such as citizenship, first aid, camping and conservation.

Keplinger has also distinguished himself in Scouting's Order of the Arrow, leading its nationally ranked ceremonies team. He is a recipient of the Order's Founder's Award and its highest recognition, the Vigil Honor.

Kevin is currently serving in the U.S. Army, stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga., and is engaged to be married to Miss Carole Hill of Cumberland.

Presentation of the Eagle award is scheduled for October 21 in Oakland.

THE NEWLY RENOVATED LIMESTONE BRIDGE, located on the Accident-Friendsville Road and overlooking Little Bear Creek was dedicated Tuesday by the Garrett County Commissioners. The cost of improvements to the bridge, reinforced with concrete and steel, was approximately $45,000. "We are continuing to improve bridges, beginning with the smallest ones and working our way up. The work on these bridges is being done by the Garrett County Roads Department," noted Commissioner Elwood Groves. Among those present for the dedication and shown left to right are Commissioner Elwood Groves, Joseph DeWitt, foreman at the Roads Department; Edward Carr, Danny Friend, and Carl Schmidt, employees of the Roads Department; and Commissioners Ernie Gregg and John Braskey.

FALL EXCURSION TRAIN VISITS COUNTY — U.S. and Maryland dignitaries were among 800 visitors who walked the streets of Oakland and the paths of Swallow Falls State Park Saturday to view the early fall colors and to visit historical buildings in the town. The tourists arrived in Oakland at 3:30 p.m., via a Chessie excursion train from Baltimore. Oakland Police Chief John Sines and Mayor H.D. "Hub" Swartzentruber were on hand to greet the group and to answer questions. Four buses were provided by the Allegany Transit Authority to take passengers to Swallow Falls State Park. The train headed back to Baltimore shortly after 6 p.m. Photo courtesy Charles Pariseau, Natural Reflections.

Oakland Rejects Apartment Permit

The mayor and council of Oakland voted unanimously Monday night to pursue every avenue of resistance to a low-income apartment project proposed by G. David Green on Second Street in Oakland.

The council rejected a zoning application which had been approved by county zoning administrator John Nelson, and authorized Watson to "pursue every avenue of resistance based on various illegalities involved in the project."

Attorney Watson said the town is basing their disagreement with the project on three central ideas. The first is the sewer moratorium imposed on the town by the health department, which prohibits new taps until compliance with state laws concerning sewage treatment.

The town is in disagreement with Edgar Harman, head of the environmental division of the local health department. Watson said that Harman has interpreted the moratorium as excluding Green's apartment project.

The second segment of the town's argument is based on the fact that part of Second Street is the National Register of Historic Places, and any changes planned must be reviewed by various committees including the Maryland Historical Trust. The changes would detract from the historical flavor of the neighborhood, Watson said.

The town's final reservation is based on zoning issues, Watson said. The town plans to take an administrative appeal of Harman's decision, and will pursue the matter to Circuit Court and beyond, if necessary.

Approximately 15 residents had gathered at the September council meeting to express their opinions that Second Street, a part of the town's historic district, is not a proper location for a low-income apartment house. The group did not, however, formally protest Green's plans, said spokesman Willis Shaffer.

Talk Of The Towns

Adopts Ordinance

Councilman Robert Boal moved that the town adopt the county's stormwater ordinance, and that the town allow the county to administer the ordinance. The measure passed.

Cablentertainment

Representatives from Cablentertainment were present to give a comparison of operating statistics for Oakland and surrounding communities. They will conduct a public hearing October 15 at 7 p.m. at the city hall to solicit comments on the company's request for a basic service rate increase and renewal of its cable franchise for the ten-year period June 1985 through December 1994.

At that time the firm will also submit a proposal for expansion of its cable services.

Halloween Treat

The town is seeking contributions for its treat distribution for town youngsters at Halloween. Contributions may be taken to city hall through Wednesday, October 24.

Councilman Boal noted during the meeting that the town is hoping to purchase enough treats for all Oakland youngsters 12 and under.

Seeks Parking Space

Charlotte Griffith, director of the Appalachian Center in Oakland, is seeking a third parking space in front of 105 S. Third Street, where the bakery, workshop and Appalachian Center are located.

The council agreed to confer with Police Chief John Sines and will respond by letter to the request.

The council's request to go over various problems encountered with speeders and others who commit traffic violations. The sheriff promised to give more cooperation and that he or one of his assistants will meet with the town again in the near future for further discussion.

Trick or Treat

The town took no action on a Halloween trick or treat observance. Officials will confer with Mtn. Lake Park and Deer Park before announcing plans.

The town's next meeting will be November 5 at 7:30 p.m.

Accident Council Discusses Town Buildings, Park

The mayor and council of Accident met October 1 to discuss renovation of the town building, use of the town park, improvement of Central Garrett Industrial Park, and several other matters.

Renovation Of Town Building

Funds to make improvements to the exterior of the building housing the town garage and town hall were allocated in the town of Accident's current operating budget. The council took action at Monday night's meeting to engage the services of Francis Miller, masonry contractor, Accident, to brick the exterior of the town building. A brick was selected that would blend with the brick on the Ruth Enlow Library Branch and Town View Village, nearby structures.

The town building was formerly used as the Accident Area County Road's garage and was purchased from the county commissioners in 1975. A section of the interior was renovated in 1980 for use as a town hall. This past summer the town's summer employees painted and organized the interior of the garage area.

The contractor is scheduled to begin the exterior renovation work in early spring with some footer work being done this fall.

Town Park

To promote the proper use of the Accident Community Park, the council adopted formal rules and regulations governing the park's use. These rules will be posted near the entrance to the park. Copies will also be provided to any groups or organizations that make reservations for use of the pavilion.

The water and rest room facilities in the park will be turned off for the winter season on the last Saturday of October.

Industrial Park

Tom Jones, Garrett County Economic Development Director, informed the council that his department has resubmitted an application through Tri-County Council for EDA grant funding for 1985. This financial assistance request would be used to develop access roads and utility extensions in the Central Garrett Industrial Park.

The proposed project would entail the extension of the existing trunk access street and water and sewerage lines in two phases. The first phase is at an estimated cost of $80,000 and would open approximately 14 acres of the industrial park to new industrial placement. The second phase of approximately $172,000 in costs would open the remaining 35 acres for industrial development. Jones also provided an informational copy to the town of deed covenants for any future land acquisitions in the Central Garrett Industrial Park.

Safety Procedures

As part of implementing the town's safety program in operation of the public water and wastewater systems, Councilman Richard Carlson is working out a response procedure with the Accident Volunteer Fire Company in the event of a chlorine leak at the tratment plant or water pumping stations.

Should such an incident occur, the Accident Fire Department would be called to the scene and requested to bring the necessary equipment to enter the chlorine area. Members of the local fire company are scheduled to meet with Vaughn Sweitzer, the town's operator of the water and wastewater systems, to review the chlorine equipment at the town's treatment plant and two water pumping stations.

Water and Sewer Bills

The clerk reported that this month's water and sewer bills for the month ending September 15 were slightly higher for most users. Based on the dates of the meter readings, the period of usage was actually about five weeks because the Town employee had read the previous month's meters early in order to attend a one-week training course relating to water and wastewater operations.

Present were Mayor Wayne Fratz and Councilmen Richard Carlson, Dave Davis, James Smith and Charles Strauss.

The next meeting will be November 5.

Mtn. Lake Park Appeals Board To Hear Case Oct. 11

The Mtn. Lake Park Board of Zoning Appeals will hold a public hearing October 11 at 4:30 p.m. in the town hall to hear a proposal by Morgan France to open a surveying and engineering office in his property on F Street.

France is seeking a special exception to the town's zoning ordinance to open the office.

All citizen comments are welcome, according to John Nelson, county zoning administrator.

Loch Lynn To Elect Officials November 5

The town of Loch Lynn is preparing for election of a mayor, clerk, treasurer and two council members November 5 - the day before the nation's general election.

No candidates have filed for office as yet, according to Clerk Virginia Eichorn, but registered voters have until October 25 to file.

Candidate filing forms are available from the clerk's home at 408 Roanoke Avenue. The town hall will be open for voting November 5 between noon and 6 p.m.

The mayor and council discussed the election at length during its regular meeting October 1, and picked several names from the list of registered voters to sit on the town's election board.

Sheriff Present

Sheriff Franklin G. Finch was present at the meeting at the

Fratz Write-In Candidate For Education Board

Anna Mary Fratz, McHenry, has filed as a write-in candidate for the Garrett County Board of Education.

Mrs. Fratz is currently a member of the Board, having served two years. She has been involved in the decision-making concerning the vocational-technical programs, Northern High School renovation and, most recently, the revision of the student handbook.

Although there are two openings on the Board of Education, Mrs. Fratz will be running against William Goldsborough for one vacancy and the county commissioners will be required to appoint someone to fill the other vacancy, since no one filed for candidacy before the deadline except Goldsborough. Because of an unusual filing deadline during a national election year, which was not widely publicized, Mrs. Fratz and others missed the deadline, thus requiring her to run as a write-in candidate.

Mrs. Fratz is a graduate of Accident High School and has attended Garrett Community College and Frostburg State College. She is the mother of seven children, six of whom are graduates of Northern High School and one who is presently attending Northern. She is past president of the Accident Elementary School PTA, past vice president of the Northern Band Boosters and has been business chairman for the Heart Fund for 30 years. She is a member of Zion Lutheran Church and owns and manages rental properties on Deep Creek Lake.

Mrs. Fratz stated that she would like to "continue to represent the interest of families involved with the county schools and those who are taxpayers and support the school system."

An effort is being made by the candidate and her supporters to inform the electorate how to cast a write-in ballot because, she says, "Garrett County needs a choice in selecting a school board member."

Private Industry Council Approves Training Funds

The Garrett County Private Industry Council has announced that funding in excess of $188,000 was approved during the August and September meetings. The funds will serve unemployed and dislocated workers in Garrett County for job training programs through the newly established Job Training Partnership Act. The intent of this Act is to train or retrain the unemployed through skill training programs that will meet the needs of the private sector.

The programs approved for funding include on-the-job training which works directly with private employers, office procedures training, an Exemplary Youth program, and tuition reimbursement through the Garrett Community College to serve dislocated workers in vocational trades. Presently, openings exist in several of these training programs.

Specific training for these programs are provided by Garrett Community College, the local Board of Education, the local Western Maryland Consortium office, and area businesses. Stipends and allowances are available to help offset the costs of attending the training.

The Western Maryland Consortium, the agency responsible in administering the programs, encourages local businesses to contact them when workforce expansion is considered. Funds are available to businesses to help offset the costs of training an individual for a job. Also, a specific training program may be set up to meet the needs of local business and industry. The Consortium has worked closely with local businesses and new businesses planning to locate in Garrett County in order to meet their manpower needs.

The Dislocated Worker Program at Garrett Community College is one of the Consortium programs which has placed many unemployed County Residents in jobs. From October 1983 through June 1984, 28 individuals were trained in various vocational and credit related courses at Garrett Community College and were placed into jobs. Overall, for Fiscal year 1984 which ended July 1, 49% of the individuals served were placed into jobs.

Interested Garrett County residents, who are unemployed may call the Western Maryland Consortium at 359-9480.

OFFICIAL GRAND OPENING CEREMONIES culminated in a ribbon cutting for the new Kelly's Appliance and Furniture location in Loch Lynn Tuesday. Approximately 150 persons were present including, left to right, Commissioners Elwood Groves and John Braskey; Loch Lynn Mayor Charles Tressler; Mrs. Betty Vance and Mike Vance; Kelly Vance, and Commissioner Ernie Gregg. Coincidentally, it was exactly 30 years and one month since the business first opened its doors in Loch Lynn on September 2, 1954. The new location owned by the Vance family offers 63,000 feet of combined warehouse and display space and the furniture and appliance lines have been expanded to meet every budget, from low prices to high prices. Among those present Tuesday were representatives of many area businesses, as well as officials from Garrett National Bank and First United National Bank, and Mayor H. D. Swartzentruber of Oakland.

Local Schools Selected For Values Education

A pilot Values Education Program was introduced at a meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education September 13 by Patrick DeLaney, principal at Route 40 Elementary School, and Dot Minnick, teacher at Route 40.

DeLaney and Minnick explained the pilot program and showed the board the file card system of mini-lessons on character and citizenship objectives, such as personal integrity, self-esteem, fair play, patriotism, the obligations of a citizen, respect for the United States Constitution and the Bill of Rights, and respect for authority.

The mini-lesson can be used during spare time during the school day, and involve activities such as mock elections, singing and discussion. The mini-lesson cards include a list of materials that can be used by teachers to illustrate the lessons.

At the end of the year, participating teachers will meet to evaluate the lessons and the success of the project.

The pilot program will be conducted at Route 40, Friendsville, Dennett Road, Kitzmiller, Bloomington, and Red House.

Home Instruction

Superintendent Dr. Jerome Ryscavage distributed materials for the board to review on home instruction for the board to review before taking action on the next issue.

"This is a hotly debated issue. These policies and procedures would speak to how we handle these cases when they come up. It is a sensitive area - we have the responsibility to enforce the law about school attendance, but have the responsibility to allow home instruction to occur under certain guidelines," Ryscavage commented.

Dennett Road Coal Bid

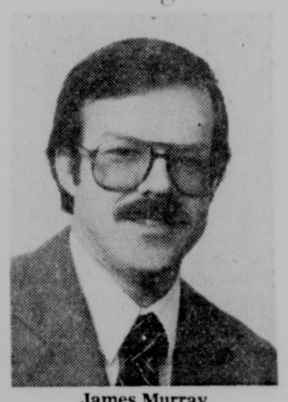

The board approved the awarding of the coal bid at Dennett Road Elementary School to the Black Diamond Coal Company, Corriganville, for $39.90 per ton. Assistant Superintendent James Lupis told the board that the company was the low bidder and is the current supplier to the school.

The following appointments were announced by Dr. Ryscavage: Earl Bitely, biology, Southern High; Michelle Lavelle, special education, Southern High; Robert Crowe, special education aide, Southern High; Gladys Virts, discipline aide, Southern Middle; Anne Ellis, aide, Northern High; Diane Burns, aide, Northern Middle; Linda Thayer, secretary II, Board of Education office; Adrian Shaffer, maintenance, Southern High; Vera Dunithan, custodian, Friendsville; Lisa Hetzel, custodian, Friendsville; Charles Paugh, custodian, Kitzmiller; Diane DeWitt, custodian, Accident; and Jo Ann Vent, career employability, Southern High.

The following resignations were also noted: Jane Brode, aide, Grantsville; Bonnie Swyter, career employability, Southern High; Gary Devine King, and George Viragh.

PREPARING THE SET for Act IV Productions final dinner theatre offering "Foxfire" at Village Inn are the Fundamentals of Technical Theatre class from Garrett Community College. From left to right are Sue Nealis, Dawn Humberson, Ben Sincell, technical director for GCC; and David Cottrell. Dan Ledden is lighting designer. The players will present "Foxfire" October 6 through 14. The play is under the direction of Margaret Mary Gintling, and the cast includes Frances Acton, John Ackerman, John Carl Hottenstein, Linda Fousek, and John Smith.

Act IV To Close Theatre Season With "Foxfire"

Act IV Productions will close its third dinner theatre season in the county with the performance of "Foxfire" by Susan Cooper and Hume Cronyn, to open October 6 and continue through the Autumn Glory weekend at Village Inn.

"Foxfire" tells the story of Hector Nations, an ever-abiding presence in the life of Annie Nations.

According to Frances Acton, this is a love story - set in mountains familiar to Garrett County - love for each other, love of God, of the land and of the family, the strongest love of all.

Foxfire is a lichen which lives on dead fallen trees and glows in the dark in the forests of southern Appalachia. Mrs. Acton related that it has given its name to a series of books written and compiled by Eliot Wigginton with the help of the young people of Appalachia and is designed to record the beliefs and personalities of those indomitable pioneers who carved out of unwelcoming mountains not only a living but a tough, joyous way of life.

The realistic set for this show was created by the tech class of the GCC Drama Department under the direction of Ben Sincell, with lighting and sound direction guidance provided by Dan Ledden.

The play is under the direction of Margaret Mary Gintling and the cast includes Frances Acton, John Ackerman, John Carl Hottenstein, Linda Fousek, and John Smith.

CONFIDING YOUR WISHES

Unless you take certain common-sense measures now, the arrangements for your funeral and burial may turn into a source of conflict and misery among your loved ones. It is not enough to confide your wishes to your spouse or perhaps a close friend. Other relatives may take exception to certain arrangements and try to override such wishes and even take over responsibility altogether—particularly if you have entrusted this to a friend.

Your best course is to tell all involved parties what you have decided so there is no question about it later. You may even wish to name the responsible party in a "Letter of Instruction", along with specific wishes. Unless you do this, there is a good chance that such responsibility will be turned over to your closest living relative, regardless of your relationship to the person, and arrangements made alien to your wishes.

Fighting The Deficit . . .

The rapidly growing deficit of our federal government, which has now surpassed the $1.5 trillion mark, is obviously of great concern to all politicians, economists and citizens in general. The issue serves as great fuel for the attack by whichever political party is out of power in the White House. Walter Mondale is milking it for all its worth, just as President Reagan did in his campaign for the presidency.

The deficit growth is apparently out of control right now and is certainly not the fault of any one administration. Likewise, it will take great effort beyond that of an individual president to gain control of the problem.

We believe there are three things that could have a major positive effect in this crisis, two of which we have written about in previous editorials.

The first is implementation of many of the suggestions of the Grace Commission, a group of top business and industry officials organized by President Reagan to look into the problem and make recommendations to the government about how to cut out waste and increase cost effectiveness. This commission has concluded that billions upon billions of dollars can be saved if its suggestions are carried out. We need to put politics aside and take action on these experts' ideas.

Secondly, we believe that a national sales tax might be justified and effective. It should be no more than one or two percent and could perhaps be eliminated when it is believed that the deficit is under control. Sales tax is just about the most equitable tax in existence, for there are no loopholes, and those who are able to buy more will be the persons who will pay more tax.

Finally, at some point, it seems that a constitutional amendment forcing a balanced federal budget is necessary. Such an amendment would have to have limitations, of course. It seems only logical and financially sensible, though, that the government should not be allowed to spend money that it either does not have or cannot pay back.

WE WARNED HIM NOT TO CROSS THE PICKET LINE...

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Some insight into Geraldine Ferraro's foreign policy expertise might be revealed in the following excerpts from the August 19, 1984, television program "This Week With David Brinkley." Ferraro was being interviewed about the Grenada Rescue Operation which took place on October 25, 1983. Ferraro stated that she would have attempted to negotiate the situation with General Hudson Austin, whose Marxist dominated Army took power and murdered Maurice Bishop, along with three Cabinet Ministers and two pro-Bishop union officials.

(Ferraro was interviewed by Columnist George Will)

Will: "You would have tried to negotiate, and if they had said, 'We're not going to negotiate we're going to go ahead consolidating power,' then it might have been too late."

Ferraro: "Let me—well, it might have been. If it were—I mean, uh, a whole bunch of—"

Will: "Would it be better for Grenada today to have a communist government than for us to have gone in with troops?"

Ferraro: "Well, uh, I think what you should—you know, I mean let's slide off of whether or not it would have been better than—I'm not quite sure, again, and when I'm, I'm focusing attention on is themeans to addressing the problem. And that's where this Administration is wrong."

Ferraro and Mondale can criticize President Reagan all they like for what they consider to be his shortcomings in foreign policy. Mondale's and Ferraro's shortcomings are a lack of intelligence and an inability to comprehend the actual ways of the world in which we live. The above excerpt clearly demonstrates this point.

The Reagan record speaks clearly for itself and no amount of cheap rhetoric by Mondale or Ferraro can alter the facts.

This is concerning the Saturday night football game—Mt. Top Youth Football League—Northern Steelers against Oakland Raiders at Northern High School.

I am appalled at certain members of the coaching staff, as well as some parents and the cheerleaders representing the Oakland Raiders to their reaction of penalty calls called against the team for infraction of the rules. Certain rules are in place for the protection of the players. Being a parent of one of the three injured players, I feel the actions of these individuals was unsportsmanlike. To abuse the referee staff for trying to protect the players and to play according to the rules of the game was totally inexcusable.

The lessons of fair play and sportsmanship have been poorly taught to the Oakland Raiders.

This letter is to express my sarcastic thank you to the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, Md., and to the State and Federal officials, who make it possible for me and my family to be eligible to collect food stamps.

I am the newest Oakland police officer, who is married and has two children. I feel our town fathers should be proud of themselves, that one of these employees is eligible for government assistance.

This is 1984 and as the saying goes, "Only in America," or maybe "Only in Oakland, Md," that a person can work for a town that pays its employees less than what is considered the poverty level.

Thank you

I would like to know why someone who has left Social Service has so much authority with Social Services.

I reported welfare fraud over two weeks ago. I called Social Service and the gentleman said they were checking on it. Why does it take two weeks to see if someone is working close by and still collecting welfare?

I need my rent money, also, other people need the help of Social Service and cannot get it.

Thank you,

To the Editor:

I think Ronald Reagan already took the laxative since he is loose at both ends when it comes to blaming the Democrats for everything that is wrong. It seems to me that we have had quite a few Republican Presidents in the past few years unless Eisenhower, Nixon and Ford weren't Republicans. I think the number is about even.

If Reagan has done such a good job why is the deficit three times higher than it ever has been? If the Democrats got blamed for the deficit when Carter was in, why not the Republicans while Reagan is in? When anything goes right the Republicans have no trouble taking the credit but if anything goes wrong, look out Democrats, it's your fault.

A voter says, "Mondale has touched a raw nerve in practically all of us and that the voting public is too wise," I say, "Speak for yourself."

I expect there are others that use campaign tactics that are just as illegal and unethical. They just haven't been caught yet.

It's time both sides pull together and quit blaming one another.

I say, get the United Nations out of the United States and let's get out of the United Nations. Also quit buying all these foreign made things and give our business to our own country. No wonder there are thousands of people out of work. What about the ones with no job and no un-employment? What are they counted as? Nothing!

It is a dirty shame that people don't have a place to live in a country as rich as the United States and I am talking about old people as well as young. Look on the streets of New York or Washington, D.C. It sure isn't a pretty sight and we should be ashamed, yet we can bring other people to this country and they get what they want. To me charity begins at home. There will soon more foreigners here in America than Americans.

I have always been a Democrat and proud of it.

To the Editor:

After reading in your paper a few weeks ago about a son and his mother nearly coming to blows over obtaining a high school diploma to get a job, it brought to mind what I heard about a man wanting to be janitor at a school.

Because he had not the required education they expected (high school), he did not get the job. He was a willing worker and started at carpenter work and soon was a contractor and doing big business. Then he was asked "Where would you be if you had an education," his reply, "a janitor at the school."

So it doesn't take a high school or college education to make one a success in life if you are willing to work. Isn't Abraham Lincoln a good example?

I also read "who's to blame" in last week's paper. Do the children who go to school now get the needed education they should for the amount of tax money that is spent?

I am a little girl who loves Sunday School, pre-school and the Garrett County Fair.

As I hear my Goddy (Grandma, that is) talk about the fair, I know it needs supporters. I also know it has some supporters, but not enough.

The fair has put on a bond drive to sell 500 bonds and as yet they have not reached their goal. The drive will end October 30, so anyone wishing to help the fair by buying a $100 bond, or so, should call a director at once.

Please help us little kids to have the fair to enjoy. Support it by purchasing a bond. Remember the fair gives many opportunities we could not have without it. We will soon be the leaders of our county and what we learn, we will no doubt teach.

I know it would be OK for you to call 245-4224 or 245-4488 to purchase a bond.

Thanks to eveyone who helped us by supporting the fair.

Love,

To the Editor:

I was appalled but not surprised when I read Delegate Edwards is convening the Garrett County Salary Study Commission a year before the law requires under the pretense "as non-political as possible and not to influence the voters in an election year."

As the author of that legislation which reads "beginning in 1981 and every four years thereafter prior to the legislative session the commission shall convene," I take exception to the timing and reasoning offered by Delegate Edwards. To change salaries in an election year is precisely the intent and purpose of the present law so that the voters and candidates know exactly what the salary will be and the legislator making any salary change in the legislature will stand the scrutiny of the public for actions on salaries during election year so that those changes are fresh in the minds of the voters. To do so a year earlier will almost assure it will be forgotten.

As an example, the first order of business in the 1986 (election year) General Assembly will be the salaries of the legislature as required by the constitution. Why should we be different?

This is another shenanigan by Delegate Edwards to thwart the voters, the same way he introduced a bill 24 days after the deadline for introduction of bills in the house to abolish the 10% surcharge liquor tax, so that the public would not be aware of the change or have time to oppose it. I call this to the attention of the chairman of the Commission so they can check the legality of any report made prior to the time required. I have also written to Senator Bambacus with the expectation that he will not be a party to this fraud.

To the Editor:

I was a spectator for the Steelers at the Youth League game against the Raiders Saturday evening. I was appalled at the conduct of the Raiders and their coaches.

There was no discipline on the Raiders team by the coaches. As a result, there were several penalties against them: illegal blocking, high tackling around the neck, face masking and unsportsmanlike conduct against the boys, as well as the coaches. One Raider was ejected from the game and several others warned. There was also obscene name-calling by a Raider spectator.

Three Steeler boys were taken to the hospital with serious injuries. I feel this could have been avoided if the Raiders would have had some discipline from the coaches. I understand that football is a contact sport, however there were far too many penalties for unnecessary roughness.

The referees are there to make sure the game is played fairly to protect the athletes. Why wouldn't the coaches listen to the referee? Why wouldn't they collect the boys illegal hitting? Why were they permitting the Raiders to show disrespect to the referees? What are those boys learning from Youth League ball?

Larry Brenneman, Steelers' coach, chose to stop the game in the beginning of the fourth quarter, since the third quarter lasted 55 minutes because of penalties and injuries. The referees agreed with him.

The referee said to us, "I have never heard such language from kids in all my refereeing."

The games are for the boys to learn how to get along with each other and to learn good sportsmanship. The rivalry between Northern and Southern from Youth League to Varsity needs to stop. Teach them better sportsmanship and it will follow them through the rest of their lives.

Upset Parents

To the Editor:

We were appalled at the blatant disregard for humanity exhibited by Raiders' coaches, players, and fans in the September 29 game between the Raiders and the Northern Steelers. The fact that the youngsters were capable of winning the game on ability alone was not enough to satisfy the "blood-thirsty" Raiders' coaches and fans.

Tempers flaired from the Raiders' sideline from the beginning. Numerous unsportsmanlike conduct penalties and the ejection of a Raiders' player intensified their hostility. Referees had difficulty removing Raiders' coaches from the playing field on several occasions.

To please the vengeful coaches who demanded their team "Go out and kill the little?", the Raiders' players proceeded to maim their opponents.

It's time to take youth league football away from the frustrated "never-could-have-beens" and give it back to the kids. They deserve a chance to learn to compete on their own level.

Three Steeler players were sent to the hospital with a concussion, a knee injury and a neck injury. There is something wrong when it takes three ambulances to cover one youth league football game.

As the parents of two of the injured players, we are appalled! We have never before seen anything to compare to this atrocity. Those responsible are a detriment not only to the game of football, but to the community of Oakland and to Garrett County.

We want to tell the Steelers' team that we are proud of them. They make a valiant effort to play football under such adverse conditions. We publicly thank the referees for their conscientious efforts; they are to be commended. Steelers' coach, Larry Brenneman, thank you for having the good sense to stop the farce before any more damage could be done to the physical and emotional health of the youth of both teams.

To the Editor:

Saturday evening, I attended a Youth Football League football game between the Northern Steelers and Oakland Raiders. I use the term "football game" loosely, because as the game progressed, it became obvious that the sport of football was not the main objective.

I have seen games where it became apparent that the rivalry between teams turned into more than rivalry on the field—tempers flare, penalties pile up. Watching a group of youngsters turn a game that should have been a fun-for-all into a no-holds barred, free-for-all made the pro teams and their rivalries look decidedly childish in comparison.

The Raiders had the game in their pockets. Why did their coaching staff allow these kids to get so out of control? The penalties they were cited for should never have occurred. Foodball is a contact sport, but why did it have to turn out to be down-right dangerous? Boys were carried from the field on stretchers; others were injured, but were able to leave on their own power.

Is this the reason the Raiders remain undefeated? If this is the price to pay for being so, then I am glad our team does not share that glory. I was appalled at the unsportsmanlike behavior of the Oakland team and their fans. It is ridiculous that a youth league game be called off because of these happenings.

As the Raiders and their fans pat themselves on the back for their latest victory, I hope they have enough conscience remaining to ask themselves if it was worth it. I, for one, feel it was certainly a hollow victory, and hope it will never be allowed to be repeated. For once, I was grateful that my son remained on the sidelines, instead of fighting to save himself and his teammates from serious injury.

angry parent,

To the Editor:

Once again the issues of politics have come to the point where I can remain silent no longer.

I feel the people of Garrett County do not realize what is happening at their County Roads Department. The "acting administrator," is using a county vehicle for his personal use. This is absurd! Not only is he the highest paid roads employee, but we, the taxpayer, must provide his transportation. I have checked and although the area supervisors took their county vehicles home during the winter months—which is reasonable due to their being called at any time of the night to check road conditions—the "acting administrator" uses a county vehicle to go to and from work. How can this be justified?

Also, what are Mr. Shockey's qualifications? Surely with the past administrator being conscious of how each penny was spent, the "acting administrator" shows no incentive to be the same. Although his using the county vehicle is trivial, it tends to be small things as this, that eventually add up to budget over runs.

Being a taxpayer and one who travels the county highways to and from work, I am very disturbed. I'm sure the County Roads work force is more than capable of doing their usual good job. However, with the present "acting administrator," how can morale be? If the position is used for personal gain and not for the best interestof the county, the state of affairs will soon be in sad shape.

Please, commissioners, appoint qualified and cost efficient people for the vacant jobs. A tax increase is something I do not look forward to, but anticipate.

Sincerely,
Lewis J. Jackson

To the Editor:

I'm hooked on your editorials; they address issues of our concern in the King's English and your opinions are superb. Please keep up the good work.

It was a shocker on the 20th of September to read your views of the nation's fiscal policy when Garrett children failing functional reading test was front-page news. It seemed here a piece of "canned work" laid aside for emergency in case your ballpoint failed or whatever editors/publishers depend upon.

This week's Who's To Blame provided the reason. My hat's off to you! It was a piece of work with such style and form that only better writers can produce.

Of course it didn't address the issue and wasn't intended to do so. It was a form classified as "Work in the dark with a blunderbuss" hitting everything BUT the issue. It hit parents, School Board, county commissioners, doctors, lawyers and even Indian Chiefs! it even hit the functional reading test! It was a delight to read. It should have been in the comic section.

Everyone feels like that when their sacred cow is touched. Here's hoping you feel better now after letting off steam.

Now let us work together and constructively toward turning this awful situation around.

Pine Nut

Dear Mr. Nut,

The reference to the functional reading test was, unfortunately, a copy error. It should have been functional writing test.

West Virginia Man Arrested For Misuse Of Phone

A West Virginia man was arrested for misuse of the telephone Tuesday by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Randy W. Cosner, 26, New Creek, W.Va., allegedly had been making obscene anonymous calls to Patricia Jean Lowdermilk, 28, Oakland, for some time, but he was foiled Tuesday when he asked Lowdermilk if he could come to her house. She baited him by saying "yes" and immediately called the police. Cosner did go to the woman's house and was met by Deputy Larry Gnegy and promptly arrested.

Cosner is incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Our Turn

BUYING CLOTHES
by Pam Ashby

Well, here I am, a perfect size 18-20, more or less, after two years of hit and miss dieting.

Mind you, I have never been thin. In high school, I wore a size 14-16 (my boyfriend, who happens to be my husband now, didn't like "skinny girls") and buying clothes was simple then. In that size range one can always find something in style.

The problem now lies in the belief that anyone who wears a size 18 or larger must be at least 65 years of age. I like polyester as much as any grandmother, but come on, I prefer to see it on grandma, not me.

I can't remember the last time I saw a size 18 bikini or a size 42 black negligee. Well, there was that one time . . . it took me two hours to recover from hysteria.

My criteria for buying clothes is simple. The last time I walked into a ladies' store which proclaimed, "We're a size, not an age, I was prepared with my critical list.

1. Does it cover my stomach?
2. Are the stripes vertical?
3. Does it have loose sleeves?
4. Does it have an elastic waistband?
5. Can you wear it without the belt?
6. Can you stretch it out after a weekend binge?
7. Can it be hemmed? (All large women must be 6'5" tall).
8. Is the color flattering? (Contrary to popular belief, black does not make you look smaller. It makes you look like a big black bear.)

Upon checking my list, and checking it twice, I finally selected a dainty lavendar and white print—a flowing cotton dress that could be worn with or without the belt.

As I admired myself in a full-length mirror outside the dressing room, a woman I hadn't seen for some time appeared and endearingly remarked, "Oh, Pam, I didn't know you were expecting again?" I replied dryly, "I'm not, I'm just fat."

Feeling ashamed for embarrassing that poor women, I decided to forego the clothes buying until I lost 10 more pounds.

As I trudged through the mall, dragging my excess 30 pounds behind me, I spied a darling maternity boutique. Entering the store, I thought to myself, "Oh, what the heck?"

Festival Will Feature Banjo, Fiddle Events

The 17th Annual Autumn Glory Festival, slated for Thursday, October 11, through Sunday, October 14, will once again feature the Maryland State Five-String Banjo Championship and Maryland State Fiddle Championship.

The "Official" Maryland State Five-String Banjo Championship, unlike previous years, will be held on Thursday, October 11, at the Southern High School gymnasium at 8 p.m. Concluding this popular competition will be a brief intermission followed by a performance by the "Bluegrass Neighbors".

This musical group is from the Short Gap, W. Va., area and consists of five members, with four of them of one family. The group not only plays at bluegrass festivals, but has been featured at Maryland's largest street festival hosted in Laurel, and has performed many concerts throughout the state of Maryland.

This year's Maryland State Fiddle Competition will once again be held on Saturday, October 13, at 8 p.m. at the Southern High School gymnasium. Following a short intermission and the announcement of the fiddle contest winners, the winners of both the banjo and fiddle contests will return for the final competition against each other. This year there will be trophys given to musicians in different categories and a "People's Choice Award" given to the overall winner which is selected by the audience. The evening will wrap up with a special concert by a celebrated bluegrass group, "The Dog Run Boys".

This group, from Western Pennsylvania, has earned a reputation as one of the hottest local club attractions. Bob Artis, veteran mandolinist, had sung previously with bassist, Bernie Cunningham, and singer/guitarist, Rick Malis, in another group. Greensburg native, Don Shean, joined the group and contributed highly to the banjo sounds that have sent the group to heights of popularity. Another of the band's musicians is young Danny Kelly who won the fiddle competition three years in a row and was named Grand Champion.

Contestants for both of these events are from Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio and other surrounding states.

Anyone wishing to enter these events may do so by contacting the Autumn Glory Festival Headquarters, Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland 21550 or by calling 301-334-3888.

Contestants may also register the night of the contests.

Advance tickets and more information on free schedule of events or brochure concerning these and other events in the festival are also available at Festival Headquarters.

Karl Wilson, Jr. Handed Five-Year Prison Sentence

Karl William Wilson, Jr., 44, Oakland, has been sentenced to five years in prison by Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney.

Judge Turney set the sentence in court Tuesday after receiving a pre-sentence investigation report.

Wilson was convicted in court on August 7 of charges of battery, trespassing and intoxication stemming from a June 18 incident. Deputy Larry Gnegy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department reported that Wilson entered the sheriff's office in an intoxicated condition and assaulted him.

The judge placed Wilson in the custody of the Department of Corrections Tuesday.

Wilson is to stand trial in District Court on October 23 for additional charges in unrelated incidents.

Wilson will face three charges of assault and three of concealing a deadly weapon for allegedly pointing a gun at three youths near his home on Poplar Street, Oakland, on September 17.

Wilson will also face a disorderly conduct in a public place charge for an incident occurring in Oakland on August 13.

Swanton Man Gets Rabies Treatment After Cat Bite

A Swanton area man is undergoing the series post-rabies exposure vaccinations after being bitten by a cat he was taking to the health department rabies clinic at Swanton last Wednesday.

George O'Brien was advised by his family physician to begin the series of shots after being bitten on the left index finger by the young cat. The shots would be stopped, however, if the cat can be located.

The animal, a yellow, medium-sized female, fled into the woods behind the Swanton Community Building. Anyone finding the animal may call either the health department environmental division at 334-8111, or Mr. O'Brien at 245-4254.

439 Animals Vaccinated

A total of 439 pets were vaccinated in the fall rabies clinics last week, according to Rodney Glotfelty, rabies prevention coordinator for the health department. During the two clinics held in May and June of this year, a total of 429 pets were vaccinated, making a total of 868 for the year.

Some 137 pets were vaccinated at Southern Middle School; 42 at Long Stretch; 115 at McHenry; 111 at Swanton; and 34 at Kitzmiller.

The health department is encouraging all pet owners who have not had their animals vaccinated to take the cat or dog to their veterinarian to ensure that the pet does not contract rabies.

SCHOOL BUS SAFETY WEEK will be observed October 8-12, according to a proclamation signed by the Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday. "The passage of legislation which will require every school bus to add four yellow flashing warning lights to the existing red stop lights will greater increase students' safety," according to Michael Sines, supervisor of transportation for the Garrett County Board of Education, and members of the School Bus Drivers' Association. Present for the signing and shown left to right are Delegate George Edwards, William White, driving trainer; Dale Evans, secretary; Herbert Myers, director; Commissioners Ernie Gregg, Elwood Groves, and John Braskey; Michael Sines, supervisor of transportation; Donald D. Ahern, vice-president; Wayne Collier, president; and Lawrence J. Sines, treasurer. Absent when the photo was taken were Delmer Yoder and Charles Bender, directors.

Grantsville Man Found Guilty Of Theft Charge

Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney September 25 ordered a pre-sentence investigation for a Grantsville man convicted of theft.

Robert E. Wilt, 20, was found guilty of the July 30, 1983 theft of a cassette player from Summer's Auto Parts. Other charges of theft and breaking with intent to steal were nolle prossed.

Judge Turney posted a $1,000 bond against Wilt during the pre-sentence investigation and required Wilt to pay $100.

In other District Court cases, Judge Turney convicted Ronald E. Tasker, 24, Kitzmiller, of a malicious destruction of property and ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

The charge stemmed from a July 7 incident in which Tasker broke the lights and glass on a 1972 Dodge with a ball bat. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

Judge Turney declared probation before judgment on a malicious destruction of property charge filed by Oakland Police Chief John Sines against George Sheffield, 19, Oakland. Sheffield was charged for the August 7 incident in which letters were painted on the Liberty Street road surface.

Seven bad check charges and seven theft charges filed against Sidney R. Nazelrod, 27, Deer Park, were nolle prossed.

The judge granted a modification of a guilty verdict request made by attorneys for Bruce D. Alderton, 22, Frostburg. Alderton had been convicted on August 14 of malicious destruction of property.

In the modification request, Alderton noted he had met terms of the court to pay restitution of $350 to the victim, Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., within 90 days.

The verdict was modified to probation before judgment.

School Bus Safety Week Designated

The Garrett County Commissioners, in conjunction with the superintendent of county schools, have announced that the week of October 7-13 is School Bus Safety Week in Garrett County.

"In Garrett County we have 88 school bus routes. They transport more than 5,000 students to and from school each school day and travel nearly 1,200,000 miles a year," said Michael Sines, supervisor of transportation for the Board. "During School Bus Safety week we want to inform the citizens of Garrett County about our pupil transportation program. We are also asking for their cooperation in helping us to maintain or even improve our safety record. Our Garrett County school bus drivers are doing a great job, but they need the cooperation of other motorists," he said.

One of the most common driver complaints, according to Sines is that other motorists frequently violate the school bus stop law. Motorists are required to stop for school buses that are displaying flashing red lights. Sometimes the drivers are not fully alert and pass a stopped school bus. "This is a very dangerous situation for the children, especially the younger ones who may not be watching traffic as closely as they should," he said.

"Our main concern is safety. We maintain our buses in safe condition and they are inspected in coordination with the Motor Vehicle Administration," stated Sines.

Sines went on to explain that one of the greatest hazards comes from motorists who do not observe the school bus lighting system. "In Garrett County we are phasing in an 8-light school bus warning system. These lights are located on the front and rear of the bus near the top where you see the SCHOOL BUS sign. The lamps are used to warn other traffic about what the school bus is doing. When the bus is approaching a loading or unloading area, the yellow lights will flash. Red lights will flash when the bus is stopped to load or unload students."

This system was adopted July 1, 1984 because it more closely follows other traffic regulations. The alternating flashing yellow lights mean caution to other motorists because the bus is preparing to stop. The flashing red lights mean stop. Motorists are required to stop at least 10 feet from a stopped school bus that is displaying flashing red lights.

"School Bus Safety Week is an important and significant observance, and the addition of four warning lights to school buses will definitely increase visibility for motorists," said Senator John Bambacus, who introduced the bill which passed in the 1984 session of the General Assembly.

Delegate George Edwards added, "This system of adding yellow flashing lights to the existing red stop lights will make motorists more aware of a pending school bus stop, greatly increasing safety factors,"

Sines concluded by saying "Each time a motorist violates the school bus stop law, he or she creates a real hazard for the students who are boarding or leaving the bus."

Receives Academic Achievement Award

The National Secondary Education Council has announced that Tonya Bray, a student at Southern High school, has been named an Academic All-American.

The Council established the award in order to recognize students who excel in academic disciplines. Students must maintain at least a 3.3 grade point average to be eligible for the designation and they must be nominated by a teacher or counselor.

Miss Bray was nominated for the award by teacher David Mayfield. Her name will appear in the Council's Academic All-American Scholar Directory.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bray, Deer Park.

construction of Route 48.

The citizens further pointed out that Route 281, to be traveled in Pennsylvania, does not have center lines painted on the roadway. Beaulieu was asked whether he has ever driven on the detour, and answered "No, not recently."

Several persons stated that they have many times seen travelers hopelessly confused by the detour, with many returning to Friendsville to ask further directions. Numerous other travelers have stopped at homes along the route to clarify the directions.

The blockage has already hurt the town, several maintained, since several services have stopped deliveries.

Beaulieu admitted during the meeting that there is little likelihood that the project will be completed in November as originally scheduled.

The $1.2 million project is to correct seepage on the westbound exit from Friendsville.

THIS MUST BE THE YEAR FOR LARGE VEGETABLES — Jesse Shuttleworth, Bumble Bee Road, Accident, grew this 7.16-pound turnip in his garden this year—the largest he ever saw. Above, Jesse displays the edible root which measures 28½ inches in circumference and is five inches deep and nine inches in diameter. The gardener says he took no special pains to grow the large turnip, other than applying some plant food "a few times" and watering when the soil was dry. Shuttleworth said he is not sure whether he will eat the plant or keep it around as a culinary topic of conversation for as long as it lasts.

Mondale/Byron Headquarters To Be Open Sunday

The Garrett County Democratic Club, assisted by the Garrett County Democratic Central Committee, will open a combined Mondale/Byron Headquarters Sunday, October 7, at 6:30 p.m., at 114 South Third St., in Oakland.

The headquarters, prior to the election, will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Thursday; 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday, and 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturday.

The presidential campaign in Garrett County is being coordinated by Doris Goldsborough, with the Byron campaign being coordinated by Helen Baumgartner and John Braskey.

The opening of the headquarters Sunday evening will be highlighted by an America for Mondale/Ferraro party, at which time a special nationally televised message will be presented by Mr. Mondale and Ms. Ferraro from 7 to 7:30 p.m. All interested registered voters are welcome to attend. Contributions to the Mondale/Ferraro campaign will be accepted.

Following these speeches, at 9 p.m., "The Great Debate on America's Future" will be presented by Walter Mondale and Ronald Reagan. "This debate, and the subsequent one on October 21, and the vice-presidential debate on October 11 are the most important events of this campaign. This series of debates could determine the outcome of this historic election, and ultimately decide the course of our country. Therefore, it is critical that every citizen become actively involved in this great debate on America's future," said chairperson Doris Goldsborough.

Each person in attendance will be provided an official debate critique form on which they will be asked to score the performance of the two candidates and to fill in subjective comments on the back of the form.

Light refreshments will be served.

Those wishing to help man the headquarters are asked to call Spencer Schlosnagle at 746-5864; Doris Goldsborough at 334-3007; or Ruth Ryan at 334-4758 after 5 p.m.

Limited supplies of presidential bumper stickers, posters and lapel pins will be available at the headquarters, as well as issue papers delineating the presidential candidates' stands on issues. Bumper stickers, posters, lapel pins and other materials are also available covering the campaign of Beverly Byron.

The national chairman for the Mondale/Ferraro campaign is Gov. Mario M. Cuomo, assisted by co-chairs Henry G. Cisneros, Dianne Feinstein and Wilson Good. The Maryland campaign is being chaired by John T. Willis.

The official grand opening of the headquarters will be prior to the Autumn Glory Parade, Saturday, October 13, at 12:30 p.m., at which time U.S. Senator Paul S. Sarbanes, Congresswoman Beverly Byron, and Comptroller Louis Goldstein are expected to be present for a ribbon-cutting ceremony.

Several Charges Lodged Against Oakland Man

An Oakland man was charged with breaking and entering, theft, attempted rape and indecent exposure on Saturday at 9:50 by deputies Larry Gnegy and Charles Nolan of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Arrested was Keith Truman McQuaig, 23, Oakland, who was found nude and hiding at the home of Leslie Annette Baker, E. Street, Mtn. Lake Park.

Baker reportedly fled her apartment after McQuaig gained entrance. She then went to her father's home and he summoned the Sheriff's Department. When the deputies arrived they searched the apartment and found McQuaig hiding behind a sofa bed. Upon further inspection they found his clothes and a wallet that allegedly had been stolen from another Oakland resident.

McQuaig is incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

In other department matters, two thefts were reported last week. Approximately $90 was removed from a Pepsi Cola machine located at Mid-Towns Plaza sometime between September 24-28. Deputy W. C. Thomas is investigating.

Another theft occurred on September 21. Junior Coddington, Loch Lynn, reported that someone had removed some clothing from his automobile parked on Shenandoah Avenue. The department is investigating.

Garrett Firemen To Observe Fallen Firefighters Day

The Garrett County Firemen's Association held its bi-monthly meeting September 26 at the Bittinger fire hall. The group has agreed to observe National Fallen Firefighters Day October 14, and asks local fire companies to fly their flags at half mast and sound their sirens for ten seconds at noon in memory of the 106 firemen who died in the line of duty across the nation in 1983.

The annual memorial service will be held in Emmitsburg on that day and the sirens will coincide with placing of a wreath at the national monument.

The association's next training session will be on search and rescue at the Deer Park fire hall November 8 at 7:30.

The Firemen of the Year Committee has ordered trophies and plaques which will be distributed to the nominees following the firemen's parade during Autumn Glory week. Nominees will ride on Oakland's antique fire truck in the parade.

The next association meeting will be November 28 at 7:30 at Bloomington, with election of officers scheduled.

NEW COAL TESTING LAB OPENS — A new coal testing lab, employing eight persons and located on Route 50 near Mt. Storm, W.Va., conducted ribbon-cutting ceremonies Thursday evening. Warner Laboratories of West Virginia, a division of Gould Energy Ltd., will primarily test coal samples from area coal mines, but also has the capacity to perform water, oil and limestone testing. Jim Ashby, lab manager and a Mt. Lake Park resident, stated at the Thursday ceremony that the facility can conduct both microbiological and chemical tests on ground water sources. The lab employs three Garrett County residents besides Ashby, two residents of Aurora, W.Va., and two residents of Scherr, W.Va. On hand for the ceremonies were, left to right, Dave Nordeck, Garrett National Bank vice president; Jim Ashby; Greg Gould, president of Gould Energy and Environmental Services, Ltd.; George Evans, Garrett National Bank vice president; Mike Kessel, Grant County, W.Va., commissioner; Dayton Carr, Grant County commissioner; Harold Hiser, Grant County clerk; Pauline Hyre, Grant County commissioner; and Bernice Carr, Grant County commission administrative assistant. School Counselors Conclude Annual Conference Today

Guidance counselors from the five western Maryland counties will pack their bags and return home this afternoon after spending three days in Garrett County shairng new information and guidance techniques.

The fourth annual Western Maryland Guidance Conference brought together 80 guidance counselors and school administrators from Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Carroll counites at the Village Inn, McHenry, October 2-4.

The group assembled Tuesday evening for a dinner and to listen to Estes Lockhart, supervisor of pupil personnel in Frederick County, who presented the keynote address on "Media misrepresentation of the Public School System."

Lockhart pointed out to the counselors that the media, in its drive to sell the news, dramatizes downfalls in the country's education system and often ignores all the facts.

"We can't criticize the media so much for doing that, but we should have some place for a spokesperson for education to provide the public with a look behind those stories," Lockhart said.

The counselors spent most of Wednesday in sessions covering such topics as computerization of the guidance office and strategies to increase assistance to students in crises situations.

Among the types of crises the session encompassed were drug abuse, child abuse, teenage pregnancy and birth defects. Other sessions took a look at community crises intervention teams, peer counseling programs and school services.

The conference agenda today included presentations of guidance and career computer programs as well as innovations in guidance programs.

Henry A. Groff, Jr., director of guidance and psychological services in Frederick County, stated the conference sessions were geared to providing guidance services for students in rural areas.

The five county groups take turns each year organizing the conference program. This year, Frederick County developed the program.

GOV. HARRY HUGHES describes a new transportation plan he says will benefit people from Oakland to Ocean City—completion of the National Freeway in Western Maryland. Hughes announced Tuesday that he will scrap a proposed Baltimore City busway and use the funds for the Freeway, a new Vienna bridge on Route 50 on the Eastern Shore, and transit improvements in Baltimore City and County. From left to right above are Senate President Melvin A. Steinberg, Baltimore County Executive Donald Hutchinson, Gov. Hughes, Mayor William Donald Schaefer and House Speaker Benjamin Cardin. Because of the fund shifts the state will be able to advertise for bids for the $12 million portion of the Freeway project in the spring of 1986. Money for building the last 18-mile segment had been withheld because of high construction costs and environmental concerns for several years. The shifts in funds will mean the busway paralleling the Jones Falls expressway in the old Northern Central right of way and the widening of the northern approach to Key Bridge will be scrapped.

A SUBSTANTIAL DIVIDEND CHECK was presented to the Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday by Terry Helbig, representing Gonder Insurance Agency. A workmen's compensation dividend check in the amount of $58,329.02 was handed to the commissioners as a result of the "safety conscious efforts of the county commissioners and the county employees," according to Helbig. The company insuring county employees for workmen's compensation is the Continental Insurance Company. Pictured left to right are Terry Helbig, Elwood Groves, John Braskey, and Ernie Gregg.

UMW Approves New Contract, Layoffs Start

The new 40-month contract signed last Friday by UMW President Richard Trumka calls for a 10¼ percent wage increase but contains none of the concessions sought by steel and coal firms.

The nation's 155,000 miners voted more than 4-1 to accept the new pact, the first time in 20 years the UMW did not turn down a contract and cause nationwide strikes.

Selective strikes began Monday against A.T. Massey Coal group, the nation's sixth largest producer, since individual negotiations with that firm did not lead to a contract. Massey and two other coal corporations, National Mines and the Pittsburg and Midway Coal Mining Company, are not members of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association. Negotiations over the weekend failed to turn up a contract, so miners at Massey went on strike at 12:01 a.m. Monday. The picket lines were said to be peaceful, and company employees were allowed to cross the lines with no problems.

Trumka said Monday the holdouts would pay for demanding separate talks. "If we are required to go on strike, then obviously the price of a settlement would go up," Trumka said.

The union has a strike fund of about $50 million, enough to maintain about 10,000 miners "indefinitely" on benefits of $150 to $200 a week, less than half of what they would make on the job.

Several thousand miners have been laid off since the balloting was complete last Thursday. U.S. Steel Corporation announced it would lay off 2,750 miners in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, with other firms expected to follow suit. Many utilities had stockpiled large amounts of coal in anticipation of a strike, and without demand, coal will not be mined.

Some 45,000 coal miners are already laid off.

In Washington, D.C. workers for the United Mine Workers of America Health and Retirement Funds picketed office headquarters after their contract expired. About 350 workers are on strike, 240 in Washington and 110 in Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Indiana field offices. Talks between management and the union were suspended last Friday.

Tiny colored glass balls are found in much lunar soil.

REGIONAL GUIDANCE COUNSELOR CONFERENCE IN SESSION — Les McDaniel, left, Southern High School guidance counselor, and William Carlson, center, pupil personnel worker for the Garrett County Board of Education, exchange ideas with Estes Lockhart, supervisor of pupil personnel in Frederick County, during the fourth annual Western Maryland Guidance Conference which began Tuesday evening at the Village Inn, McHenry. The conference, attended by 80 guidance counselors and school administrators from the five western Maryland counties, concludes today.

CONSERVING ENERGY AT HOME

The average home can lose more than twenty-five percent of its heat through windows. But, windows can be treated to reduce heat loss and to save energy when proper measures are taken. Here are some suggestions:

*Keep windows clean all winter so sunlight can warm the house on bright days. Dirty windows deflect the sun's rays.

*On cloudy days, and at night, bring energy leakage to a minimum by covering windows with shades, sheer curtains and lined drapes. Layered window treatments trap air, an excellent form of insulation.

*Install curtains and drapes so they can easily be opened to let warmth in on sunny days. And do not let any part of the window treatment cover a radiator or heating vent.

*If drafts are a problem, seal windows by attaching the sides of drapes to the wall using strips of Velcro or some other similar material.

*Layered window treatments are invaluable for saving energy, but they can also be dust collectors. Fabric-Type drapes and sheer curtains need to be cleaned frequently, and according to the care instructions that accompany them. Shades also need to be washed or dusted depending on the type.

*If thermostats are kept at lower temperatures, warm the house by selecting colors such as red, orange, and yellow for window coverings. The psychological effect will make you feel cozy.

*Making your own window treatments may save money as well as energy. Select fabrics and linings that can be machine washed and resist wrinkles.

*Here are some tips on washing windows:

—Wash windows when the sun is not shining directly on them.

—If windows are very dirty, wipe them first on both sides with a damp cloth. Do not rub the dry dirt, this will scratch the glass.

—When using commercial cleaners, follow the manufacturer's directions for use. You could use one or two tablespoons of vinegar or ammonia added to a bucket of water to wash windows. To wash windows, wash one pane at a time. Wash them from one side to the other when working indoors and from top to bottom when working outdoors.

—When washing windows in extremely cold weather, add 2 tablespoons of glycerine or alcohol in both the wash and rinse waters to keep windows from steaming up.

Third Quarter Rally Results In Defeat Of Huskies By Berkeley

The Northern Huskies saw their hopes of getting back on the winning track dashed in the third quarter Friday evening against Berkeley Springs as the home team put together a 12-point rally in that period and held on to defeat the Huskies, 18-14. It was Northern's third setback in four starts, while the West Virginians are now 3-2.

Joe Didawick, the leading passer in the state of West Virginia, opened the scoring for Berkeley with a one-yard plunge into the end zone in the first quarter. The kick for the conversion was no good.

The Huskies took the lead with no time remaining in the first half as Steve Zumpano, filling in at quarterback for the injured Kevin Sines, connected with Charlie Beiler on a 14-yard scoring pass as the first half clock expired. Zumpano's kick for the extra point gave the Huskies a one-point halftime advantage.

The third quarter saw Berkeley take the momentum away from Northern, though, as Steve Weber capped a drive with an 11-yard scoring run. The kick for the conversion again failed.

The West Virginians increased their lead in the same period when Didawick hit Mark Crone with a 23-yard scoring aerial. The extra point attempt was again no good.

The Huskies came back to within four points late in the third quarter when Zumpano crashed through to paydirt from the one and then followed with his second conversion kick. However, both defensive units tightened in the final stanza, which was scoreless.

Although disappointed with the loss, Husky Coach Jack Settle said he was pleased and encouraged with the great improvement shown by his team, particularly in the Husky ground game, which has been almost totally stymied the past few weeks. The Huskies picked up 156 yards rushing, led by Jeff Eggleston's 79 yards on nine carries and Bill Murray's 70 yards on 15 totes.

Settle credited the performance of the offensive line, some adjustments in the line and the successful efforts of the running backs in finding the holes for the Huskies' success on the ground. He pointed out the performances of center George Walker, guards Jeff Glotfelty and Matt Eggleston and tackles Jeff McClintock and Bill Friend, who had been moved from a running back position.

"I thought we certainly played well enough to win the game," Settle said, "but we are going to have to force some breaks, such as a few turnovers, in order to win." Neither team fumbled although Berkeley picked off a pair of Northern aerials.

The injured Sines did play early in the game, but his ankle injury was aggravated once again and he had to leave the contest. During that time, Zumpano completed a pair of passes for 28 yards. The Huskies finished with 82 yards in the air.

"Steve (Zumpano) played a very good game for us," Settle said. "He did a little bit of everything—receiving, passing, running, scoring and kicking extra points. We are fortunate to have someone who can step in the quarterback position and play so well." Zumpano was the starting quarterback for the Huskies in the early part of last season.

Settle also pointed out the efforts of Beiler and Jeff Beitzel in the wing position and Dennis Hetrick and Randy Kamp, who alternated at tight end.

Settle said he was also pleased with the improvements he saw on the Husky defense. "Holding Didawick to 130 yards was really pretty good," he said. Berkeley added 82 yards on the ground and finished with 212 yards in total offense, compared to 238 for Northern.

Settle noted the performance of defensive end Ron Stark, Jeff Eggleston, who led the team with 14 tackles, Bill Friend with 13 tackles and Matt Eggleston with 11.

The Huskies will face another tough challenge this Friday when they travel to Spencer, W.Va., where Settle began his coaching career as a junior high coach. Spencer is 3-2 on the season, having lost only to powerful Ravenswood in overtime and Sistersville, a 1983 state finalist team.

The double-A school uses a wish bone offense and is led by quarterback Doug Nichols, 5-10, 155, and running backs Mike Garrett and Scott Pyle.

"They are very competitive every year," Settle said, "always finishing with a winning record under coach Jim Hamrick. They are not a huge team, but a quick, finesse team, using a good mixture of running and passing."

Sines will return on starting quarterback this week, according to Settle, who said that no one is sidelined with injuries.

The Northern team will stay in motels in nearby Sutton, W.Va., and will attend a reception following the game. Persons wishing to go to the game should follow Rt. 48 west to Morgantown, pick up Rt. 79 south to the Big Otter exit, follow Rt. 16 west to Arnoldsburg, turn left onto combined Rts. 33 and 119 and drive about 18 miles to Spencer. The kickoff is slated for 8 p.m.

WHAT A CATCH! Northern High's Charlie Beiler caught this ball with his wrists rather than his hands, but managed to hold on to the aerial for a score against Berkeley Springs Friday evening. The touchdown came as the clock expired in the first half of the game, which gave the Huskies a 7-6 lead at that point. Berkeley came back in the third quarter and held on for an 18-14 win.

Northern Jayvees Edge East Preston

A four-yard touchdown run by Mike Smoot with just over one minute remaining in the first half was enough to give the Northern jayvee football team a 6-0 victory over visiting East Preston Friday afternoon. It was the junior Huskies third win against one loss, that coming at the hands of Southern.

Wayne Tabor set up the scoring play when he picked off an East Preston aerial on the play preceding Smoot's run.

Rod Lipscomb led the Huskies in rushing with 85 yards on 15 carries, while Smoot finished with 57 yards on a dozen attempts.

Leading the Northern defense were Barry Atwood, Dave Jones, Fred Glotfelty and Dave McKenzie.

Northern will host Bishop Walsh on Monday.

PICKING UP YARDAGE for the Northern Huskies against Berkeley Springs Friday evening was No. 23 Bill Murray, who finished with 70 yards on 15 carries. The Huskies were edged by Berkeley, though, 18-14, and will attempt to pick up a win this week against Spencer, W.Va. Also identifiable in the photo for Northern is pulling guard, No. 50 Matt Eggleston.

Rams Now 4-0

Clutch Interception Preserves Southern Victory Over Golden Tornado, 14-10

A clutch interception by Southern High linebacker Scott Colaw, after the ball was tipped by Southern's Steve Bennett in the final minute of the game, sealed a victory for the Rams over previously undefeated Keyser, 14-10, Friday evening on the Golden Tornado's gridiron. It was the fourth win in as many starts for the Rams who seem destined to make a return trip to the State Class C playoffs this year.

Head Coach Tom Woods had to be content to listen to the game over the radio in his Garrett County Memorial Hospital room after having to undergo an emergency appendectomy last Wednesday. Dave, Tom and Jim Bosley and Fred Gregg, assistant coaches, called the game, along with Southern quarterback J. R. Gibson who repeatedly and effectively called audibles at the line of scrimmage.

Keyser had come into the contest with a 4-0 record and a ninth place Class AAA ranking in the state of West Virginia.

It appeared as though it would be a long evening for the Rams as they fumbled the opening kickoff on their own 15, giving Keyser possession of the ball. The Southern defense rose to the occasion, however, and the Tornado had to settle for an 18-yard field goal by Tom Harman.

The Rams were able to move the ball on their next possession, however their drive was halted when Gibson's first pass of the evening was picked off by Jeff Staggers at the Keyser 28. Five plays later, Keyser scored on a 47-yard halfback option pass from Sean Hill to Staggers. Harman's conversion kick gave Keyser a quick 10-0 advantage, but they were to be the only points scored by the home team.

A fumble recovery by Bennett in the second quarter shifted the momentum to the Rams who put together a 56-yard drive that was capped by a nine-yard scoring run by Steve Schrock. The run for the two-point conversion failed, making the halftime score 10-6.

The Rams maintained control of the contest throughout the third quarter, but were unable to add any more points until the fourth period when John Lewis plunged into the end zone from the two-yard line to complete an 81-yard drive by Gibson and company. Schrock ran for the extra pair of points, which thwarted a possible field goal attempt by Keyser. Lewis' touchdown came with about four minutes remaining in the game.

Keyser's next possession was stopped cold deep in their own territory and it seemed as though the Rams would be able to run out the clock following Keyser's punt. But the Tornado defense tightened and the Rams, not wishing to take any chances by putting the ball in the air, were also stopped. The Rams apparently set up to punt the ball, but took a gamble with a trick play and attempted to run it instead. The toss to the running back was fumbled, though, and Keyser fell on the ball on the Rams' 43-yard line with about two minutes remaining.

Keyser was able to move the ball and, with 45 seconds remaining, Hill broke loose for 18 yards before being hauled down by lone safety, Steve Bennett.

With time running out, quarterback Mike Smith put the ball into the air, intended for wide receiver Staggers, but Bennett was there to break up the aerial and deflect the ball into Colaw's arms on the eight-yard line.

Sean Hill, the area's leading running back, picked up 93 yards on the ground in the first half, but managed only 31 more on eight carries in the second half as the Ram defense was able to contain him near the line of scrimmage on every play except his 18-yard burst late in the game. Keyser's total rushing was 137 yards, compared to 180 for Southern, however the Tornado finished with 213 yards in total offense, compared to 196 for Southern.

"We played very well defensively, especially in the second half," noted Coach Woods. "Offensively, we put together two well-called, excellent drives. Much of the time our field position was so poor that we couldn't pass the ball." Gibson threw only three times with one completion.

"The win really built some character on our team that will come in handy down the road," he said, referring to the fact that the Rams were down 10-0 to a home team that was undefeated and came back to win.

Woods used the term "super" to describe the defensive play of nose guard Steve Schrock, who finished with 17 tackles and was awarded the defensive champion award of the week, and Scott Colaw, who had 15 tackles. He also noted the performance of Steve Bennett, who recovered a fumble and broke up the pass that Colaw then intercepted. "Steve also made some game-saving tackles by going one-on-one against Sean Hill," Woods said.

Also playing outstanding defense were defensive end Scott O'Neill and linebacker Joey Matthews.

Offensively, Woods once again gave much credit to Gibson for his effective execution and good play calling via the audible at the line. He said Anthony Andrews and Scott Colaw opened holes in the Keyser defense "all the way down the field" and pointed out the "hard running of Steve Schrock and fine blocking of fullback John Lewis."

Woods said that he and the other members of the coaching staff, after evaluating the season to date, still have some concerns, particularly the Rams' punting game which is averaging less than 23 yards per punt. The Rams have had to punt only six times so far this year, but Woods said that "one bad punt can lose a game for you." Scott Colaw will be given the nod for the punting chores this week against Hampshire.

"We also have a lot of improvement to make with individual players," Woods said, "but this team plays as hard mentally and physically as any team I've ever coached."

The Rams will have to maintain that mental and physical performance this week if they hope to defeat the Hampshire Trojans in Romney Friday evening. After a string of unsuccessful seasons, the Trojans have turned their program around and are presently 5-0 on the season, posing what most Southern fans believe the last major hurdle on the Rams' way to an undefeated season.

The Trojans are led by eight returning offensive players, including tailback Ed Jeeter, a 5-9, 160-pound senior; senior fullback Lynn Hott, 5-10, 185; junior quarterback Scott Shoemaker, 5-10, 160; and tackle Bob Cookman, 6-2, 215. Pacing the defense are Hott at defensive tackle; Rick Lovejoy, a 5-9, 160-pound defensive back; and junior linebacker Steve Whitacre, 6-0, 195.

Woods said the Trojans have the same size and quickness as Keyser and believes Jeeter may be as strong a running back as Sean Hill, but does not possess the same moves. "Hampshire has returned four fumbles for touchdowns just this year," Woods said, "which is alarming. We haven't returned one fumble for a touchdown in ages. It shows that they are excellent hitters and quite an opportunistic team."

Woods said the Rams hope to unveil "a few new offensive wrinkles" this week. He said that all members of the team are healthy.

The HFC, PVC contest will get underway at 8 p.m.

Raiders Crush Steelers, 49-19

The Oakland Raiders continued their winning ways in Mt. Top Youth Football League action Saturday by rolling over the Northern Steelers, 49-19, at the Cove. The win raised the Raiders' record to 5-0, while the Steelers fell to 1-3.

After holding the Steelers on their first possession, the Raiders took over the ball on the Steeler 30-yard line. Three plays later Bobby Horner scored on a 29-yard carry. Zack Gibson ran for the one-point conversion.

The Raider defense hung tough again and forced a turnover on the Steeler 31-yard line. Two plays later Zack Gibson scored from 14 yards out. The PAT attempt was no good.

On the next Steeler possession Craig Umbel broke the line of scrimmage and rambled 50 yards for a touchdown. The PAT conversion was good to make the score 13-7.

The Raiders took possession of the ball on their own 35-yard line and marched 65 yards in six plays for their third touchdown, the score coming on a 23-yard run by Gibson, who also booted the extra point.

The Steelers came right back on another long touchdown run by Umbel to make the score 21-13.

The Raider offense exploded for four third quarter touchdowns plus four extra points. The scores came on runs of 65 and five yards by Gibson, a 50-yard run by Jamie Colaw, and a 72-yard pass from Colaw to Gibson. The extra point conversions were on runs by Horner, Colaw, and a kick by Gibson.

Umbel scored the Steelers' third touchdown on a short run.

The Raider defense was spearheaded by Gibson, Mike Hornyak and David Burdock. Gibson and Horner each recorded an interception.

The Steeler defensive standouts were Danny Eggleston, Craig Umbel and Kyle Zehr.

The Raiders are idle this week, while the Steelers will travel to Oakland to do battle with the Jets this Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

Deer Hunting Seminar Slated At Blackwater

Blackwater Falls State Park will conduct its third annual Deer Hunting Seminar on November 9, 10 and 11. It is open to all interested persons and is not restricted to park guests.

The seminar is designed to cover every facet of deer hunting. Registration will be on Friday, November 9, and a registration fee of $7.00 per person will cover the cost of coffee breaks, social hour and a buffet.

For more information, persons may contact Robert Johnson, superintendent at Blackwater Falls State Park, phone: 304-259-5216.

DNR Redesigns Hunting License And Deer Stamp

The Licensing and Consumer Service Division of the Department of Natural Resources recently redesigned the 1984-85 hunting license and deer stamps, and as a result will distribute deer and turkey tags separately.

If a hunter is hunting turkey in both seasons, he or she will receive two tags from the licensing agent. For each deer stamp purchased, whether regular, bow or black powder, a hunter will receive one tag each.

However, if it is inconvenient to pick up additional tags or if the original has been misplaced, the department will accept a homemade tag if it includes the following information: date of kill, county of kill, hunter's name and hunter's license number.

The DNR also notes that license agents have an adequate supply of tags. The redesigned tag is expected to save thousands of dollars and allow DNR to better serve the hunting community, according to a news release late last week from the DNR Assistance and Information Office.

Garrett Among Top Hunting Spots For Deer Hunters

Garrett and Allegany counties are listed among the eight Maryland counties as the best bets for deer hunters in 1984, according to a news release from Bob Miller, Forest Wildlife program manager for the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service.

A total of 17,435 permits will be available in 12 Maryland counties, an increase of nearly 4,000 permits from last year's total of 13,475. Last year Maryland hunters took a record 17,416 white-tailed deer and over 600 Sika deer. Miller anticipates another record harvest this year.

Miller cites as best bets for hunters Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick, Charles, Kent, Worcester and Dorchester counties.

Antlerless deer permit applications are available in the Guide to Hunting and Trapping in Maryland 1984-85, provided with hunting licenses. Applications must be received in the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife office in Annapolis no later than 4:30 October 19.

Hunters selected by random lottery will receive a permit for one county and may use it only in that county. Antlerless deer permits will be mailed approximately two weeks prior to the firearms season. Garrett is slated to get 3,000 antlerless permits, the same number as last year.

However, the Department of Natural Resources has announced plans to issue additional antlerless permits in areas where severe crop damage has been caused by deer.

Miller also said that Sika deer have recently expanded their range into both Somerset and Wicomico counties. Miller believes the exotic Asian deer, formerly limited to Dorchester and Worcester counties, may have crossed the ice into new areas during the severe winter of 1977-78. In any case, Sika deer now offer hunters an alternative to white-tailed deer in four Maryland counties.

SETTING NOT ONLY A SCHOOL RECORD, but perhaps a national record in physical fitness were these two students at the end of their second grade year this past spring. Aaron Buser and Josh Woods became the youngest students at the school, and maybe in the nation, to win the President's Physical Fitness Award. The test for this award is based on standards of 10-year-old students and these two youngsters passed the test as seven-year-olds. Pictured with them is Wayne Johnson, Broad Ford principal. See story.

Broad Ford Students Set Record In Physical Fitness Achievement

Two Broad Ford Elementary School second grade students achieved a new record at the school, and possibly in the United States, for being the youngest students to ever win the President's Physical Fitness Award. Both set the mark at the end of their second grade year in June.

Josh Woods, son of Tom and Debbie Woods, Mt. Lake Park, became the youngest boy to win the award, surpassing the previous record holder, Mark Dawson. Josh, now a third grader, scored 85% or higher in all six fitness events, including 42 sit-ups in 60 seconds, five pull-ups, 5'8" in the long jump, a 10.1-second shuttle run, 7.4 seconds in the 50-yard dash and a time of 2:04 in the 600-yard run.

He also recently broke the third grade boys' shuttle run record with a time of 9.59 and is close to breaking the 50-yard dash record.

Aaron Buser, daughter of William and Brenda Buser, Swanton, became not only the youngest girl, but the youngest student, to win the Fitness Award, as she is younger than Josh.

Her scores were 40 sit-ups, 25 seconds in the flexed arm hang, a 5'5" long jump, 10.8 seconds in the shuttle run, 7.8-second 50-yard dash and 2:16 in the 600-yard run.

According to Phil Caruso, physical education instructor, Aaron is also close to breaking some of the third grade girls records.

"Josh, Mark and Aaron may be the youngest students in the United States to win this award," Caruso said. "The program is designed with standardized scores beginning at age 10; these students were three years younger and met 10-year-olds' scores.

"This program has proven to me," he continued, "that if we as educators set high standards and can motivate students toward a goal, we can see incredible accomplishments."

BITTINGER-GLADES

Church News

Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, celebrated its 75th anniversary on Sunday, September 30, the church was filled to capacity with their members, friends and wellwishers to help celebrate the occasion.

The order for Holy Communion was sung, and a special setting of the "Lord's Prayer" was sung by a joint choir made up of members of St. John's, Emmanuel and Zion. Phyllis Buckel and Leora Yaste had served as choir directors, and Martha Glotfelty served as organist.

Floyd Baker served as Communion assistant and lectors were Lisa Zuckerman and Nellie Yommer. Pammy Burow served as acolyte. Ushers were Alonzo and Michael Broadwater.

Pastor David Rockwood spoke of the church's past and the hopes for the future. Nora Stahl, the oldest living female member of the congregation, was presented with a corsage, and a potted plant was sent to the Goodwill Nursing Home in Grantsville, for Daniel Yommer, the oldest living male member of the congregation. He is approaching his 100th birthday. Glenn and Kim Burow had made an anniversary banner, which hung in the front of the church. Mrs. Sue Rockwood was presented with a framed poem "The Pastor's Wife."

A booklet, containing pictures of all the pastors over the years, serving the congregation was compiled by Leota Baker and was given to each family present.

Zion Lutheran Church was established in 1909. Jennings at that point was the center for a lumbering business, established at the turn of the century by Jennings Brothers Company. The Rev. John B. Shoup, pastor of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish, was the first Lutheran pastor to conduct community worship services in the Jennings area. An organ was presented as a gift from C.H. Jennings. The congregation was organized on February 28, 1909, and the Rev. Yugel became its first pastor, with 17 members. Four council members and Rev. Yugel signed the articles of incorporation, filed and recorded in Oakland, on March 24, 1909, E.Z. Tower, Clerk.

The building was constructed by Plummer Contractors, Frostburg, and the present building was dedicated on November 14, 1910. It was built to seat 100 people.

In 1959, minutes of the W.Va. Synod showed a membership of 117 baptized members, 93 confirmed members and 53 communing members, the highest listed. The decline of job opportunities available in the area accounts for a part of the decline in active church members.

On August 20, 1978, there was held a special celebration for John Yommer, a charter member of the congregation, who was celebrating his 100th birthday. Pastor James Mitchell presented Mr. Yommer with a plaque bearing congratulations of the congregation on this special occasion. Copies of his life story "The First 100 Years" were given to each family present.

It was written by Miss Leota Baker. Celebrations were held on all succeeding birthdays until his death at the Goodwill Nursing Home.

New hymnals were purchased in 1978, and an organist's edition was given to the church as a memorial. That same year, a public address system was installed in the church, a gift of Verda Meyers as a memorial to her late husband.

In December, 1978, Leota Baker was elected as the first woman to serve as a council member. The church council currently consists of: Clara Durst, secretary, Barbara O'Brien and Glenne Burow, Floyd Baker, vice-president, Michael Broadwater, treasurer, and Edgar Resh. Martha Glotfelty and Rita Knox serve as organists, and Kevin Shives and William Baker are active as acolytes. Alonzo Broadwater has rendered custodial service to the church free of charge for a number of years.

The Hammond organ in the church was replaced by a new Allen organ, purchased from Shockey's Hagerstown. It was installed on May 15, 1982, and dedicated on May 23 at the worship service.

More recent property improvements include the replacement of the electrical wiring in 1983 and the painting of the church interior in April 1984 by William Beitzel and his son, Rick. Plans have been made to insulate the building. The church windows were caulked and painted in July, 1984.

These facts and others are contained in the booklet which features a picture of the church on the front. This book was compiled by Leota Baker over the past three years. It has 24 pages.

Following the worship service on Sunday, persons were invited to have refreshments at the Jennings Community building. A decorated cake, baked by Sharon Garlitz, punch, coffee, nuts and candy mints were served. There was a display table of the pastor's pictures, and pictures taken of special events, weddings, baptisms, family gatherings, confirmations and other events in the life of the congregation.

An octet from the Mennonite Church, Pinto, will sing at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church on Sunday evening, October 2. The speaker for the evening will be Elvin Summers, pastor of the church at Pinto.

Cynthia Lou Friend and Mark Allen Frantz were united in marriage on Saturday evening, May 5. The double-ring ceremony took place at the Blooming Rose United Methodist Church with the Reverend Curtis Saville officiating. Lucille Bradshaw was the pianist. Rubin Lowdermilk and Rachel Frantz were the vocalists. Selections they sang were "The Rose," "You Light Up My Life," and "Through the Eyes of Love."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary E. Friend, Friendsville. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd C. Frantz, also of Friendsville.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of organza and Chantilly lace. The bodice was accented with Venise lace, seed pearls and sequins with a semi-cathedral train. A Juliet caplet of matching lace held a fingertip mantilla of lace edged bridal illusion. The bride's jewelry consisted of a string of pearls. They were her great grandmother's, Mrs. Walter (Alice) Humberson. The bride carried a bouquet of pastel colored silk roses along with asters and gysophelia. All the flowers for the wedding were made by Robin Lowdermilk, aunt of the bride.

Terry Friend, friend of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Christy Fratz, friend of the bride, Stefanie Burow and Linda Frantz, cousins of the bride. Junior bridesmaid was Alice Mae Shunk, cousin of the bride. Sarah Bosley, cousin of the groom, was the flower girl.

Best man was Tom Hinebaugh, friend of the groom. Ushers were Lynn Frazee, friend of the groom, Dennis Friend and Gary Friend, Jr., brothers of the bride, and Jeff Lowdermilk, cousin of the bride. Steven Bosley, cousin of the groom, was the ring bearer.

Candles were lit by Bill Burow, cousin of the bride, and William Hamm, friend of the bride. Guests were registered by Becky Meyers, cousin of the bride. Programs and birdseed packets were distributed by Darla Friend, cousin of the bride. Photographs were taken by Jimmy Eisentrout, cousin of the bride.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Friendsville Fire Hall. A dinner was held with a dance following. Music was provided by The Renegade Band. The cake was made and served by Nancy Sanner, aunt of the bride. The coffee was served by Betty Frantz, aunt of the bride, and the punch was made and served by Dot Lowdermilk, aunt of the bride. The hall was decorated in pastel shades of ribbons, wedding bells, tissue flowers and silk roses.

The couple went away for the evening and returned Sunday afternoon, when they opened their gifts at the bride's parent's home.

The bride is a graduate of Northern High School and is employed as a clerk at Humberson's Maxco in Friendsville.

The groom is also a graduate of Northern High School and is employed at Interstate Lumber Company.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the parents of the groom Friday evening in the Blooming Rose Church social room.

The bride was the guest of honor at two showers. The first was a surprise shower at Nancy Sanner's residence with members of Lodge #6043, Blooming Rose women's group, bridesmaids, friends and relatives attending. Approximately 40 attended.

The second shower was held by the Friendsville Grace Lutheran Church women's group (the groom's church). The shower was held in the church social room with approximately 15 attending.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were from Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Illinois and Colorado. The couple now resides along Route 42, Friendsville.

Northern Garrett GOP Club Meets

The Northern Garrett County Republican Club met recently at the Hill Top Inn, Grantsville, where guests included Garrett County Commissioners Ernie Gregg, Elwood Groves and John Braskey.

Preceding the business meeting, the commissioners spoke about the duties of their office, such as tax issues and the budget. A question and answer period followed.

Carolyn Ganoe presided over the business meeting. Birthday dues were collected and Orpha Miller was recognized for her birthday. Club dues are to be collected at the October meeting. Those members who will not be present may mail their dues ($5) to Mrs. Louise McKenzie, Rt. 1, Box 202, Grantsville.

The club members were reminded of the beef roast to be held at the Wilhelm Center, Lonaconing, October 6 at 3 p.m., sponsored by the Republican State Central Committee.

The next meeting will be held October 16 at 7:30 p.m. at the Hill Top Restaurant. A slide program of Austria will be shown by Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Extension agent for the Allegany County Cooperative Extension Service.

Ms. Koscielniak was born in Austria, where she earned an associate degree of science in home economics and farming. She received a B.S. degree from Buffalo State University and was employed by the Cooperative Extension Service in Belmont, N.Y., as an energy educator.

Each member is asked to bring a guest to the next meeting.

The Christmas luncheon will be held at the Hill Top Restaurant December 1 at 1:30 p.m.

Those present at the September meeting were Cleda Baker, Carolyn Ganoe, Zeola Robeson, Lois Rowe, Cora Bowser, Mary Broadwater, Bernice Merrill, Evelyn Younkin, Helen Keller, Louise McKenzie, Wilma Wilburn, Carol Frazee, Hazel Margraff, Rose and Asa Wilhelm.

A REAL MEAL could be provided by any one of these 20 potatoes grown by Roy Glotfelty in his garden this year, as the 20 combined to weigh 38 pounds. These hefty tubers of the Kennebec variety were without doubt the largest ever grown by Glotfelty in all of his life. The gardener received approximately a 35-bushel yield from his garden plot along Route 219 near Hoyes Road this year. He obtained the seed potatoes from Farmers' Market in Oakland.

Please Don't!
Nails and staples in utility poles can threaten the life of a lineman.

Climbing utility poles is a daily part of a lineman's job to keep your electric service at its best. However, many poles have become safety hazards due to the nails and staples which people use to attach signs. Our linemen must depend on their "spurs" digging into the wooden pole to provide surefooted climbing. If there are nails, staples or other fasteners in the pole, there's a chance the spurs will not dig into the wood and a serious accident could result. So please . . . don't attach or nail anything to utility poles. Thank you.

WHAT IS A BONE CYST?

You may have heard of a person, usually a child, who suffered a broken bone for no apparent reason. It may have been a leg that gave way while running or an arm while throwing a ball. This can happen if there is an imperfection in the bone growth that eats away until the bone is so weakened that it breaks.

The recuperation period, in traction, then in a cast and finally with the possibility of an operation that uses bone chips to fill up the hole is long and usually uncomfortable for both the patient and the family. We stock many products that physicians might prescribe to ease the discomfort over the recovery months.

The time was 1890 . . . the place Niagara Falls, N.Y. . . . the objective to walk a high-wire across the river gorge . . . the hero — they called him "Daredevil Dixon."

Living a century later we have something in common with Mr. Dixon. We are still trying to be the first. Shouldn't we realize there are more important goals than just being first.

The devil once dared Jesus to swoop down on Jerusalem from the temple spire. Instead, our Lord walked the dusty streets helping, caring, serving, sacrificing, revealing to men God's love.

You have a mission, too. The Church can help you find it.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

GRACE VS. REAPING
October 7, 1984

Background Scripture:
Romans 12:9-21; Galatians 6:1-18.

Devotional Reading:
Galatians 5:16-24.

"...for whatever a man sows, that will he also reap" (Galatians 6:7b).

If that statement by Paul doesn't hit you between the eyes, it's probably because you're not really thinking about what it says. For, very plainly, Paul is saying that we will receive from life in proportion as we give to life.

What's wrong with that?

What's wrong is that it seems to fly in the face of Paul's concept that we are saved by God's grace, not our own works (Romans 3, 4, 5 and Galatians 3). To put it plainly, in both Romans and Galatians, Paul assures us, not that we will get what we deserve, but, far more than that, we will receive far more than that. It is the grace of God--his undeserved love--not our works that brings us salvation.

GRACE ALONE?

So, how can Paul say, "...whatever a man sows, that will he also reap"? Are we saved by God's undeserved grace or by the accumulated merit of our own good works?

Actually, the answers to these questions do not have to be "either/or." Both concepts can be and are true. They are not really contradictory; they only seem to be.

First of all, even when Paul states so emphatically that we are saved by faith through grace alone, he does not exclude good works from the picture. For example, in Romans, his best passages on salvation through faith by grace are followed with admonitions to good works: "...love one another with brotherly affection...Contribute to the needs of the saints, practice hospitality" (12:10, 13). Paul goes on in Romans 12:14-21 to urge good works towards even one's enemies. In Galatians 6 Paul urges his readers to "Bear one another's burdens" (2) and urges them "...let us not grow weary in well-doing" (9) and "let us do good to all men..." (10). One might easily conclude that, without works, there can be no real faith.

REAPING CORRUPTION

Furthermore, there is a difference between being saved by God in Christ and being spared the consequences of our vain and foolish acts. Just because we are forgiven by the power of God's grace, does not mean that in our lifetime we will not have to reap what we have sowed. If, during most of our life, we have sowed corruption and then in the latter days have earnestly sought the saving grace of God in Christ, we will probably still have to reap the corruption we have sowed.

So, forgiveness is guaranteed when we come to God in faith, but exemption from life is not part of the deal. Therefore, because we are saved by God's grace, we need to respond to that grace with as many good works as we can muster. For life is always both grace and reaping.

Fire Marshal's Stats Released For Fiscal '84

The Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office announced that it recently completed one of the most productive years in its history.

During the fiscal year which ended on June 30, 1984, more fire safety inspections were conducted than ever before. Statewide, approximately 8,800 inspections were made, which represents an increase of 189 percent over the fiscal 1983 figure of 4,648. December, 1983, was the busiest month for fire inspectors who logged 865 inspections.

Inspections are conducted to ensure compliance with Maryland's fire safety regulations and include places of public assembly such as theaters and civic centers where 1,634 inspections were made. Inspectors checked the fire safety plans in 1,546 multi-family homes and 1,300 shopping centers and shopping malls.

During fiscal year 1984, the Fire Marshal's Office investigated 1,270 fires. Of the fires investigated, 657 were classified as accidental, 498 were incendiary or arson, and 115 could not be classified. The number of arson investigations remained the same as fiscal 1983.

The busiest months for fire investigations were December, 1983 and January, 1984, in which 160 and 152 investigations were conducted, respectively.

The highest number of arson fires investigated occurred in April, 1984, with 51; and in December, 1983, with 50 such cases.

Arson and fire code arrests were the highest recorded since fiscal year 1979 with 228 persons arrested statewide. Harford, Cecil and Kent Counties logged the highest number of persons arrested for arson (75) while the Southern Maryland Region of Charles, St. Mary's and Calvert Counties reported the second highest number with 47.

State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele said, "Preventing fires is the responsibility of every citizen. Wood burning stoves, kerosene heaters and other appliances should be installed properly, according to the code."

Fire and burn prevention literature is available free of charge at the State Fire Marshal's Office.

Maryland Travel Increase Shows Average Growth

Summer travel in Maryland has been characterized as either average or a little better than average by various tour businesses. A 7% increase has been the average increase across Maryland, according to Kurt P. Alverson, director of the Office of Tourist Development, a division of the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development.

Alverson pointed out some reasons for this average showing. "Back in December of 1983 national economist Dr. Lawrence Chimerine, Chairman of Chase Econometrics, predicted that 1984 would be a stable but slow growth travel year. A stagnant U.S. economy since 1978 with high interest rates and high unemployment kept consumers from buying durable goods. Once interest rates subsided and the recession subsided, consumers started buying cars and homes and appliances rather than increasing their travel expenditures."

Norm Guervich, president of the Maryland Campground Association, said that his members had been reporting an average occupancy about the same as 1983. Guervich noted that recreational vehicle dealers, boat dealers and other dealers of expensive recreational products had a very good spring sales season. Because of this, he predicted that outdoor related tourism businesses should do much better in 1985 because people will be using their new recreational equipment.

Alverson feels that this summer was not as slow as it could have been. Many states that we have talked to are reporting declines in travel spending when compared with 1983. "Our 1984 tourism advertising and promotion campaign has generated over 120,000 requests for literature. Besides that we have given help and literature to more than 780,000 visitors at our highway information centers this year. Total requests for information are 33% higher than 1983." Alverson continued, "While Maryland did not increase its advertising budget, it was not reduced either. This helped us maintain a healthy tourism growth rate during the recession and by continuing our promotion in 1982 and 83 we have been able to increase our share of the tourism market."

In Garrett County, Judy DeWitt, Garrett County Promotion Office, reported that rainy weekends caused the visitor count at their information center to be down 13% compared to 1983. Also, the summer of 1983 was exceptional because of the extremely clear weather last summer which encouraged more people to travel.

Gary Fisher, executive director of the Ocean City Visitors and Convention Bureau, said that room tax figures in 1984 showed a 7% increase over 1983. Linda Brittingham, Data Processing Manager for Moore, Warfield and Glick, one of the largest condo rental agents in Ocean City, said. "We have had a 25% increase this year over 1983. In general most of the rental agents in town are reporting a good summer."

According to Alma Brooks, director of group sales at the National Aquarium in Baltimore, the Aquarium showed only a 7% increase for June, July and August of 1984. "Even though this is a small increase, nearly ½ million people visited during those three months. Many days the Aquarium was filled to capacity forcing people to wait outside."

The Baltimore Science Center showed an increase for the summer of 1984 of 2.8%. Melanie Panos, Public Relations Director for the Maryland Science Center, said that they were expecting greater increases over the next several years as building improvements were completed. She also noted that any new development on the South side of the Inner Harbor would benefit them with increased pedestrian traffic.

An Antietam National Battlefield, near Hagerstown, Paul Charles reported a 15.7% increase over 1983 for the three peak summer months. This much better than average showing is in part due to increased promotion by the State Tourism Office and the Washington County Tourism Office. More motor coach tour groups are visiting Antietam because of this promotion.

Carrol Gray, president of the Maryland Hotel Motor Inn Association noted that hotel properties in the popular area like Baltimore are posting 10 or 15% gains for 1984. He reported that in Prince George's and Montgomery Counties, average hotel-motel occupancy was up 6% over 1983. "I believe it has been a year when the marketing efforts of individual properties have made a lot of difference in how much business they have attracted this year."

Miniature And Dollhouse Show Set In Meyersdale

A miniature and dollhouse show will be presented October 19-21 in Maple Festival Park, Meyersdale, by the Pennsylvania Maple Festival.

More than 20 dealers and exhibitors from the eastern U.S. will be displaying all types of handmade miniature dollhouses, diaramas and individual items. Many of the dollhouses will be completely furnished, including carpeting, wallpaper and electric lights. Most items on display will be for sale.

Free demonstrations on the wiring of the dollhouses will be presented throughout the weekend along with a presentatior on throwing miniature clay pottery.

Visitors to the miniature show may also register to win either a miniature Victorian farmhouse, a diarama of an early 1900 general store or a tiny doghouse with bowl and neighborhood cat included. Door prizes will also be given away every hour throughout the three-day show.

Also included in the show will be a tour of historic Maple Manor, the Country Store, ar antique doctor's office and old-time cobbler's shop.

Maple Manor, formerly the Peter Meyer's estate, is the oldest home in Meyersdale. It was built around 1785 as a log cabin and still retains the original kitchen with its stone hearth and original wooden beams. The Pennsylvania Maple Festival acquired the house in 1968 and is continuously undergoing renovation and refurbishing.

Admission to the dollhouse and miniature show is $2 for adults, $1.50 for senior citizens and $1 for children 12 and under. The admission price includes all activities in Maple Festival Park.

Hours for the show will be 7-10 p.m., Friday, October 19; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday, October 20; and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday, October 21.

For more information, persons may contact the office of the Pennsylvania Maple Festival at (814) 634-0123.

Medicare, Medigap Guide Available

The Maryland Office on Aging announced this week the availability of a new senior citizen's guide, Medicare and Medigap, which tells what kind of Medigap policies are sold in Maryland, and provides information to help older people and their relatives understand how Medicare works and the options open to them in purchasing Medigap Insurance.

Rosalie S. Abrams, Director of the Office on Aging, says the guide is written in an easy-to-understand language. "It's not filled with a lot of legal jargon," says Mrs. Abrams.

Based on the very latest information gathered by the Office on Aging, the Medicare and Medigap guide tells what Medicare covers, gaps in Medicare coverage, what Maryland Medigap policies are available and provides tips for consumers.

In 1965, the federal government established the Medicare program in attempt to ease the financial burden of health care for older Americans. Medicare payment leaves a substantial out-of-pocket fee still to be paid, Abrams said, so various insurance programs which supplement Medicare are available to Maryland senior citizens. Known as Medicare Supplemental or "Medigap", these insurance policies help protect older Marylanders from the gaps in Medicare.

The guide which attempts to explain all of this is available free of charge from local Gateway Offices (which are listed in the Community Services section of the telephone directory under Aging Services), or by writing to: Maryland Office on Aging, 301 West Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201.

Allegany Diabetes Chapter Formed, Knotts Speaker

The first meeting of the Allegany County Chapter, American Diabetes Association, was held Wednesday evening in the Liberty Trust Building, LaVale.

The purpose of the meeting was to organize the chapter, decide what the chapter's goals will be, and discuss possible chapter activities and services. The chapter organizer is Elvis Jones of Frostburg.

Guest speakers were Louis Bandell, executive director of the Maryland State Affiliate, and Terry Knotts, president of the Garrett County Chapter.

Bandell explained the structure and functions of the American Diabetes Association and described the many benefits that the chapter will offer to diabetics and their families.

Knotts shared some of his personal experiences as a diabetic which illustrate the problems a diabetic can encounter when he does not have access to a diabetes chapter. He then offered advice to this chapter based on his experience as the person who organized Garrett County's diabetic chapter. He also discussed the wide variety of activities and services that the Allegany County Chapter can undertake now that the chapter is organized.

Future chapter meetings will be held at 7 p.m. on the first Wednesday of each month. The 1984 meetings will be in the Liberty Trust Building. Beginning in January the meetings will be held in the Community Room at Country Club Mall. Further information about the Allegany County Chapter can be obtained by contacting Elvis Jones at 222 McCulloh Street, Frostburg, telephone 689-6042.

WRA Completes Revisions For Oil Pollution Control

James W. Peck, Director of the Water Resources Administration of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, has announced proposed revisions to the Oil Pollution Control Regulations which contain significant changes in requirements for installation and maintenance of underground oil facilities.

Peck says the proposed regulations have been revised to reflect the administration's experiences in controlling and responding to oil spills statewide. The administration has worked over the past two years with members of the industry and others interested in oil spill prevention before proposing these regulations.

A public hearing has been scheduled for 10 a.m. Thursday, October 25, at the Tawes State Office Building, Lobby Meeting Room, 580 Taylor Avenue, Annapolis. Written comment will be accepted until noon November 16.

Comments or requests for copies of the proposed regulations may be addressed to Edwin Weber, Division Chief, Oil Control Division, WRA, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis 21401.

Statistics released by Peck show an appreciable increase in the numbers of underground oil leaks occurring in Maryland in the last several years. Some 38 were reported in fiscal year 1980; 38 in 1981; 31 in 1982; 77 in 1983 and 117 in 1984.

Peck feels the proposed regulations are designed to reduce problems with new underground facilities and provide better monitoring and control for older facilities. Sections will establish specific installation standards requiring use of corrosive-resistant tanks and lines, and installation of two monitoring wells in a tank field.

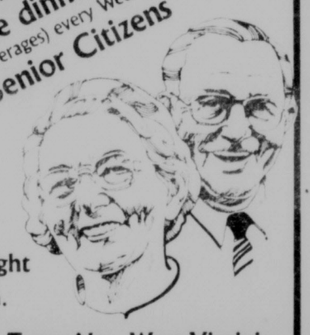

The proposed regulations also require testing of underground storage systems that are over 15 years old and that do not meet the revised installation standards. The tests must be conducted every five years.

The proposed regulations also require permits for all oil facilities with the exception of storage facilities at single family residences and for personal use.

The administration has also clarified oil spill reporting responsibilities so that spills are to be reported immediately or at a maximum of two hours from the time of the incident.

IF YOU HAD TO WORK AS HARD AS A HEAT PUMP, YOU'D WEAR OUT BEFORE LONG, TOO.

A heat pump has to work hard. All year round.

In cold weather, a heat pump has to work hard at trying to keep a home comfortable. It runs almost constantly for days. Yet, it still can't heat a home when the outside temperature dips below the low 30's without a back-up heating source.

That's not like an efficient gas furnace, which keeps a home more comfortable, a lot longer, with less effort.

In warm weather, the heat pump continues to work just as hard—but in reverse. It gathers indoor heat and moves it outside to keep the home cool. A conventional air conditioner provides the same cooling, more efficiently, for more years. And uses less energy.

Because heat pumps work hard, so many days, and have many moving parts, they can have a high maintenance expense record. Heat pumps usually wear out in less than 10 years.

For longer and more efficient operating life, a high efficiency gas furnace/central air conditioning combination makes the most sense.

Natural gas...gives you more for your money.

This competition, involving a display of field show skills and the awarding of trophies in several categories, brings to the county a number of outstanding bands of the region. The band honored with the title of Grand Feature Parade and Tournament of Bands Grand Champion will acquire a large trophy which is determined by the highest number of accumulated points from the parade and field show competition.

There will be 13 bands plus the host band attending the tournament from Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, making it the largest tournament ever.

The 1984 competition will include returning bands such as The Connellsville Falcon Marching Band which bears such honors as first place in the AA-Scottie Fling in Scottdale, Pa., second place in the 1983 Tournament of Bands, and participant in the Festivals of Music in Ocean City. Another band returning to the competition will be The Frankfort "Falcon" Marching Band, accredited with first place in the Forest Festival Grand Feature Parade in Elkins, W. Va., first place in the West Virginia State Firemen's Parade in Keyser, and first and third place in the Autumn Glory Festival Parade in Oakland. Also returning again for the tournament will be Keyser High School "Marching 100" Band, which received second place in the field show in the Williamsburg Music Festival, first place in the Class AA Mountaineer Marching Classic, and first place in the Frankfort Invitational.

Three first-time competitors will be Greensburg Salem "Golden Lions" Band, Smithsburg High School Marching Leopard Band, and Kenwood Senior High School Band.

Admission to the tournament will be $3.00 for adults and $2.00 for students.

For more information on this or any other event or a free schedule of events brochure and map of events, contact Festival Headquarters, Courthouse, Oakland, (301) 334-3888.

THE FRANKFORT FALCON MARCHING BAND will return to Oakland next weekend to defend its Grand Champion title in the annual Western Maryland Tournament of Bands, slated for the evening of October 13 at the Southern High School athletic field. Martiki Coal Rejects Union Representation

Mapco, parent company of Garrett County Mettiki Mine, announced last week that employees of Martiki Coal Corporation in Paintsville, Ky. have rejected representation by the United Mine Workers of America by a 293-100 margin.

The election was called by a petition filed by the UMWA with the National Labor Relations Board on August 6.

Dennis Jackson, Jr., vice president of operations at Martiki, stated in a news release, "The rejection of the UMWA clearly indicates, in our opinion, that the majority of employees of Martiki desire to keep Martiki a non-union mine, free of outside interference. We appreciate the confidence, expressed in the vote by our employees, in their future at Martiki and in Martiki management."

THE SUN Hard-driving foe puts Byron on defensive

By Karen Hosler
Sun Staff Correspondent

POTOMAC — Representative Beverly B. Byron (D, Md., 6th) was on the defensive from the very beginning of a debate here Monday night with the Republican who is challenging her bid to serve a fourth term.

She used her opening statement to explain a below-average congressional attendance record, to debunk claims that she had failed to debate past opponents and to point out that so far, four out of the five complaints filed against her with House ethics committees have been dismissed.

The rest of Mrs. Byron's evening was largely devoted to fending off charges that her voting record shows insensitivity to the old and the jobless, and that she has spent so much of her time globetrotting she has neglected the needs of her Western Maryland district.

It was more than one would think necessary to swat "a gnat," as a Byron spokeswoman has called the opponent, former state Delegate Robin Ficker of Montgomery county.

But Mr. Ficker, 41, a barely harnessed whirl of kinetic energy who has been running for one public office or another for more than a decade and knows all the tricks for getting attention, has a way of getting under the skin.

"There's just so many of those inaccuracies you can take," Mrs. Byron said, referring to the continuous grind of press releases, screaming billboards and other tireless attacks through which Mr. Ficker has, in effect, defined the issues of the campaign.

"He's succeeded in exactly what he wanted to do. He's driving her crazy," observed Allan C. Levey, chairman of the state GOP.

Local Youth To Celebrate 4-H Week

Members of 4-H in Garrett County are joining the nearly five million young people nationwide in observing National 4-H Week, October 7-13, according to Alice E. Hevner, Extension Agent, 4-H & Youth.

Using the theme, "4-H Building on Experience," members are challenged to use their own, as well as others' experiences and expertise in acquiring practical skills. They also are learning good health habits, developing respect for themselves and others, exploring career and leisure time opportunities, sharing responsibilities for preserving the environment, and developing leadership and citizenship skills, according to Ms. Hevner.

Hevner said that during the special week members of America's largest out-of-school youth education organization will celebrate with activities aimed at promoting individual growth and accomplishment, creativity, social responsibility, and family involvement. Locally, activities will include promotional displays, placemats in area restaurants, entries in the Autumn Glory Parade, participation in 4-H Sunday services and hosting the Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania 4-H Travel-All Club for a tour of Garrett County.

In Garrett County, there are 70 volunteer leaders, working with over 400 4-H members. These volunteers are among the more than 620,000 leaders nationwide, who each contributed about 220 hours of service last year.

Conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service at the University of Maryland, 4-H is available to boys and girls, nine to 19, wherever they live. The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service's programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin.

Programs are conducted in 3,150 counties of the United States, plus the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, The Virgin Islands, and Guam. Since its inception, about 45 million Americans from all walks of life have been involved in 4-H. In addition, some 82 countries around the world have youth programs similar to 4-H.

For more information on how to get involved in 4-H, as a member or volunteer leader, persons may contact Alice E. Hevner, P.O. Box 445, Oakland, telephone (301) 334-2145.

Farming in Maryland

Farm Women To Attend National Council Meeting

Five Maryland farm women, including one from Garrett County, will attend the annual Country Women's Council meeting in Peoria, Ill., October 8-10.

Donna Glotfelty, chairman of the Garrett County Farm Bureau Women's Committee and a Maryland Farm Bureau director, will attend the event, along with Martha Clark, Howard County; Leona Dell, Carroll County; Wilma Mallow, Allegany County; and Wini Dixon, St. Mary's County.

"Better Living—Better World" is the conference theme. Rural women will explore standards of living around the world, and projects to enhance those standards.

The group will tour the Northern Regional Research Center, a major U.S.D.A. center for agricultural research.

The 1985 conference, "Clean Water for Better Living," will be held in Baltimore.

President's Farm Credit Plan May Help Local Farmers

President Reagan's farm credit initiatives to reschedule portions of loans for some financially stressed Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) borrowers and to guarantee loans of some other borrowers may help farmers in Delaware-Maryland, FmHA State Director, G. Wallace Caulk said this week.

Annual reviews of FmHA loans will soon begin, Caulk said. A major priority of the reviews will be to determine which farmers in Delaware and Maryland will qualify for a rescheduling of part of their loans for up to five years.

The President's plan permits up to a five-year deferral, with no interest payments, for as much as 25 percent of a loan, up to $100,000 for FmHA borrowers who are experiencing severe financial stress and who show promise of success with a temporary economic boost.

Under the new guarantee plan, FmHA will be able to guarantee a loan in severe difficulty if the lender is willing to write off at least 10 percent, up to the amount necessary to give the borrower a positive cash flow. The borrower must meet general eligibility criteria for FmHA farm operating ownership loans.

Wheat Deficiency Monies To Be Paid To Farmers

Maryland farmers who signed up for the wheat program and accurately reported their 1984 crop acreages to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will likely receive wheat deficieny payments, according to Olin S. Davis, Jr., chairman of the Maryland State Agricultural Stablization and Conservation Committee.

The 1984 farm program participants become eligible for deficiency payments if national average market prices for wheat during the first five months of the marketing year fall below the government-established target price of $4.38 per bushel. Nationally, farm prices received by farmers during the first three months of the marketing year have averaged near the $3.30 per bushel loan rate.

"Farmers who have filed applications for payment will likely receive a deficiency payment of between 95 cents and $1.03 per bushel on their 1984 wheat crop," Davis said. The agency will begin issuing wheat payments to the 164 participating Maryland farmers after December 1, 1984.

Deficiency payments are computed by multiplying the program yield for the farm by acreage planted for harvest times the payment rate. The per-bushel payment rate is the difference between the target price and the higher of either the loan rate for the commodity or the average price received by farmers.

FmHA Directors Advice On Farm Credit Initiatives

All of the Farmers Home Administration's State Directors and Farmer Program Chiefs are reviewing plans to put into action President Reagan's farm credit initiatives to help farmers experiencing severe financial stress, G. Wallace Caulk, FmHA State Director for Delaware and Maryland said this week.

Caulk and William Walmsley, Farmer Program Chief for Delaware and Maryland, returned over the weekend from a day-long strategy session in Washington with FmHA National Administrator Charles W. Shuman and other national and state FmHA officials.

"There can be no question about the commitment of the Farmers Home Administration at all levels to put this plan to work to help those farmers with sustainable operations who are caught in a financial squeeze through circumstances beyond their control," Caulk said.

Based on the agency-wide discussion of loan and guarantee details, final procedures for operation will be completed in the FmHA National Office in a matter of days. Once any legal questions are resolved, the agency then will publish the instructions and distribute them to field offices for action.

Under the President's plan, FmHA will be able to set aside up to 25 percent, to a maximum of $100,000, of a qualifying farmer's loan without interest for five years.

For farmers in deep financial distress who do not have FmHA loans, the agency can guarantee up to 90 percent of a new loan if their lender is willing to write off enough of the farmer's debt to put the loan in a secured position and achieve a positive cash flow.

The key in both approaches is to restore the farmer to a positive cash flow situation. Essentially, that means to restructure the debt and reorganize the farming operation, if needed, to establish the financial strength needed to meet all farm operating costs, family living expenses, machinery upkeep, and service all debts.

Caulk said FmHA borrowers will be advised of their eligibility to participate during the annual review of their loans.

Why Top-Dress Alfalfa This Fall?

Dr. M.B. Tesar of Michigan State University has found through his research that fertilizing Alfalfa after the first cutting has no advantage over fertilizing in the fall. From a fertility standpoint, Alfalfa can be fertilized almost any time. But fall application does offer advantages not found in the spring. The soil is generally dry, so there is little danger of unnecessary soil compaction. Also, fall-applied potassium and boron improve winter hardiness. Alfalfa is a hungry crop - 75 to 100 lbs. of P2O5, 300 to 400 lbs. of K2O, 40-45 lbs. of Sulfur, and 2 to 3 lbs. of boron per acre may need to be added each year to replace nutrients removed by 6 to 8 tons of Alfalfa Hay. Alfalfa is the nation's leading hay crop, but it may also be used for grazing and silage or haylage. Of all commonly-grown forages, it is among the highest in feeding value and has the highest yield potential, of all adapted perennial forage legumes. Because of its versatility, yield potential and quality, Alfalfa can be used successfully in all livestock feeding programs. Soil tests and plant analysis are the best guides of plant nutrients needed for higher yields, better quality and greater profits. Top-dress Alfalfa this fall with adequate potash and phosphate fertilizers—fortified with boron and sulfur—to prevent winter kill, prolong life of the stand and to maximize yields and profits.

Evergreen Needle Drop

I have had numerous calls of concern with the needle drop of pine trees. Every year about this time many needle type evergreens begin dropping some of their old needles. White pines are most dramatic as they drop all of the needles they grew in 1983. But, most other evergreens drop some needles late in the growing season. Since this is less dramatic than White pines it often goes unnoticed. Check needle type evergrrons very closely. Likely you will see the needle drop is limited to inner part of the branches. New green shoots will remain at the ends of branches. This then is normal needle shedding. White pines will appear mostly brown, but only for a short time until all the discolored needles drop.

MARYLAND Cooperative Extension Service ECONOMIC NEWS NOTES

MARYLAND MILK PRODUCTION EXCEEDS 1.6 BILLION POUND LEVEL IN 1983

by John W. Wysong

Milk production in Maryland is concentrated along the northern tier of counties next to Pennsylvania. Frederick, Carroll and Washington are the three leading counties in milk production with 468 million, 263 million and 206 million pounds respectively in 1983. Harford, Cecil, Garrett, Kent, Montgomery and Baltimore were other major producing counties. Southern Maryland and the lower Eastern Shore (9 counties) produced only 34 million pounds in 1983.

Cow numbers tended to be highly related to total milk output per county. Maryland's 123,000 milk cows were heavily concentrated in Frederick, Carroll and Washington counties with 37,400, 19,000 and 16,500 respectively. Other major counties in cows numbers were Harford, Cecil and Garrett.

Nationally, Maryland accounts for nearly 1.2 percent of the national milk output. Some decline in total Maryland and national output may occur in 1984 due to high grain prices and participation in the federal milk surplus reduction plan.

Maryland's 123,000 dairy cows in 1983 produced a record level of 1.6 billion pounds. This production resulted in an average of 13,049 pounds per cow for all of 1983. DHIA averages in Maryland generally have been in the 15,000 pound per cow range the past several years.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Bessie Jordan, who passed away two years ago, October 6, 1982.

Dear Mom,

A loving heart stopped beating, the body went to rest. God broke our hearts to prove He only takes the best. God saw you getting weaker and a cure was not to be found. So He put His arms around you and whispered come to me. It is lonesome here without you, we miss you more each day. Although we loved you dearly we could not make you stay. With tearful eyes we watched you and saw you pass away. But in your heavenly home above, we'll meet again some day. It broke our hearts to lose you, but you did not go alone, cause a part of us went with you the day God called you home. Sadly missed by:

PLACE WREATH — A delegation from Garrett County placed a wreath on the Baltimore grave of John W. Garrett on the 100th anniversary of his passing. He died at his summer home at Deer Park on September 26, 1884; his body was taken to Baltimore by special train for interment in Greenmont Cemetery there. As outlined by Mrs. Ruth F. Calderwood, County 350 chairperson, Mr. Garrett, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad from 1858 until his death, was a good friend to this area. He chose Deer Park as the site for the company's hotel which ushered in the big summer resort business, with its enormous economic impact on the area. He also cooperated in the negotiations for establishing a new county from Allegany County. The new county was named in his honor. The commemoration was sponsored by the Garrett County 350 Committee. Making the trip to Baltimore were Mrs. Calderwood, Paul T. Calderwood (not pictured), past president of the Garrett County Historical Society; Father Martin Feild, right, pastor of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, Oakland, who gave an appropriate prayer; and Tim Dugan, former County Planning Director and vice-chairman for the County 350 Committee. Following the wreath-placing ceremony, the group toured "Evergreen", residence of the Garrett family.

Sines Schedules Bus Inspections

Michael G. Sines, supervisor of transportation for the Garrett County Board of Education, announced this week that school bus inspections will be held at various locations in the county October 30-31 and November 1-2. Each bus has been assigned a specific location.

Inspections will be held at Southern High School on October 30 and 31 from 8:30 a.m. to noon; at Northern High School on November 1 from 8:30 a.m. to noon; and at Grantsville Elementary School on November 2.

Sines reminds drivers to look over their buses carefully before the inspection. He said license plates will be suspended if violations are found with such items as tires, king pins, steering mechanism and exhaust system.

Renovations Made At Appalachian Center, Workshop

The Appalachian Center and Appalachian Workshop, Oakland, recently underwent renovations funded through a grant from the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). This grant included a new set of stairs and a wheelchair lift between the first floor and basement, major renovations to the basement, a new heating and air conditioning system and woodworking equipment.

The Oakland-Mt. Lake Lions Club assisted with this project by purchasing 16 gallons of paint and painting the ceilings and walls in the basement and around the stairs and lift. Lion members involved in this project were: Bill Grant, Bob Kurtz, David Cathell, Dave Slagle, Joe Welch, Fred Bell, Dave Beard, Mike McHenry, Frank Custer and Bob Proudfoot. "The Lions have helped us tremendously in completing this exciting project," stated Charlotte Griffith, executive director of the center.

An open house to tour the Center and see the many changes and renovations is being planned by the Appalachian Parent Association, Inc., in the next couple of months. The Association, a private, non-profit group of parents of the handicapped, owns the building at 105 South Third Street which houses APA's training and employment programs for handicapped adults, including the Appalachian Center, the Appalachian Workshop and the Country Oven Bakery.

RECENT RENOVATIONS at the Appalachian Center and Appalachian Workshop in Oakland included such things as painting the ceilings and walls of the basement. Donating 16 gallons of paint and several man-hours of painting were members of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club. Above, Lion Frank Custer applies the first coat.

For more information concerning this project and APA, Inc., programs, persons may contact Ms. Griffith at 12 South Third Street, Oakland; phone 301-334-1322 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Steven A. Baker, son of Michael E. Baker, Columbia, and Margo L. Vandiver, Mountain Lake Park, has been officially accepted into the U.S. Military Academy's Corps of Cadets as a new member of the class of 1988 during the annual acceptance parade.

The parade followed six weeks of rigorous basic cadet training at the West Point, N.Y., academy. Training in military customs and courtesies, drill and physical conditioning, tactical exercises and the firing of weapons introduced the basic cadets to military life with special emphasis on leadership, duty, honor and country.

The academy is a four-year educational institution graduating men and women to serve as career Army officers. In addition to military training the academy offers athletics and an academic curriculum which includes basic and engineering sciences and social sciences and the humanities.

Army Reserve Pvt. Thomas A. Parrack, son of Luther D. and Pauline Parrack, Oakland, has completed training as an Army military police specialist under the one station unit training (OSUT) program at Fort McClellan, Ala.

OSUT is a 13-week period which combines basic training with advanced individual training.

Students were trained in civil and military law, traffic control, map reading and self-defense.

Federal Child Support Law To Aid State Effort

The passing of federal legislation requiring states to withhold the wages of parents who refuse to pay child support will have a significant impact on child support service in Maryland, the Department of Human Resources announced.

"The federal legislation will act as an impetus for our doing a bigger and better job," said Secretary of Human Resources Ruth Massinga. "We honestly believe that in the long run it will spur us on to provide better services to families."

According to the legislation, employers will be required to withhold child support payments from the earnings of parents whose payments are at least 30 days in arrears. "Since so many current cases are not paying child support regularly in full amounts, this provision has the potential to affect thousands of Maryland families," said Ann Helton, executive director of the Child Support Enforcement Administration.

Although the interception of federal income tax refunds is not new for AFDC cases, under the new law, non-AFDC families will be entitled to this service if their child support payments are collected by the child support agency and are at least $500 behind. Last year, the Child Support Enforcement Administration collected overdue support for more than 10,000 non-AFDC families through the interception of the absent parent's state income tax refunds.

The law also stipulates that welfare families who become ineligible because of increased child support payments, will not remain eligible for medicaid for an additional four months after the termination of their AFDC grant.

As a result of the legislation Maryland will now become eligible for a federally financed incentive payment on the child support payments it collects for non-AFDC families. This incentive is presently calculated on only AFDC collections and, although the actual percent of the incentive is reduced, the overall effect should be an increase in federal funds for Maryland.

Maryland presently has more than 120,000 court orders for support for both AFDC and non-AFDC cases with an average of 55-60% of the obligated parents making some payment per month. The average obligation (for one or more children) per AFDC case is $89.00 and $125.00 for non-AFDC cases.

Fuel Tax Revenue Is Boosted By Vacation Travel

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says summer vacation driving helped boost motor fuel consumption in the state by nearly 7% in July, 1984, compared with the same month the previous year.

Motor fuel consumption totaled 187.8 million gallons during July, 1984, compared with July, 1983 consumption of 175.7 million gallons.

"This increase in gasoline and diesel fuel also spurred a 6% growth in motor fuel tax revenue," Goldstein said. "August, 1984 revenue from the motor fuel tax, which is based on sales made during July, totaled $25.7 million, compared with $24.3 million for the same month a year ago."

The comptroller pointed out that motor fuel tax revenue for the first two months of Fiscal Year 1985 totals $51.9 million, up 2.7% over the $50.6 million collected during the first two months of Fiscal Year 1984.

Local Libraries Suffering Because Materials Are Not Being Returned

by Craig Speicher

Widespread library abuse, in the form of signed-out materials which are never returned, has created large, permanent losses to the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County.

According to Grantsville librarian Maxine Broadwater, the Grantsville branch alone has lost "thousands of dollars" worth of materials since opening in 1959. In addition to the immediate costs of these materials in county dollars, are those of library staff time, salaries, and correspondence allocated towards frequently futile efforts at retrieving these items.

The heaviest cost of all, however, is laid upon the library patron who is unable to borrow books, magazines, and other items, such as records and cassette and 8-track tapes, which card catalogs and records indicate are among the library's holdings. "It is frustrating for the patron," said Mrs. Broadwater, "to be told so often that particular items have never been returned."

Unreturned books from Grantsville cover a range of nearly every conceivable type and topic, including such titles as Gregg Shorthand, Auto Repair Manual, Freedom from Headaches, Bread Baking, and Everything You Always Wanted to Know about Sex, not to mention countless volumes of fiction.

Part of the problem, possibly, is the illusion that borrowed items are "free". Patrons who feel they are obtaining something for nothing might easily take library services for granted. But in fact, of course, library materials have been purchased with taxpayer dollars. And when unreturned, they are, in effect, denied to the same taxpayers for whom they were bought in the first place.

Mrs. Broadwater believes that patrons do not set out to purposely steal library property, but, she asked, when items are not returned for months, years and finally, never at all, "What else would you call it?"

Attempts to regain long-overdue items require the staff to repeatedly mail notices to the offending patrons. This detracts from time for more constructive work, and the postage costs of these notices accumulate rapidly.

Fines levied for overdue books seem to have little effect towards alleviating the problem, perhaps because they are too light. Magazines and juvenile books carry an overdue fine of only five cents per day, adult books ten cents. The maximum fine in any case is $2.00.

Mrs. Broadwater queried, "Should we keep up with inflation, and fine a quarter per day, or perhaps even a dollar?" This is a matter which can be best decided only by the majority of library users, since they are the ones hardest hit by losses, she explained.

Despite the gravity of the situation, Mrs. Broadwater is quick to point out a paradoxical humor about it all.

Referring to the long-gone book, Everything You Always Wanted to Know about Sex, she quipped, "The person who took out that one should be qualified as a sex therapist by now." And as for the missing title, Free Software for Your Computer, she stated, "They must have thought the book was free also."

The library specifically welcomes and encourages public and patron response.

Pritts Awarded Roper Memorial Scholarship

One area student attending Frostburg State College, Joni L. Pritts of Elk Garden, W. Va., has been named one of this year's recipients of the Stephanie A. Roper Memorial Art Scholarships.

According to Dustin P. Davis, head of the College's department of art and art education, the young woman was selected on the basis of her devotion to the visual arts, service to the college, interest in others and academic achievement. She will receive a $400 award.

Presentation of the award was made by Dr. Don N. Smith, dean of the College's school of arts and humanities, at the recent art show opening at the Roper Gallery on the FSC campus featuring the works of Diane Feld of Deer Park.

Miss Pritts is a graduate of Elk Garden High School where she was class valedictorian, class president in grades nine through 12, president of the Art Association, French Club member, winner of the Voice of Democracy Award, listed in Who's Who and in Distinguished American High School Students, and received a McKaig Foundation Scholarship.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Pritts, Elk Garden, Miss Pritts is a senior Dean's List student majoring in art education. She is currently a student teacher at Northern High school.

The scholarship fund was created by donations from the Roper family and friends in memory of Stephanie A. Roper, the FSC honor student who was murdered in 1982. The fund is administered by the College's Foundation, and recipients are selected by the FSC art faculty.

Also named a recipient of a Roper scholarship was Diane L. Rohman, Cumberland.

SELL AND STAY

Techniques that work in commercial/investment real estate are being used today in residential real estate. One of them is the sales-leaseback method. Here's how it would work to the advantage of all parties.

Say you own your own home or condominium. You have a large equity built up, perhaps it is paid for in-full with no mortgage. You plan to move in a couple of years, but would like to sell now, have the sale out of the way and the money in the bank. You also want to remain in the same residence until you move at a later date.

You tell your story to a good, local Realtor (like us) and he or she will find an investor who would like to purchase such a unit for the investment (future appreciation and tax benefits) and one with a built-in tenant. You, as the tenant would pay the rent plus all the expenses to run the residence, such as taxes, utilities, maintenance, and insurance. No different than before, except your money is now in the bank or in another investment and your new owner has, in essence, a management-free, money-making investment.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

Assessment Answers & Tax Talk

by James Burley

ON COMPARING SALES IN DECIDING MARKET VALUE

Both tax assessors and private appraisers rely on a sales analysis as an essential element in estimating the value of property. One handy tool which many appraisers use in conducting their sales analysis is a form they refer to as "comparison grid." Property owners, too, might profitably employ this technique in testing the validity of their own assessment. The comparison grid forms an integral part of the appraiser's residential appraisal and usually follows the valuation section which shows the indicated value as estimated through the cost approach.

The grid is formed simply by listing properties in columns showing, from left to right, the subject property and several comparable properties for which relatively recent sales data are available. Generally three "comparables" are considered sufficient in estimating probable market value. At the far left will be a column listing items which the market tells appraisers are those that market in estimating market value. Shown vertically, these include the location and address, sales price and date of sale or appraisal. Also shown will be the type, condition, size expressed in square footage, baths, basement and degree finished, garage, fireplace, air conditioning, porches, and pools. Also listed will be the quality of construction, the age, energy efficiency, financial arrangements, and a space for other comments.

This information is filled in for each of the spaces in the columns for the comparables. Theoretically, if all four properties being compared had identical features, they should have or would sell for the same price. For this reason, the appraiser ignores things that are the same and looks for differences, always adjusting to the subject property. The subject property is the one for which the estimate of value is being made.

If, for example, the subject property had one bath and the comparable property two, the estimate of the cost of the additional bath would be shown as a minus figure. Likewise, if a comparable had a garage and the subject property none, this would be deducted. On the other hand, if the subject property had a feature that the comparable lacked, then the cost of this would be included in the appropriate space in the comparable property column as a plus figure. The reason for this is that, if the comparable had this additional feature, the sale price would then have been higher to reflect this. A typical example would be if the subject property were brick and the comparable property frame. The additional cost of the brick would thus be shown as a plus figure. Another example might be the condition. If the subject property were determined to be in good condition, and the comparable property in only average condition, then the difference between good and average—for instance $4,000—would be shown as a plus figure in the block in the comparable column. In other words, whatever feature differed, a plus or minus figure, as appropriate, representing the value of that feature, would be shown in each of the columns for the comparable properties. After the columns are tallied, the total is recorded as the indicated value. Carrying the example further, let us assume that Comparable #1 had an indicated value of $42,000. Comparable #2 had an indicated value of $43,000, and Comparable #3 had an indicated value of $44,000. From this date, the appraiser could draw the conclusion that the subject property would have a probable market value of $43,000. The appraiser will not determine the indicated value solely by use of an average but will attempt to identify the value of the subject property with the value of the comparable most similar in character and condition.

Appraisers rely upon their professional skill in estimating the costs of the various amenities. Property owners can, as a substitute, obtain reliable cost data by contacting such local sources as real estate agents, contractors and building supply firms. They also have access to reports published by commercial firms, as well as the cost manual which assessors use in pricing the various components. These can be found in most of the larger public libraries. They contain schedules that give the most updated figures for the various features. The property owner's comparison grid need not be so elaborate as one that an appraiser develops. But the owner who takes the time and trouble to prepare one will have an invaluable tool at hand in judging the correctness of the assessment and an indispensable aid if the owner contemplates appealing the assessment.

Farrah Fawcett is fiery in 'Burning Bed'

By Wayne Miller

Farrah Fawcett

At first, "The Burning Bed" seems like a simple love story: Boy meets girl, boy chases girl, boy wins girl. But there's one horrifying twist to the plot: Boy beats girl.

"The Burning Bed" is based on the true story of Michigan housewife Francine Hughes, who, after 12 years of brutal beatings by her husband Mickey, kills him by setting their bedroom on fire. As Francine, Farrah Fawcett gives a blistering, Emmy-caliber performance; Paul LeMat is equally superb as Mickey.

"I had to play Francine because I'm full of frustrations," says Miss Fawcett, 37, who tried to get the film made for three years. "My father used to give me severe spankings as a child. But ever since grammar school, I was mentally beat by the anger, resentment and bitterness I felt from men who judged me because I was a woman. It's been bottled up inside me, so I know how Francine felt."

The actress prepared for her role by visiting shelters for battered women. "At first I was unsympathetic," recalls Miss Fawcett, who cites a statistic that a woman is beaten every 18 seconds. "I wanted to say, 'No wonder you were beat! You're fat! And ugly!' Then I realized I was reacting normally. Most people," she adds, "think it's a woman's fault she is beaten. But we are simply the victims."

Most of the violence depicted in "The Burning Bed" is intense. In the film's most harrowing scene — Francine and her children sit down to eat as Mickey repeatedly beats her — Miss Fawcett incurred her only injury. "Paul slapped me and I didn't pull back fast enough," remembers Miss Fawcett, who suffered a chipped front tooth. But the physical pain was nothing compared to the mental strain the actress suffered. "I was depressed for three months after filming was over," she says quietly. "I would come home at night feeling miserable, and Ryan (O'Neal, her boyfriend) would ask, 'Honey, are you all right?' Sometimes I just couldn't put it in words."

But now the actress has put it into action, and "The Burning Bed" proves once and for all that she is an actress of substance. "I think it's my best work," Miss Fawcett says hesitantly. "But I'm not in it for the acclaim. I want the film to help. We can all learn from Francine's tragedy. And this is a good chance to start."

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Country at the Opry

On Monday, Oct. 8, Kenny Rogers will host the 18th Annual Country Music Association Awards in a live broadcast from Nashville's Grand Ole Opry. This marks the second time Rogers has hosted the CMA Awards; the first time was in 1979. And though the country singer has won several of the coveted awards, don't expect to read his opinion on them. Why not? Explains Rogers' official representative: "The Country Music Association Awards mean very little to Kenny." Talk about the Coward of the County.

Deborah Allen

Not everyone is as hypocritical as Rogers. Two singers nominated for CMA Awards this year, Ricky Skaggs and Deborah Allen, welcome their nominations. Yet both are candid when they speak about what the awards mean to them.

"The CMA Awards mean more to the public than to me," says Skaggs, 30, who's nominated for Male Vocalist of the Year and Album of the Year. "If I win the Male Vocalist Award, it's suppose to mean that I'm the best country singer of 1984. But that ain't true. It would be nice to win, but if I don't, it doesn't mean I'm sliding down the tube."

Deborah Allen, 31, sees her Horizon Award nomination as a career stepping stone. "It will help me ease into acting," she says in her Green Hills, Tenn., twang. "Just because I'm a country singer, it don't mean I have to take a back seat to anyone." She's right: Miss Allen is now in the driver's seat. Her latest album, "Let Me Be the First," will soon be released, she's written songs for the new George Jones album, she's recording "Half Way Right" for the new Tommy Lee Jones' film "River Rat" and she's planning a '30s pop album.

Miss Allen likes pop — she thinks crossing over from country to pop is "great" — but Skaggs is vehemently against the idea. "It makes me sick to my stomach," he says, "and I would never prostitute my sound that way." And though Skaggs believes videos can help win new country audiences, he won't allow his to play on MTV. "They don't care 15 cents for country music," he says angrily, "and I don't need them. They are satanic, sleazy and sick and have no right being part of the industry."

Julianne Phillips (l.) and Cynthia Sikes enjoy laps of luxury — and those laps belong to their bosses — in "His Mistress," airing Sunday, Oct. 7 on NBC.

Ken Swofford worries about 'Fame' changes

By Peter M. McCauley

Ken Swofford

The first thing one notices upon meeting Ken Swofford is his shock of wiry orange hair. A second, closer look reveals that he's not at all like the pompous character he plays on the syndicated series "Fame." As Quentin Morlock, the grumpy vice principal of the fictitious School of the Arts, Swofford rules the hallways and classrooms — and the students that inhabit them — with indomitable strength and a conspicuous lack of humor. But in real life, Swofford, 51, is quick to laugh, and the 200-pound actor is more of a teddy than a grizzly bear. And he shares at least one attribute with his character: his love for kids.

The kids love him. "We have a big junior high-school audience," says Swofford, the father of five children. "The kids love watching the dancing on 'Fame'. And since we're not on any network, we have no interference. My 13-year-old daughter loves the show, and it's the ultimate compliment to be on a show she actually watches."

While the Olympic games were underway in LA, "Fame" sprinted to New York for filming, and Swofford brought along his wife and brood, ages 13 through 24. When he is not busy talking about his own kids — one of his 22-year-old twins, Stephen, is about to star in a regional production of "The Glass Menagerie" — Swofford speaks with equal exuberance about his young "Fame" co-stars.

This season, the series will feature three new faces, including Janet Jackson, the 21-year-old sister of Michael. And Swofford — who joined "Fame" last season — is now a bit concerned because William Blinn, the show's creator and the actor's good friend, will not be involved in this season's 22 new episodes.

"We've got to be careful not to get too light," warns Swofford, a veteran of six previous series. "The new writers are from sitcoms and we've got to keep our heart in our show."

But not all viewers of "Fame" are certified teenyboppers. "I've got to admit," says Swofford, flashing a grin that would not be seen on Quentin Morlock's face, "I like the show so much I bought a VCR so I could watch it."

Rich's 'AW' renewal; Runyeon's 'World'

By Kimberly Redmond

Can you help me win a bet with my friend? I say Chris Rich of "Another World" is leaving the show, and my friend says he isn't. Is it true he's not renewing his contract? — J.S., Atlanta, Ga.

Chris Rich

There were rumors that Chris Rich, the actor who plays Sandy Cory, and Nancy Frangione, the actress who plays Chris's ex-wife Cecile de Poulignac, were not renewing with the soap. But don't believe anything until the ink dries on the dotted line. And in both cases, the ink has dried, and both stars have renewed with "AW." Congratulations — you won! Miss Frangione, however, will not return until November. And did you know she is married to Rich in real life?

Is it true that Gloria Loring of "Days of Our Lives" is married to ex-talk-show host Alan Thicke? If so, how long have they been married? Do they have any children? — E.K., Colorado Springs, Colo.

Miss Loring had been married to Canadian-born Thicke for 14 years, but the couple recently split. In a recent interview, Miss Loring said: "Our main concern right now is to supply continuity in parenting to our two boys. Alan and I are still living in the same house, which we've put on the market because it's too big for either one of us to keep up by ourselves. I think Alan's very special and very talented. You just lose touch with each other and suddenly you realize that too much has changed. I have always respected and admired Alan. I will continue to do so."

I'd like some information on Frank Runyeon of "As the World Turns." Could you also tell me where I can write to him? — M.H., Tiffin, Ohio.

Runyeon, who plays Steve Andropolous on the CBS soap, lives with his wife Ann, their son Frank III and their daughter Annie in New York City. He was born on Aug. 24, and you can write to him c/o "As the World Turns," CBS-TV, 52 West 52nd St., New York, NY 10019.

(Have a question about soap operas? Write Kimberly Redmond at 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

TUESDAY

Vin Scully (l.) and Joe Garagiola will be on hand to spread the news that the World Series is beginning this week. Live coverage of the opening game airs Tuesday, Oct. 9 on NBC.

(Stations reserve the right to make last-minute changes.)

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

I would like to know why Miss Ellie of "Dallas" never wears a belted dress or suit. — A.B., Clearwater, Fla.

Barbara Bel Geddes, the actress who played Miss Ellie, has her own style of fashion, and the clothes she wore on "Dallas" reflected it. The fact that loose dresses are in style is also a factor. Many times an actress will wear a variation on the same theme, as Beatrice Arthur did when she starred as "Maude." Remember her loose, long vests? Miss Bel Geddes has left "Dallas," and has been replaced by Donna Reed, who will be playing the new Miss Ellie. Most likely, Miss Reed will have a different "Dallas" fashion look since she and Miss Bel Geddes have different tastes.

Barbara Bel Geddes

I think most TV shows are terrible. If people aren't killing each other, then they're going to bed with each other. Why can't we have more family shows like "Little House on the Prairie" and "The Waltons"? — D.R., Gratiot, Wis.

Donna Reed

You are not alone in your opinion. Your best weapon is to write letters of protest to the stations and sponsors that carry and endorse the shows. This season, there will be still more sex and violence on the tube, but there are exceptions. ABC's "Call To Glory" deals with family values in a realistic, heartwarming way. Michael Landon's new series, "Highway to Heaven," is another family oriented show — in the NBC series, Landon plays an angel who returns to Earth to do good.

The actors who star on "Simon & Simon" are great. Are they brothers? — M.P., Falconer, N.Y.

Jameson Parker and Gerald McRaney are not related. Parker, who plays A.J., is from Baltimore and McRaney, who plays Rick, is from Collins, a small town in Mississippi.

(Do you have a question about TV? Write Val Carew at 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

SHOW AND TELL

Durrell hopes to score a 'V' on 'Alice'

By Gregory Garver

Michael Durrell

HOLLYWOOD — Michael Durrell did something most actors on a hit show would never do. He told the producers to kill his character off. He did it, he claims, for a worthy cause. And a better role. Durrell had played an anthropologist in NBC's "V," and the producers wanted him to recreate his character for six of the new season's episodes. But the actor was offered a role on "Alice," and he felt the CBS sitcom was a better meal ticket.

Durrell will be playing Linda Lavin's love interest, Nicholas Stone. And though he doesn't know very much about his character, or what will be cooking between the couple, he does know it was his five-page audition script that hooked him on the role.

"In that script," he recalls, "I played a writer who comes to the diner to interview Alice because he's been led to believe that she placed an ad in a magazine, looking for a fella."

Durrell was born Sylvester Salvatore Ciraulo, the Brooklyn-born, Hartford-raised son of a Sicilian shoemaker. "My father ran a chain of shoe repair stores in New England," Durrell says soulfully. "They were very successful, and he wanted one of his sons to follow him in that business. But he was disappointed when I became an actor, and disappointed again when my brother, Dominick, became a doctor."

As a young man, Durrell tried to please his father, and enrolled in Boston University as a business and economics major. But, he says, he couldn't keep up the charade more than one year. So he finally switched his major to fine arts. Later, he studied acting with a female acting coach, who managed to convince Durrell's father that show biz wasn't really a bad profession after all.

With his father's blessing, the budding actor went to New York — where he studied, struggled, sold silverware in a department store and, eventually, prospered. His love life also prospered. At one point, Durrell was living in a near-barren apartment on East 81st Street. The blonde tenant in the apartment downstairs kept losing her key, and she had to climb through the actor's window to get into her apartment.

Durrell unlocked his mind and came up with a capital idea: living together. That was 15 years ago, and the couple have been married for 10 years. Her name is Charlotte Savitz, and if the name sounds familiar, it's because she produces the CBS soap opera, "Capitol."

Farrah Fawcett gives a blistering performance as a battered woman in "The Burning Bed," airing Monday, Oct. 8 on NBC. Miss Fawcett plays Francine Hughes, a Michigan housewife who kills her husband by setting their bedroom on fire.

TV TATTLE

An Exercise in TV

Joey Bishop

When ABC asked Evelyn Barron to create a new kids' TV series, the Emmy-winning producer put them on hold. "I just had a baby," Miss Barron, 52, explains, "and I was in no shape for anything else." That baby grew into a kid — "The Tap Dance Kid," the first Broadway show Miss Barron ever produced — and the experience was not without growing pains. When the show opened last December, some critics found the musical less than tap-happy, and Miss Barron was busy keeping the show running. "In March of this year, I realized 'The Tap Dance Kid' had turned around and was doing well enough for me to leave it alone," she recalls. "That's when I was in shape for ABC."

Literally. Miss Barron created "Fun Fit" for the network, a series of three-minute exercise segments that air on Saturday mornings. "I needed to stay as far away from cartoons as I could," she confesses, "because I wanted kids to do more than stare at TV. 'Fun Fit' allows them to move around and maintain their bodies, and they have fun doing it."

Get the Message?

TV stars like to do things for royalty, but being a bishop also has its advantages. When Joey Bishop decided to market a line of greeting-card cassettes, he asked for the help of 36 of his starry friends. They all said yes, and "Greetings from the Stars" was born. Three celebrities greet listeners on each $3.95 tape, which offer birthday and anniversary greetings, as well as well-wishes to cheer you, congratulate you and — in the case of the 'What is Love?' tape, — educate you. Some of the talkative stars include Scott Baio, Ginger Rogers, Sally Struthers, and of course, Bishop himself. Each star was paid an advance of $10,000 against royalties of 10 cents per tape. What is Bishop cookin' up next? He's getting ready to serve up cassette versions of "Recipes of the Stars." The first star to sign up? Eva Gabor. The recipe? You guessed it: Hungarian goulash.

Manilow stays mum; Joan's unsold jokes

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — Jessica Berk, the author of an unauthorized Barry Manilow bio was sent word to cease, desist and bug off. Berk had already pumped several of BM's acquaintances, such as Tony Orlando, when the flow suddenly stopped. Jessica claims she tried reaching Barry for a friendly chat, but got his manager — and a not-so-friendly chat — instead.

George Hamilton, who finally got custody of son Ashley, 9, is dating Ashley's mom, who is his ex-wife Alana Stewart, who is also Rod Stewart's ex-wife. ... "Claretta," the film on Benito Mussolini's lover, has triggered a film on Adolf Hitler's mistress. Eva Braun's role hasn't been cast yet, but filming starts in Germany soon. ... After wrapping his 007 job, "A View to a Kill," Roger Moore wants to produce. For starters, he wants the B'way-bound Leslie Bricusse show, "Road Runner." ... Jackie Bisset is filming "Anna Karenina" in Budapest. Her contract provides for Vienna breaks, since her beau Alexander Godunov won't go behind the Iron Curtain. ... San Diego Padres superstar Goose Gossage will not be a coach when he retires. "My future is to relax and do nothing," says the Goose.

Barry Manilow

Joan Rivers

A gag writer sent Joan Rivers a one-liner. It was returned with this reply: "We're no longer accepting submissions. Miss Rivers' hectic schedule (performing on the road, writing three screenplays) precludes her devoting time to outside material. Since it's unfair to keep material on file for months on end, we won't be seeing or purchasing any one-liners at this time. We hope to accept submitted material again by the spring of '86. By that time, budding writers will be submitting jokes on the post office's new $5 stamps!

Manilow stays mum; Joan's unsold jokes

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — Jessica Berk, the author of an unauthorized Barry Manilow bio was sent word to cease, desist and bug off. Berk had already pumped several of BM's acquaintances, such as Tony Orlando, when the flow suddenly stopped. Jessica claims she tried reaching Barry for a friendly chat, but got his manager — and a not-so-friendly chat — instead.

George Hamilton, who finally got custody of son Ashley, 9, is dating Ashley's mom, who is his ex-wife Alana Stewart, who is also Rod Stewart's ex-wife. ... "Claretta," the film on Benito Mussolini's lover, has triggered a film on Adolf Hitler's mistress. Eva Braun's role hasn't been cast yet, but filming starts in Germany soon. ... After wrapping his 007 job, "A View to a Kill," Roger Moore wants to produce. For starters, he wants the B'way-bound Leslie Bricusse show, "Road Runner." ... Jackie Bisset is filming "Anna Karenina" in Budapest. Her contract provides for Vienna breaks, since her beau Alexander Godunov won't go behind the Iron Curtain. ... San Diego Padres superstar Goose Gossage will not be a coach when he retires. "My future is to relax and do nothing," says the Goose.

Barry Manilow

Joan Rivers

A gag writer sent Joan Rivers a one-liner. It was returned with this reply: "We're no longer accepting submissions. Miss Rivers' hectic schedule (performing on the road, writing three screenplays) precludes her devoting time to outside material. Since it's unfair to keep material on file for months on end, we won't be seeing or purchasing any one-liners at this time. We hope to accept submitted material again by the spring of '86." By that time, budding writers will be submitting jokes on the post office's new $5 stamps!

SHA Devising Plan to Use Rt. 48 Ramp

The State Highway Administration has come up with a plan they are "95 percent sure will work" to eliminate the 21-mile detour from Friendsville to Bruceton Mills, W. Va., to get on Route 48 west.

According to James Welch, assistant engineer for district six, SHA is completing the plans and final engineering drawings which must then be submitted to the contractor, I.A. Construction. Once I.A. is given the final plans and approves the project, which Welch hopes will be later this week, construction could begin by the end of this month.

The scheme involves using the existing westbound entrance part of the way, stopping just short of the present construction, and would involve construction of a new ramp from there onto Route 48.

This will mean a steeper grade, from the present 7.7 percent grade to 9 percent, but SHA officials do not anticipate problems with the steeper grade.

Estimates of cost for the additional work so the ramp can be used are not complete, Welch noted.

THREE'S A CHARM, they say, and we bet Ricky and Earlene Moats, Sang Run, will agree (except, maybe, after sleepless nights). The couple became the parents of three baby boys on September 13 at West Virginia University Medical Center, Morgantown, W.Va. Grandmother Joann Moats, left, helps the parents hold the babies named Brian, Carl and Ricky, respectively.

Mines Lay Off 80 Employees

Two area mining companies announced layoffs of production workers last week. Both Delta Mining and Coal Sales, of near Grantsville, and Masteller Coal Company, with headquarters near Keyser, have found it necessary to lay off workers due to large inventories built up by buyers in anticipation of a coal strike.

Although Delta officials are hopeful the layoffs will be of short duration, no recall of the 40 men is planned until the large inventories are depleted.

Some 31 deep miners at Masteller's JT 3 mine off Chestnut Ridge and an additional nine workers at the company's strip mine have been laid off indefinitely.

A toal of 135 employees are still working at JT 2 and the Hampshire Mill strip mine in neighboring Mineral County, W. Va.

Gallup Poll Results To Be Released Oct. 18

Results of the Garrett County Gallup Poll of Public Attitudes Toward the Public Schools will be announced during a luncheon October 18 at Southern High School.

The luncheon will be the first part of a lengthy agenda for the October meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage stated Wednesday.

During the luncheon, the county poll results will be explained as well as compared to the national results.

After the luncheon, the board will adjourn its meeting to the Board of Education office in Oakland.

Although the meeting's agenda was not completed Wednesday, Dr. Ryscavage reported several items to be discussed and noted the meeting "will be long."

The first two items to be taken before the board will be approval of the design drawing for the Northern High School renovation and a presentation about the gifted and talented program in the county school system.

The Northern Athletic Association plans to meet with the board during the meeting on

World Championship Whitewater Races Slated At Savage River

The 1989 World Championship for slalom and wildwater races will be held at Savage River State Park, it was announced Tuesday by Cindy Kutchman, director of the Garrett County Promotion Council.

A phone call was made to Kutchman by Susan Chamberlain, president of the American Canoe Association. Chamberlain had just met with the International Canoe Federation in Sophia, Bulgaria, where the Savage River decision had just been made. She traveled from Bulgaria to Germany to make the phone call.

David and Mimi Demaree approached Cindy Kutchman and Tom Jones, County development director, last winter with the idea of submitting a proposal to the federation about the "excellent whitewater resources at Savage River." A proposal was drawn up and sent to the International Canoe Federation, the governing body for international canoe racing.

The United States was in contention for the race site with Yugoslavia, Spain and Switzerland. This is the first time the United States has been selected for these races, which, in the past was predominately a European sport. It is only the second time the races have been held outside European countries. The races were held in Quebec, Canada, in 1979.

The Savage River is no stranger to whitewater racing on a large scale, though, as it hosted the 1972 Olympic trials and has been the site of numerous national competitions.

"The selection of the Savage River site should contribute greatly to local business and clubs, as the event will be quite a tourist attraction as well as accommodating the athletes, officials and coaches," according to a spokesman from the

Browning's Stone Quarry Still Wants Answers From County Board

Jim Browning, president of Browning's Stone Quarry Inc., is still waiting to hear from the Garrett County Commissioners for reasons why his company, which received the county bid for crusher run, has had very little of that product purchased from them.

At a meeting with the commissioners October 3, Browning expressed that concern, along with other concerns and questions, to the board. At press time today, he said he hasn't been contacted by the commissioners yet on this matter.

Browning questioned why the County Roads Department had been purchasing crusher run from Fairfax Stone Company when their bid was higher than Browning's. Browning stated that Keystone Lime Company, not Fairfax, was using a waste product, from a strip job they operated, as crusher run. (The Republican erroneously reported that Fairfax was using the waste product). Keystone received the bid for crusher run last year. Browning would like to know where the crusher run waste product from Keystone was used and how it performed.

Browning was also greatly concerned as to why the county accepted a bid for #7 crusher run from Greenbrier Stone Quarry, located on the other side of Rowlesburg, W.Va. Although Greenbrier's bid was $2.10 lower than Browning's. Browning questioned the validity of the county being able to haul the #7 stone up the mountain to the roads department and then hauling it to job sites for only $1.00 per ton. Browning stated that he told former roads department supervisors that he would even stockpile the stone for the county.

Browning also was dismayed that the roads department not only took their business out of the county, but out of state.

When asked about this matter at a press conference Tuesday, the commissioners reported that they are doing everything in their power to accurately respond to Browning's questions. They went on to say that, due to major administrative changes occurring within the roads department, it is difficult to act swiftly in this matter.

Ribbon Cutting Set October 17 For Deep Creek Sewer System

An open house and ribbon cutting ceremony for the Deep Creek Lake sewer system is scheduled next Wednesday, October 17, at 11 a.m. at the treatment plant.

Expected to attend are officials from the Environmental Protection Agency, State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, members of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, contractors, and political representatives. Following the ceremony there will be tours of the project.

UV Lights Not Here

According to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator, all systems appear to be operating well, but the district will not begin accepting sewage until the ultra-violet light system is installed. The announcement was made during the October 2 meeting of the sanitary commission.

Although the manufacturer promised the unit by the first of this month, it has not been delivered and installed.

When this is complete, Beitzel said he is "very optimistic that the system is going to work real well."

This week technicians are getting the radio telemetry program set up with Central Alarm, where a computerized receiver will record messages from malfunctioning pumping stations or the treatment plant.

The system will eliminate monthly phone bills which would have accompanied a telephone telemetry system.

At the pumping stations, a green light indicates all is working normally. A blue light means that the emergency generator is in use, and a red light means there is a problem.

Anyone seeing a red light is asked to call 387-6115 to report the problem, as a backup to the radio telemetry system.

Persons with questions about the system may also call that

Boards Discuss Garrett-Allegany Border Dispute

Jim Lupis, assistant superintendent of Garrett County schools, and Michael Sines, transportation director, met with the Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday to express concerns over the disputed line between Garrett and Allegany counties.

Lupis told the commissioners that a definite border must be established due to the fact there are approximately 16 students for which the county is responsible for paying tuition of $1,000 apiece per year to Allegany County.

The confusion lies between the Chisholm line and the Bauer line in the northeast section of Garrett County.

Commissioner Gregg said that they recognized the Chisholm line which had originally been approved by the Attorney General. There was also discussion of people living in the "gray" area and whether they had the option to pay Garrett or Allegany land taxes.

Commissioner Groves assured Lupis and Sines that they would get in contact with the Maryland Department of Assessments office to finally determine which line is legal and binding. The line dispute has been a problem for over 100 years, but according to the commissioners, no one ever took the time to solve the problem.

Accidents Send Six Persons To Area Hospitals

One woman is still listed in "serious" condition and another woman in "satisfactory" condition as the result of an automobile accident which occurred October 4 at 8:30 a.m. at the intersection of Routes 135 and 38 in Deer Park.

Pamela Oates, 20, Bel Air, remains a patient at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where she is still listed in "serious" condition. She was the passenger in the right front of the 1971 Ford Gran Torino driven by Jaquelene Kay Bradley, 40, Keyser, W. Va., who was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital in "stable" condition. Her condition was upgraded to "satisfactory" yesterday, according to a hospital spokesman.

Another passenger in the vehicle, Denise K. Dolly, 21, Rawlings, was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released.

The accident occurred when the Bradley vehicle, traveling east on Route 135, attempted to make a left-hand turn onto Route 38 and collided with a 1968 International truck driven by Guy Willard Harvey, 54. There was dense fog in the area which contributed to the accident, according to Tfc. R.M. Hershberger.

Relief Hearing For Tichnell To Begin Oct. 16

Garrett County State's Attorney James Sherbin will travel to Calvert County Circuit Court next week to argue legal points in a post conviction relief hearing for Richard D.Tichnell, convicted killer of a Garrett County Deputy Sheriff.

Prince George's County Circuit Judge Audrey E. Melbourne will preside over the hearing which will begin October 16 and is expected to last about three days.

Sherbin stated that Tichnell, who filed for the relief several months ago, lists 18 points in his request including incompetency of private counsel. He will be represented by attorneys from the Maryland public defender's office.

The purpose of the post conviction relief hearing will be to determine whether there where constitutional errors or errors in the sentencing of Tichnell, Sherbin explained.

Sherbin noted that if the judge denies post conviction relief, Tichnell can appeal to the Maryland Court of Appeals. Beyond that, Tichnell can appeal to a federal district court and then to the U.S. Court of Appeals and finally to the Supreme Court. At that point Tichnell will have exhausted all appeal avenues, Sherbin stated.

Tichnell, 37, from Fairmont, W. Va., shot Deputy David Livengood as the officer responded to a burglar alarm on January 18, 1979, at Davidson's Army-Navy Store in Oakland. His co-defendent, Roberto Oskar Rescek, 35, also of Fairmont, was sentenced to life imprisonment for his part in the crime.

Tichnell who has a death sentence, was scheduled for execution in the gas chamber during July, but that date was set back indefinitely in June and remains unscheduled.

Local Thefts Being Probed By Md. State Police

Two substantial thefts in the area are being investigated by the Maryland State Police.

Wanted for theft is Thomas Eugene Schlabaugh, who allegedly stole $1,600 from Paul Eugene Spear. Spear reportedly gave Schlabaugh the $1,600 in currency to purchase a cargo trailer for him in Elkhart, Indiana. Schlabaugh told Spear he was going to Indiana to purchase equipment for Garrett Enterprises, his van conversion plant. When Schlabaugh failed to return after three weeks, Spear filed a complaint of theft to the Maryland State Police on September 29.

Schlabaugh and his former business partner, C. Ross Clemenson, are also wanted for theft from Custom Services Limited. Schlabaugh was formerly employed as general manager of that business.

Sgt. C.H. Hinnant is in charge of the investigation.

In another case of breaking and entering and theft, Harold Glenn DeWitt, reported that someone has stolen an A Frame and lift, used to attach a snow plow to a tractor, and a 12-volt tractor battery from a storage shed located at his residence in McHenry. Total loss is estimated at $1,065.

Tfc. Dale K. Williams is continuing his investigation.

Election Board Concerned Over Error In Story

Chief topic at the October 4 meeting of the Board of Supervisors of Elections was an error in The Republican which stated that voters wishing to write in candidates must ask the machine judges for ballots.

This misconception was clarified to The Republican newspaper staff and a correction appears elsewhere in today's edition.

Legal procedures regarding assisting the handicapped to vote are to be explored by the board's attorney, Tom Dabney, before the board makes decisions on procedure.

President of the Board, Roscoe Swiger, was to attend a meeting of the Garrett County Salary Commission October 10 at 9 p.m.

Present for Thursday's meeting were Swiger, James Brady and alternate David Beard.

Oakland, County Officials Conduct Public Hearing

Only one citizen turned out for the public hearing conducted jointly by the city of Oakland and Garrett County officials last Wednesday morning on accessibility for the handicapped to town and county buildings.

Wendy Yoder, deputy county clerk, conducted the session and explained that the town and county governments are working together to comply with federal regulations prohibiting discrimination against anyone due to handicapping conditions.

A questionnaire had been sent out regarding potential impediments, and any responses will be included in the record of the hearing.

Dorothy Leuba, of the Garrett Organization for the Handicapped, stated concerns about accessibility to various polling places and also to the library. The group feels it should be made widely known that parking for handicapped persons is available in the rear of the library building.

Mrs. Leuba also urged officials to enforce laws against parking in spaces reserved for the handicapped.

Linda Hamm, clerk for the city of Oakland, reported that accessibility to the city hall will soon be facilitated by a wheelchair ramp being installed in front of the Appalachian Center and Country Oven Bakery on Third Street, adjacent to city hall. That project was instigated by Charlotte Griffith, director of the center.

The hearing was held to comply with federal regulations regarding dispersion of revenue sharing funds.

According to folklore, you can expect rain if an ant covers the hole to his anthill.

State Aid Funding Proposed By MACo For Fire, Rescue Depts.

A proposal for state aid funding for fire departments and rescue squads has been drawn up by the Maryland Association of County Administrative Offices, (MACo)

According to Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey, who attended a meeting of MACo in Annapolis October 3, the agency is proposing that a total of $5,000,000 be distributed to fire departments and rescue squads throughout the state. A minimum of $100,000 would be awarded to each county. Garrett County would receive the minimum if the bill passes in the state legislature. "Garrett County will still give local fire departments 5 cents of each tax dollar as it has done in the past, in addition to the $100,000," stated Braskey.

MACo is also proposing a bill in which the state would assume total funding responsibilty for circuit courts, boards of elections, orphans courts, and quite possibly, state's attorney's offices. MACo contends that since these are essentially state-governed departments, the state should handle all the funding, not just part of it as it does now.

MACo also heard a proposal by Marshall Rickert, director of the Office of Financial Planning and Budget for the Maryland Department of Transportation.

Rickert proposed a bill that would stagger the purchasing of automobile registration tags (for cars only). He felt that it would alleviate a lot of problems and excessive paperwork for the department. If this bill passes, it would mean a loss of over $63,000 for Garrett County the first year of its existence.

Robert Fousek, county clerk, explained that the plan would have a declining cycle adjustment and that the county would recoup its losses in subsequent years in the form of Highway User Funds.

Rickert is presently working on a plan that will ensure each county recovery of their initial losses. He stressed that each county would be better off in the long run with the staggering of registrations.

MACo will be convening again for a fall conference, October 17, 18, and 19, at the Ramada Inn in Hagerstown. Topics at the conference will include: "Sexual Harassment on the Job", "New Handicapped Requirements for General Revenue Sharing," "Sick Leave Bank", and "Alternative Sentencing/Work Release."

BPW Seeking Candidates For Young Careerist

The Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club is seeking working women interested in participating in the Young Careerist Program. The program is open to women between the ages of 21 and 30 who have been employed full-time for at least one year.

This program is designed to recognize young career women for their community involvement as well as for their professional achievements. The program will be held at the Club's regularly scheduled meeting in November.

Additional information concerning the program will be published in next week's Republican.

Applications for the program and further information are also available from Tammy Manthos, Garrett Community College, 387-6666 Ext. 114 or last year's Young Careerist, Katherine Zimmerman, CPA, Mateer and Zimmerman, 334-4007.

DWI Charge Brought Against Oakland Woman

An Oakland woman was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs yesterday.

Emma Catherine Glotfelty, 39, Center Street, was stopped by Cpl. Ron Beeghly of the Oakland City Police for failing to keep right of center. Upon making the stop on Liberty Street, Beeghly also charged Glotfelty with DWI.

APPROPRIATE ACTION October 9 by the county commissioners has designated Sunday, October 14, as Fallen Firefighters Memorial Day in Garrett County. The proclamation urges all citizens to join with all fire service organizations in efforts to recognize the danger encountered by the firefighters of Garrett County and to "properly render tribute to those who have given their lives to serve mankind." Seated above, left to right, are Commissioners Ernie Gregg, Jr., Elwood Groves, II, and John Braskey. Standing are George Comp, treasurer of the Garrett County Firemen's Association and member of the Deer Park VFD; and Ira "Tip" Yaste, president of the Garrett Firemen's Association and member of the Bittinger VFD.

Commission Hears Updates On Area Water Projects

The Garrett County Sanitary Commission was informed on matters pertaining to the Kitzmiller, Gorman and Shallmar water projects as well as the Upper Youghiogheny Facilities Plan October 2 at its monthly meeting.

Kitzmiller Water

Construction is well underway for the Kitzmiller water system despite delays in obtaining a floodplain construction permit from the Department of Natural Resources Water Administration. That permit affects installation of water lines in the floodplain area.

The sites are being prepared for the water tank and treatment plant. The engineer, Greenhorne & O'Mara, is presently working with the contractor for the treatment plant site, H.J. Schneider, for final resolution on changes for the treatment plant.

The town had requested that the water line be extended to serve another property, and the sanitary commission has instructed the engineer to make arrangements for the extension.

Mtn. Lake Park Water Co.

The Sanitary Commission has agreed, after closing out the water improvement project for the Mtn. Lake Water Company, to investigate obtaining a state or federal grant or a combination of grants to tie in additional water supplies.

The town experienced brief periods of inadequate water supply this summer, so the commission plans to seek additional water supplies on the mountain above Landon's Dam and to increase the storage facility as well. These solutions should also increase pressure to areas where residents are experiencing problems.

Gorman Water

Contractors to build the new span over the North Branch of the Potomac River at Gorman have begun relocation of the Gorman water lines. Harman Construction of Grafton, W. Va., which holds the contract, has encountered rock and has had to blast almost the entire length of the water line, according to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator.

Shallmar Water

The commission has instructed Beitzel to obtain other engineering proposals for design and construction of a water system for the town of Shallmar. The sanitary commission agreed last Tuesday that several proposals will make it easier for a comparison in order to determine the most cost-effective proposal.

Upper Yough Facility Plan

The commission received a letter recently from the state Department of Health and Mental Hygiene indicating that officials have approved only a portion of the Upper Youghiogheny facility plan.

Approved were the Oakland and Trout Run portions of the plan. However, the department indicated it will not approve Crellin and Deer Park.

The Crellin portion will not be approved because it indicates that the recommended sewer facilities are unaffordable. The health department has now requested the sanitary commission to investigate other systems which may be affordable for the town.

Deer Park's portion was not approved, despite written confirmation from town officials that the town does not wish to pursue a sewerage facility, since the commission did not outline any plan for the town or ask for discharge parameters for the Little Yough.

Known All Over . . .

Garrett County is making quite a name for itself, not only in the state of Maryland, but nationally and even internationally.

We refer first to the announcement this week that the Savage River in Garrett County has been selected as the site for the 1989 World Championship Slalom and Wildwater Races. This is the first time that the event has ever been slated to be held in the United States, as the local site was chosen from among other locations in Spain, Yugoslavia and Switzerland. Some 20 nations will be represented in the event and there will no doubt be several thousand spectators. Between now and 1989 there will be a number of trial runs on the Savage to prepare competitors for the championships.

We think this is great, exciting news for the people of our county. We appreciate the efforts of those who worked to "sell" the Savage River site to the International Canoe Federation, such as Cindy Kutchman and the Promotion Council. We hope now that the same people are in touch with the major television networks to ensure widespread coverage of the races.

It was also good news to read that a national publication recently selected Garrett as one of the 100 finest counties out of over 3,000 in the nation in which to vacation and/or live. Those of us who live here knew all along that our county is one of the best and now thousands more people know it. Such publicity is bound to pay off in the form of tourist dollars.

We are also bringing into the county an individual of national prominence this week as ABC's Ted Koppel has been named the Grand Marshal of the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade on Saturday. Never has there been a more respected, brilliant, well-informed, professional television newsman than Ted Koppel, in our opinion. Of course, as most local folk are aware, Mr. Koppel is no stranger to Garrett County. In fact, it is his second home, as he and his family spend much time relaxing at their residence on Deep Creek Lake and skiing the slopes of Wisp.

The weather forecast for the remainder of the week is promising and the stage is set for another fun Autumn Glory Festival. As in previous years, we would again suggest that all local people try to forget for a few days the problems and woes that are a part of life and enjoy.

We stand corrected by a Board of Education official who informed us this week that, contrary to information in a recent editorial, Garrett County schools do have a writing curriculum, as part of the language arts curriculum. We also stated that Allegany County has an "excellent" writing curriculum, and yet we learned that Allegany students scored lower on the functional writing test than did Garrett County students! Nonetheless, Allegany County may still have an excellent curriculum and, as we stated before, there may well be a problem with the test itself.

What Makes A Festival?

by Beverly J. Sincell

Who can suppress the excitement for Autumn Glory which begins to swell inside as the leaves begin to change color—almost as if nature triggers spring inside us and fall outside at the same time? How is that autumn and our country's Autumn Glory Fesival evoke such excitement that at times I think I will burst?

When is a festival a festival? As I ponder this question, I slowly begin to understand. For some, it is tonight at Oktoberfest when old and young kick up their heels dancing and laughing, almost as if they are conscious this is the final fling before the cold and snow of winter drives us inside. For the agricultural community, it is a time to take a short breather, ackowledging that much is yet to be done before winter, but also feeling able to stop for a while as the intense workload of summer begins to let up.

It is a time to relax from the labor of life, but oh the work to bring it together! Thank goodness Garrett Countians can labor in love and merriment with one another!!

Besides the relaxation and fun, the festival brings back memories. For me, I remember the fun on parade day (before the Saturday parade began) of riding around the outskirts of town in a car with a loud speaker and laughing at the surprised look of others because they could not tell who was talking to them. But, more importantly, I remember the excitement and pride as I donned my high school band uniform back in 1972 to march along with my comrades in a band just beginning to be noticed, the Southern Highlanders. Now, the parade takes on a special meaning as I stand with my children watching them dance as the bands march by or laugh and wave as the clowns perform their antics. There is so much to do, who can see it all? Don't even mention the food.

When is a festival a festival? I think it must be a special time in which participants can find those elements for which they yearn, be it fun, reminiscing, relaxation, competition, entertainment or food. Most of all, it is a time when we show off our county, robed in such splended colors that no artist's palette can match it, and bring together people from this community which are as fine a bunch as we can find anywhere on this earth.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The Garrett County Mental Health Advisory Committee is planning to conduct an extensive community needs assessments survey in the next several weeks.

The goal of the Advisory Committee is to learn from the citizens of our community if they are aware of the existing services of the Mental Health Unit of the Garrett County Health Department; if they know how to obtain them; what services they have or are using; and, especially, what services are needed but don't exist. The data from the survey will be given to the staff of the Mental Health Unit for future planning and for seeking funds to establish the needed, requested services.

The questionnaires used to obtain the information will be designed for three basic groups: consumers of the mental health services (present and former), citizens and agencies in the community, and the staff of the Mental Health Unit.

Plans are for the community questionnaire to be published in local newspapers, The Republican on 10/11/84; and the Citizen Record on 10/16/84. Local identified food stores, branches of the Ruth Enlow Library and the Country Oven Bakery will be drop off points for the questionnaire; or the questionnaire can be mailed into the Committee at P.O. Box 193, Oakland, Maryland 21550.

The Advisory Committee is hoping that members of the community will take the time to complete and submit the questionnaire. Public input is very important for the development of local services.

For more information about the survey, interested persons can contact me at 334-1322 during the day.

I would like to thank you for your generous efforts in publishing the questionnaire.

Sincerely,
Charlotte Griffith
Needs Assessment Chairperson

To the Editor:

I am writing in answer to the letters which were printed last week concerning the Raiders and Steelers football game on September 29.

I will agree, I have never [illegible] one either. But the blame should not be put on the Raiders or their coaches. Interested persons should ask someone who was there how many unnecessary penalties was given to the Raiders. I could make a fair guess that we were given about 200 yards in penalties. I cannot say they were all uncalled for because, although I have been a Raider mother for three years, I cannot say I'm an expert on the game.

I can say that tempers were short on both sides, not just the Raiders'. As far as the referees being commended on how well they called the game, they should be made to answer some questions on some of the calls they made.

Also, in answer to the person who made the comment about the Raiders undefeated record: those boys worked for it! Their coaches are to be praised for all they have taught these boys. That game was a bad one and I'm really sorry those boys were injured on the Steeler team, but I know the Raiders did not pat themselves on the back after the game was called. We went to Northern knowing the Raiders could come home still with an undefeated record, but we did not need or want to win in this way.

A proud Raider mother

To the Editor:

What a great time of year to be in Garrett County. The activity, energy and enthusiasm associated with Autumn Glory is infectious. So many members of our community donate volunteer hours to ensure that a good time is had by all who join us.

A sure fire event that has everyone talking about it long after the leaves are off the trees, is the Autumn Glory Road Rally. Sunday, October 14, is the date scheduled for this year's "Trivial Road Rally." Cars will be registered between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Appalachian Center at 105 South Third Street, Oakland. Registered cars will leave the starting line at the Southern Middle School parking lot between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., and the Rally will close at 5 p.m. There is a $10 donation per car to enter and prizes will be awarded on a point system for the best mileage and correct answers. There will be first, second, and third place prizes for a Garrett County vehicle and a non-Garrett vehicle. Everyone who enters the Rally and completes the Rally will be eligible to win a game of "Trivial Pursuit" (Genus Edition). It is not a timed or speed rally. Driver and vehicle safety is emphasized.

Since October is "National Employ the Handicapped Month," the driver and navigator will each receive a "survival pack" from the Country Oven Bakery which was named the 1983 "National Small Employer of the Year" by the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

The 1984 Autumn Glory Road Rally is sponsored by the Garrett Organization for the Handicapped, a local group which advocates for and financially supports programs and services for handicapped Garrett County citizens. For more information and the pre-registration special, ralliers can contact me at 334-1322 day; or 334-8856, evening.

Sincerely,
Charlotte Griffith

To the Editor:

Did you read the write-up in the October 4 issue of The Republican about the County Commissioners and Browning's Quarry? It seems for every question Brownings asked about the different types of stones the county roads department is using and where they are buying it, and what prices they are paying, the county commissioners had an excuse. One was due to the recent resignation of county roads personnel. Don't they keep records?

Maybe the commissioners should talk to some of the county roads department truck drivers who haul stone. The drivers know where they are going for the stone and some know that they are paying higher prices than necessary and that it's costing the county more to run these trucks much further distances in fuel alone, not counting the up-keep on the trucks. Is it necessary for all this extra expense?

When Browning's Quarry got the bids for stone and are just around the corner, where are they going for the stone? Answer—Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

People of Garrett County, do you think that's right, when you hear all the time the county is running short on funds and they can't do this or they can't do that? It's probably because the county commissioners and the county roads department are taking away from our county and us, the taxpayers, and giving it to out-of-state counties.

To the Editor:

Since Anna Mary Fratz has filed as a write-in candidate for the Garrett County Board of Education in order to give the voters of Garrett County a choice in selecting a school board member, I think it is necessary to clarify write-in voting.

To write in a candidate's name is a very simple procedure. The voter does not have to ask the election judges for a write in ballot as stated in The Republican last week.

Write in slots are at the top of each voting machine. Each slot is numbered. The voter looks for #19, raises the slot, write Anna Fratz. That is the complete procedure! Your write-in vote is as secretive as when you pull the lever above a candidate's name.

The Board of Supervisors of Elections for Garrett County will supply pencils in each voting machine.

Thank you,
Margaret DeWitt

To the Editor:

Your "Fighting the Deficit" editorials are excellent. It is an absolute necessity for our country's welfare!

I was appalled at the letters to the editor concerning the "Football Fiasco." Had not the parents written would it have been covered up? This is education? When will the power structure realize we have a problem with our administration and Board of Education, locally? Football coaches and players should know from the administration and Board before it could ever become a reality that violence could never be sportsmanship? Where is the real leadership here? It's disgraceful!

Surprised that some students have very low testing scores? I reported to the highest authorities several years ago students were being graduated from Southern with a regular diploma who could neither read nor write (Not special education students) no one cared! Will anyone act now? The School Board members election toulups? Where are the political heads? The Renovation Funds for NHs gone elsewhere? Where are the state officials who should be looking out for Garrett County? Looking out for themselves and their cronies?

All is beautiful county commissioners in the Roads Dept? Browning Quarry query? We can buy blacktop cheaper than we can produce it, in our own plant? How come? Power structure, where are you for Garrett County?

Thanks, DeCorsey, for calling a spade a spade with Edwards!

When will we realize we have a real alcoholic problem here and those people should be gotten out of key positions! The coverup should have ended before 20 years! Pretending doesn't help! Some honesty would!

Perhaps Lewis Jackson should look deeper into the gasoline roads department situation rather than one specific vehicle!

Perhaps its easier to think of problems in Washington than locally? It's past time we faced up to reality here! Think!

This is my opinion.

Louise V. Harvey

Dear Ms. Harvey,

The Board of Education has nothing to do with the Mt. Top Youth Football League.

Editor

Dear Commissioners Gregg and Groves (via the Editor):

I just read the news item of The Republican (September 27) in which you two managed to do a disservice to our students and their teachers in the Garrett County Public Schools. Yes, we have a problem and, yes, we'll take care of it with little thanks or help from the fiscal folks.

No, you do not spend nearly half your budget on schools. It's closer to 40%. In fact, it is second lowest effort in Maryland. Now, that should call for a news conference. Your misery here has little company.

Where were you two when the reading and math scores shot up in Garrett? Yes, they were low in the trial run and so was the rest of the state. And, no, it doesn't give us comfort, but does show that it's a statewide problem.

Garrett ranks up near the top when it comes to reading and math scores state-wide. We're proud of our students and teachers. Let's work together and I know we'll do just as well with writing skills, although they'll probably be tougher to master.

What we need to do in Garrett, in Maryland, and the nation is redouble our commitment and our resources to public education as the foundation of this democracy that we all hold dear. That's the press conference we can all be proud to attend. So, where's the beef now?

Our Turn

FAREWELL TO A FEW FADS
by Susan Alvarez

Fads may come and fads may go, and I, for one, am thrilled that some of them are gone. There are those endurable fads that have special places in our hearts, like hula hoops and roller skating. Then there are the fads that tend to make us grit our teeth, close our eyes, and hope they'll soon be over.

Tops on my list of fads I'd like to see go are those maddening little "friendship" beads. They were those teeny, tiny little beads that spilled everywhere when I was trying to thread them onto safety pins. (I'm still sporting scars on my thumbs). The really fun part about them, though, was listening to the kids walking around, jangling to the tune of 50,000 beads attached to their shoelaces, while I walked around to the tune of them crunching under my feet. One morning, in the height of the era, I could have sworn I heard my vacuum cleaner begging for mercy.

Speaking of noise, how about the incessant click-click-click of the Rubik's Cube? I think my animosity toward the cube stems from the fact that I could never solve the darn thing even after I looked at the solution book.

Will we ever forget that famous "Dukes of Hazard" period of American history? I really was amazed at the number of variety of items that could be made with Bo and Luke's smiling faces on them - lunch boxes, posters, coffee cups. There were even cars painted like the "General Lee." (I never did understand why the Duke boys wouldn't fix their car doors - they always jumped in and out of the windows.

Then there were those two linguistic phenomena, "CB radio" talk and "valley girl" talk. If I ever hear "10-4, good buddy, there's a smokey up the road"! I will, "like, totally barf-o, like, gag me with a spoon."

For the moment, though, I must endure walking through my house, stepping around a bunch of kids standing on their heads - spinning. I think I even saw the dog twirling around the other day. Why they call it "breakdancing" instead of "breaknecking", I'll never know!

various matters, however Dr. Ryscavage had not been notified as to the specific topics.

Al Ringer, assistant superintendent of instruction, will report on actions which have either been taken or are planned to improve students' writing performance on the state functional writing test. Ninth graders are to take the test next spring.

The school board will also discuss the pre-kindergarten program in order to complete a state survey which asks, among other things, whether the local school system wants to establish the program in all its schools.

Also, the school board will be asked to consider a policy governing home instructions to insure that home taught children are receiving an education equal to that in the public schools.

Another item Dr. Ryscavage mentioned was that the board is expected to take action on a policy on smoking in the schools by non-students.

In addition to his "Nightline" responsibilities, Koppel anchors "Viewpoint," an ABC News broadcast which airs six times a year and provides a forum for criticism and analysis of television news. He also regularly participates in ABC News, "special events". Koppel has been the recipient of a number of prestigious awards and honors, including an Emmy for a special April 1981 edition of "Nightline" which analyzed Ronald Reagan's landslide presidential victory. In 1982, he was cited for his outstanding work on "Nightline" and "Viewpoint" when ABC News received a George Foster Peabody Award for Television Reporting. Koppel has also been granted honorary doctorates from Syracuse University, Colgate University and the University of South Carolina.

Before his "Nightline" assignment, he worked as an anchor, foreign and domestic correspondent, and Bureau Chief.

Heritage Craft Fest Slated Here This Weekend

The Heritage Craft Fest, the fifth annual show sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council during Autumn Glory weekend, will bring to the county over 30 heritage crafts and the artists who will demonstrate them. Also included will be special features, including activities for children. Events will be held at the Oakland Center of GCC.

A partial list of crafts and artists includes:

Scherenschnitte (paper cutting) will be demonstrated by former art teacher Paul Beal, Friedens, Pa., who has appeared at the Three Rivers Art Festival, Somerset Mountain Craft Days, Sewickley Art Celebration and Penn Alps Summerfest.

Quilling (another paper art from the past) will be shown by Marcette Danner, Garrett County art teacher whose work can be seen locally in craft shops and nationally in craft magazines.

Chair caning changed from a hobby to a full-time business for Marley Detrick, who forms original patterns using an old medium.

Dried flowers (weeds the cows won't eat) are arranged by Helen Hedrick, whose skill and coaching helped the national 4-H winner of the 1983 National Junior Horticulture Competition held in Tulsa, Okla.

Quilting was not a part of Karin Rodeheaver's past in Germany, but since coming to Garrett County, she has developed skill and has a long waiting list for her work.

Treen (carving of kitchen utensils) will be demonstrated by Dennis Ruane, whose results are counted works of art.

Accidents

Garrett County Emergency Management summoned the Maryland State Police, the Southern Rescue Squad, the Deer Park Fire Department, and Medevac helicopter to the scene.

As a result of the another accident which occurred Sunday evening, John Gillespie, 24, Culpeper, Va., remains in "satisfactory" condition following a mishap on Route 560, about three miles south of Loch Lynn.

Gillespie was the passenger in the 1956 Chevrolet pickup operated by Stewart Ellsworth Layman, Jr., 37, Piedmont, W. Va., who was treated and released at Garrett Memorial Hospital. Layman was reportedly attempting to pass and pull over a vehicle traveling in front of him on Route 560 when he approached an oncoming vehicle, causing him to brake and swerve back to the right side of the road. The vehicle then skidded and overturned.

Layman was charged with negligent driving and driving with a revoked license, by Tfc. G.R. Chaney.

In yet another accident which occurred October 4, Roger Kemp Craver, 33, Deer Park, was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital after being thrown from his 1976 Harley-Davidson motorcycle on the Sand Flat Road.

Craver was reportedly southbound on the Sand Flat Road, lost control of his cycle, struck a ditch, re-entered the road, ran off the left side of the road and struck another ditch before finally coming to rest.

Craver was released from the hospital Sunday.

Tfc. R.J. Resh charged Craver with negligent driving and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs.

Route 219 Bridge

The State Highway Administration has begun borings for the new bridge on Route 219 over the lake, and has agreed to do some borings for the sanitary commission at the same time.

These boring samples will save time and money during bridge construction, when the commission will have to determine whether to reconstruct the line to hang on the new bridge, or to take the sewer line underwater.

The SHA has not yet indicated whether it will assist in the cost of relocating the line when the bridge is constructed.

Adopts User Rates

The Sanitary Commission formally adopted the sewer user rate study which outlines methods used to establish rates for maintenance and to retire the debt for the sewer system debt.

The commission plans to send letters to each user outlining the charges and encouraging all users to pay off the debt retirement portion up front. This would mean $800 per equivalent residential user. If a property owner chooses not to pay the $800 up front, the cost will be $79.50 annually for the next 40 years, or until the local portion of the costs is paid.

Users who want to sign up in the future will be expected to pay the $800 before hooking onto the system.

CANDIDATE DONATES TO HOSPITALS — Robin Ficker, Republican candidate for the House of Representatives District Six seat, announced Wednesday morning that he plans to donate sufficient money to Garrett County Memorial Hospital to purchase 30 pints of blood or 40,000 tongue depressors on the condition that opponent Beverly Byron keeps her campaign promise and has a legitimate debate with him on the issues in western Maryland. Ficker said Garrett was the first on a whirlwind tour to hospitals across the state, from here to Howard County, to make the same commitment. Ficker says Bryon, the incumbent, promised two debates and so far only one has been held. A 14-minute discussion of the issues has been planned on a Virginia television station October 29 but Ficker wants to hold a debate in western Maryland on the issues of unemployment and 67 percent cost-of-living cuts in Social Security. Ficker is also criticizing Byron's "inattentiveness to her job" and pointing out that she has visited more foreign countries than anyone in Congress. Pictured with the candidate, fourth from left, are Paul Frantz, secretary of the Republican State Central Committee; William Crawford, chairman of the central committee; Pat White, chairman of District 16 (Mt. Lake Park) and secretary of the Republican Women's Club; Ficker, Wayne Wilt, vice chairman of the central committee; and Juan Manzanares, campaign aid and retired legislative aid from Congress. Ficker called the Wednesday meetings "the most important press conference of the campaign trip."

Ficker Addresses GOP Supporters At County Dinner

Robin Ficker, Republican candidate for the Sixth Congressional District seat, was guest speaker for the Republican Bull Roast and Dance held October 6 at the Wilhelm Recreation Area, Avilton.

Ficker spoke to approximately 150 persons in attendance about the job situation in Western Maryland and about his opponent in the race, Beverly Byron. Ficker mentioned Byron's lack of attendance in the House of Representatives and that she has traveled to more foreign countries than any other member of Congress.

Among party officials present at the dinner, which was hosted by the Republican State Central Committee, were Richard Taylor, National Committeeman for the State of Maryland; Charles Johnson, second vice-chairman of the Maryland State Republican Party; John Bambacus, state senator; and George Edwards, representative to the Maryland House of Delegates.

Bittinger Woman And Son Remain Hospital Patients

A Bittinger woman and her son, both injured September 27 when a pickup truck struck them on Orendrof Road, remain patients at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

Cyndi Anne Kolbe, 32, was listed in good condition Wednesday afternoon while her son, Joshua, was listed in "stable" condition in the pediatrics division.

Mrs. Kolbe underwent surgery Monday when physicians worked to repair a compound fracture of the left leg just above the ankle. William Kolbe, husband of the woman, stated Wednesday evening physicians placed a plate in her leg.

Although Joshua Kolbe has been removed from intensive care and is opening his eyes, Mr. Kolbe said he is not sure his son has come out of the coma he was in after the accident. He noted his son has not begun to talk. Physicians have not yet consulted with him about his son's condition and their prognosis for recovery.

Area Man Escapes Serious Injury In Tractor Mishap

An Oakland man escaped serious injury Friday afternoon when he was involved in a tractor accident on U.S. Route 50 near Gorman.

Richard Ray Friend, 27, was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad where he was treated and released.

According to Tfc. G.R. Chaney of the Maryland State Police, Friend apparently was pulling a silage wagon on a farm tractor down a steep embankment when the weight of the wagon caused the tractor to jackknife. Friend reportedly jumped from the tractor and walked up the steep mile-long mountain where he was found in the driveway after he called for help.

10-Kilometer Race Cancelled

The Autumn Glory-Pepsi Light 10-Kilometer Race scheduled for 10:00 a.m. Sunday, October 14, at Deep Creek Lake State Park has been cancelled. Officials of the Deep Creek Racers Running Club, Inc., organizers of the event, cite scheduling conflicts with larger races in Morgantown and Cumberland as the reason for cancellation.

Rams Provide Another Nail-Biter In Topping Powerful Hampshire, 14-7

The fingernails of most fans of the Southern Rams are now beyond repair as Coach Tom Woods and company, for the third consecutive week, pulled out a win in the final moments of the game, this time against Hampshire, 14-7, Friday evening on the West Virginians' gridiron. It was also the third consecutive defeat of what were previously undefeated teams—Musselman, Keyser and then Hampshire. Southern, now 5-0, is one of the few remaining teams in the area that is unbeaten.

The Hampshire Trojans all but had the game in the bag Friday evening, as they were on top 7-6 and had the Southern offense facing a fourth down and four from their own 42-yard line with just two minutes remaining. However, Southern's standout quarterback, J.R. Gibson, assumed the shotgun position and unloaded a pass to senior split end Steve Bennett on a down and out pattern. Bennett raced down the right sideline, outrunning all of the Trojan defenders, except one cornerback, who was leveled by a game-winning block by senior Dave McLaughlin. Coach Woods stated later that the play was called really just to get a first down.

Gibson then ran for the conversion, which took away the field goal opportunity from the Trojans.

The drive for the winning touchdown originated with a fumble recovery on the Rams' 14-yard line by Steve Schrock, who once again sparkled on offense and defense for Southern.

The first half of the contest was totally dominated by the fired-up Trojans, who were playing before an enormous Homecoming crowd. However, they managed to score only seven points, those occurring when Ed Jeeter capped a four-play, 76-yard drive with a 35-yard run for a touchdown. Rob Ficik booted the extra point.

The first quarter for Ram fans was reminiscent of the past two games, as Southern appeared somewhat lifeless in the early going. But as the second half opened, the Rams became just as dominant as Hampshire was in the first two quarters. Providing the offensive spark for the Rams was Schrock, who assumed the tailback position and broke numerous holes in the Hampshire defense, often dragging tacklers for several yards. Schrock capped the opening drive of the third quarter with a one-yard scoring plunge. Gibson's pass for the two-point conversion was just beyond the fingertips of Steve Bennett.

Southern's balanced offensive attack recorded 118 yards on the ground and 108 through the air, while Hampshire finished with a total of 187 yards, all but 33 of which were by the rush.

"It takes a lot of luck to win three close games in a row against teams like this," Coach Tom Woods stated. "There's just no question about that. But I do believe that another deciding factor in all three of the games was that our kids just never felt like they were going to lose, even though they were down at halftime. When a team can build that kind of character, it's hard to lose."

Woods said that the coaching staff made few adjustments at halftime to turn things around. "We just told them they had just played the worst first half of football they had played all year and yet they were still down only 7-0 against a 5-0 team in their Homecoming game. They knew they could win if they just tightened things up a little."

Hampshire was the most talented team the Rams have faced so far this year, according to Woods. "We were really impressed with how well every one of their players was able to run so well, including the linemen, which is what really had us worried going into the game."

Woods praised the performances of Schrock, Gibson, and Bennett. Schrock provided not only the spark offensively in the second half, but also was responsible for breaking up two key Hampshire passes and recovering a fumble.

Defensively, he noted the efforts of senior linebacker Scott Colaw, who was the leading tackler; Bill Hesen and Joey Matthews, who shared the defensive champion of the week award. Matthews also had an interception.

The contest was costly for Southern, however, from an injury standpoint, as Schrock was lost for two to three weeks with separated cartilage in the ribs and starting guard Anthony Andrews sustained a strained knee, which will keep him on the bench this week and possibly next week.

Although statistics may show otherwise, the Rams could have their hands full again this week as Valley comes to town with a 2-3 record and one of the best passing games that Southern will have faced this season.

The Black Knights are led offensively by junior quarterback David Hawkins, 6-0, 185; Ed Miller, 5-9, 215-pound senior running back; Ed Winebrenner, senior tailback, 6-0, 195; fullback Bob Beeman, 6-0, 200; tackle Ed Shockey, 6-2, 224; and Bob Rayner, 6-2, 165-pound senior end. The same personnel also pace the defense, with Shockey and Miller on the line, Winebrenner and Beeman at linebacker and Hawkins at corner.

The Knights use numerous offensive formations, from multiple-I to an unbalanced line. They utilize a lot of motion and shifting and will pass 65% of the time.

"We believe Valley possesses enough talent to beat us," Woods said, "and they may be a sleeping giant. Our mental preparation for this game is more difficult than it has been for our other recent games. We didn't have to convince the kids that Musselman, Keyser and Hampshire are good teams."

Expected to fill in Andrews' position on the Rams' thin offensive line is junior Mike Smith. Sophomore John Lewis will assume Andrews' defensive position and Bruce Bosley will handle all of the tailback chores while Schrock is out.

The Homecoming contest will get underway at 7:30 p.m.

Huskies Victimized By Big Plays As They Are Defeated By Spencer, 27-12

The Northern Huskies were victims of the big play Friday evening as they sustained their fourth consecutive loss of the season, 27-12, at Spencer, W. Va. It was the first meeting ever between the schools as Husky Coach Jack Settle returned to his former place of employment as a teacher and jayvee coach.

Scott Powell, who has been the big play spark for Spencer all season, accounted for three of his team's touchdowns, including a 33-yard return of a pass interception and a 98-yard run from scrimmage.

The first score of the game occurred in the first quarter when Powell raced into the end zone from the nine-yard line. The score was set up for Spencer when Husky quarterback Kevin Sines tossed an interception which gave the West Virginians possession on Northern's 12-yard line. Garrett booted the extra point.

Doug Nichols capped a drive for Spencer in the second quarter with a 21-yard touchdown run, followed by Garrett's kick for the conversion.

It was on Northern's next series that Sines recorded another interception, which was the one that was returned by Powell for Spencer's third touchdown. Garrett again kicked the extra point, giving the home team a 21-0 halftime advantage.

The Huskies re-grouped during intermission and returned with a scoring drive of their own, as Randy Kamp hauled in an 11-yard aerial from Sines for the touchdown. The kick for the extra point was no good.

On the ensuing kickoff, the Husky special team downed the Spencer receiver on his own four-yard line and, after a holding penalty, the ball was moved back to the two. However, on the next play, Powell shot right through the middle of the Husky line and outran the secondary for his third touchdown. The kick for the conversion failed.

The Huskies came back for another score in the fourth period as Jeff Eggleston pushed through from the one-yard line. The conversion attempt again was no good.

Powell finished with 130 yards on 18 carries, while Northern's Bill Murray rushed for 103 yards on 24 attempts.

The win upped Spencer's record to 4-2.

"Spencer is a big play team with lots of speed and a number of skilled people," Coach Settle stated. "We were pleased with the way our kids regrouped at halftime and came back to dominate the rest of the game, with the exception of Powell's 98-yard run."

Spencer did almost no substituting in the second half, since the Huskies made some adjustments and began to control the game. "The interceptions really hurt us," Settle said, "but Kevin (Sines) has seen only very limited action the past two weeks and we were generally pleased with his performance." Sines completed seven of 14 passes for 116 yards to complement 131 yards on the ground. Spencer recorded 134 yards through the air and 215 in rushing, with nearly half of that total coming on Powell's 98-yard jaunt.

Settle once again credited this offensive linemen—George Walker, Bill Friend, Ron Stark, Matt Eggleston and Jeff Glotfelty—for continuing to show improvement.

The Huskies spent the night in a nearby motel and were guests at a reception following the game at Spencer. "It was a great experience," Settle said. "We were really treated well by the fans and players."

Mid-season individual statistics released this week by Settle reveal that Bill Murray is the team's leading rusher with 283 yards on 78 carries, followed by Jeff Eggleston with 158 yards on 28 carries.

In passing, Sines has completed 38 of 87 attempts for 469 yards, two touchdowns and seven interceptions. Zumpano has connected on 5 of 13 passes for 50 yards, one touchdown and one interception.

Zumpano leads the team in receptions with 18 for 232 yards and a touchdown, followed by Randy Kamp with nine catches for 123 yards and Charlie Beiler with eight completions for 97 yards.

Defensively, Jeff Eggleston is the leading tackler with 35 unassisted tackles, followed by Ron Stark with 17 and Zumpano with 13.

The Huskies will attempt to break their losing streak again this Friday when they host Turkeyfoot in their Homecoming game. The Pennsylvanians are sporting a 5-1 record, having turned around last season's dismal 1-9 mark. They are coming off a 19-14 win over Hancock last Friday.

Turkeyfoot is led by quarterback Jim Bower, son of Coach Jim Bower, who also handles the kicking responsibilities. Other standouts include running backs Kraig Shaulis and John Merschat.

"Turkeyfoot has beaten us in our last two meetings," Settle said. "They have nice size this year, a strong kicking game and a well balanced offense. They consider us one of their biggest rivals."

Northern will most likely be without the services of their leading rusher this week, as Bill Murray sustained a knee injury against Spencer. Also out for probably two weeks is senior defensive back and linebacker Chris Friend, who injured a knee in practice this week.

SHS Homecoming Dance Scheduled

The Southern High School 1984 annual Homecoming Dance will be held on October 12 in the cafeteria of Southern High, following the Southern vs. Valley game. The dance will be held from 9 p.m. until midnight, with music provided by Monte Vista. All Southern High alumni are invited to attend.

Refreshments will be provided by Southern Girls' Athletic Association. Tickets will go on sale before and after school in the main lobby. The prices will be $5 for couples and $3 for singles.

Laker Women Drop A Pair, Then Win Four

The Garrett Community College Women's Volleyball team recorded four wins and two losses during the past week. Their two losses came from Hagerstown Community College, 15-0 and 15-3, and Potomac State, 15-9 and 15-12.

It was the first time the Lakers met Hagerstown this season and they are looking forward to their next encounter with the Hawks to avenge their defeat. However, earlier in the season the Garrett squad tangled with Potomac State and defeated the Catamounts. Sue Snyder led the team with 11 kills while Christy Fratz added eight.

In their following four games, the Lakers recorded all wins as they began to work as a team. They triumphed over Shenandoah, 15-3 and 15-9, after losing to them earlier in the year. The Garrett team also beat Wilson College, 15-4 and 15-2. Both schools are four-year schools.

During the Shenandoah game, Lani Dailey recorded 11 points including three aces. Christy Fratz kept the offense going with excellent passes while Sue Snyder had 12 service points against Wilson.

The third match of the four was against Penn State Fayette, who Garrett defeated 15-6, 15-4 and 15-5, winning the best out of five. Cindy King and Molly Coberly dominated the GCC serving with 13 and 11 serves, respectively, while Christy Fratz added 10.

The last win was by forfeit from Frederick Community College. These victories bring the women's record to 8-6.

The Lakers will host the Garrett Invitational this Saturday, October 13. Participating teams will be Garrett, Shenandoah, Westmoreland and McKeesport. The match begins at noon.

Oakland Jets Edge Steelers For Second Win

The Oakland Jets came alive Sunday afternoon in Mt. Top Youth Football League action by edging out the Northern Steelers by a score of 7-6. The win improved the Jets' record to 2-3.

The Jets' score came late in the fourth quarter with four minutes left of play when Rodney Pike ran 20 yards for a touchdown. The extra point was successful on a Todd Michaels pass to Rodney Pike.

On the next play from scrimmage, Steeler Craig Umbel ran 65 yards for a touchdown. The Jets' defense prevented the extra point attempt, thus preserving the victory.

The win for the Jets Sunday clinched a spot in the play-offs against the undefeated Oakland Raiders on October 20.

The Jets will square off against the Parsons Vikings this Sunday afternoon.

In an article in last week's issue of The Republican, it stated that Josh Woods and Aaron Buser were the youngest students ever at Broad Ford Elementary School to win the President's Physical Fitness Award. It was learned this week that, while Aaron Buser is indeed the youngest student to win the award, Mark Dawson remains the youngest boy to win the award. Dawson was age 8 years, 5½ months when he won the award, whereas Josh Woods was 8 years, 6 months when he won the award.

Hunting Allowed In State Forests

Public hunting is permitted in designated areas of undeveloped state parks and in all state forests, according to the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service. The hunting season conforms to the standard hunting seasons adopted by state and federal regulations. With a few exceptions, the hunting season in state parks is from October 15 through February 15.

Hunting on forest and park property is subject to all state and federal laws. Hunters must possess a statewide Maryland hunting license and any specialized stamps required.

Hunting areas are adequately marked. Hunters are expected to observe all hunting laws and regulations, respect no-hunting signs, exercise good safety measures and be certain of the target before shooting.

For specific information about designated hunting areas and seasons, persons should contact the park or forest in question.

Friendsville To Seek Change In Town's Charter

The mayor and council of Friendsville has decided to attempt to have the town's charter changed in order to hold voter registration in December.

The current charter calls for registration in February, while the filing date for town offices is in January.

Mrs. Pearl Bittner, chairman of the registration committee for the town, presented the suggestion at the regular council meeting October 1.

Carl Lefferts, manager of the Veterans of Foreign wars post in the town, requested a tax exemption and this was granted by the town officials. Lefferts had already been granted an exemption from county tax bills.

Council Favors Opening Rt. 48 Ramp

Members of the council agreed that they will support a move by town citizens to have the Blooming Rose ramp onto Route 48 reopened. Many travelers and citizens have expressed concern with the detour mapped out by the State Highway Administration which routes vehicles to Bruceton Mills before they can get on the freeway going west.

The council also noted it had not been approached by the SHA prior to closing of the present ramp for major repairs.

Friend Family Headquarters

The Friend Family Association has indicated it will lease the old municipal bank building on a year-to-year basis to use as the Friend Family Association national headquarters.

The building is located across from the new First United National Bank building, and is presently occupied by Upper Yough Whitewater Raft Expeditions. The rafting firm will relocate in the near future.

Trick or Treat

Since neither the women's organization nor the fire department plans a Halloween party for town youngsters this year, the city fathers decided to allow trick or treat October 31 between 6 and 8 p.m.

Children are to go only to homes which have porch lights turned on, and young children should be accompanied by a responsible older person.

Water, Sewer Matters

At Tuesday's water and sewer meeting, the main topic of conversation was the planned smoke testing which will be performed October 15 and 16 by Eastern Utilities Specialists, Inc.

The firm will close off various sections of the collection in order to see where infiltration is occurring.

The smoke is ordinarily harmless although residents are reminded not to stay in basements or leave their pets penned in basements during the tests.

Terry Spear requested a water tap for his new home on Cemetery Road, and was granted the tap.

Before adjourning the town council and mayor agreed to install a partition in the town building for Christmas decoration storage.

OCTOBER 12 has been designated Columbus Day in Garrett County in honor of Christopher Columbus' voyage to the new world, a voyage which required vision, courage and determination. Saying it is fitting that America annually renders tribute to the memory of the famed Genoese explorer on the anniversary of his historic voyage, the commissioners signed a proclamation October 9. Pictured are Commissioners John Braskey, Elwood Groves, II, and Ernie Gregg, Jr., with Frank V. Perry, Senior Grand Knight of the Knights of Columbus Oakland Council 1771.

Deer Park Officials Fill Out Surveys, Accept Insurance

Deer Park officials filled out survey forms, decided on professional liability insurance, and suggested changes in a contract with Community Action at Monday night's meeting.

Forms were presented by Wendell Keaton, municipal coordinator, to determine the town's expenditures and needs.

A new lease proposal from Community Action was read and discussed and council voted to postpone signing the agreement until members of that agency meet with the town at the November 12 session. Community Action uses the town building as a senior citizen hot meals center.

The town decided not to set a Halloween trick or treat policy until after Thursday, when plans will be finalized in the town of Mtn. Lake Park. Deer Park plans to hold trick or treat the same night as that set by Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn.

The town had received a bid for professional liability insurance from Beall, Garner, Screen and Geare, and agreed to accept the policy.

A 20-foot piece of pipe will be obtained to complete necessary road work adjacent to the Leo Smith property.

Garbage pickup in the town has been changed from Friday afternoons to Thursday afternoons, at the request of contractor Guy Fazenbaker and Sons.

Friendsville Fifth Graders Write The News

Students at Friendsville Elementary School read about themselves in the news every other week as part of a fifth grade student project. The fifth graders are compiling a bi-weekly newspaper entitled the F.E.S. Express.

Principal Jane Fox explained Tuesday that the newsletter is a way to involve students in the school process, one of the school staff's objectives for the 1984-85 school year.

The students, under the guidance of Ms. Fox and Gifted and Talented Instructor Sheila Russell, selected the name and cover design for the paper through a voting process. The newspaper's name was devised by Geni Uphold.

The front cover of the newspaper was created by Michael Nedrow. The design shows a train engine with stars, the school logo, coming out of the smoke stack. The back cover was designed by Stephanie Thomas and shows a large star with smaller stars inside.

Two issues have been published since school began and each included a feature story, individual class happenings, an article by the principal and an interest story.

The staff, all students in Ross Glotfelty's fifth grade class, are Chad Anderson, Amy Hetzel, Robert Hoover, Sherry Hoover, Michael Nedrow, April Slagle, Stephanie Thomas, Geni Uphold and Samuel Wakefield.

Two Local Youths Hospitalized After Liquor Party

Two local juveniles were hospitalized Friday night following an unsupervised liquor party at a home in the McHenry area.

Tfc. G.R. Chaney of the Maryland State Police cited seven juveniles for violations of alcoholic beverage laws as a result of the party that resulted in the consumption of wine and hard liquor. The juveniles ranged in age from 11 to 17 years.

The investigation revealed that the liquor consumed at the party had been stolen from a local business establishment and Chaney said charges in reference to the breaking and entering and theft are pending.

Both juveniles admitted to the hospital were released Saturday evening.

Goldsborough Is Candidate For Board Position

William M. Goldsborough, Mtn. Lake Park, announces his candidacy for election as a member of the Board of Education of Garrett County. He was the only person to file for election for one of two positions as an at-large member of the Board.

A former member and a past president of the local Board of Education for three years from 1971 to 1974, and former five-year member of the Maryland State Board of Education from 1974 to 1979, he is currently a member and chairman of the Board of Trustees of Garrett Community College. He has been a member of that Board since 1971.

While a member of the local Board of Education, Goldsborough worked with local and state officials on the Garrett County School building program. He has also been recognized by the Maryland School Bus Contractors' Association for his sensitivity to their problems which he helped to resolve while a member of the State Board of Education. Goldsborough addressed the National School Boards Association Convention in Houston, Tex., on "Making Pupil Transportation Safe" when he served on the County Board of Education.

He has also served in a leadership capacity with the PTA.

Goldsborough says he has a special interest in education for the gifted and talented, handicapped children in the vocational-technical area, and major school construction.

While a member of the State Board of Education, he says he persisted in "looking out" for the smaller counties, even though it was not always a popular position, or the consensus of the majority.

He has been an employee of the Maryland State Highway Administration for 34 years and is currently the resident engineer in Garrett County. He is a member of the Oakland Rotary Club, the Masonic organization, a past commander and past district commander of the American Legion, a certified lay minister in the United Methodist Church, and president of the Resident Engineers' Association of Maryland. He has also served as president of the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Southern Garrett Athletic Association, and president of the Dennett Road School Parent-Teachers Association.

He is married to the former Doris Twigg, also a native of Cumberland. They are the parents of three children, Barbara Tichnell, Pamela Smith, and David Goldsborough, and have four grandchildren.

DISCUSSING THE FUTURE OF COAL and the possibility of a coal slurry pipeline at last Thursday's annual symposium of the Maryland Coal Association were, left to right, James J. J. Oberhaus, president of the association; Mary Lou Stemple, administrative aid to Del. George Edwards; Del. Cas Taylor and Del. Tim Finan, both of Allegany County. One of the highlights of the Thursday dinner meeting was a coal slurry pipeline discussion between Chris Poindexter, vice president of Baltimore Gas and Electric Company, and A. P. Carpenter, senior vice president of Chessie System. Chessie officials are saying that Maryland's railroad industry would lose nearly 1,400 permanent jobs if a pipeline is built.

Something To Think About
R. Mark Durst — DIRECTOR
BURIAL BENEFITS

Many people are members of a lodge, fraternal group, or union that provides a lump-sum death benefit to pay funeral costs. These organizations have such "burial benefits" as one of their membership fringe benefits. The money can range from as low as $100 to amounts covering the total costs, as in the case of many unions.

If you are a member of such a group, or groups, you still may not know whether or not there are such benefits or what they amount to. Check now to find out. Then, let whomever may be taking the responsibility know how much you have, and with what organization(s).

If there is a discrepancy between benefits and costs, you must decide whether your survivors need any additional special funds. The advantage of taking care of the funeral and burial costs now is that you spare your survivors one more immediate burden during a difficult time.

TALK

When does conversation come across? When do people really communicate? Really understand?

Big questions. Yes. And they demand big answers. Because unless people can speak to each other and be understood as well as merely heard, our world will continue to be a mess.

Communication. It's vital. And the Church, today, is trying to do something about it — locally, nationally, internationally. New efforts are being made, new doors are being opened.

Why not get in on the right wave-length?

WHAT IS GLAUCOMA?

Glaucoma is characterized by a slow, progressive loss of visual fields followed later by loss of central vision. In a person over forty, it is a real danger. Anyone who requires frequent changes of lenses, has mild headaches, sees halos around electric lights or has trouble adapting to darkness should be suspect.

Using a device called a tonometer, which measures intra-ocular tension, glaucoma can usually be detected. There are many prescription drugs that we have available; drugs called miotics which are useful in helping to control glaucoma. Everyone should have their eyes checked periodically but for older people, it is essential. Uncontrolled glaucoma can result in total blindness.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE MODEL
October 14, 1984

Background Scripture: Philippians 2:1-18.
Devotional Reading: Philippians 1:19-30.

Michael Jackson has dominated the newspapers again today. His concerts are sold-out and people are desperate to get their hands on those elusive tickets.

I have nothing against Michael Jackson--I don't know enough about him to make any kind of evaluation. My problem is not with Michael Jackson, but with society's response to him. There is something wrong when a mere entertainer can so affect a sizable segment of our society, when so many people look to him for their example of what they want to emulate.

FULL HOUSE

Apart from Michael Jackson, there are a few others who can command virtually a "full house" anywhere when they appear. Entertainers and athletic stars seem to be the persons our society most idolizes. Not even political leaders--at least not in this country--can command that kind of following.

My problem with this type of public response is that these people become the models for millions of people. People look at their lives--the glamour, the success, the popularity, the material abundance--and say, "Now that's living!"

But is it? If it is, then most of us will go through life without ever having the chance at that kind of "living."

What we need in our world today is another kind of "model." If we can get people to idolize a radically different lifestyle, we can have a different world--a world in which spiritual values take precedence over material values, where peace is more likely than mutual annihilation, and where love can reign as God intended it.

THE FULL LIFE

The fact is, we do have such a model. Our problem is that we haven't really given him a chance.

It's not that we have been urged to do so. Paul, writing to the Philippians, "Have this mind among yourselves which you have in Christ Jesus..." (2:5).

Perhaps the problem is that we don't like the example he sets: he refused to claim his equality with God, he gave his life for others, actually taking upon himself the role of a servant. A life like that could only lead in one direction--to the cross.

And we don't want that, do we?

Yet, who can deny that, despite all of his humility, his self-giving and obedience, his death on a cross, Jesus achieved what is beyond that of anyone who takes the power and fame road:

Therefore God has highly exalted him and bestowed on him the name which is above every name, that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, in heaven and on earth. (2:9, 10)

He and he alone is the model our world needs to know what real "living" is all about.

Sachs Testifies Against Practice By Nursing Homes

Maryland Attorney General Stephen H. Sachs told a U.S. Senate panel that nursing homes have no right to require patients to pay private-patient fees after they become eligible for lower Medicaid rates.

This practice employed by certain segments of the nursing home industry throughout the country, Sachs said, is both "illegal and immoral." To make "an additional five or ten dollars a day," he said, nursing homes that engage in this practice "deny poor people their legal entitlement to Medicaid in violation of federal law."

Testifying before the U.S. Senate Special Committee on Aging in Washington, D.C., Sachs sharply criticized the federal government for failing to enforce the law to protect Medicaid patients. Although federal officials have agreed that private pay requirements for Medicaid beneficiaries violate federal law, Sachs said that the Reagan Administration has not moved to stop the practice.

"When public officials blink at an illegal practice, the public loses confidence," Sachs said. "This is another instance in which the Reagan Administration is failing to exercise its responsibility to see to it that Title XIX (Medicaid) benefits are not unlawfully denied to poor people who are nursing home patients."

Attorney General Sachs issued an opinion in July, 1982, declaring private pay agreements illegal under federal and state rules which prohibit a nursing home from charging more than the Medicaid rate as a requirement for a patient's continued stay in the home. Some nursing homes, however, refuse to accept a patient unless they agree to pay the higher rate for at least a year, even if they become eligible for Medicaid benefits during that time. Sachs noted that the practice violates the Social Security Act, federal regulations including the Federal Patient Bill of Rights requirements and the Maryland Consumer Protection Act.

Sachs pointed out that most Maryland nursing homes stopped requiring that Medicaid patients pay the higher fee when they were notified that the Attorney General had declared the practice illegal. However, two dozen homes have refused to comply with the ruling and sued the state over it. A hearing before the Board of Review of the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene on the case is scheduled later this week.

In his prepared statement, Sachs also noted that the practice has occurred in California, Michigan, Florida, New York and the state of Washington. "No resident of a nursing home, in Maryland or elsewhere, should be the victim of the insidious suggestion that legitimate entitlement to Medicaid may be postponed so that nursing homes may make more money than they are entitled to from their poorest patients," Sachs told the Senate Committee.

Child Care For Working Mother Workshop Slated

The New Horizons Program, sponsored by Garrett Community College, will hold the third in a series of five free evening workshops entitled "Who Cares When I Can't" - Child Care For the Working Mother, to be held on Wednesday, October 17, at the Oakland Center of GCC from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

"Child care is a formidable problem for women going into the job market for the first time or returning after an absence," stated a New Horizons spokesman. "A new job or educational experience will be much more positive if the child care issue is settled."

A video tape discussion of this subject will evaluate several types of alternatives available and discuss the many contributing emotional and psychological factors affecting the choice made.

This evening workshop is open to the public. Pre-registration is necessary. For more information or to register, persons may call the New Horizons office at 334-9184 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

NEW DRIVER EDUCATION CAR — Don Douds, left, Northern High School instructor, received the keys to a 1985 Ford Tempo October 4 from Rick Shaffer of Shaffer Ford Sales, Oakland. This vehicle is the first of three automobiles to be supplied for the county driver education program by Shaffer Ford Sales this year. The cars are provided as demonstrator cars by Shaffer Ford, however the school system does help with expenses and assumes maintenance responsibilities. Luther Parrack, director of middle and secondary education, said without the cooperation of the car dealer, the school system would have to charge students tuition for the program in order to lease or purchase vehicles.

Recent publicity on asbestos insulation in schools and other public buildings has created concern among owners of older homes. Some asbestos materials can break into small fibers which can float in the air, and these fibers can be inhaled. You cannot see these tiny fibers, and they are so small that they pass through the filters of normal vacuum cleaners and get back into the air. Once inhaled, asbestos fibers can become lodged in tissue for a long time. After many years, cancer or mesothelioma can develop.

Asbestos was used primarily before the mid-1970's in a variety of construction materials. Common sources of asbestos in older homes include insulation used for pipes, boilers, and possibly ceilings and walls.

Asbestos insulation for hot water and steam pipes was manufactured from 1920 to 1972. This insulation is usually white and looks like a cast. If it is in good condition, it is not likely to be a health problem. If the insulation is damaged, the best current recommendation is to leave the insulation in place and repair the protective covering. One way to repair it is to apply re-wettable fiberglass. This material is an impregnated fiberglass cloth that gets flexible when soaked, and then hardens to form a permanent rigid shell after the pipes are wrapped with it.

Homes constructed between 1930 and 1950 may contain wall and ceiling insulation made with asbestos. It is very difficult for an untrained person to detect if walls and ceilings contain asbestos, because it was usually combined with several other materials and can take many forms. When doing home repairs, if you are unsure of the material you are removing, avoid disturbing it if at all possible. If you cannot determine from the label, installer or manufacturer whether the material contains asbestos, it is best to have a trained contractor remove a sample and send it for testing.

If a material contains asbestos, and you have to disturb it, handle it very carefully. Special precautions should be taken during removal of exposed or damaged asbestos-containing material. If possible, find a contractor trained in safe procedures for handling asbestos.

DO NOT dust, sweep or vacuum particles suspected of containing asbestos. This will disturb tiny asbestos fibers and may make them airborne. The fibers are so small that they cannot be seen and can pass through normal vacuum cleaner filters and get back into the air. The dust should be removed by a wet-mopping procedure or by specially designed vacuum cleaners used by trained asbestos contractors.

If you cannot get a trained contractor to work with the asbestos, follow these basic precautions.

1) Do not disturb any material you think may contain asbestos unless you have to. Removal of the material is usually the last alternative.

2) Seal off the work area from the rest of the residence. Take care not to track asbestos dust into other areas of the residence.

3) Always wear protective gloves, hats respirator and other protective clothing. If possible, dispose of all this equipment immediately after using it.

4) When working with asbestos-containing material, wet it with a hand sprayer. The material should be thoroughly dampened, but not dripping wet.

5) If you must drill or cut an asbestos-containing material, do the drilling or cutting outside. Wet the material first.

6) If you must remove the material, avoid breaking it into small pieces.

7) Place any material you remove in a 6 mil plastic trash bag and dispose of it in a landfill. If you have more than 260 square feet of material, you must contact the Environmental Health Administration for disposal procedures. (In Garrett County, it is recommended that only a person licensed by the State remove or dispose of the asbestos.)

8) After you finish removing the material, thoroughly clean the area with wet mops, wet rags or sponges.

Call the Consumer Product Safety Commission's toll-free number, 1-800-638-2772, for recommendations on handling asbestos. The CPSC also provides information about laboratories for asbestos testing and advice about where to get respirators.

Barris to return with 'Wacky World' of TV

By Peter M. McCauley

Chuck Barris

SOUND THE GONG — Chuck Barris, the doyen of TV game shows, is returning to television. After pulling all his shows off the air in 1981 — Barris was sick of the constant lambasting he was taking from critics who disliked his efforts on such gems as "The Gong Show" and "The $1.98 Beauty Show"— the producer spent most of his time writing and traveling.

His confidence and vigor now restored, Barris currently has four shows ready for network or syndicated time slots: "People Poker," "Moneywords," "Family Olympics" and "Chuck Barris' Wacky World of Television."

"Wacky World" will utilize 20 years' worth of clips from Barris's TV library. He came up with the show's format after constantly being asked to supply clips for the network's various blooper shows. Barris insists "WW" will not be just another blooper show, but more of a "Best of..." series. He promises to air classic footage from previous series, including a 5-year-old Michael Jackson singing and Tom Selleck losing — twice — on "The Dating Game."

TAPING FOR PROSPERITY — Are you one of those people who tape "Hill Street Blues," "Dynasty," "Dallas," and "Cheers" on your video recorder? You're not alone. According to those television mavens at the A.C. Nielsen Co., these series are the most taped shows on the evening network schedule. "General Hospital" and "All My Children" head the daytime list.

TRIVIAL TV — Trivia question: What popular board game, which is being played by everyone everywhere, is coming to TV? Trivial answer: Trivial Pursuit. ABC is transforming the game into two hour-long specials. The on-screen version will be similar to the off-screen version, except that the show's guest stars will ask questions — and answer them — by using film clips. Quick! What was Lucy Ricardo's maiden name? Answer: MacGillicuddy.

'Call to Glory' producer extracts truth from life

By Marta Tarbell

Craig T. Nelson

During the summer Olympics, ABC capitalized on the burst of national pride inspired by the games and promoted "Call to Glory," about an Air Force family's life in the '60s. The two-hour pilot, which aired on Aug. 13, was watched by 50 million Americans, and "Call to Glory" became the new season's first glorious hit. The show, starring Craig T. Nelson, Cindy Pickett, Gabriel Damon, Elisabeth Shue and Keenan Wynn, airs Mondays on ABC.

"We are trying to revive the art of good, old-fashioned story-telling," says Carol Schreder, the show's head writer and producer. Miss Schreder, who has a degree in political science, believes her training as a documentary film maker prepared her for developing and writing scripts that are both historically accurate and emotionally compelling.

"We look for stories that try and link things occurring today with things that occurred 20 years ago," she says. "We work hard to strike a middle ground, so that we can really take history to task."

Miss Schreder takes pride in the fact that "Call to Glory" grapples with tumultous social issues, without sacrificing entertainment value. "Americans feel more comfortable about our country than we have in the past," she says, "and we are willing to explore areas that we had put aside for a while. Today, we can look back on the '60s civil rights movement and draw the truth out of what happened without feeling assaulted by it."

How does Miss Schreder feel about charges that "Call to Glory" is a rip-off of the 1983 film "The Right Stuff"?

"We were developing the concept two-and-a-half years ago," explains Miss Schreder, who is also quick to explain why the show succeeds where the film failed. "We focus each situation on an emotional element, which we then expand to universal themes that everyone can identify with. There's an emotional pull to our stories that was missing in the movie. Through the Sarnac family, we're probing tender areas — such as nuclear proliferation — in a non-threatening manner. Hopefully," she adds, "audiences will be willing to explore these uncomfortable things through the experiences of characters they have grown to trust and admire."

TUESDAY

David Dukes and Jessica Carroll have no trouble seeing eye-to-eye. The actor plays an actor who must readjust to life when he adopts a precocious 8-year-old orphan in "Sentimental Journey," airing Tuesday, Oct. 16 on CBS.

Janis Ward's success rises out of 'Steam'

By Gregory Garver

Janis Ward

HOLLYWOOD — When the costume crew came to outfit Janis Ward for the new Showtime series "Steambath," they brought a piece of terry cloth and a pair of scissors. Then they proceeded to cut and snip. No Bob Mackie gowns here: For her role as Meredith, Miss Ward wears a simple — and scant — white towel. Once the steam clears on Thursday nights, you'll also notice "Steambath" is not your typical show. It takes place in a steam bath, which happens to be a stopover on the way to heaven — or worse. And it just so happens God is a wisecracking, Puerto Rican, mop-slinging custodian, played by Jose Perez. Based on Bruce Jay Friedman's 1970 off-Broadway black comedy, the play was also taped PBS in 1973.

"This show could not be a network series," Miss Ward, 32, explains, "and it isn't because of our towels or language. It's because of our controversial subject matter. We deal with things like drugs, cancer and religion, and we deal with them in ways that a network would not — or could not — tolerate."

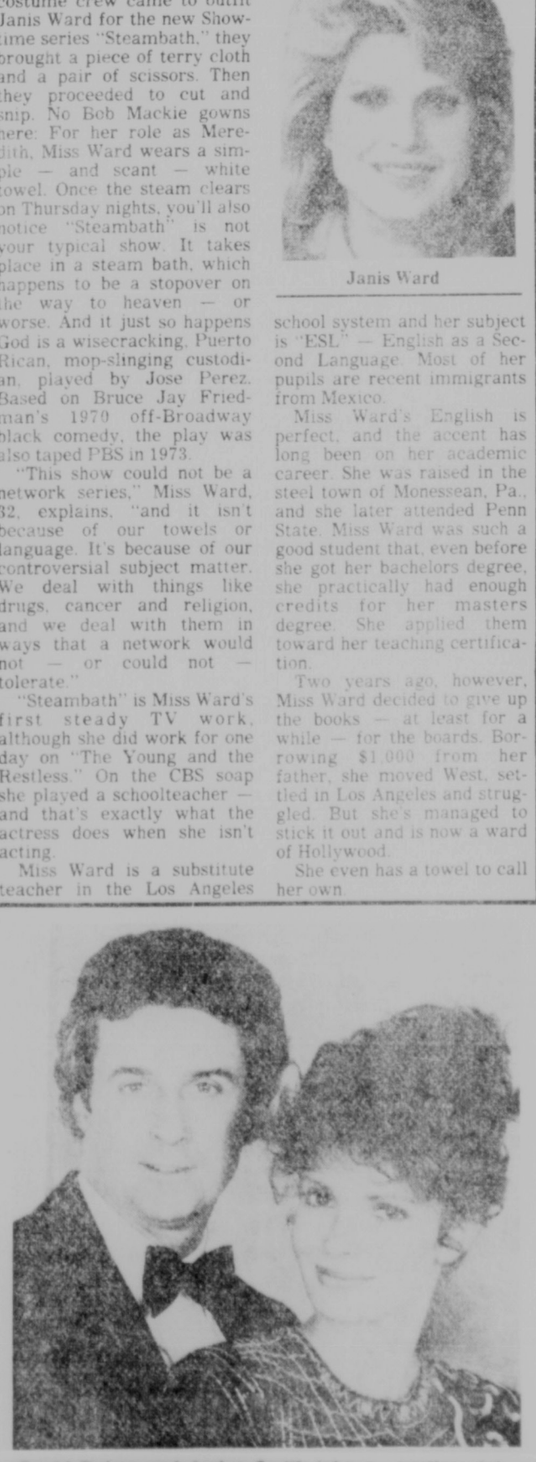

"Steambath" is Miss Ward's first steady TV work, although she did work for one day on "The Young and the Restless." On the CBS soap she played a schoolteacher — and that's exactly what the actress does when she isn't acting.

Miss Ward is a substitute teacher in the Los Angeles school system and her subject is "ESL" — English as a Second Language. Most of her pupils are recent immigrants from Mexico.

Miss Ward's English is perfect, and the accent has long been on her academic career. She was raised in the steel town of Monessean, Pa., and she later attended Penn State. Miss Ward was such a good student that, even before she got her bachelors degree, she practically had enough credits for her masters degree. She applied them toward her teaching certification.

Two years ago, however, Miss Ward decided to give up the books — at least for a while — for the boards. Borrowing $1,000 from her father, she moved West, settled in Los Angeles and struggled. But she's managed to stick it out and is now a ward of Hollywood.

She even has a towel to call her own.

David Dukes and Jaclyn Smith take a sentimental journey" when they star as a couple who adopt an 8-year-old orphan in "Sentimental Journey," airing Tuesday, Oct. 16 on CBS.

John Savage portrays a hunter who must deal with the savagery of animal poachers who threaten African wildlife in "Nairobi Affair," airing Wednesday, Oct. 17 on CBS.

SUNDAY

Paul Michael Glaser and Shelley Hack attempt to hack out a romance in "Single Bars, Single Women." The movie, which gets its title from a Dolly Parton song, airs Sunday, Oct. 14 on ABC.

TUBE TALK

Barbara Sharma levels about garish 'Glitter'

By Wayne Miller

Barbara Sharma

It's meant to be a glittery, glamorous magazine come-to-life: chock full of human-interest stories, teasing, taunting drama and an occasional sex saga. It's meant to be entertaining, but as most critics — and audiences — found out after the pilot aired on Sept. 13, "Glitter" is little more than fetid TV fare. All that glitters is not gold — and no one knows better than Barbara Sharma, who plays Shelley Sealy on "Glitter."

"I was shocked after I saw the pilot," confesses Miss Sharma, who appeared as a two-year regular on "Laugh-In" and who created the role of Myrna on "Rhoda." "I remember reading the reviews and thinking, 'Oh, this happens to all of Aaron Spelling's shows.' Then I saw the show and couldn't believe it. What a piece of crap! What a mess! Everyone was going off in five different directions and there was no focus." The actress pauses, giving her famous raspy voice a momentary rest. "Let's be honest," she adds. "The show is not very good. Let's just hope it can be saved."

Aaron Spelling is trying. According to Miss Sharma, the producer recently fired five or six writers and "every day, there's a new major change." One of those changes affects the actress. Originally cast as "Glitter's" health and sex editor, Miss Sharma has been promoted to the magazine's research editor. "I actually have done research for the new position," says the actress. "I went out and talked to several of my journalist friends, asking how they go about gathering data. Their answers were quite interesting."

More interesting than the research the actress could be gathering in sex — and health? "The scripts have been so bad that my character never got to do anything," Miss Sharma says, "let alone even think about sex. Maybe that will change. I've taped four other episodes, yet I pray the shows get better. God knows I'm fighting for them."

Is Miss Sharma, who hasn't worked regularly on TV since "Rhoda" went off the air in 1978, afraid of Hollywood's wrath because of her candor? "The other day, I worked so hard on the show because no one knew what they were doing. When I got home, I realized how horrendous my schedule was, and I cried for hours. In Hollywood's eyes, if you aren't on a TV series, you're dead. 'Glitter' may be making people interested in me again, but being on the series," she adds, "is like being dead."

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

John Putch

I'm a big admirer of Valerie Landsburg, the actress who plays Doris Schwartz on "Fame." Can you tell me a little about her? Also, where can I write to her? C.H., Laurinburg, N.C.

Miss Landsburg, the daughter of producer Alan "That's Incredible!" Landsburg, was born in New York City. Her father tried to dissuade her from becoming an actress, and, at one time, Miss Landsburg toyed with the idea of becoming a psychologist. Miss Landsburg made her film debut in the 1978 film "Thank God It's Friday," and subsequently starred on Broadway in "I Ought to Be in Pictures" and "The Floating Light Bulb."

Valerie Landsburg

I recently saw a repeat of "Angel Dusted," and fell in love with its young star, John Putch. He looks familiar; is he related to anyone famous? — K.M.B., Minneapolis, Minn.

Putch is the son of Jean Stapleton, the co-star of "Angel Dusted." Miss Stapleton is best-known for her role as Edith Bunker on "All in the Family." Putch's father is the late William Putch.

I know "Double Trouble" went off the air, but do you know what kind of dance Jean and Liz Sagal studied? — S.H., Holland, Pa.

Liz Sagal, who played Allison on the NBC series, won a dance scholarship when she was 13. The actress claims her life has always been devoted to dance, and she's been known to practice her jazz, tap and ballet lessons up to 10 hours a day. When Liz was 19, she began taking acting lessons. Sis Jean, who played Kate, began dancing when she was 12. Five years later, she became a professional dancer, and toured Japan with the Peaches and Herb Show.

Chances are viewers know Sherry Mathis

By Kimberly Redmond

Can you tell me where I may have seen Anna Stuart before she joined "Another World" as Donna Love? — V.G., Okeechobee, Fla.

Miss Stuart was last seen as Toni Ferra Powers on the defunct NBC soap "The Doctors." She has also starred as Gina Dante on "General Hospital."

I like Liza Sentell on "Search for Tomorrow" and wonder if you can give me some information on the actress who plays her. — R.T., Randolph, Mass.

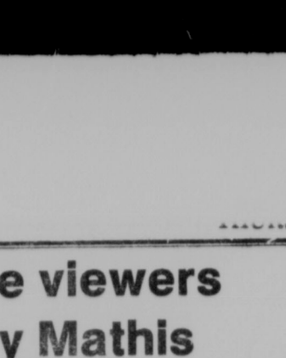

Sherry Mathis

Liza is portrayed by Sherry Mathis, who is a native of Memphis, Tenn. Miss Mathis has appeared in several Broadway musicals — as well as in touring theatrical productions — and she made her film debut in the 1975 film, "W.W. and the Dixie Dancekings." In the past, Miss Mathis has written and performed her own music on "Search." She is married to Jerry Lanning, who starred on the soap "Texas." The couple met when he was portraying Nick D'Antoni on "Search."

I've watched "Days of Our Lives" since I graduated from high school. But I'm about to face the trauma of leaving "Days" to enter the working world. Could you, therefore, give me some information on Lisa Trusel, the actress who plays Melissa Anderson? Also, where can I write to her? — S.M., Springfield, Mo.

Miss Trusel, 16, began her professional career as a dancer on "The Tim Conway Show." She later appeared on the NBC sitcom "Father Murphy." Miss Trusel is a native of Hollywood, Calif., and she began studying dance at the age of 9. She has a brother and two sisters. You can write to Miss Trusel c/o "Days of Our Lives," NBC-TV, 3000 Alameda Ave., Burbank, CA 91523.

Lisa Trusel

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Funny Looking Funny Man

Emo Philips

Emo Philips looks like his name sounds: funny. Tall, clumsy, gangly, near-anorexic and with eyes that seem surgically widened, he looks like an Olive Oyl facsimile. Philips' hair hangs in front of his eyes — and over his ears and collar — in mock tribute to Buster Brown. Emo Philips is, indeed, funny to look at. He's also one of the funniest — and fastest rising — young comedians.

"I never tell a joke if I think it'll offend someone in my audience," says Philips, 28. Small wonder: Growing up in Downers Grove, Ill., the comedian offended enough people to last a lifetime. "Every day in school, I'd call the bullies names," he recalls, "and every day I'd get beat up. I'd run home crying, but the next day, I'd do it again. Then they'd beat me up again. And dressing this way" — Philips points to the undersized purple shirt and pants gathered at his waist by a rope — "didn't exactly help."

In 1976, Philips gave up his masochistic tendencies — he was still offending people in college — and tried insulting for profit. "I was sad all the time, so I decided to make people laugh," says Philips, who lives in Downer's Grove with his mother. His father is dead, or as the comedian explains: "He's now with the underground."

He quit school and began playing small clubs. And though audiences sometimes struggled to find Philips funny, it was the comedian who struggled the most, earning an average salary of $2.50 a week for the past six years. But on July 23 of this year, after his first appearance on "Late Night With David Letterman," the comedian's salary — and popularity — zoomed. He made his second appearance on Sept. 25.

"Doing David's show was the turning point of my career," says Philips, who now earns about $2,000 a week. "People even stop me in the street — and not because I look funny." Philips will be stopped even more, now that he's a weekly regular on the new syndicated show "Rock-N-America." "I play the imaginary friend of a man," Philips says shyly.

But nothing is imaginary about Philips fame. Is he scared of the sudden burst of notoriety? "I'm only scared of one thing," he confesses, "people chanting Emo, Emo, Emo and rushing after me with knives. If that happens, I'll have to start dressing like Joan Crawford."

AURORA-EGLON NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lipscomb of Aurora announce the engagement of their daughter, Delores S. Lipscomb, to "Buddy" Wycoff, son of Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Wycoff of Aurora.

Miss Lipscomb is currently a junior at East Preston. Mr. Wycoff will be a 1985 graduate of East Preston High School.

No date for the wedding has been set at this time.

Word was received this week of the death of Zora Heckert Shipe, 92, of Baltimore. Mrs. Shipe, a former resident of Eglon and native of Horse Shoe Run, died October 1. Services were held Wednesday, October 3, in Baltimore and on Thursday, October 4, at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren at Eglon by the Rev. Galen E. Fike. Interment was in the Eglon Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Teets visited Saturday overnight with their daughter and family, Mary "Bitsy" and Don Shepherd and sons at Roanoke, Va., and stopped enroute home Sunday for a visit with another daughter, Martha and Merlin Reish and children at Harrisonburg, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Frantz, Sr., of Eglon, have gone to Illinois to be with their son, Don, who is expecting to undergo surgery in the near future. It was to have taken place this week, but he is still undergoing tests and has been postponed until later.

Opening the October 2 meeting of the Eglon Extension Homemakers with devotions was Mrs. Rose Ina Harsh. She used a scripture from Genesis 1 and two poems, "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" and "The Seasons of the Soul" and closed with prayer.

The 7 p.m. meeting was held in the home of Brenda Hartsell who also shared the lesson "When Ends Don't Meet," giving tips and plans for trying to put them together. Budgeting, planning, sacrificing, keeping records and smart tricks were shown as a means of keeping expenses to a minimum. Her special feature shown at the close of the meeting was a framed painted picture of mother and baby with an appropriate verse and also one of her older son's hands with an appropriate verse concerning small hands.

Marguerite Shaffer conducted the business session during which she announced that the exhibit prepared for the Buckwheat Festival had won a blue ribbon, that cookbooks sold will have a profit divided between the clubs and the county council. Action was taken to increase Student Fund donations to 35 cents per member, to donate $15 to the Mental Health campaign, and plans were finalized for the Oct. 6 Health Fair.

A work day has been set to begin at 9 a.m. on October 16 to work on projects for the Christmas events. This is an all-day meeting and a sack lunch and work materials should be brought.

Lorraine Fike will be hostess to the November 13 meeting, postponed from regular date due to the election, at the Memorial Building at 1:00 p.m.

Refreshments were served to the following at the close of the meeting: Ardis Teets, Avenell Parsons, Cynthia Bachtel and Adam, Rebecca Teets, Marguerite Shaffer, Ruth Teets, Mildred Wilt, Lillian Knotts, Neva Frantz and children, Rose Ina Harsh and Mark, Lectie Bonner, Mary Rembold and Shawn, Jean Winters and the hostess' children and husband.

Ronald Parsons of Eglon, was notified that his son, Ron Jr., of Hedgesville, is a patient in a Winchester Hospital. He underwent surgery there on October 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Galen Fike, Mrs. Marie Teets and Mrs. Linda Lewis, all of Eglon, attended a postmasters' dinner on Tuesday evening, October 2, in Tunnelton.

There will be a craft, bake and miscellaneous sale on Saturday, October 20, from 9:30 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. at the Farmer's Wildlife Park, Horse Shoe Run. The annual event is sponsored by the Farm Women's Circle.

On Saturday evening, October 20, there will be a buckwheat cake and sausage dinner at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren at Eglon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Teets of Aurora, spent the weekend in Springfield, Va., where on Sunday they attended the marriage of their granddaughter, Denise Teets, to James David Jewell. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Teets, Springfield, and also the granddaughter of Homer and Marguerite Myers of Aurora. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James D. Jewell, Jr. The ceremony was performed at 2:30 p.m., October 7, in St. John's United Methodist Church, Springfield.

Census Bureau Slates Survey

The U.S. Bureau of the Census will conduct its regular survey on employment and unemployment in Garrett County during the week of October 15-20, according to James F. Holmes, director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Philadelphia.

In October, additional survey questions will provide information on school enrollment and computer usage for both children and adults.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 71,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the nation.

For example, in August 1984 the survey indicated that of the 113.5 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 105.0 million were employed. The nation's unemployment rate remained the same at 7.5 percent.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals, according to Holmes.

CONDO AS INVESTMENT

Condominium living is with us to stay. It is a way of life for a large segment of our population. A lot of money has been made in the turnover of condominiums.

A well selected condo can make an excellent real estate investment, offering the benefits of appreciation, cash flow and tax sheltering. The beauty of the condominium ownership format appeals to many investors without the time, expertise or inclination toward property management. Professional on-site management is usually available.

As an investor, you will wish to acquire a unit or units which offer the most general appeal for rental and re-sale purposes. The advice of a local Realtor would be helpful in this regard.

By far, the largest profit in the shortest time is usually made when the unit is purchased during the early stages of building and development. There is more risk; however, an early investment decision will often result in a lower purchase price. Unit prices tend to rise as more sales are made and the project matures.

Schlosnagle Attends Orientation In Annapolis For Youth Advisory Group

Area delegate to the Governor's Youth Advisory Council, Spencer Schlosnagle, attended the Orientation for new and returning delegates held in the Joint Hearing Room, Legislative Service Building, in Annapolis September 8.

Schlosnagle, a Friendsville resident, was reappointed to the Governor's Youth Advisory Council by Governor Harry Hughes. His term is for the 1984-85 term which expires on August 1, 1985, and he will be eligible for reappointment.

The Youth Advisory Council communicates the concerns of Maryland's youth to the executive and legislative policy-makers within the State thereby bringing a better understanding between State Govenment and the young people of Maryland.

The day began in the House of Delegates Office Building beginning with registration and check-in. A welcome and introductions were given by the Governor's Youth Advisory Council President Christopher A. Bagley. Featured speakers for the day were the mayor of Annapolis and a House of Delegates member.

Throughout the day the council held committee meetings. Schlosnagle is a member of the Outreach committee. Other committees are Current Issues and Government Action and Issues Research and Government Action. Later the council members broke into discussion groups and area caucus meetings.

Following closing remarks a reception was held in the Calvert Room of the State House.

Schlosnagle is a 1982 graduate of Northern High School and is presently attendding Garrett Community College, majoring in business administration.

A member of Grace Lutheran Church, he is on the council, sings in the choir and is publisher of the monthly newsletter. He is superintendent of Sunday School and co-leader of the church youth groups.

He is a member of the Friendsville Town Council, American Heart Association Volunteer, active in the Annual Friendsville Summer Festivals and a member of the Garrett County Democrat Club.

He resides in Friendsville with his parents, Raymond and Alta Schlosnagle.

Fire Prevention Week Designated, Contest Planned

Although fire prevention is a year-round job, October 8-12 is designated National Fire Prevention Week. All across Maryland and the rest of the United States many groups are calling attention to the importance of preventing fires.

Garrett County Project Forester Ernie Metz is equally concerned about preventing forest fires. "Wildfire can cause much damge to our forests by killing the trees, the wildlife and lessening the benefits of the trees to the environment," Metz said.

The Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service is interested in preventing forest fires and this year is kicking off a unique forest fire prevention poster contest that public school third grade students may enter. Working through the Maryland State Department of Education, flyers have been distributed to third grade teachers and contest requirements.

The posters may be of any color or material and will range in size from 8½"x11" to 18"x 24". The posters will be returned to the Garrett County project office by Arbor Day, April 3. Winners will be selected for each county and a statewide winner from the county winners.

"Forest fire prevention is everybody's job," Metz said. "Smokey the Bear has been around for 40 years cautioning people about wild fire. The message is still the same. 'Only you can prevent forest fires.' "

Police Concerned About Upward Speeding Trend

Maryland State Police have noticed a continuing upward trend in the speeds on state's highways during the past year.

Speed surveys conducted by the State Highway Administration indicate that over 48 percent of those persons using the Maryland highways are exceeding 60 miles per hour. This high percentage disturbs state police, since the national maximum speed limit of 55 miles per hour has been in effect since the mid-seventies.

During 1983, over 130,400 speeding tickets were issued by state troopers, an increase of 15 percent over the 1982 figure of 113,500.

State police say the cause of the increased speeds is the availability of fuel and stable fuel prices.

In order to help curtail this increase in speeding, state police have increased patrols and are using unconventional speed enforcement programs on high non-compliance roads.

According to Colonel W.T. Travers, Jr., Superintendent of the State Police, "We've seen what can be done by obeying the 55 mile per hour national maximum speed limit. Over the past ten years, the numbers of persons killed and injured has been sharply reduced. I feel confident that with everyone's cooperation we can again make Maryland a model for other states to copy."

During the next year, the State Police will utilize a three-phase program to help reduce speeding in Maryland. Phase One will consist of aerial speed enforcement programs on targeted highways, overtime troopers concentrating on 55 NMSL/Heavy Truck moving violations, and the use of unmarked patrol cars. Additionally, the Special Traffic Enforcement Unit will target high non-compliance areas.

Phase Two of the program, to begin sometime in February, 1985, unveils unconventional police vehicles that will be used by 55 mile per hour compliance teams. These teams will concentrate on pre-selected roads where traditional enforcement efforts fail to reduce the number of speeders.

Phase Three of the program set to begin about June 1, 1985, will specifically target roads where speeding continues to be a problem.

The new program stresses participation at the local level by using troopers working overtime on designated highways, and utilizing the Special Traffic Enforcement Unit on specific high non-compliance roads.

Mrs. Linda Buckel's advanced reading class at Northern High School responded to this request by sponsoring a variety of activities and projects for the week.

On Monday, the class delivered literacy fact sheets to all classroom teachers, faculty and staff, and placed "Celebrate Literacy" apples on each teacher's door. Bookmarks were designed by Angie Bender and placed in the library for distribution.

A soap opera saga, "As the Pages Turn", was written by Katherine Beadle and presented over the PA system by Brent Beachy. Brent also announced the "mystery book" contest sponsored by the class, and gave the clues for the book each morning.

Wednesday was "Literacy Spirit Day." All content area teachers were asked to set aside ten minutes each period during the day for either silent sustained reading or silent sustained writing.

On Friday, a "Literary Brunch, was held. Advanced reading students, along with invited faculty and administration, enjoyed coffee, juice and donuts while participating in a structured period of silent sustained reading.

Leslie Merkel, a tenth grade student, was the winner of the mystery book contest with her correct guess "The Animal Farm" by George Orwell.

Hughes Proclaims Crime Prevention Month In State

Governor Hughes has proclaimed October, 1984, as Crime Prevention Month in Maryland., The proclamation was issued in concert with the proclamation of October, 1984, as National Crime Prevention Month by the Crime Prevention Coalition, a group of approximately 100 Federal agencies and national and state organizations dedicated to the furtherance of crime prevention.

The purpose of the Statewide observance of crime prevention month is two-fold: first, to increase citizen awareness of and participation in crime prevention programs and activities currently operating throughout Maryland; and second, to support the continued crime prevention endeavors of Maryland Crime Watch, the Maryland Crime Prevention Association, and the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services.

National Crime Prevention Month was kicked off with the issuance by the U.S. Postal Service of a commemorative stamp honoring crime prevention. The stamp features "McGruff," the crime dog, and the slogan "Take A Bite Out of Crime." One of Maryland's own, Detective Frank Soistman, Baltimore County Police Department, is credited with having originated and pursued the idea of a crime prevention stamp.

In recognition of Crime Prevention Month, state and local law enforcement agencies all over Maryland will be joining with local community groups to sponsor special crime prevention activities such as: crime prevention stamp ceremonies at local post offices; a variety of Halloween crime prevention programs for children; child fingerprinting program; and special Neighborhood Watch meetings.

In addition to those activities, during the month of October Maryland Crime Watch and state and local law enforcement agencies are also encouraging increased observance of the following "common-sense" crime prevention techniques:

At Home

•Install and use peepholes and deadbolt locks with at least a one-inch throw on all exterior doors.

•Secure windows. An easy, inexpensive method is window-pinning.

•Join Operation Identification. Using an electric engraver, mark your valuables with your driver's license number followed by the letters MD, make a list of your valuables and file in a safe place. Then place Operation Identification decals on your doors and/or windows.

•Don't give anyone personal information over the phone or let it be known that you are alone.

•Don't let strangers in to use your phone. Leave them outside and make the call for them.

In the Car

•Be sure your car is in good working order. Keep doors locked, windows open only a crack.

•When you must leave your key with a service station or parking lot attendant, leave only your car key, never the keys to your house.

•Always lock your car when you leave, even if only for a few minutes. Look inside when you return to see if anyone is hiding inside.

•If you think you are being followed, drive to the closest police or fire station, hospital emergency entrance, or well-lit, all-night business establishment and phone for help.

•If you have car trouble, raise your hood and lock yourself in the car. If another motorist offers to help, roll down the window an inch and ask him to call the police or a repair truck for you. Don't get out of your car until help arrives.

On the Street

•Never hitchhike. Never accept a ride from a stanger.

•Avoid dark, secluded areas. Stay away from bushes, dark doorways, and alleys which could conceal an assailant.

•If you are being followed, head for a well-lighted area with lots of people.

•If you are followed by a vehicle, run in the opposite direction and summon help at the nearest home or business.

•When getting out of a cab or a friend's car, ask the driver to wait until you are safely inside your home.

In Your Neighborhood

•Report any suspicious activity to the police or sheriff's department. Provide a description of suspicious characters and/or their vehicles and license numbers, if possible.

•Before leaving on a trip, tell a trusted neighbor when you are leaving and when you will be back. Leave a number where you can be reached. Ask a neighbor to collect the mail and accept any deliveries. Arrange to have someone mow the lawn or shovel the snow.

•Contact your police or sheriff's department for information on organizing a Neighborhood Watch program in your area.

For Halloween

•Check costumes to make sure they aren't flammable—wear light colored clothes after sundown.

•Don't let children trick-or-treat alone.

•Instruct children not to go inside a stranger's home.

•Check masks to insure that vision is not restricted.

•Instruct children not to eat the "treats" until you check them.

•Remember, Halloween is a time for fun, not an excuse for vandalism.

Remind your teenagers that defacing someone's property is criminal mischief!

Crime prevention information can be obtained from local police of sheriff or the Maryland Crime Watch Program at (301) 321-3686. Maryland Crime Watch is a program of the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services, which is designed to inform citizens throughout the State about methods they can utilize to prevent crime.

Garrett County may have a wet but mild winter if the newly-released 1985 Farmer's Almanac predictions come true.

Snowstorms are predicted for the region beginning in November and hitting occasionally each month through April. Temperatures will average 2.5 degrees higher than usual winter temperatures, says the Almanac.

The bitter cold Christmas of 1983 may not be repeated in 1984 according to the Almanac which promises sunny weather with warm temperatures on December 22-26.

Although precipitation is expected to be below the average for this area in the early winter months, the Almanac calls for about three inches of precipitation each month from November to April.

"KEEP THAT GREAT GM FEELING WITH GENUINE GM PARTS"

Kit Prepared To Handle Complaints To General Motors

Maryland Attorney General Stephen H. Sachs announced this week that the Consumer Protection Division of his office has prepared a detailed mediation/arbitration kit to assist consumers who use a new program set up by the Federal Trade Commission to resolve long-standing complaints about General Motors cars.

"We know of at least 1,250 Marylanders who already have filed complaints with the FTC about the transmissions, camshafts and valve lifters and diesel engines in their GM cars, and we expect—and hope—to hear from hundreds more who can use our kit to help solve their problems," Sachs said.

The FTC filed formal charges against General Motors in 1980, alleging that the "THM-200" automatic transmissions, the camshafts and valve lifters in certain gasoline engines, and the fuel injection pumps and fuels injections in certain diesel GM cars were defective, Sachs explained. The company recently signed an agreement promising to inplement a nationwide program to resolve these consumer complaints and all others regarding the cars' powertrain through a mediation/arbitration procedure handled by the Better Business Bureau, he said.

"We think consumers should be armed with all the information they need to present a strong case for restitution, and this kit will give them important background material on the history of their car's defect, as well as helpful suggestions on how to prepare and present their complaint during the mediation/arbitration process," Sachs said.

The procedure can be used for any other problems with the transmission or engine of a GM car as well, he added.

Once consumers sign up to participate in the FTC-BBB program, a representative from GM most likely will contact them and attempt to settle their complaint through mediation, according to Assistant Attorney General Steven J. Cole, chief of the Consumer Protection Division.

"This mediation effort is an important part of the program. Our kit gives you tips on how to prepare for mediation and thereby increase your chances of getting a higher settlement offer from GM. If you're able to agree on a restitution amount during mediation, you won't have to use the arbitration process, which can be more time-consuming," Cole said. "Under the procedure worked out by the FTC and GM, the burden of proof at the arbitration hearing is on the consumer to show that the car is defective," he added.

"But if GM does not make you a good offer and you decide to arbitrate your complaint, we hope that some special 'memoranda to the arbitrator' that we've prepared will help consumers meet that burden of proof," Cole said.

Cole noted that under the procedure, each arbitrator will be allowed to hear only three cases, thus limiting the arbitrator's exposure to evidence that indicates the problems the consumers encountered are part of a systematic defect in thousands of cars. "A major purpose of the materials we've prepared is to alert arbitrators to the fact that the powertrain problems they will hear about in the arbitrations are not unique," Cole said.

Consumers wishing to receive a free GM mediation/arbitration kit should write the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office and ask for both the booklet containing general information on General Motors car complaints, as well as the "memorandum to the arbitrator" that covers their specific complaint. The memoranda cover diesel engine complaints, THM-200 Automatic Transmission claims; camshaft and valve lifter claims and general powertrain claims. The Consumer Protection Division's address is 7 North Calvert Street, Third Floor, Baltimore, Maryland 21202.

If consumers then have any questions about the mediation/arbitration procedure or any of the information they receive, they may call the Consumer Protection Division at 528-8662.

Consumers may use the arbitration procedure regardless of the age of their car or how many miles are on it, and they are not limited to the express warranty given by GM, Cole explained. The procedure also is open to consumers regardless of whether the car has been repaired or maintained by a GM dealer or an independent mechanic, and consumers are eligible for the process whether they bought the car new or used, and in some cases even if they no longer own it, he added.

The arbitrator's findings are not binding on the consumer, who may reject the decision and pursue the complaint through a private suit, Cole said.

Sachs said his office wishes to determine how well the FTC-GM arbitration program works and will ask any consumer who gets the office's information kit to fill out a pre-printed card on the procedure and mail it back to the Consumer Protection Division in a stamped, self-addressed envelope that will be enclosed with the kit.

Mathias Hails Passage Of ACC Legislation

Noting that the legislative history to establish an American Conservation Corps "has been long and tortured", Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) recently praised the Senate for passing the bill.

Mathias and Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan (D-N.Y.) introduced the bill in the Senate in 1981 and have worked for its passage ever since.

The legislation authorizes $225 million to be spent over the next three years to improve and upgrade the country's natural and cultural resources.

"Millions of acres of public rangeland are in substandard condition, and millions more are experiencing severe soil erosion," Mathias pointed out. "Futhermore, national, state, and city parks are suffering from the effects of vastly increased public use, while the manpower and funds to deal with these effects are not available due to tightened budgets at all levels of government," Mathias added.

"By establishing the ACC we can reverse the deterioration of our public lands caused by years of neglect and misuse," said Mathias.

Mathias said that the legislation will provide funding for reforestation, erosion and flood control, reclamation of strip-mining lands, and rangeland management in rural areas, as well as for harbor and port management, repair and maintenance of city parks and energy conservation in urban areas.

The legislation stipulates that the vast majority of workers employed in the Corps will be between the ages of 16 and 25, and that special efforts will be made to recruit and enroll youths who are economically disadvantaged.

"The beauty of this legislation is that while it addresses many of our environmental problems, it also addresses one of our most serious social problems—youth unemployment," said Mathias.

He recalled that the American Conservation Corps "reflects the spirit of the old, but not forgotten, Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC), perhaps the most popular and successful public works program this country has ever undertaken." Mathias noted that the CCC put 2.5 million people to work during the Depression on much-needed public projects all across the country.

The ACC would be administered by the Departments of Interior and Agriculture.

The legislation authorizes $50 million funding for Fiscal Year 1985, funding for '86 would be $75 million, and funding for 1987 would increase to $100 million. Under the legislation, 35 percent of the funds would go directly to the states to establish programs. Maryland, which already operates a state conservation corps program, would be eligible for federal funds as soon as they become available.

Leaf Burning Can Be Hazardous To One's Health

Autumn's annual arrival brings foilage and falling leaves. State health officials want to remind Maryland citizens that while many may enjoy the aroma of burning leaves, this practice can be dangerous and it is illegal throughout much of the State.

Smoke from burning leaves is dangerous for persons with respiratory diseases such as asthma, bronchitis, and emphysema, because it can aggravate the symptoms of these diseases. Smoke can also affect healthy persons by causing eye and nose irritation, fever, coughing and cramps.

Smoke from burning leaves contains a high concentration of pollutants, about one pound of air pollutants for every five pounds of leaves burned. Because leaf smoke is produced close to the ground, it is more likely to be breathed before it has a chance to dissipate into the air.

Not only does leaf burning cause air pollution and is a threat to peoples' health, it can also cause property damage, street damage and create a fire hazard.

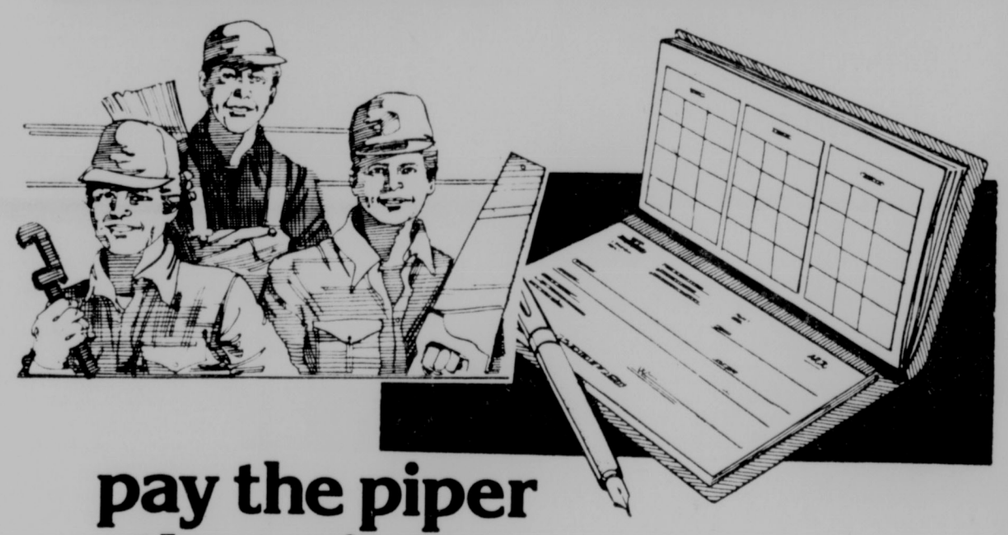

State regulations prohibit leaf burning wherever collection is available. Where leaf collection is not provided, burning is permitted as long as the fire is not closer than 300 feet to the nearest habitable building in the Baltimore and Washington metro areas, or 200 feet in the rest of the State.

Local ordinances may be more restrictive than State regulations. For example, leaf burning is prohibited in the City of Baltimore.

Interested persons should call their local health departments for more information about restrictions on leaf burning.

PICK APPLES, AMERICA

October is National Apple Month and is being celebrated for the 79th year to honor one of America's favorite fruits—the apple. This year's theme—pick Apples, America—encourages everyone to pick apples in their many healthy forms. That includes munching a fresh piece of fruit, adding apple desserts to your menu, enjoying a glass of chilled apple juice, or sipping a mug of hot cider. Apples, along with being delicious, are also nutritious. Here are some interesting facts:

*Apples are a natural source of Vitamins A, B^1, B^2, C, niacin and the minerals calcium, phosphorus, iron, iodine, potassium and sodium.

*Since they contain very little sodium and no cholesterol—apples are a guilt-free crunch for those on special diets.

*Dietary fiber and pectin (A fiber component) are found in apples. Some researchers believe fiber and pectin aid digestion and may also help limit the absorption of cholesterol in the body.

*Apples help clean teeth and massage gums earning the nickname, "nature's toothbrush."

*Perfect for snacks, average size apples contain only 80 calories of food energy. They are filling but not fattening due to their high fiber and water content.

Choose apples according to:

*Color, the color should be bright and appropriate for the variety you are selecting. Remember that apples come in all shades and combinations of reds, yellows and greens.

*Surface Texture—The surface should be smooth and firm and free from bruises, blemishes and skin breaks. Surface russeting—brownish blemished areas on the skin, generally caused by weather, may somewhat mar the appearance, but does not affect the quality or flavor.

*Ripeness—Apples should be firm, with a bright color and a smooth, bruise-free surface.

Try this easy apple recipe:

CRAZY CRUST APPLE PIE

1 cup all purpose flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup water
⅔ cup shortening
1 egg

Filling:
1 can apple pie filling
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon cinnamon

No need to sift flour, measure by lightly spooning into cup and leveling off. In small mixer bowl, combine flour, sugar, baking powder, salt, water, shortening and egg. Blend well at lowest speed, beat 2 minutes at medium speed. Spread batter in 10 inch or 9 inch deep pie pan. Carefully spoon filling into center of batter. Do not Stir. Bake at 425 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes until crust is golden brown.

EXTENSION HAPPENINGS

A workshop entitled, "Window Treatments—Roller Shades, Roman Shades, and Balloon Shades" will be presented on Wednesday, October 17 at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. at the Garrett County Extension Office in the Courthouse Annex. All interested persons are invited to attend. For further information, call 334-2145.

The Monkey wrench is named after its inventor, a London blacksmith named Charles Moncke.

Barton Man Draws Fine For Theft, Impersonation

A Barton man received a fine of $130 and six months unsupervised probation in Garrett County District Court October 2 during a sentencing hearing for impersonating a Maryland Department of Natural Resources police officer at New Germany State Park.

Geoffrey R. Myers, 35, Emmitsburg, was convicted of two bad check charges filed by Donald Hovatter, Jr., manager of High's, Mtn. Lake Park. Judge Turney fined Myers $30 and placed him on 12 months unsupervised probation.

James Elwood Taylor, 55, Piedmont, W. Va., was found not guilty of malicious destruction of property as charged by Shirley Elizabeth Taylor, Swanton.

A battery charge and a malicious destruction of property charge filed against Billy Gene Herman, Jr., 27, Oakland, in two separate cases were nolle prosequi.

Sheriff's Dept. Investigating Thefts, D.O.P.

Crimes of theft, breaking and entering and destruction of property are presently being investigated by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

In one case of breaking and entering and theft, $2,951 worth of tools, tool boxes, grinders, and drills was taken from a garage belonging to Robert D. Canan, Jr., Oakland. The culprits gained entry by kicking off a large piece of plywood from the garage door. The theft occurred sometime between October 3 and October 6. Deputy P.K. Buckel is investigating.

Another breaking and entering and destruction of property was reported to the department on October 7 by Edward O. Bosley, Gorman. Bosley stated that someone had broken into and ransacked a house belonging to him on the Gorman-Steyer Road. Nothing was taken from the house, but $2,000 in damages were reported. Deputy D.W. Tucker investigated.

Deputy Buckel is also investigating the thefts of one "No loitering" sign from Browning's Foodland parking lot and three "no loitering" signs from the Mid-Towns Plaza. The signs are valued at $50.

In yet another case of theft and destruction of property, Gaylord Fuel Corporation reported on October 1 that someone had smashed the windshields from two pieces of heavy equipment and had taken three five-gallon gas cans from the premises of that company. Deputy David Crossland is continuing his investigation.

FUTURE REPORTERS? — No. These fifth graders at Friendsville Elementary School are reporters now, compiling a bi-weekly newspaper for their school called the F.E.S. Express. The students provide feature stories as well as general school news. They are students in Ross Glotfelty's class and receive guidance in their work from Jane Fox, principal, and Sheila Russell, Gifted and Talented Resource teacher. Pictured seated around the table are reporters Sherry Hoover, Amy Hetzel, Sam Wakefield, Robert Hoover, Chad Anderson, Michael Nedrow, April Slagle, Stephanie Thomas, and Geni Uphold. Standing in the back are Ross Glotfelty, Sheila Russell and Jane Fox.

We discussed having a rock-a-thon and selling packs of seeds. We also discussed having a dance.

We are going to the Jennings Church of God on 4-H Sunday, October 14.

We have many members in the Autumn Glory Festival. We also had two members who completed the hunters course and they passed. We also had at our last meeting the Farmer's Home Advisory Committee from Southern States on safety.

We received first place in the fair for our booth. We received fourth place for the float.

Please bring along record books to our next meeting, which will be on November 5.

Monta Vista

The Monte Vista 4-H Club held its regular meeting in the Extension Office on Thursday, October 4, with 27 members, four leaders and six guests attending. Lori Dodge, vice president, presided, with Pam Gnegy, president, assisting with meeting announcements.

Heather Lipscomb, Barbie Nelson, Chrissy Mattingly and Julie Bradley will represent the club in the Autumn Glory Parade by carrying the Maple Leaves for the floats. The club discussed the recent trip they had at the Ice Capades on September 29, when 56 members, parents and friends participated. A Halloween Party was planned for the latter part of the month.

The next meeting will be November 1 at the County Extension Office at 7 p.m. for the election of officers for the new year.

Restrictions On Poultry Lifted

Effective immediately, restriction imposed by the Maryland Department of Agriculture on the sale of poultry at auction markets and the congregations of birds of any species are rescinded. This announcement was made today by State Veterinarian, Dr. John C. Shook.

The restrictions were placed in effect to protect Maryland's multi-million dollar poultry industry during the avian influenza outbreak in Pennsylvania and Virginia. The quarantine in both states has now been lifted with the Pennsylvania action of October 4, 1984.

"Thus the immediate danger for our industry is past" said Shook. He also expressed his appreciation to all segments of Maryland's industry for their cooperation during the course of the disease. "It was certainly due, in large part, to this cooperative effort that only a few isolated cases of the disease occurred in Maryland," Shook concluded.

European Corn Borer

I have seen some real serious problems with the corn borer this year. If you have noticed a lot of your corn stalks broken over, check the stalk at the point of break. Chances are you will find the interior section of the stalk chewed out. There are 2 or 3 generations of corn borers during a growing season. The first generation's eggs are laid by the female after the corn is at least 12 inches tall. If the corn borer was a problem for you this year, close observation will be necessary next year. Treat when 50% of the plants show feeding in the late whorl state. There is no control for the second generation—the older larvae will tunnel into the stalk and overwinter; therefore; either plow under or rotary mow old stalks this fall or early spring. If the borer was extemely high in number, you may want to rotate the field out of corn for a while.

Silo Unloader's Illness Identified

"Silo Unloader's Syndrome," an acute respiratory illness affecting farmers, has been identified, according to the American Lung Association of Maryland. Associated with the unloading of moldy hay and grains from storage silos, the disease appears to occur with unsuspected frequency, particularly among diary farmers.

Persons attending the combined Annual Meeting of the American Lung Association and the American Thoracic Society, recently heard John J. May, M.D., say that Silo Unloader's Syndrome is different from the more commonly encountered Farmer's Lung Disease despite the similarity of many symptoms. Dr. May serves at the Mary Imogene Bassett Hospital in Cooperstown, N.Y.

'Silo Unloader's Syndrome is usually seen in the late summer and early fall when farmers open silos in which hay and corn have been stored," Dr. May said. "Because conditions in the silo are ideal for the growth of fungi—which are dry, light, and dusty—farmers find it impossible to avoid inhaling quantities of this toxic material."

The symptoms of the illness, which begin within two to 12 hours after exposure, include fever, muscle pain, cough, chest tightness, and headache. These symptoms can be avoided by use of the proper respirator.

Although Silo Unloader's Syndrome is not as serious as Farmer's Lung Disease, 14 of the 37 cases described by Dr. May were hospitalized for an average of four days, and 128 days of work were lost by the entire groups of patients.

"Because this disease is not well known by emergency room and other hospital personnel, almost all of these cases were initially misdiagnosed as Farmer's Lung Disease or other respiratory illnesses," Dr. May said.

Dr. May presented his paper at the Epidemiological Studies of Occupational Lung Disease/Scientific Assembly on Environmental and Occupational Health. His co-workers in the study were L. Stallones and D.S. Pratt.

The American Lung Association is the nation's oldest voluntary health agency. Founded in 1904 to combat tuberculosis, today it is concerned with the prevention and control of all lung diseases and some of their related causes, including occupational lung hazards. For more information about occupational or other types of lung diseases, persons may call toll free 1-800-492-7527 or in Baltimore, 685-6484.

ECONOMIC NEWS NOTES

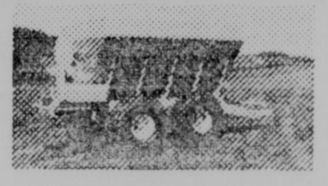

LOWER MILK PRICES AND HIGHER DAIRY FEED COTS SQUEEZE U.S., NORTHEAST AND MAYRLAND DAIRYMEN
by John W. Wyson

Milk-feed price ratios have tumbled to lower levels as milk prices decline and feed prices stay at high levels. The May 1983 milk-feed ratio was 1.45, but by May 1984, the national ratio had declined to only 1.31. Therefore, dairy farmers have restricted some of their grain feeding in search of optimum levels of feed input-relative to milk output. Not only grain and concentrate feeds but also hay costs have increased in the 1983-84 feeding year relative to a year earlier.

In May 1983, dairy feeds with 16% protein averaged $184 per ton in the U.S. compared with $197 per ton in May 1984. The national all milk (fluid and manufacturing grade) price dropped to $12.90 per cwt. in May 1984. The seasonally adjusted annual price for 1984 was projected to be $13.30 per cwt. compared with $13.85 (adjusted) per cwt. in May 1983 for the 1983 year. The 1977 base period U.S. farm price for milk was $9.71 per cwt. This average consisted of a fluid grade price of $9.94 per cwt. and a manufacturing grade price of $8.71. This compares with the May 1984 prices of $13.10 for fluid and $12.10 for manufacturing. Federal Milk Manufacturing Order No. 4, the Mid-Atlantic Milk Area, uses nearly 50 percent of its milk supplies for fluid uses compared with about 40 percent nationally. A major milk promotion program is in operation nationally and in the Mid-Atlantic area to reverse a long-term decline in fluid utilization from 65 percent in 1970 to less than 50 percent in the early 1980s for Order 4 producers.

The changed economic situation for dairy farmers already has caused some dairy enterptises on Maryland farms to be eliminated. Dairymen who are or become marginal milk producers will continue to exit the industry over the next few years.

Aurora Youth Fatally Injured In Gun Mishap

A young Preston County, W.Va. boy was killed Tuesday when a gun accidentally discharged while he and his father were hunting in the Aurora area of the county.

Charles Wiles, III, 11, of Aurora, was identified by Sgt. Lonnie Haman of the West Virginia Department of Natural Resources, as the victim of the accidental shooting that occurred on the family property at about 6:30 p.m., Tuesday.

According to Haman, Wiles and his father had been squirrel hunting. The boy left his 12-gauge shotgun, loaded with two shells, in the back of the pickup where it discharged striking him in the shoulder and chest area.

The boy was initially transported by private vehicle to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The vehicle, according to Garrett Central Alarm dispatchers, was met enroute by the Southern Rescue Squad.

Haman said the body was sent to Baltimore for an autopsy.

Born in Oakland, Wiles was the son of Charles D. Wiles, Jr., and Carolyn (Shaffer) Wiles.

He was a seventh grade student at Aurora School.

Surviving besides his parents are three sisters, Beverly Moats, Emily Birchland, and Diane Hebb, all of Aurora.

Friends will be received at the Fike-Watson Funeral home, Terra Alta, W.Va., Thursday and Friday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Services will be conducted at Maple Springs Brethren Church Saturday at 2 p.m., by Rev. Michael Fike and Rev. Galen Fike. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

PEEK-A-BOO — This young man is safely ensconced in piles of fallen leaves as he awaits the arrival of the great pumpkin. Unseasonably warm weather has blessed the county during the past week, providing a perfect backdrop for the Autumn Glory festivities. No parade marchers had to sport "blue legs" due to cold weather Saturday afternoon during the grand parade in Oakland, and ralliers Sunday were enticed out by the perfect temperatures and scenery to enjoy the day. Many more leaves have joined the piles on the ground in the past few days as colorful leaves succumb to gravity and the inevitability of the seasons.

Correction Noted

In an account of an automobile accident involving Jacquelene K. Bradley, Keyser, W.Va. and Guy Willard Harvey, The Republican erroneously stated in last week's edition that the Bradley vehicle was travelling east on Route 135 and attempted to make a left-hand turn onto Route 38. Actually, it was the Harvey truck that was travelling east and made the left-hand turn onto Route 38 into the path of the Bradley vehicle, which was travelling west on Route 135. The Republican regrets this error.

Home Destroyed By Fire Early Sunday Morning

A two-story log house, which was only three years old, was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning, the cause of which remains undetermined, according to James Martin, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Shaffer and their three children, located along Sunnyside Road west of U.S. Rt. 219 south of Oakland, was fully involved in flame upon arrival of firefighters from Oakland and Aurora volunteer fire departments. Garrett Central Alarm received a call from Lannie LeForte, of Laurel, who was visiting neighbors of the Shaffers, at 12:07 a.m. LeForte told Martin he noticed the glow of the fire as he was leaving the neighbor's house.

Martin said the Shaffers were not at home at the time of the fire, having left at about 10:30 p.m. to babysit for a relative in the Mountain Lake Park area.

Also responding to the scene was the county air cascade unit and the equipment vehicle of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

Martin stated that the Shaffers lost all of their possessions in the blaze, which had already burned through the roof by the time firemen arrived. He said the family had ample insurance on the house and contents.

The investigation into the cause of the fire is continuing, according to Martin.

Fire personnel remained on the scene until 4:47 a.m.

Voters Need Not Ask Judges For Write-In Ballots

It was incorrectly reported in a recent edition of The Republican that persons wishing to vote for Anna Mary Fratz in the general election on November 6 for a position on the Garrett County Board of Education must ask for a write-in ballot.

In fact, there are pencils appended to the voting machines so voters can write in candidates of their choice. The spaces for write-ins are at the top of the voting machines.

There will be three spaces where voters may write in candidates' names: those for the offices of president and vice president; representative in Congress; and Board of Education.

If persons are unsure of the procedure and need assistance, they are encouraged to ask the judges present at the voting booth to assist them.

Three Injured In Mishap Near Finzel Tuesday

Three Keyser, W.Va., men remain hospitalized with serious injuries following a one-vehicle accident which occurred Tuesday morning on Route 48 west of the Finzel interchange.

Gary Ravenscroft, 23, a passenger in the vehicle, remains in "critical" condition at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, while Richard Elkins, 42, another passenger in the vehicle is listed in "serious" condition. The driver, Frank Allen Wallace, 24, is listed in "stable" condition.

Tfc. David W. Broadwater of the Maryland State Police investigated the accident and charged Wallace with driving while intoxicated, speeding greater than reasonable and prudent, failure to drive within a single lane, reckless driving and operating a vehicle without a license.

The accident occurred when the 1980 Volkswagen Rabbit, operated by Wallace and owned by Elkins, was eastbound on Route 48 at 7:05 a.m. when it veered off the right side of the road, crossed both eastbound lanes to the median hitting the guardrails, then crossed both lanes again to the right side of the road, where it overturned.

The three men were all thrown from the vehicle.

State Police Medevac helicopter flew one of the injured to the hospital, and the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad transported the other two.

Funding Proposal Meets Approval Of GCC Trustees

A summary of a revised funding proposal for Maryland's community colleges was the main topic of discussion at a meeting of the Board of Trustees for Garrett Community College Tuesday night.

College President Randall Harman reviewed the proposal for the group and announced that the State Board for Community Colleges unanimously endorsed the plan, which, if passed, will provide $12 million new dollars for Maryland's 17 community colleges.

The college trustees agreed it was an acceptable proposal and would be quite a boost for GCC.

If the proposed plan is accepted by Governor Harry Hughes and the Maryland General Assembly, Garrett Community College would receive $213,000 in new funding for fiscal year 1986.

The plan would provide $315 per FTE (fulltime equivalent student) for GCC. The FTE's would be based on the prior year attendance or the average enrollment of the colleges previous three years, as opposed to the old method of trying to project FTEs.

President Harman said of the proposal, "This will be a major step for us as we will be developing a budget before we begin the year. It is also an equitable way of distributing funds for Pell Grant recipients. Now, we'll know up front what our budget is and we will also be receiving our fair percentage of state aid."

Local Resident Held On Charges, Dealing CDS

A year-long investigation conducted by Chief Deputies Van Evans and Harland Tichnell and Deputy Richard Kutchman of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department resulted in the arrest of an area man, who has been charged with dealings of controlled dangerous substances.

Donald Ray Filsinger, 26, Oakland, was arrested at his residence last week on the Mayhew Inn Road and charged with possession and distribution of cocaine and marijuana.

The sheriff's department had been working in conjunction with the Garrett County State's Attorney's office which resulted in the arrest of Filsinger.

Bond has been set at $15,000. Garrett County District Court Commissioners are requiring 10 percent of that figure for Filsinger's release. He is presently incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail.

Man Remains "Critical" After Sunday Accident

One man remains hospitalized in "critical" condition and five persons were treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following several automobile accidents which occurred in the area this past week, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police.

A Sunday morning accident sent two men to Garrett County Memorial Hospital when the 1978 Ford Granada, operated by Richard William Paugh, 21, Kitzmiller, ran off the right side of the road, and struck a guardrail. He re-entered the road and crossed the center line and struck a 1980 Chevrolet Chevette operated by Jerry Dale Paugh, 32, Aurora, W. Va., head on. The accident occurred on Route 135 near Kitzmiller.

Richard Paugh was treated and released at the hospital, while Jerry Paugh was admitted to the hospital in "guarded" condition. He was transferred to West Virginia University Medical Center, Morgantown, Tuesday, where he is listed as "critical, but stable."

Tfc. G.R. Chaney charged Richard Paugh with negligent driving.

A Saturday afternoon accident sent two passengers travelling in a 1979 Ford Bronco to Garrett County Memorial Hospital when the operator of the vehicle, Betty Irene Rhodes, 26, Swanton, apparently swerved to avoid hitting a car in the front of her that had suddenly braked. The Rhodes vehicle ran off the roadway and overturned.

Flora May Rexrode, 69, and Marvin Rhodes, Jr., 5, both Swanton, were treated and released at the hospital.

The Southern Rescue Squad transported the injured.

Tfc. D.W. Broadwater charged Rhodes with failure to control speed to avoid an accident.

In a Friday evening accident which occurred at the intersection of Route 219 and Route 50, Charles Ronald Meadows, 43, Oakland, and Daniel Joseph Cinalli, 35, Nutter Fort, W. Va.,

SHA Encounters Problems In Road Near Rt. 48 Friendsville Ramp

Westbound traffic along Route 48 is being routed along the median strip west of Friendsville because of a large crack in the roadway, report State Highway Administration officials.

"This is an interim solution," said District Engineer Wallace Beaulieu this morning.

A large crack in the fast lane of the westbound roadway began developing the middle of last week, Beaulieu explained, beginning as a hairline crack and developing into a 75-foot, 1½-inch crack running parallel to the lane.

SHA officials began monitoring the crack and determined Tuesday to route traffic along the median and to stop rehabilitation work on the entrance ramp to the westbound lane.

Beaulieu noted the crack was a statement of weakness in the roadbed and was directly related to the road construction work in the area.

SHA officials are negotiating with the contractor to redesign and expand the project. The rehabilitation project had been slated to be complete by December, but Beaulieu said it could extend into the spring.

SHA crews built a gravel road Tuesday on the median strip for traffic. Beaulieu said he expects westbound traffic to be diverted onto the eastbound roadway, creating one lane of traffic in each direction there. Beaulieu said this plan would probably not be instituted until after negotiations with the contractor and the SHA geologist are completed.

The Route 48 entrance ramp has been under construction to rebuild the slope and improve water drainage, Beaulieu explained.

Board Re-Approves Patterson Request

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals unanimously approved a special exception permit for Patterson Boat Company to park boats on trailers on a lot in the Enterprise Vacation Homes subdivision on Harvey's Peninsula. The lot is owned by Betty and Richard Friend, owners of the boat company. The decision was made at the October 4 meeting of the board.

The issue had been remanded back to the zoning board by the Garrett County Circuit Court after an earlier decison to allow the special exception had been appealed by adjacent property owners. At the time of Judge Frederick Sharer's ruling, he said it appeared evidence was ample to support the board's decision against the Harvey's Peninsula resident who filed the appeal.

The zoning board is requiring, however, that the boat company owners may only store boats on the property and that no sales or display of boats be allowed on the lot. There must be no boat repairs made on the property and construction of any structure is not

Three Oakland Stores Closing

Three Oakland businesses closed this month — two in the past week. Finders on Second Street was closed Monday, while Village Jewelers closed its doors Saturday night.

Garrett Sport-About will close its doors at the end of October, after two years of operation. Owner Harold Trickett, who is closing the sporting goods store due to health reasons, is offering sales on merchandise still in the store on Alder Street.

Village Jewelers had been operating on Alder Street for approximately five years. Owner Bill Williams closed the doors Saturday night with little previous notice, according to other business owners in Oakland.

Finders, which has offered clothing, dry goods, shoes and other home needs on Second Street for the past one and a half years, was closed by a court order executed by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department on Monday. Owners Fred and Diana Feld are uncertain whether the store will reopen in time for the Christmas shopping season.

The closing was instigated by officials at the National Bank of Davis, W. Va.

For year round traction and long term wear, choose the new generation all season radial that's available for your car now, only from Goodyear.

Ruth DiPaolo Is Chosen Grantsville BPW Club's Woman Of The Year

Ruth DiPaolo was selected as Woman of the Year Monday night by the Grantsville Area Business and Professional Women's Club. Mrs. DiPaolo was instrumental in organizing the new club in 1983-84.

At Monday's meeting, Mrs. DiPaolo was presented with an engraved plaque by Barbara Miller, Woman of the Year committee chairman. Committee member Linda Buckel presented her with a corsage and committee member Amy Harman was mistress of ceremonies. Other committee members wee Linda Fousek and Vonda Yunker.

Mrs. Ruth DiPaolo, Barbara Miller, Linda Fousek and Mrs. DiPaolo's daughter Carol Bass will attend the state Woman of the Year luncheon in Annapolis October 27.

A graduate of Allegany High School, Mrs. DiPaolo is presently employed by the Maryland State Department of Education as secretary to Joseph Blanco, rehabilitation counselor. Previously she was employed for many years as a shipping office clerk at Harbison-Walker Refractories, Jennings.

Currently Mrs. DiPaolo serves the Grantsville BPW as president. In addition she is president of the Maryland Association of Agricultural Fairs; treasurer of American Legion Auxiliary Post 214, Grantsville; vice president of the Bittinger Homemakers Club; director and past secretary of the Garrett County Agricultural Fair; member of Bittinger Emmanuel Lutheran Church and Lutheran Church Women; director of Garrett County Processing and Packaging Corp.

As a mother of five, she has been very active in school organizations, having served as president of the County Council of PTAs and on the executive board of the Maryland Congress of PTAs. She was a member of the state superintendent of schools Project Basic committee and served as a member of the health curriculum planning for the Garrett school system.

Mrs. DiPaolo, as Ruth Glotfelty, lived on the family farm in Bittinger for 30 years, until the death of her first husband, Robert O. Glotfelty. When she married Dino DiPaolo in 1978, the couple moved to their present home on Savage River Road.

The Grantsville Club's first Woman of the Year feels that one of the most important accomplishments of her life has been helping to see that all her children received a college education. Rodney, Joan, Carol, Barry and Scott all received their bachelor degrees from the University of Maryland, College Park campus. Rodney received a Master's degree from Johns Hopkins University in Public Health Administration and Scott is a third-year student at Virginia-Maryland College of Veterinary Medicine, Blacksburg, Va.

Mrs. DiPaolo advises all young women to pursue a career and develop that career to the fullest, postponing wedding plans until she has the necessary expertise to reenter the working field at any time she may wish to return.

She also urges women to become involved in worthwhile community projects, school organizations, political issues and church membership.

About Business and Professional Women's clubs, Mrs. DiPaolo says that organization of the Grantsville Area group has been an important goal in order "to expose more women to the opportunities afforded women in belonging to an organization geared to 'Women Helping Women'."

Plan Auction

The club is finalizing plans for a Christmas auction to be held during the December meeting. The Garrett County BPW members will be invited as special guests, and proceeds will benefit the Foundation committee's scholarship fund.

Material on legislation concerning local issues was distributed by Pat Zumpano and Joan Sussman.

Several members of the club will be attending the fall state board meeting in November at The Village Inn.

Del. George Edwards will be the guest speaker at the November 19 meeting of the Grantsville Area club.

The residents of Alaska move from one home to another more often than residents of any other state.

Miller Receives Probation, Fine In Circuit Court

A Uniontown, Pa., man received three years of supervised probation and a $100 fine in a hearing in Garrett County Circuit Court, October 11.

John H. Miller entered a plea of guilty to a battery charge before Judge Fred A. Thayer. His case had been slated as a jury trial, but Miller's decision to plead guilty eliminated the need for a jury, explained a Circuit Court spokesperson.

Miller faced two battery charges and one destruction of property charge. His charges stemmed from his involvement in a group fight on March 25 in Friendsville.

Sgt. Charles H. Hinnant charged Miller, a juvenile and Jeffrey S. Miller, 20, Markleysburg, Pa., with battery of three other men and destruction of the windshield of the car of Darrell Miller, Grantsville, one of the three victims. The other victims were Rodney G. Rounds, Grantsville, and Ricky Miller, Jennings.

John Miller pled guilty to a battery charge against Ricky Miller and the other two charges were dropped.

Diane Thayer To Be Honored By Board Of Trustees

Diane Thayer, former member of the Board of Trustees of Garrett Community College, will be honored at an appreciation dinner at Silver Tree Inn tonight.

Mrs. Thayer, until her recent resignation, served as a member of the GCC trustees board since its inception.

She is the wife of the Hon. Judge Fred A. Thayer and they are the parents of one son, Rick, St. Louis, Mo.

Irving Day, Jr. Reappointed To Board Of Appeals

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners reappointed Irving M. Day, Jr., Swanton, to a three-year term to the Deep Creek Lake Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals during a regular business meeting Tuesday.

The reappointment becomes effective October 27.

In other business Tuesday, the commissioners announced that Friday is the deadline for applications for the three positions available at the Garrett County Roads Department. The commissioners will begin reviewing applications next week.

Word was also received Tuesday that commissioners John Braskey and Elwood Groves, along with Robert Fousek, county clerk, will be travelling to Hagerstown Wednesday for a two-day fall conference of MACo. Commissioner Ernest Gregg, Jr., will also be in Hagerstown Wednesday at 11:00 a.m. for a meeting of the Tri-County Council. Gregg is the chairman of that council.

The commissioners also reported that they will be meeting with the Maryland Department of Transportation on October 25.

Feedback Encouraged . . .

Congratulations are in order to a host of local persons for the success of the 1984 Autumn Glory Festival. Such credit should be directed not only to the members of the Festival Committee for organizing the affair, but also to the literally hundreds of volunteers who were responsible for actually conducting the many events, whether it be by selling French fries, building a parade float, calling Bingo, making baked goods, playing in the oompah band, or any one of dozens of other jobs.

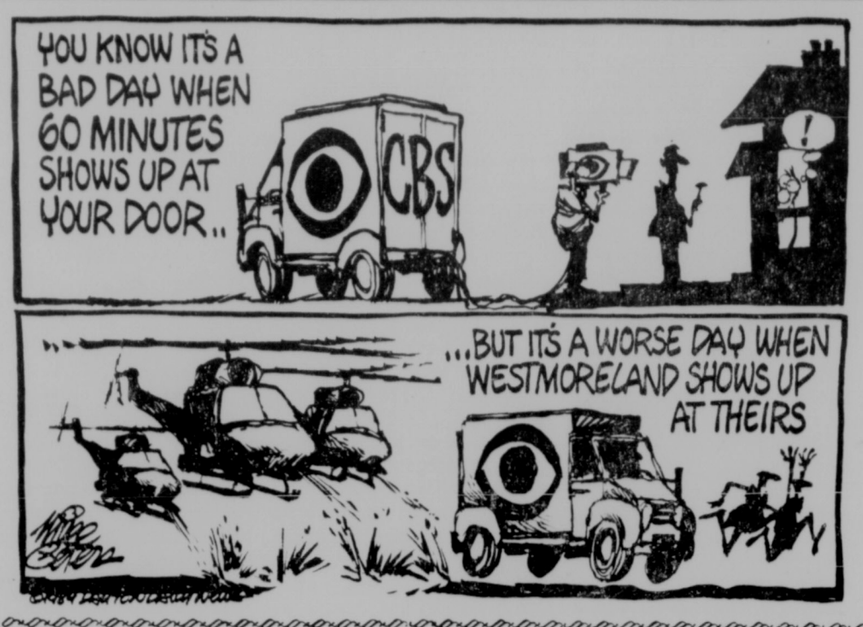

Bigger and better seems to be the approach of all involved. The events seemed well organized and most enjoyable. The crowds were huge and, for the most part, mannerly. Whoever was in charge of lining up the fantastic weather for the three-day period (we hear it was the Mountaintop Ministerial Association) should also be commended.

Believe it or not, planning is already underway for the 1985 Autumn Glory Festival. Right now is the time for persons to contact members of the Festival Committee with their comments, complaints and suggestions. There is always room for improvement and the feedback should be made now rather than three days before, or during, the next festival. The Committee needs to hear not only the criticisms, but also the positive comments, so certain things in future festivals are not changed.

One suggestion for the Committee appears in a letter to the editor on this page, concerning the need for more trash containers on the streets of Oakland before and during the Grand Feature Parade. We agree.

We would suggest that the feedback about the festival be sent directly to the Committee, via the telephone or by mail. Persons are encouraged to contact Cindy Kutchman, executive director of the Promotion Council, at the courthouse in Oakland (phone 334-3888).

We are all getting pretty good at throwing this festival. Let's keep it rolling.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

As a graduate of Northern High School and a former band member, I viewed with a great deal of pride and satisfaction the performances of Northern's Senior Band in both a recent football game and the Autumn Glory Parade.

The improvement of the band over the past few years is indeed remarkable. The addition of the drill team's outstanding performances has added a new dimension of grace and precision to the band.

I know I am not alone in my congratulations to the band members and Mr. Boord for a job well done. Their hard work and efforts are certainly paying off. Keep up the good work!

Sincerely,
Connie Brenneman
Accident

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to Tom Shaffer, UNISERV Director, Maryland State Teachers' Association, concerning the results of the functional writing test. His letter appeared in the October 11 issue of The Republican.

I'm not blaming the teachers for the low test scores. However, when the results of the California Achievement Test were announced, the teachers were given and accepted the credit.

If Mr. Shaffer is going to be a spokesman for the teachers, it's time he accepts the fact that if they are going to receive the credit for the results of one test, then it stands to reason that they will be blamed for the low scores on other tests. He can't have his cake and eat it too.

Mr. Shaffer was wrong when he said that the proportion of the budget for education was closer 40% than 50%. According to the 1984-85 county budget, 48.8% is designated for education. That'a lot closer to 50% than to 40%. I wonder how he would score on a functional math test.

Jerry Stewart
Oakland

To the Editor:

The Promotion Council plans all year for the Autumn Glory Festival, which includes the parade. The parade is well attended and people enjoy the beauty and pagaentry, as well as the beauty of Oakland. While we watch and appreciate the parade, the beauty of Oakland is being downgraded by the trash and refuse left behind by the crowd.

We teach our children not to litter, and there is also an imposed fine for littering highways, but after the parade, Oakland is left in a sad state, the people are not altogether to blame for this. A great proportion of the trash left behind could be prevented if proper containers for trash were placed in the areas where the people watch the parade. Most people will use them if they are available. The few trash containers available were full and running over after the parade.

Oakland is part of Garrett County. Let's keep it clean and beautiful too. A few trash barrels would do wonders for the clean-up after the parade.

Yours respectfully,
A concerned citizen

To the Editor:

We are writing this letter concerning the problem with police harassing the teenagers in this area. An example of this is making laws that keep the teenagers from parking in public places such as Heck's, etc. The police park their cars and peek around corners of buildings trying to find something wrong. They follow the teenagers around, waiting for them to do something wrong. We see the police officers doing things wrong everyday, and they are supposed to be setting an example for the public. The police officers have the right to enforce the law, but not to break it.

This letter was written by teenagers to show the public what the police officers are really doing.

Signed,
Heck's Cruisers

Dear Cruisers:

Even though you know that you are not planning to do anything illegal when you "cruise" around in the parking lots of businesses, the police have a responsibility to keep an eye on such persons and vehicles. Parking lots at shopping areas, which are not "public areas" but privately owned, are to be used for one purpose, and that is parking for customers. Business owners do not appreciate persons using their lots for "cruising" and, for all the police know, those cruising automobiles might be carrying people who are casing the business in preparation for a robbery or breaking and entering.

Editor

To the Editor:

This past weekend we attended the Northern High Homecoming game. We would like to take this opportunity to compliment the band director and members of the band for their fine performance during the halftime.

There have been many noticeable improvements at Northern and we are both proud to be graduates of such a nice school.

Sincerely

To the Editor:

Please let me address all teachers involved in any form of teaching of the creation.

I have six children in our public schools and some are now being exposed to the evolution theory. I have tried to teach my children the truth at home and I myself am wondering how many teachers realize how they affect the destiny of their students? I myself have had four years of college so don't think I am naive, but everytime I hear how science tries to explain the creation and where man has come from—anywhere from a monkey to out of the sea—it is so degrading.

Let you say what you may until you get everything boiled down to that one cell concept and then where does that come from? Wouldn't it be much easier to accept the fact that there is a "Master Mind" behind it all who planned to all that we call God. Our universe is too organized to say we have no "Super Being" out there controlling it all. Now I'm not saying you have to teach accepting God on a personal basis but it might answer a lot of our school's problems.

I have one question for you in closing; when evolutionists say man comes from monkeys, how come some monkeys decided to remain monkeys? Sound foolish, I know, but doesn't this depict the whole thinking of your teachings?

Sincerely,
Mrs. Clayton Martin

To the Editor:

After growing in Oakland and graduating from Southern High School, I decided to continue my education at West Virginia University. I have been there for nearly a year and a half and have attended every home game. During this time, I have run into quite a few students and adults from Oakland. I have also seen some students from Garrett Community College.

I would like to express how happy it makes me feel to see the community supporting athletes for whom they know so little about. I think that it is great to see the public go out in any type of weather to see college athletes play football. Fans, who have Saturdays off work, give up their free time to travel to Morgantown. Because of the traffic, the public usually has to be here two hours in advance just to support the "Mountaineers."

In fact, I rode with two dedicated fans from Oakland to Pittsburgh to see West Virginia play Pitt. It does not matter that we do not have as great a defensive line as last year or a quarterback that measures up to Jeff Hostetler, the Oakland fans are still in Morgantown once a week hoping to see another 9-3 (or better) season. I just want to let you Mountaineer fans know that I think you are great.

Keep up the good work and support.

A Mountaineer Fan
Lori Noe

To the Editor:

It is a sad commentary on American Democracy when people of limited means are denied access to the best living areas. Segregation seems to still exist in our society, all the laws that Congress can pass notwithstanding.

From the early years of this century as a young boy, I visited my older sister, Mrs. W.W. Grant, at 115 North Second Street. I have watched the creeping of business up Second Street into what the present householders seem to consider the area of "the nobility."

Going up this street from the Episcopal Church, the First United National Bank and Trust of Oakland has built a very imposing structure. There are on this street two funeral homes and a library. I am sure that the poor people are not excluded from using the library, or at least I hope they are not. On the lawn of one of the residences has been constructed for some time, what I consider to be a metal monstrosity although it is presumed to be modern art.

At the top of this street there was an old dwelling which in my opinion looked so terrible that it was finally torn down. The sidewalks are in sad need of repair. I am wondering what is so very "historic" about Second Street. Here in Cumberland many of the great mansions on Washington Street, which in my young days were owned by the wealthy "nobility," have now been turned into apartment houses.

It was Franklin D. Roosevelt who taught the poor people of the power they held in their vote. No one can stop progress. This is the age of the common man who more and more is going to seek out and have his rights. The snobs will just have to seek accommodation with them.

Sincerely,
Richard J. Williams, M.D.

To the Editor:

I have been waiting to receive a bill for an ad I placed in The Republican on August 9, 1984. The ad read "FREE - You haul, large refrigerator, runs good, Maytag wringer washer, wheelbarrow, odds and ends. Call 387-4715 this weekend. 24-1t." It was my understanding the cost was $3.00. Please find my check enclosed.

We have never had such a response to an ad. The phone rang constantly for the entire weekend. We finally took it off the hook, in desperation.

Monday a repairman from the C&P arrived - we hadn't called him - to repair our phone. That was the day of the torentialdown pour. We left the phone on the hook thereafter and received calls all week. Your ads are certainly read by a great number of people.

Sincerely
Ruth Lapp

To the Editor:

In response to the letter from Officer Susan of the Oakland Police Department:

He expresses his thanks to the mayor and town council for the food stamps he receives. Why? What did the Mayor and Council do or say to the Social Services?

He should be thankful he is working and receiving Food Stamps.

But if he were disabled and receiving $126.00 a month from Social Security, he would not get food stamps. I know, cause I am and I don't. And I wonder just what is going on at the Department of Social Services.

were both transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad, where they were treated and released.

Meadows, operating a 1981 Chevrolet Chevette, was travelling south on Route 219 when he failed to stop for a stop sign at the intersection of Route 50, colliding with the 1956 Jeep CJ-5, operated by Cinalli , who was travelling east on Route 50. The Cinalli vehicle struck an embankment and overturned.

Meadows was cited by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater for failure to stop at a stop sign.

A 14-year-old youth was treated for lacerations and abrasions Monday by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad after he lost control of a 1981 Yamaha motorcycle he was operating.

The youth was travelling north on the Shady Dell Road at a high rate of speed when he rounded a curve and lost control of the cycle and struck some rocks and was thrown from the vehicle.

The young man was charged with driving an unregistered vehicle, operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license and negligent driving.

Tri-County Group Sets Priorities For Area Projects

The Tri-County Council of Western Maryland developed a priority list Wednesday for area projects seeking Appalachian Regional Commission funding.

Ernest Gregg, Garrett County commissioner and chairman of TCC, said Wednesday afternoon that nine projects were listed, but that the first five, all Allegany County and Washington County projects, will probably be all that will be funded in this fiscal year. However, he noted, other money may be obtained to fund all or part of the nine projects.

Two new Garrett County projects made the list, at the bottom. Gregg explained that because the projects were new was the major reason for being rated low in the priority listing. He added the projects were well received by TCC.

The two projects were for an extension of street, water and sewer lines at the Central Garrett Industrial Park and for an expansion project at the Garrett County Airport.

Tom Jones, Garrett County development director, explained this morning that the total expected cost for the extension into the 49-acre undeveloped part of the Central Garrett Industrial Park is $252,000, however officials hope to secure at least enough to develop 18 acres this fiscal year. Jones noted development of four business sites in the 18-acre area is the first phase of the project and is estimated to cost $85,000.

The total project cost for the airport expansion is estimated at $4.7 million, Gregg said. Of that amount, $1.25 million will be sought from EDA and/or ARC. This money would be used for paving and drainage at the site, Gregg noted.

Other costs of the project will include $2.5 million for earthmoving, which will constitute the 20 percent local match to be provided by Garrett County. Gregg noted the figure is high because, "we will be moving a mountain and filling in a valley". Gregg explained that the $2.5 million will be largely met with inkind services and business contributions. Many county businesses, who will benefit from the airport expansion, have pledged to assist in the earth-moving phase of the project.

Other costs of the project will include $150,000 for fencing, $350,000 for navigational aids, and $450,000 for general terminal equipment. Gregg noted that other government funding sources will be approached to help with the project costs.

In other TCC business, Gregg reported TCC will advertise for bids from area consultants to draft an application for a $75,000 federal Title IX grant to be used to determine ways to reduce joblessness in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

TCC is seeking the $75,000 from EDA and $25,000 from the Maryland Industrial and Commercial Redevelopment Fund to pay for a consultant's study to combat chronic high unemployment in this region. After the study is adopted, EDA's Title IX program can provide considerable funding to counter sudden and severe economic depression in a region.

EMBARRASSMENT IS . . .
by Pam Ashby

Embarrassment is . . .

. . . having the pastor to dinner and asking your son to say grace and he replies, "Why? Is this Thanksgiving or Christmas or something?"

. . . explaining to the doctor in the emergency room (after you were just involved in an automobile accident) how your faded purple underwear got holes in them when your blue jeans are still intact. (Mom was right! Always wear decent underwear, just in case . . .)

. . . telling the librarian your overdue book accidently went to Florida for a two-month vacation in the trunk of your brother's car.

. . . forgetting to stay home after you've called a committee meeting at your home.

. . . throwing a lavish baby shower and neglecting to invite the mother-to-be.

. . . telling your daughter's teacher the baby ate a permission slip needed for a class trip to Fort Necessity.

. . . cursing an elderly lady for pulling in front of you at a stop light and finding out later (at a family reunion) she's your great-great-aunt.

. . . having a sales lady at a posh department store tell you, "It fits beautifully", and you haven't even zipped the darn thing yet.

. . . resorting to writing an "Embarrassment is . . . " column after you realize Wednesday night at 11:30 you haven't even started the column.

Rabies Cases Now Total 22

The Garrett County Health Department officials have confirmed the 21st and 22nd cases of rabies for 1984. The county's second rabid skunk was killed October 14, and the 19th raccoon was killed on the 12th.

Jerry Hebb ran over and killed a raccoon on October 12 along Route 219 south of Red House. Hebb then got out of his vehicle and threw the carcass over the embankment. After health officials removed the head, Hebb's son buried the remains of the animal. Hebb and his son have been advised to seek their physician's advice on whether they should receive post-exposure rabies vaccine.

The Harold Schmidt family has also been advised to seek their physician's advice after their dogs were involved in a scuffle with a skunk which appeared in their yard at the intersection of Mellinger and Spring Lick Roads near Curt's Corner October 14.

According to health department officials, the Schmidt's large dog was confronted with a skunk. The family's small dog ran out of the house to join the fray and was attacked by the skunk which attempted to follow the small dog back into the house, and clawed at the closed door. Schmidt killed the skunk with a club and labs test in Baltimore confirmed the rabies diagnosis on Wednesday.

The family's large dog had recently been vaccinated against rabies and will need to be revaccinated and kept under close surveillance for three months. The small dog was euthanized at the county animal shelter today as it had not been protected against the disease.

Habitat began construction on July 5 under the supervision of Jake Powles. Since then over 50 people have volunteered their time from the beginning excavation work to the final touches. Many donations of materials have been made.

Habitat for Humanity, Inc. is a non-profit Christian housing ministry dedicated to helping people improve the conditions in which they are forced to live.

Garrett Habitat is one of 60 projects in the U.S. and there are 11 projects in other countries.

The dedication ceremony is open to the public.

Mt. Lake Council Votes To Reject Facilities Plan

The mayor and town council of Mt. Lake Park voted to reject the Upper Youghiogheny Facilities Plan until all the council's questions have been answered satisfactorily.

A letter was sent July 12 to the Sanitary Commission regarding eight issues the town wants resolved but as of last Thursday's meeting no response has been received.

The town officials also have sent a letter to Sam Baker of the Department of State Planning informing him that the matter is of "grave concern to the town because of impact upon the residents of Mt. Lake Park." Mayor Russell Alexander also said that he has gone on record in support of a requirement that all persons who are eventually served by the Trout Run treatment plan should be required to pay a pro-rated share of the past indebtedness of the plant as well as their fair share of any indebtedness which may be required to fund the proposed project.

The letter also said that the town has no problem in concurring with the concept of the Upper Yough sewerage facilities plan.

Trick or Treat

Trick or treat for area children will be held in the town October 31 from 6 to 7 p.m.

Leaf Pickup

Leaf pickup in the town will be held November 5 through 8.

Miscellaneous

The town has been presented with the plans and specifications for the Broadford sewer project from Franklin Associates engineering firm. The town has advertised and will be receiving bids for the project until November 5, and hopes to have the project completed before winter.

A plat of the Minnich subdivision was reviewed and the town will now have this recorded at the county Courthouse.

The town reviewed a letter from the Mt. Lake Park Planning Commission regarding the senior citizen complex. The letter stated that due to the town subdivision ordinance the owners will have to put in a street at their own expense.

The council is considering purchasing a computer for the office and the matter was discussed at great length during the October 11 meeting. Several prices have been quoted to the town but the council will seek at least two quotes from other companies before making any decision.

Oakland Council Postpones Cable, Revenue Decisions

Oakland's council made no decision Monday night on revenue sharing for the town's budget or on Cablentertainment's request to drop two channels, add two channels and increase rates.

No members of the public attended the revenue sharing hearing held at 4:30 in the town hall. Officials reviewed the proposed revenue sharing budget which would add $12,048 to the general budget and $21,657.80 to the water budget.

Al Gencarella, a representative from Cablentertainment, along with local representative Doug Reckart, presented information on the proposal and demonstrated the different channels. There were five persons present in addition to the council.

The council plans to take action on both matters at the November 5 meeting. Mayor H.D. Swartzentruber and Councilman Von Johnson were absent from Monday's session.

Leaf Pick Up

The street department will be gathering leaves raked to the curbs of the town streets the week of October 22 through 26.

Park Board Denies France Request

A request filed by Morgan C. France for a special exception from zoning requirements was denied October 11 by the Mt. Lake Park Board of Zoning Appeals.

France wished to establish a surveying and engineering office on his property on F Street.

Several persons had written to the board prior to Thursday's hearing to express opposition to the proposal. Speaking against the office Thursday were Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Wooddell and Mrs. Willard Hayden. Speaking in favor of the plan was Mr. France.

The request was denied, according to county Zoning Administrator John Nelson, because an office is not in keeping with the residential character of the area; the required parking area in the rear of the building is not in keeping with the residential character of nearby properties, and increased traffic hazards which might result from such a business.

Senior Citizens Tour Cape Cod

Forty-four local senior citizens departed from Oakland at 6:00 a.m. on October 1, for a five-day trip to Cape Cod, Massachusetts, via the Blue and White bus.

The tour was arranged by Ernest and Alice Spoerlein. The bus driver was Jim Abe and the escort was Martha Armstrong.

The group took a cruise, to the island of Martha's Vineyard where they toured the towns and streets.

They took the Cape Cod and Hyannis Railroad Coach to Sandwich Heritage Plantation. Sandwich is Cape Cod's oldest town and the first permanent English settlement in 1637. Cranberry bogs, sand dunes and a large golf course were among the sights. While in Sandwich they toured the Sandwich Glass Museum where glass was made between 1825-1888.

The seniors then toured Heritage Plantation Museum of Americana where subjects included military history, firearms, displays of arts and crafts, and early tools. There was an antique carousel with hand carved animals.

The Red Barn contained restored antique and classic automobiles collected from 1899-1937. A buffet luncheon was shared at the historic Dan'l Webster Inn, a tavern dating back to 1692 and once frequented by Daniel Webster.

The group took a tour of Hyannis where they had a view of the Kennedy Compound and a visit to St. Francis Xavier Church where the Kennedys attend services. They travelled on to Provincetown on the northern point of Cape Cod. This was the site of the first landing of the Pilgrims in 1620. It was here that the Pilgrims signed the Mayflower Compact.

The tour continued as they boarded a 90-foot research vessel and headed out to sea for a five-hour whale watch cruise. They saw seven whales.

Those senior citizens participating in the trip were:

Ernest and Alice Spoerlein, Robert and Lillian Lee, Kenneth and Frances Bray, Paul and Eileen Steyer, Earle and Dorothy Lear, Keith and Evelyn Steyer, Hoover and Eve Pelton, Joe and Hazel Welch, Hugh and Freda Dennison.

Elizabeth McComas, Elsie Cross, Beulah Sisler, Pricilla Bell, Mildred Peterson, Mary Pollock, Lena Wolfe, Ruth Martin, Mary Kay Lewis, Patsy O'Brien, Jean Sollars, Elizabeth Watkins, Violet Pike, Grayce Quinet.

Evelyn Kahl, Margaret Dean, Carrie Harford, Dorothy Jordan, Marguerite Wotring, Alma George, Dixie Wilson, Ruth Walker, Helen Friend, Mabel Smouse, Helen Strawser and Laura Turner.

He will talk specifically about the Garrett County Habitat for Humanity Program, a local project which is working to provide affordable housing for local residents. Yoder has served as chairman of the Habitat for Humanity Board of Directors for the past year.

The Symposium is sponsored by the Community Resource Development Department of the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service and the Maryland Municipal League. It is planned specifically for public officials, concerned citizens, agency personnel and community leaders.

Sheriff's Dept. Investigating Thefts, Forgery

Several cases of theft and one case of forgery are presently being investigated by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

A Remington 30-06 rifle was removed from a pickup belonging to Harold Hebb, Loch Lynn, on October 10. Hebb told Deputy D.W. Tucker that the rifle had been hanging on a gun rack in his pickup, which was parked in front of his residence. Loss of the rifle is estimated at $300.

A breaking and entering and theft was reported to the department on Sunday by Jack W. Engelhardt, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Engelhardt stated that someone had broken into a storage shed located at his summer residence on Beckman's Peninsula and removed a 1983 Yamaha motorcycle and two McCulloch chain saws. Total loss is estimated at $1,200. Deputy D.W. Tucker is continuing his investigation.

Another theft occurred on the afternoon of October 11, when Wayne L. Daugherty, Elkins, W.Va., left his car parked at the Southern Car Wash on Oakland Drive and went to a nearby business establishment to get change. While Daugherty was gone, someone removed a cassette tape box containing 24 cassette tapes valued at $130. The department is continuing the investigation.

Deputy Richard Kutchman is conducting an investigation concerning forgery in the Oakland area.

Three checks have been passed at Hecks, Inc. and two at Naylor's Hardware totalling over $900.

TRAVEL COUNSELORS from Maryland's six information centers were in Garrett County for two days recently to tour the area in order to improve their knowledge when dispensing information to the public. The group was accompanied by Mianna Jopp from the Maryland Department of Tourist Development. Cindy Kutchman, executive director of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, gave the group a tour of the county. The travel counselors spent a week touring Western Maryland.

Grantsville Zoning Board To Consider Expansion Request

The Grantsville Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on October 23 at 8 p.m. in the town hall to review an application made by Flushing Shirt Manufacturing Company to enlarge its present structure.

James Vincent, of the company, has requested a variance from the terms of the zoning ordinance in order to add a 50 by 70 foot section to the present location at the intersection of Miller Street and Dorsey Hotel Road. The structure would then extend to within seven and a half feet of the Dorsey Hotel Road.

The addition would house a cutting room, and approximately three employees would be added to the staff, Vincent noted.

Masons To Meet

Oakland Lodge #192, Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons, will hold its regular communication on Tuesday, October 23, at 7:30 p.m. at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple, 3 South Wilson Street.

Expected visitors for the communication include Deputy Grand Master C. David Haacke and Grand Inspector Robert A. Wiltison.

Worshipful Master Michael R. Nestor invites all Master Masons to attend.

Something To Think About

R. Mark Durst — DIRECTOR

PREPLANNING MAKES SENSE

It would not be amiss for persons during their lifetime to decide what they consider a dignified and meaningful funeral. This phrase has different meanings for different people, almost as wide a range as individual life-styles. A funeral home should make every effort, within reason and propriety, to accommodate these wishes.

Funeral costs should likewise be considered. It is helpful if the survivor understands how funeral charges in the community are computed. This could be investigated during the lifetime of a married couple. In that way, the survivor will be saved the task of making a judgment with respect to these matters at the height of his or her bereavement.

Such costs, as well as the cost of burial or cremation—and usually the cost for arranging for perpetual care of the plot—are considered proper estate expenses and should be billed to the estate.

District Judge Convicts McQuaig Of Theft, B&E

Garrett County District Court Judge Jack Turney ordered a pre-sentence investigation on October 9 after finding a Mountain Lake Park man guilty of breaking and entering and theft.

Keith T. McQuaig, 23, faced five charges brought against him by Deputy Sheriff Larry Gnegy and stemming from an incident on September 29.

According to the court report, Deputies Gnegy and Charles Nolan responded to a breaking and entering complaint at the residence of Leslie Baker in Mountain Lake Park. There they discovered McQuaig hiding under a sofa, intoxicated and nude. While gathering up his clothes, the deputies discovered a wallet owned by Kelly D. Halecooper.

McQuaig was charged with two counts of breaking and entering, attempted rape, theft and indecent exposure. All but one breaking and entering charge and the theft charge were nolle prosequi.

In other District Court cases on October 9, Judge Turney ordered two men to pay $5 each in restitution to Donald O'Brien for stealing corn from his field. David P. Brandlen, 30, Luke, and Richard C. Oglesbee, 31, Piedmont, W. Va., were each found guilty of theft and fined $50 plus court costs.

Haven D. Chapman, Shallmar, received his sentence after the judge read a presentence investigation ordered during Chapman's trial on July 24. Chapman, who had been convicted of a battery charge, received a $50 fine and was placed on 18 months of supervised probation.

Judge Turney modified a sentence for Christian J. Cooper, Frostburg, who had been found guilty of malicious destruction of property August 14. The judge modified Cooper's sentence to probation before judgment.

Harry Edward Shahan, 24, Mountain Lake Park, received a fine of $100 and was placed on 12 months of supervised probation after being convicted of disturbance of the peace. The charge was filed by Marian K. Wright, Mtn. Lake Park.

Another charge of disturbance of the peace filed against Shahan by Michael Glotfelty, Mtn. Lake Park, was dropped.

A breaking and entering charge filed against Benjamin L. Lower, 22, Mtn. Lake Park, by Deputy Harland S. Tichnell was dropped.

Cases placed on the stet docket were: a defacing charge against Steven L. Fitzgerald, 18, Grantsville; a battery and intoxication charges against Terry R. Mazer, 19, Frostburg, and a battery charge against Joseph Graham, 24, Oakland.

New trial dates were set for Richard Ray Smith, 35, Deer Park, who faces two charges of battery; and for Sandra L. Stewart, who faces charges of unlawful possession of a controlled dangerous substance in two different cases and a possession of fireworks charge.

In a restitution hearing, Judge Turney determined that Sharon K. Hahn, 32, Deer Park, who was convicted of malicious destruction of property in July, should not pay restitution.

Circuit Court Appeal Case Is Cancelled

An appeal case scheduled this afternoon in Garrett County Circuit Court has been cancelled at the request of the appellant, personnel in the Circuit Court Clerk's office have reported.

Richard A. Smith, 23, Mountain Lake Park, has notified the clerk's office through his attorney of his intention to dismiss his appeal of a District Court conviction.

Smith was convicted in April of a battery charge and had been fined $100 and sentenced to three years in the custody of the Department of Corrections and three years of supervised probation.

Transfer Options Discussed With Garrett Students

Students at Garrett Community College had an opportunity to discuss transfer options with representatives from three four-year colleges, including the University of Maryland, Towson State University and Flagler College, St. Augustine, Florida, last week.

Dr. George Dailey, transfer counselor for GCC, said that the campus visits by representatives of four-year institutions are a way of making students aware of transfer options that are open to them. Dr. Dailey provides more extensive services through the transfer office, making students aware of what is available, and assisting with the development of a course of study at the college that will transfer successfully to the school of the student's choice.

"We like to get students to make those decisions as early as possible so that we can parallel as closely as possible the transfer school's program in the first year or two," Dr. Dailey said. "GCC offers a 'supermarket' of course choices, and it is the college's responsibility to put together programs that meet the students needs in relation to the transfer opportunity they desire."

"In some programs, such as nursing, it is important to know what the transfer institution will be. For example, the University of Maryland at Baltimore will accept a full two years of courses at GCC, while future West Virginia University students would only take one year of courses here. It is unfortunate when a student completes two years here and discovers that some of his credits won't transfer. It is our goal at GCC to avoid having that happen, and I might say our present record is excellent in that area," Dr. Dailey said.

"On the other hand, most liberal arts courses will transfer anywhere," he said. "More and more colleges, including schools like Flagler College in Florida, are accepting and transferring credits for students with liberal arts Associate of Arts degrees. The student's general education requirements all transfer, and the student enrolls in his four-year institution with full junior status."

The recently developed Allied Health Fields Transfer Guide outlines specific courses of study at GCC that will transfer to eleven different colleges or universities in sixteen health science programs. "The response to the publication of the guide has been very good, because it provides information students need to make good planning decisions," Dr. Dailey said.

The transfer office is currently developing a similar guide for careers in business administration, including accounting, fashion merchandising, travel industries, business and secretarial occupations.

"Students come here to get answers. We try to anticipate the needs of students and have the answers ready," Dr. Dailey commented. "We can provide them with catalogs from many local schools, and will send for any that we don't have on hand. Working with the student and his advisor, we can plan the best course of study possible in light of his specific plans."

Democrats Plan Day To Campaign For Candidates

The "Democrats Unite For Victory Day", to be observed separately in each county throughout Maryland, will be held Saturday, October 20.

Persons registered to vote in Garrett County, either as Democrats or Republicans, and interested in promoting the campaigns of Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro and Beverly Byron are to meet at the county Democrat headquarters on 114 Second Street, Oakland, at 9:30 a.m. October 20. The group will board a bus to travel throughout the county making stops in communities to distribute campaign literature.

The travel route will include stops at Accident, Friendsville, a stop for lunch in Grantsville, and then continue their tour to Finzel, Bittinger, Swanton, Kitzmiller, Deer Park, Mountain Lake Park, Crellin and Oakland.

Volunteers assisting in the effort will not have to pay travel expenses, but will be asked to cover their meal costs.

The event is to be sponsored by the Garrett County Democrat Club. Chairman for the county Mondale/Ferraro campaign is Doris Goldsborough, and co-chairman for the county Byron campaign are Helen Baumgartner and John Braskey.

Two Employees Promoted At GCC

Two promotions were announced at a meeting of the Board of Trustees of Garrett Community College Tuesday by President Randall Harman.

Mike Logsdon was promoted to assistant professor from instructor. He has taught physics, engineering and technical courses since he joined the staff of GCC in 1976.

"Logsdon has demonstrated a real concern for students. He has taken part in many student activities and has served as advisor for many clubs. We feel his achievements have been outstanding and that he truly deserves the appointment," said Harman.

In another promotion, William Nedrow was appointed to the position of director of plant operations.

"Nedrow has one of the largest number of full-time employees reporting to him and we feel the promotion is well-deserved. Maintenance upkeep at GCC is second to none in the state of Maryland," commented Harman.
